Democrats Open Their Convention

GREAT CROWD SHOUTED THEIR ENTHUSIASM FOR PRESIDENT WILSON—CHAIRMAN SAYS REPUBLICANS SOLD NATION'S HONOUR.

A THEATRIC TOUCH

SAN FRANCISCO, June 28—From the shadow of the Golden Gate, the hosts of Democracy sent a roaring tribute across the country to-day to President Wilson.

The national convention flung aside for the moment the business before it, while delegates carried on a demonstration that swept the great gathering off its feet.

It was half an hour before the outburst evoked by the sudden display of the President's portrait could be stilled. Again and again, as his name was mentioned, the cheers broke out anew, to culminate in the shout of approval that adopted and sent to the White House to-night a striking testimonial of his party's faith and pride in the man who has led it through troublous years.

In the centre of the hall where the delegates sat railed within a wide square of seats, an inner ceiling was suspended, coloured in soft, old hue that rested the eye and lent something of quiet dignity to the scene. Below, a forest of standards bearing the names of states and territories was the only reminder of national conventions of the past. Perched high beside the organ in a special gallery, a military band whiled away the time.

The Star Spangled Banner.

When Vice-Chairman Kremer of the national committee gave the signal, a bugler sounded "attention," the sharp staccato call rang out over the uproar of conversation. The first notes of "The Star Spangled Banner" rang out from the band and the organ together, and as delegates, alternates, spectators, and attendants stood in tribute, a monster flag dropped from the ceiling to form a wall of colour behind the platform. It obscured the view of the band, gallery, and organ loft, but as it fell the booming notes of the organ rose behind it, joining with majestic thunder in the National anthem. From floor and galleries the delegates and spectators joined in the mighty tones.

Then came the touch that set the convention off with a wild shout of exultation. The great flag was gathered slowly upward in the slings, and as it rose, it uncovered a flag-draped and illumined portrait of President Wilson, placed against the high pipes of the organ. For a moment there was a brief pause. Then came the tumult.

A wild shout rang from the floor. It was caught up and echoed from side to side.

Delegates leaped on their chairs, waving and shouting. They stamped into the aisles, jostling and cheering in a packed mass before the platform.

When Chairman Homer S. Cummings, of the national committee, had been elected temporary chairman and escorted to the platform, they fully hushed and prepared to listen with close attention to his keynote address. Delegates expected something to cheer at. They were in the mood for it, and they were not disappointed.

The Keynote Speech.

Mr. Cummings began in a quiet voice. A few shouts of "louder" came from far back in the hall, but he had not proceeded far before the great throng was so still that every syllable was carried to the highest galleries. It was a long speech. Mr. Cummings suggested that to his hearers but cries of "go on," "take your time" met him. He drove his points home and and his audience was alert to cap them with shouted approval.

When Mr. Cummings characterised the Chicago platform as a masterpiece of evasion, a shout greeted the crack and a moment later when he declared that the "old guard" had sold the honour of the nation at Chicago to name a "reactionary candidate" it grew into a road, punctuated with cries of "go to it," "hit 'em again," and "that's the stuff."

When the chairman called the roll of nations already in the League and asked the delegates if they wanted to hear also of neutral states that had or were about to join, shouts of "Tell us" answered him. Nation by nation he named them, and then asked if the delegates wished to know what nations had not joined the League. Cries of "Yes, yes, tell us," came from all parts of the floor. "Revolutionary Mexico, Bolshevist Russia, unspeakable Turkey, and—the United States of America," he answered. A roar swept the hall that took minutes to quiet.

G.T.R. FREIGHT TRAIN HIT FLAG STATION

Twelve Cars Off the Track Near Thorold.

(Canadian Press).

HAMILTON, June 29—A fast Grand Trunk freight train was wrecked at one o'clock this morning on the main line between Meritton and Thorold, two miles south of the latter town. Twelve freight cars jumped the tracks, ripped up the roadbed and crashed into flag station at Allanburg The line will be cleared by three o'clock this afternoon.

TRYING THEIR EXAMINATIONS

PUPILS OF PRIMARY SCHOOLS IN TEMPORARY POSSESSION OF COLLEGIATE.

Yesterday morning a throng of rather apprehensive but keen and eager boys and girls gathered at the Collegiate Institute for the opening of the High school Entrance examinations. Their ignorance of their new surroundings and the awe inspired by the knoweldge that they were about to attempt the examinations which, if passed successfully, would lead to a new era of school life, combined to hush the confused jumble of voices which ordinarily fills the corridors of the Institute before the opening sessions.

The examination papers so far have been very fair and have covered the prescribed work thoroughly without being extremely difficult to those having a fair knowledge of the course covered.

The schedule of examinations is as follows:

Monday a.m.—Geography, writing; p.m., Grammar.

Tuesday, a.m. — Arithmetic; p.m., Literature.

Wednesday, a. m. — Composition, Spelling; p.m., History.

Mr. Kenner Presiding.

H. R. H. Kenner, B.A., principal of the Collegiate Institute, is presiding officer, and is assisted by A. Mowat, B.A., Public School Inspector. Miss M. O'Connell, of St. Peter's school, and V. R. Henry, B.A., Science teacher of the Collegiate Institute.

The results of the examinations will not be known until the middle of July, when the returns are made by the Department of Education.

DARING THEFT IN CEMETERY CROWD

MRS. WALTER M'KEE'S PURS STOLEN FROM HER CAR.

Nineteen dollars in bills and more than one dollar in silver was stolen from the satchel of Mrs. Walter McKee of Smith township, which she left in her car in front of the Ware street gate of the Little Lake cemetary while she and her husband, her mother and father were in the Cemetery attending the Decoration Day ceremonies.

When she got out of the car she picked up the large bouquet of flowers and forgot the satchel When she discovered her loss after she was in the cemetery she went directly back to the automobile but too late for the small purse inside the satchel was gone.

The theft was a bold one for there was a crowd around the gate at that time.

FORMAL PLACING OF WAR TROPHIES AT CENTRAL PARK THURSDAY EVENING

PARKS COMMITTEE DECIDED THIS MORNING TO ARRANGE CEREMONY FOR DOMINION DAY AT 7 P.M —PUBLIC EXPECTED TO ASSIST.

THREE GERMAN GUNS

At a special meeting of the Parks committee this morning it was decided to place the three captured German guns, which are Peterborough's quota of war trophies, in Central Park on Thursday evening at 7 o'clock with appropriate ceremony.

The guns will be placed as follows: One in the north-east corner of the park, one in the south-east corner, and one in the centre.

Invitations have been issued to the War Veterans' Band, the Red Cross Society, the Ladies' Auxiliary of the G.W.V.A., J. H. Burnham, M.P. Thomas Tooms, M.L.A., Col. Clegg, O. C. 57th Regiment, Judge Huycke, Rev. F. E. Malott, president of the Ministerial Association and Rev. C. J. Phelan.

In view of the fact that Thursday is a national holiday and that these captured guns are tangible evidence of Peterborough's part in the Great War, the presentation of the trophies should be an event of unusual interest, and a large crowd is expected to participate. It is appropriate that the ceremony will take place in the same park from which a former Mayor bade public farewell to Peterborough's first volunteers of the 2nd Battalion, C.E.F. It will form a fitting finis to Peterborough's chronicle of glory.

The feature and the special opportunity and occasion of Dominion Day were realized by Ald. Gainey in calling his committee together. It is understood that Col. Clegg will make the formal presentation of the trophies, and that Mayor McIntyre will receive them on behalf of the city and the citizens.

PROPOSE IMPERIAL WIRELESS SYSTEM

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, June 29. — The Imperial wireless telegraph committee recommends establishment of a system of wireless throughout the empire. Two wireless chains are outlined in the report. One to Australia with intermediate stations, and the other to South Africa, also with intermediate stations. Similar communication with Canada must be established but this can only be done after a conference has estimated the cost, which will be about one million and a quarter pounds.

The Marconi proposals were rejected chiefly on account of the prohibitive cost and as creating an undesirable monopoly.

FIGHTING IN CHINA.

(Canadian Press.)

HONOLULU, June 29.—Troops of South China have captured Yuen Chow, a stronghold of North China forces, after several days of severe fighting, according to a special cable from Tokio.

THE WEATHER

For some days now the atmosphere has been warm and close. On Sunday the highest point reached was 84 degrees in the shade. Yesterday's highest was 86 degree. To-day will likely be about the same. The air is damp which makes the heat oppressive. This moist air when accompanied with heat usually brings a thunderstorm.—W. P.

SUBURBAN ROAD WORK.

Two Gangs Organized and Begin in Smith Township.

Work on the suburban area roads is about to start. Two gangs are ready to start work in Smith township. One of these, it is understood, will decrase the angle of the road immediately above the city waterworks.

HIRED MAN DECAMPED

FROM WESTWOOD FARM WITH GOODS VALUED AT $250— AN AUTOMOBILE FLIGHT.

NO TRACE OF HIM

A young man, giving his name as Edward Hamilton, of Port Hope, made a clean-up at the home of a Mr. Carter, north of Westwood, a week ago on Sunday night. The goods stolen consist of a fur-lined coat, a new suit of clothes valued at $60.00, a gold watch, an overcoat, a suit case, and numerous small articles. Hamilton had been working for Carter a month, and previous to that worked for a man in Ennismore, he told his employer. A good worker and an amiable youth, there was not a suspicion of his character.

Carter's son is a young man a little older than Hamilton, who is about 20. He came to the city with the son and Carter's daughter on Saturday night, and as was his usual habit, spent considerable money foolishly; in fact, it is said, he lived on the theory "spend as you make," and he made $40.00 a month.

On Sunday night the father stayed at home, and the boy and girl were both out. Hamilton was in his room. At nine o'clock a car drove up to the gate and a man at the door asked Carter the way to Indian River. He directed him, and went back to his couch. In a few minutes down came Hamilton, all dressed in his good clothes. The boy spoke to Mr. Carter, and went out. Carter at the time wondered why he was all dressed up, but did not think anything more about it. That was the last that was seen of him.

About eleven o'clock the Carter boy came home and went into Hamilton's room to see him. Instead, his old clothes littered the floor, the window was up, and the screen out. Hamilton evidently filled his suit case and the confiscated one with booty, and dropped it out the window, dressed, slipped downstairs, around to the side, and out to the car.

On investigation, Archie Moore, High County Constable, has learned that the young man previously worked for an Ennismore farmer living near Pigeon Creek, by the name of Murphy. While there he took a $5.00 gold piece from Mrs. Murphy.

Since he claimed Port Hope as his home, the Chief of Police there has been communicated with, but no answer has yet been received. The surmise is that the robbery was planned by Hamilton in the city on Saturday night.

The total loss is estimated at $200.

HOUSE ADOPTED NAVAL ESTIMATES

SUPPLEMENT OF $1,700,000 CARRIED BY 55 TO 31.

(Canadian Press)

OTTAWA, June 29. In the House early this morning during the debate on the naval estimates, Hon. N. W. Rowell said that he believed the nations would come to see that international disputes were decided by reign of law, but that time had not yet arrived. Hon. Arthur Meighen said that argument that there was no immediate menace and therefore no need of a policy of defence was not supported by facts. Those who vote against the appropriation, vote to say that Great Britain or possibly the United States shall protect us for all time, thus making Canada a parasite. The vote was taken on an estimate of $300,000 which was adopted without division. The House then divided at 1.30 a.m. on a supplementary vote of $1,700,000, which was adopted on a standing vote, fifty-five for and thirty-one against.

FOUR KILLED WHEN HOUSE COLLAPSED

FOUR-STOREY DWELLING IN BUFFALO HAD EIGHTY OCCUPANTS.

(Canadian Press.)

BUFFALO, June 29. — Four persons were killed and an undetermined number were injured at 9.30 this morning, byt the collapse of the walls of the Sutherland House, a lower Main street lodging house.

The owner stated that eighty men occupied the rooms last night but he did not know how many were in the building when it fell.

All four floors collapsed and the brick side walls crumbled and piled on broken timbers of the interior.

POULTRY DEMONSTRATION

Mr. F. C. McRae, of Norwood, will give a Poultry Culling Demonstration at Stewart Brown's home in Douro Township, one mile east of Nassau, on July 1, at 1.30 p.m.

Two poultrymen from the O. A. C. at Guelph will conduct the work; also the same demonstration will be given at Keene on July 2. 2d-153-1312

Doctor Fined For False Tax Report

UNDERSTATED HIS INCOME IN RETURN TO FEDERAL AUTHORITIES AND WAS FINED $3,000 IN HAMILTON POLICE COURT.

HIS PRESCRIPTIONS MANY

HAMILTON, June 28.— A fine of $3,000 was imposed upon Dr. William B. Hopkins, 158 Mary street, in police court to-day. He was found guilty of three charges of breaking the War Tax Act. The charges were laid as a result of the returns made by Dr. Hopkins as to his income during the years 1917, 1918, and 1919, which were claimed by the inspector, John Dunbar, to have been false. The inspector alleged that Dr. Hopkins certified that his income for 1917 was fifteen hundred dollars; but that an investigation of the doctor's books showed that he had been in receipt of a taxable income of $8,905. Of this sum approximately $4,000 had been made up of liquor prescriptions. Dr. Hopkins, on his own behalf, stated that he estimated his fees at $1,500, and did not know he had made a mistake until the inspector had compiled the proper returns. He pleaded guilty to the charges covering 1918 and 1919. For the former year the doctor fixed his income at $4,000 as against $13,691 found by the inspector, of which Mr. Dunbar thought about $6,000 had been from liquor prescriptions. In 1919 Dr. Hopkins' returns showed an income of $8,300, while the inspector found $12,000, of which the official estimated $10,000 came from liquor prescriptions.

HOUSE PREPARES FOR PROROGATION

May Be Able to Conclude Business To-day.

(Canadian Press).

OTTAWA, June 29.—Prorogation has ben tentatively fixed for to-morrow afternoon. Preparations to this end have been made although there is considerable doubt if House will be able to conclude its business to-day, even with an all night sitting. Discussion on the Board of Commerce resignations has still to come and an increase in the member's indemnities has yet to be voted. There is however, a general desire to terminate the session as soon as possible and an effort will made to complete business to-day.

NEW RAILWAY BUT NO PAVING

CITY'S ADVERTISED PLANS NOT MATERIALIZING, BUT SUMMER STREET CAR TRAFFIC SPOILED.

The laying of the new street railway tracks on South George Street is progressing well, and with the arrival of a new cement mixer, it is expected that the work will be completed shortly. The city, however, is showing no signs of beginning the paving work on this section as announced early in the spring.

Mr. W. G. Ferguson, manager of the street railway, stated this morning that the street railway had seriously injured its summer business on its south George Street line by going ahead with the laying of the new track upon being assured that the city intended paving this street this year. The Council, Mr. Ferguson said, had decided last winter to pave South George Street, and relying upon this the street railway, despite the almost prohibitive cost of material and labour had gone ahead with the laying of the new track in this section, thereby ruining its summer business on the South George Street line.

The city, however, seemed to have entirely dismissed its idea of paving, and the repeated inquiries of Mr. Ferguson had brought no result.

Mr. Ferguson seemed dubious of the city's going ahead with the paving this year, and seemed to be of the opinion that the matter would receive no attention from the Council until the approach of the elections next December. He thought that a pavement to the Exhibition Grounds would be an excellent thing, and stated that even Lindsay had such a pavement. Peterborough, he believed, was far behind in the matter of paving. He could see no reason for the paving of Water Street behind the Grand Opera House and of the section of King Street from Water to George Streets. These were "back streets," and there were many more important streets in the city which required paving. The city had talked much of street railway extensions, but when the street railway had attempted to co-operate by laying the new South George Street track preparatory to the promised pavement, the city had left their part of the work "in the air," so to speak.

Report on Extensions.

Ald. Gainey, when seen this morning, stated that the long-promised Hydro-Electric Commission report on street railway extensions in Peterborough had not yet been forwarded. The Commission promised the report early in the spring, and about two weeks ago a representative of the Commission, Mr. Ireland, was here and promised a report within a few days. The few days have now grown to weeks.

TO GET $4,000 INDEMMITY M.P. MUST ATTEND 90 DAYS

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, June 27.—Members of the House of Commons, now that they are to get an increase from $2,500 to $4,000 in their indemnity, are to be subject to new attendance regulations. Hitherto a member must put in 30 days to draw the indemnity, and for every day in excess of fifteen days' holiday he has had to forfeit $20. The new proposal is that a man must put in 50 days to get the $4,000. If he puts in less he will not be deducted $20 per day, but he will be paid $20 for each day of actual attendance. This, it is pointed out, will overcome the complaint of many regular attendants who contend that others very seldom are seen within the precincts of the House should be paid on a basis of $20 per day for each day's attendance, rather than deduted $20 per day for each day's absence.

AMERICA'S CUP RACE DATES ANNOUNCED

Resolute Selected as Defender Against Sir Lipton's Shamrock.

NEWPORT, R. I.,—The selection of the sloop Resolute to defend the America's cup against Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger, Shamrock IV., is announced. It was also announced that the first race would be sailed off Sandy Hook on July 15.

The decision was reached after the committee had witnessed the last trial race Saturday, between Resolute and Vanitie, in their elimination series, which was called off about 20 minutes after the yachts had passed the outer mark, with Vanitie a half mile in the lead.

The Resolute will be towed to Bristol at once for a complete overhauling, including the fitting of three new sets of sails and small spars.

Not including the race sailed Saturday, which was stopped after the sloops had covered 10 miles. The yachts sailed eleven races off this port, seven resuling in a victory for the Resolute and four for the Vanitie. The committee on cup defence appointed to choose the defender, carefully consider both boats and checked them on points in sailing and also compared the merits of the skippers, management and crews. Both yachts were very close on nearly all points of sailing, many of the races ending with a very small margin between them.

AUTHOR OF "O CANADA" IS DEAD IN QUEBEC

NEW CENT CIRCULATES.

Some local citizens are in possession of one or more of the new Canadian cent pieces recently minted. These coins are considerably smaller in size than the old one-cent coin, and slightly larger than the U. S. coin of similar denomination. They are easily selected from the pocket without being confused for a ten cent piece. They are also lighter than the old-time copper, due not only to a reduction in size but to a fractional variation in the copper content in the alloy of which they are composed.

On the face side of the coin, appears King George's head, above it, the inscription, "Georgina V. Dei Gratias Rex et Imperator." In the centre of the reverse side appear the words, "One cent," over which is the inscription "Canada." At either side a small maple leaf, and below the year 1920.

Pains About the Heart

ANY derangement of the heart's action is alarming. Frequently pains about the heart are caused by the formation of gas arising from indigestion.

Relief from this condition is obtained by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Chronic indigestion results from sluggish liver action, constipation of the bowels and inactive kidneys.

Because Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills arouse these organs to activity they thoroughly cure indigestion and overcome the many annoying symptoms.

PETERBORO'S WAR TROPHIES '18 MAKE

GUNS HAD NOT APPARENTLY BEEN IN GERMAN SERVICE LONG WHEN CAPTURED.

The three captured German guns, which are Peterboro's allotment of war trophies, are at present reposing in the Board of Works' shed, awaiting the decision of the Parks Committee as to their disposal.

Two of the guns are field pieces, one a long thin-barrelled 75 mm. piece, the other a heavier 150 mm. gun protected by a heavy steel shield. The third is a 150 mm. field mortar.

All the guns are camouflaged in patterns of dull coloring which blend so as to make the outlines of the guns almost indistinguishable at a distance. They all bear the date 1918, and though the shield of the 150 mm. field piece has been pierced by shrapnel and one of the spokes of the light field gun is nipped badly, they do not bear many marks of hard usage, and evidently had not been in service long when captured.

With the exception of their barrels they are not of very strong construction, the body probably having been built to last no longer than the rifle. The fact that the dates on the wheels, barrel and other parts of these guns are different indicates that they were probably turned out in much the same rapid production manner as a modern automobile.

MUST USE PROPER STAMPS ON CHEQUES

NOT POSTAGE BUT INLAND REVENUE STAMPS REQUIRED.

It is apparently not generally known that it is illegal to use postage stamps on cheques, money orders and promissory notes and so the Special War Revenue Act has been openly disregarded. The inland revenue stamps that the banks use exclusively are the only kind to be used and merchants and others in outlying districts may obtain the proper stamps by addressing the collector of inland revenue. The Act has been so openly violated, especially around Indian River, that the post office inspector has had his attention drawn to it and has been in communication with Mr. Buller on the subject.

In certain districts it is alleged the selling of postage stamps for putting on cheques if not actually encouraged by the postmasters has not been interferred with and the practice has grown until steps may have to be taken to stop it if warnings do not suffice.

SEVERE TEST FOR NEW VOTING PLAN

PROPORTIONAL REPRESENTATION SYSTEM USED IN MANITOBA ELECTIONS TO-DAY.

(Canadian Press.)

WINNIPEG, Man., June 28. — Manitoba to-day is electing a new legislature. Fifty-one members are being elected, and these, with the two deferred elections and two members elected by acclamation, make up the membership of 55 in the next legislature.

One hundred and forty-four candidates are in the field and 93 of them are bound to be defeated. Winnipeg has a field of 41 starters, and only ten can win. Winnipeg votes under proportional representation, and Ronald Hooper, secretary of the P. R. society of Canada, states that the election in this city will be the severest test which has been faced by the "single transferable proportional representation elective system."

Four women are running in Winnipeg, but no other constituency has a chance of female representation. Names of the 41 Winnipeg candidates appear on a long ballot in alphabetical order, and no provision was made in the election act for designating their party affiliations. To assist the elector who desires to vote a straight ticket it has been arranged that the names of Government candidates will be printed in red on the ballot, Conservatives in blue, Labor and Socialist in pea green and Independents in black.

How Simmons Springs are Built for Sleep

A WOMAN has a very definite idea of the comfort she expects the springs of her beds to give herself and her family.

She knows, too, how seldom her expectations are realized in half a dozen important points.

Now the remarkable thing is that these Simmons Springs actually do what you have the right to expect a spring to do—

And that they cost you little, if any more than the ordinary springs.

You can see these remarkable bed springs in the stores of the merchants who are displaying the charming new Simmons designs in Steel Beds, Brass Beds and Cribs.

LONG ago, Simmons Limited realized that a good spring is quite as essential to sleep as a good bed.

Simmons Springs are built for sleep.

This "Waldorf" Box Spring, for example:

A good spring! Taut but elastic—never slack.

A spring so designed and constructed that it makes a flat, resilient foundation for the mattress.

A spring that gives to the contours of the body—supports the spine and muscles in any sleeping position—invites relaxation and promotes natural, restful sleep.

A spring that fits four-square and firm on the bed—that does not creak, knock or rattle.

Simmons Springs are designed on scientific principles—and built right.

Where your ordinary spring is made of tinned fabric, apt to rust and stain the bedding—Simmons Springs are finished in rustproof qualities.

See a Simmons Spring in with a group of various makes and your eye will pick it out immediately by the sturdy look.

You will note its smooth finish—no corners or loose ends to tear the bedding.

ALL the leading stores in the city carry Simmons' Beds, Springs, Mattresses and Pillows—built for sleep by Simmons Limited.

If you have any trouble finding them, a post card to us will bring you the names of Simmons merchants near you.

Sleep is a big subject! Write us for the booklet, "What Leading Medical Journals and Health Magazines Say About Separate Beds and Sound Sleep." Free of charge.

GIRL PLAYS ROLE WITH DRAMATIC FIDELITY

Probably one of the most pathetic characters worked into the photo-play of recent months is that of Miriam Kirkstone, played by Jane Novak in "The River's End," a Marshall Neilan production written by James Oliver Curwood and distributed by First National Exhibitors' Circuit, which will open an engagement at the Allen Theatre here on Monday.

The role played by Miss Novak calls for a combination of dramatic fidelity and noncommittal humanness, all of which Miss Novak is able to instill into the character without losing the tone of her own personality. In Miss Novak's work, more than in the portrayal of other roles in the production, can be seen the superb direction of Marshall Neilan, whose first independent effort as a producer shows extreme brilliancy and a definite knowledge of human nature.

The combination of Mr. Neilan's direction and Miss Novak's interpretation has made the role of Miriam Kirkstone one of the high-lights of the photo-play season.

CUTICURA HEALS PIMPLES

In terrible rash on face which made skin sore and inflamed. Irritated face by scratching and was disfigured. Could not sleep well and made feel unpleasant. Trouble lasted 3 months before used Cuticura and after using 2 cakes of Soap and 1 box of Ointment was completely healed.

Voice Of The People

Editor, Examiner:

Mr. Editor,—During the last few days the public have had two fine examples of love of country, the Murdock revelations and the salary grab at Ottawa, and from the latter the returned veterans can take heart of grace. Although there are no gratuities for them, it is really comforting for them to know that the men who bore the brunt of the war—at Ottawa—are getting their gratuities to the tune of $1,500 per year. Of course, they eraned it, who can doubt it? but there are many others who earned a deal more and got less.

It is said that comparisons are odious, but some times they serve a useful purpose. One of my boys served 4 years in the C.E.F., and spent 27 months in the line. He returned home at the age of 22 years with most of the pleasures of life gone for him. He can neither run or dance, ride a wheel, play cricket, football or baseball. Now Mr. Editor let us see what a grateful country paid him for that 4 years' service, 27 months of it in hell. 1,460 days at $1.10 per diem . . $1,606
A service gratuity of. 420

Which means less than $1.35 per day. Of course he receives a pension, but he gets that for his disability, not for his service.

It is proposed that an M.P. shall attend the house at least 50 days to earn his $4,000. 50 days at $80 per, and the other 315 days free to try and make another 4,000 bucks elsewhere.

I wonder who was the greatest value to his country, my boy (or any other boy over there) at one dollar ten per day, or any M.P.—from the highest to the lowest—at $80 per day. But my boy is delighted, his bum leg has no pain now since he got the glorious news that God is in His Heaven and all's well with the world since our over-worked M.P.s have have got their gratuity. It will be carried out, I suppose, quite according to Hoyle, and each M.P. will have to plead needy circumstances as proposed for the Veterans. I don't suppose you will hear any more demands for gratuities for veterans, as the men are all perfectly satisfied now. I don't think the local veteran who bought a farm under the Soldiers' Land Settlement Board, and received a favorable report from the valuator, and then months afterwards was informed by the Board that in consequence of the house on the farm being rather small they had decided to refuse his application, will no doubt also be perfectly satisfied, and will feel that it is much more fitting that our M.P.s should be well paid, than he should get the assistance he needed and was fully entitled to. Thanking you, Mr. Editor.

Yours truly,
R. MITCHELL.

$200 FOR VETERANS.

The finance Committee of Lindsay's Town Council has recommended a grant of $200 to the Veterans of that town.

In talking to a motion to this effect by Aldermen Carew and McGaffey, Mayor McLean said:

"We have got away from giving the grant for a long time. Up till now they have not received a cent. They have kept faith with themselves and by their own methods and resources have fitted up the club house. We have done nothing, but to make a small grant will not force us very much. The boys will use it right."

ON THE LINE OF FIRE!

Mortality Tables show that Nine out of each Thousand die every year, says the Underwriters' News.

Put a Thousand Men side by side in a line, faced by an equal number of Soldier, each with a rifle in his hand; 991 of these rifles are loaded with blank cartridges, and Nine are loaded with real Bullets.

The Men in this line know that Nine of them will fall when the Command is given to fire—but do not know who these Nine will be.

Suppose a Life Insurance Policy were offered to each of these Thousand Men, would not every sensible man take out the Insurance?

MORTALITY TABLES SHOW THAT YOU ARE IN LINE. HAVE YOU A SUN LIFE POLICY?

TUESDAY, JUNE 29TH, 1920.

A FRIEND NEEDED.

There is much in the suggestion that W. F. O'Connor, K.C. former member of the Board of Commerce, should have charge of the presentation before the Privy Council of the question of the validity of the Board's authority to deal with matters that are supposed to come under its jurisdiction. The issue is of supreme importance to the people and there is reason as a result of the Murdock charges to believe that the Government might welcome a half-hearted fight before the Privy Council and consequently an adverse decision from that body. Mr. O'Connor would exert every effort to see that the verdict was favourable, believing as he does in the importance of the work of the Board and the opportunities that it presents to be of real service to the public provided that it is given a chance. The man who represents Canada before the Privy Council in this matter undoubtedly should be a friend of and a firm believer in the Board of Commerce, for a luke-warm presentation of the case might result in a verdict that would destroy all chances of the Board's becoming an effective weapon against profiteering and exorbitant prices.

HAIL, LANCTOT.

The name of Roch Lactot, Liberal member for Laprairie in the Dominion House, deserves to be remembered by the people of Canada. Instead of holding out greedy hands for the extra $1,500 indemnity that is to be provided, Mr. Lanctot is flatly opposed to the proposal and declares that he will divide the House on the question if he can get five members necessary to demand a vote, to support him. The member for Laprairie will, as a result, be a rather unpopular individual among his fellow members, but he can have the satisfaction of knowing that he is taking a stand that is endorsed by the vast majority of Canadians. They believe that he is quite correct in his assertion that there is no need of the raise and that the members have no reason to complain of the cost of living when they can get three meals a day at the Parliamentary restaurant at the rate of $1.40 a day, with the country making up the difference by an $8,000 appropriation in the supplementary estimates.

Surely there are five other members in the House who have as much principle as Mr. Lanctot and who will answer his call. The House should be divided on this issue, for the people are entitled to know just where every member stands. The salary grab is being vigorously denounced by the press everywhere and the various associations of returned soldiers are from one end of the country to the other expressing their condemnation of the proposal in terms that leave no doubt as to their meaning or sincerity.

THE COAL SITUATION.

The Dominion Government has at last realized the seriousness of the coal situation and having had an investigation made by Hon. J. D. Reid and Hon. Gideon Robertson, has decided upon a system of fuel control for Canada, the Railway Commission to be given complete authority to deal with the fuel question. This action on the part of the government comes not a day too soon, for it is plain that the situation is such as to cause the deepest anxiety for next winter. The average citizen is not worrying very much about the matter just now; it is difficult with the thermometer hovering around 90 degrees in the shade to fix one's mind upon such far away things as next winter's fuel supply. And yet summer soon slips away and almost before we realize it the chill winds of winter will be here and Canada, without an adequate fuel supply, is hardly the choicest country in the world. The plain fact it, as admitted in the House yesterday, that in Ontario alone there has been a shortage of 125 cars a day of anthracite and of 200 cars of bituminous coal, this condition continuing from the first of April up to the present, with the result that the reserves have been heavily drawn upon, and every day makes the situation worse. Already industries dependent upon a steady supply of coal have been effected, the great steel plant at Hamilton having to close for at least two weeks, throwing 2,000 men out of employment. The outlook for next winter is, to be frank, most serious, and unless the Railway Commission is successful in securing a much larger supply of coal from the United States than is at present in sight, the coming of cold weather is to be dreaded. Every effort must be made to economize in fuel consumption and to secure more coal from the Canadian mines. Canada is facing a crisis.

HARD TO UNDERSTAND.

Many people are at a loss to catch the viewpoint of the Dominion government. Having preached on every possible occasion the necessity of economy, the decision to increase the indemnities of the members was an inconsistent and unjustifiable departure from the policy announced as essential. But perhaps we are too hasty in condemning the government as inconsistent, for immediately after the momentary lapse that allowed the members to dig deeper into the public treasury it was announced that economy still was the slogan of the administration. And to prove it, the Government has decided not to give the typists in the Hansard Department and the stenogrpahers of the members the increased pay they had been led to expect all through the session. The Hansard amanuenses are different from many of the members of Parliament. They work long hours and their duties are much more arduous than that of the members. The increase amounting to $1 or $1.50 per day that they expected to receive has been earned, but the promised raise has been cut off in the interests of economy, while the members, many of whom would find it impossible to convince their constituents that they are worth the usual $2,500 sessional indemnity, to say nothing of the $1,500 increase now to be provided, are being taken care of by the government. The saving affected by refusing the increases of the Hansard staff is only a trifle compared to the amount that will be added to the expenditures by the generous policy adopted in the case of the members. The government evidently believes that economy, unlike charity, does not begin at home.

HOW CAN THEY AGREE?

During th past session of the Ontario Legislature there was in effect a working alliance between the Farmer and Labour members and Government speakers recently have expressed themselves as satisfied with the manner in which the alliance has worked out, and are convinced that it will be permanent. And yet it is difficult to see how such an arrangement can be lasting, for the two wings differ so widely in their opinion on certain aims that are dear to the heart of labour that it seems impossible that they can continue very long to work harmoniously together.

The last issue of the Farmers' Sun referring to the Toronto Street Railway and Chippewa strikes, the former of which is now, fortunately, settled ,shows that the view of the farmers in regard to higher wages and shorter hours is directly opposed to the Labour stand on this question.

"Two serious strikes are taking place in Ontario at the present time, namely, the employees of the Toronto Street Railway and those of the Hydro-Electric Commission at the Chippewa power plant," says the Sun.

"Public opinion in both cases is opposed to granting the strikers any increase in wages, as there is a feeling growing in the country that the limit has been reached in the demands of the working men for shorter hours and increased pay. The constant increase in wages, followed by increases in the selling prices of commodities, and so on around the vicious circles, must end sometime and somewhere. Thomas Carlyle said, 'A man cannot lift himself by his boot straps.'

"In the case of the street railway employees, a Board of Conciliation unanimously reported against any further increase in wages. Later, the employees' representative on the Board rescinded his former decision, and requested that the men be given an increase. The public has no particular sympathy with the directors of the Street Railway Company, but on the other hand feel that the men are asking too much, and that there must be an end to the mounting rate of remuneration.

"In so far as the Chippewa employees are concerned, the demand of the men for an eight-hour day and for a very large increase in wages is most unreasonable. It was shown in a recent issue of The Farmers' Sun that unskilled labourers have been offered and refused $1,301.00; blacksmiths and other workers of that type have been offered and refused $2,704.00; a watchman scorns to accept $2,061.00; while a waterboy turns up his nose at $735.00 per annum.

"The Province will expect the Hydro Commission to stand fast and refuse to grant the demands of the men. The Government also must present a firm front to any pressure that may be brought upon them from Labour circles. It is true that the country is anxious to have the Chinpewa development completed at the earliest possible moment so that power may be available for rural centres, but there is a limit to profitable construction, and that limit has just about been reached.

"We venture to predict that before many months are over, many of these men who now scorn to accept the wages indicated above will be very glad to get anything that is offered them. They will probably figure in bread lines. If we must have a showdown, the present is just about as good a time as any."

WILL EXHUME ISLAY BODIES

Relatives Want Return of Transport Victims' Remains.

PARIS.—The exhumation of the bodies of 489 American soldiers which were washed upon the rocky shores of the Island of Islay, off the Scottish coast, after the sinking of the transports Tuscania and Otranto in 1018 will be started July 1, it was announced here to-day.

The Scottish clan which inhabits the lonely spot has taken the most tender care of the graves and the Chief had given a pledge that the clan would look after the graves as if they were its own until the end of time. The Chief pledged that the bodies be left on the Island, but the relatives in many cases wished them to be returned and it was decided by the Graves Registration Service to remove them all.

The coast at Islay is so steep and rocky that the coffins will have to be carried down trails cut in the rocks or lowered by ropes and tackles to a waiting barge, which will convey them to a transport off shore.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

June 28, 1920

To the Editor of the Examiner:—
Peterborough.

Sir,—Your editorial on the "salary grab" will be agreeable to a large number of your readers. The Press both Liberal and Conservative and from every Province of Canada have been against any increase and the writer with many others thought that the Salary increase was all talk and that when the time came it would not receive Government approval. Now the measure is passed the following from the Globe's Ottawa Correspondent will be of interest. Under date May 5th last Mr. Lanctot M. P. for Laprarie and Napierville says in part "Many members of Parliament are not worth $2500.00 a year now paid and that the House of Commons should set an example to the country Bolshevism he declared was a re-action from profiteering, there were members who spend their time attending to their own business and come to the House only when they have to, they get the full indemnity just as though they had been at every session. From six to ten members on each side of the House put up all the fights. Men of experience; they should get the increase not the others" the majority of people think that we have too many members; it it not a reasonable proposition to say that any county in Ontario could be as well represented by one as by two or more members? If members are to get from 25 to 50 per cent. increase what about the Civil Service? Next election the candidate who is not willing to take $2,500 for half ar quarter time should be left at home.

Yours truly,
J. F. LILLICRAP.

IS OPPOSED TO INCREASE.

French-Canadian Liberal Member May Divide House.

OTTAWA, June 28.—Roch Lanctot, Liberal member for Laprairie, stated to-day that if five members, necessary to demand a vote, will stand up with him, he will divide the House on the proposal to increase the sessional indemnity to $4,000. He says there is no need of the raise. The members needn't complain of the high cost of living at Ottawa, he stated. "They get three meals a day in a swell restaurant at a total cost of $1.40 per day, and the supplementary estimates provide $8,000 to meet the deficit."

Lanctot brought thunderbolts on his head some time ago by declaring against the proposal, and saying that if the pay were raised he would hand the excess to an agricultural society in his county.

VIRTUOUS WIVES

By. OWEN JOHNSON

But Forrester was conscious of no lack. A decade of boarding houses, hotels, and bachelor lodgings had left him with the feeling that home was a sort of inner office. Not that, in the background of his imagination, he did not have a visualization of another home, set under the shelter of whispering trees, with memories of other hands on olden sofas and reveries in the depths of charred fireplaces. Only, this was for the future. For the present, he wished to enjoy, and to enjoy in the richness of his youth. He had the need of the self-made man to visualize his success, of being seen, of parading the beauty and charm of the young wife, whom he had chosen, as he chose his chef, his chauffeur, and his tailor, with the instinct to achieve the rarest.

"Decidedly I shall refuse. I have enough," he said to himself suddenly. "In five years, I should be a millionaire—but what five years!"

The offer which he had all at once determined to refuse was this: The day before, no less a personage than T. P. Gunther himself, organizer of colossal enterprises, one of the three despots of the Street, in whose hands lay the gift of a hundred fortunes, had personally offered him the presidency of the Osaba Refining and Smelting—a vast property recently consolidated by his interests in the mining districts of Arizona and northern Mexico. The offer had been peculiarly tempting in financial opportunity, but the condition was attached that he should not relinquish office before five years.

"No; I have enough," he repeated, with a smile. But this extraordinary and un-American expression in a country where the rich grow progressively poorer was not as limiting as it appeared. In his contentment, he embraced not only his present situation but that future success which he could count upon as his reorganization of the Cambridge Structural Steel made itself felt.

He established himself at the table for that triple process of breakfasting, to which he ordinarily allotted ten minutes of his schedule, and which consisted in devouring three or four courses while he digested the news of the day in the headlines of two papers propped up before him and sorted his correspondence. From his mail, he carefully selected a dozen bills for Miss Burroughs, the social secretary he had generously provided for his wife, who, at the end of the month would give him the total required.

He finished breakfast, glanced voraciously through a third paper, lit his morning cigar, and, as though staggered by the grandeur of the renunciation, brought forth pencil and paper in the need of visualizing his situation. He drew a neat dividing line, jotting down in parallel columns the figures of the decision he intended to make.

"Let's see how we stand: I have forty thousand in good securities at four and a half per cent. plus one thousand shares of Cambridge, market value fifty-five thousand—will go to par in three years. Adding my salary of twenty-five thousand, which certainly will be increased on the publication of my year's report, I can count on a capital of at least one hundred and fifty thousand within three years." He contemplated the figures, which his imagination crowned twenty years of struggle as with a monument, and, to his vision of a bachelor apartment, they seemed grandiose. "Now, bonus twenty thousand shares of the new common stock, put out at ten dollars a share." He stopped, before his eyes, the figures ded with the vision of the future multiplied them by twenty, by fifty, inscribing, in ing progression, the sums which represented the mounting fortune his efforts could accomplish. "Yes; in five years I'd be a millionaire. But those five years—that's just the point!"

He rose and entered the brilliant yellow salon for the morning survey of what he had himself assembled for the coming of his bride. It was heavy; it was massive, and it was gorgeous. A dozen eras crowded together, Louis XVI., Empire, Colonial, and Heppelwhite, amid a profusion of Japanese prints, modern procelains, and imitation flowers. In this herding of bric-a-brac, his eye detected a vacant corner which offended it, and he remembered a bronze on a marble pedestal which would fill in exactly.

"I'll have it sent up as a surprise to the missis," he said, delighted. He loved the room with the wholesome joy of possession. "Well, Andrew B. Forrester, I guess we've settled that," he said, but a little doubtfully. "Years are more precious than money, and I've earned the right to take it easy. In four or five years, when she's had a chance to play, we can buy a country place and settle down. Children ....yes; I suppose that will be all right then. There ought to be some one to inherit what I have to leave. I've got enough as it is—I'm satisfied. That's settled. Everything's settled."

He thought of his young wife with a sudden feeling of tenderness, pride, and gratitude. His pride in her possession was the pride of his whole self-made existence in achieving the impossible, and his gratitude was deepest of all that, at the critical period of his life when emerging from the struggle for power, at that dangerous age when the self-made man, in this first leisure, experiences the temptation of a boy of twenty, she had brought to him contentment, order, and security when other men found themselves distracted and torn by a life of dissipation. It is at this point where, in his simple faith, he saw an end, that the human drama which awaits the shock of opposite sexes, the action and reaction of one mind on another, the conflict of wills, of instincts, and of temperamentse, was preparing its beginning.

PART II.

Well after nine o'clock little Mrs. Forrester awoke with a start, as she had done each morning of the two weeks in her new surroundings, with a feeling of being lost in some strange land. For a moment, still caught in a passing dream, it seemed to her that she was turning in the perfumed crush of one of the brilliant balls which had crowded her last year's appearance in society.

"I must be dreaming," she said to herself, with an effort. "That can't be. I know very well that I am in my little blue room and old Hannah is coming in with the coffe and the roses. That's it. I'm waking up."

Smiling to herself, she succeeded in half opening her eyes. But instead o fthe mahogany footboards and the casement window with red ramblers nodding across the gray thread of the far-off Hudson, she beheld something draped and lacy above her head, and then, through the diluted shadows of the Louis XVI. bedroom, a shining dressing table weighted down with silver, a white-and-gold chaise longue, while from a corner, hazily giving back her own image in the canopied paneled bed, a cheval-glass grew from the floor to the ceiling of the soft pink room. She had again an acute feeling of strangeness. But all at once she began to laugh.

"Oh, yes—I'm married, and must get up in time to breakfast with Andrew." At this moment, her glance encountered the accusing face of a jeweled clock. "Half-past nine! Oh dear, I never seem to get up, and I ought to—it's—it's my duty. I must—to-morrow. Poor dear boy, it's so lonely! If I telephoned him—" A little hand groped for the receiver and stopped. "No, no—too sentimental, Amy! He won't say anything, but he won't like it. That horrid business! Oh, dear, I must grow up!"

To grow up and to get up were two ideas hopelessly entangled in her foggy mind. She rang for her maid and went off into dreams, wherein were strangely mingled rapid nights of social pleasures and memories of the sheltered home of her childhood, where everything had revolved about her, where her father, Judge Starling, and her uncle Tom carried her round on their shoulders as though determined that she should never grow up. She was not yet twenty-one. She had made her debut in society the year before, and her abrupt marriage to Andrew Forrester the summer after a frantic season, which had left her a few illusions and a part of her health, had been a mystery to her intimates and a shock to a multitude of more or less fervent admirers.

Five minutes later, Morley's bleached features appeared behind the massive silver breakfast service (a gift of Forrester's business associates). The maid set the tray gingerly down, and stood a moment, contemplating the charming figure of her young mistress.

"She is quite too ravishing," she said contentedly. "How in the world did he ever get her? Pretty little beauty!"

In that miraculous garden, America, where a virgin soil and an ardent sky combine to produce exquisite human flowers, she was of the most delicate loveliness. She kept lightly, her dainty head pillowed against one soft white arm, and everything in the modeled oval of her face seemed alert and on the wing—the thin hazel eyebrows which were lifted until they seemed to form an acute angle on the forehead, the slender nose a little in the air, the thin upper lip rising to a point above a line of teeth that glistened like milky beads, while the red splash of the under lip was sensitive and full with the already awakened instinct toward the pleasant intoxication of the senses. The light and abundant hair was drawn clear of the neck, which was as fragile as the support of a Venetian vase. In all this there was something that hovered like the pleasure of a hidden perfume—the spirit of unconscious blessing which remained in spite of her first contact with the artificial world, a charm which was not yet of art or experience but of youth and anticipation, a charm that was just beginning.

When she again awoke, it was past ten o'clock, and the telephone at her bed was buzzing imperiously. She took up the receiver with some petulance.

"Amy, it's Fifi!"

She gave a cry of delight at the sound of her cousin's voice.

"How wonderful—you darling! Where are you? What are you doing?"

"Down to shop. Crazy to see what you look like. How's married life? May I peek in on you? . . . I may? . . . In half an hour—gorgeous! So long!"

"What did we do last night?" said Amy to herself, rising reluctantly. She remembered that they had gone to the theater and then to a roof garden to dance until after two. "To-night early to bed," she said, with a touch of remorse. "I've kept him up every night this week, and Andrew must work."

Good Reasons for Cat's Paw Heels and Rinex Soles

They are more comfortable than leather.
They make your shoes last twice as long.
They make walking ever so much easier.
They need no "breaking in."
They cushion the feet against hard pavements.
They make each step light and springy.
They are water-proof.
They are best for every member of the family.
They do not scar floors or furniture.
They can be worn all year round.
They prevent slipping.
They take the noisy clank out of walking.
They are equally good for indoors or outdoors.
They are more economical than leather.
They are Dominion Rubber System products.

When buying new shoes, or having old ones repaired, insist on Cat's Paw and Rinex. There's no combination "just as good."

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

FRENCH WORKING FOR BIG HARVEST

AND MANUFACTURING CENTRES ARE BUSY, TRAVELLER REPORTS.

NEW YORK.—Mr. Fred R. Coudert, who recently returned from Europe was enthusiastic over the rapidity with which France was emerging from the effects of the war.

"Anyone who has viewed France from an airplane cannot help but be impressed with the sight of the country under cultivation," Mr. Coudert said. "Agriculturists are striving to raise a record supply of food for the nation's needs. Manufacturing centres are teeming with industry; in fact the whole nation seems imbued with a sense of cooperation to restore France to normal.

"While there have been many strikes there they were not as serious as here, and the Government handled the difficulties with great ability. Taxes, of course, are tremendously high, but the people are assuming the burden with a commendable cheerfulness."

Mr. Coudert was optimistic that the franc would soon get back to normal value. With such concentration of effort and co-operation to bring the country back to pre-war conditions, the financial and economic difficulties were bound to be cleared up in a short time, he said.

Germans Still Arrogant.

"We made a trip into Germany where we observed that the Germans were quite as unrepentent as ever," Mr. Coudert went on. Mrs. Coudert who speaks the language fluently, with all kinds of people, and, almost without exception, they were as cocky and self-satisfied as during the war."

In speaking of the commercial development of the airplane on the other, Mr. Coudert remarked that Lord Northcliffe predicted that England in the near future would be using airplanes almost entirely in the postal service. Mr. and Mrs. Coudert left immediately for their summer home on Long Island.

METHODISTS PLAN TO RAISE SALARIES

OF MINISTERS FROM $1200 TO $1500 MINIMUM.

At the Bay of Quinte Methodist Conference recently held in Whitby, the Laymen's Association unaimously passed a strong resolution recommending the minimum salary of ministers be raised to $1,500.00 per annum. It has been only $1,200.00.

To work out the details and to get the movement under way, the following Ministerial Support committee was appointed with a lay chairman for each district in the Conference. The lay chairman will co-operate with the ministerial chairman and a representative from each circuit will be appointed.

President of Conference—Rev. C. H. Coon.

Chairman—Mr. J. M. Greene, Peterborough.

Vice-Chairman—Mr. M. V. Denyes, M.P.P., Holloway.

Secretary—Dr. J. E. Middleton, Peterborough.

Flying Squadron committee—Mr. F. E. O'Flynn, Belleville, Mr. T. F. Harrison, Cobourg.

District representative:

Belleville—Mr. F. E. O'Flynn, Belleville.

Napanee—Mr. Geo. Gibbard, Napanee.

Picton—Mr. R. H. Ireland, Wellington.

Brighton — Mr. A. N. Macklan, Brighton.

Cobourg—M. T. F. Harrison, Cobourg.

Bowmanville —Mr. J. A. Holgate, Bowmanville.

Whitby—Mr. Geo. A. Rose, Port Perry.

Cannington—Mr. Geo. W. Keown, Woodville.

Lindsay—Mr. F. W. Sutcliffe, Lindsay.

Peterborough—Mr. T. Brown, Peterborough.

Campbellford— Mr. A. C. Denike, Havelock.

Madoc—Mr. W. S. Gordon, Tweed.

A meeting of the above committee with the district lay chairman has been called to meet in Belleville on Thursday, July 8th to complete the plans for the promotion of the work.

It is hoped that every Methodist throughout the entire conference will rise to the call of duty and obligation, in this connection for a better and more equitable support of their brethren.

PORT HOPE'S BIG CELEBRATION, JULY 1ST

Port Hope's Dominion Day celebration this year will surpass all previous ones. The committee have been hard at work for two months and have completed arrangements for a most attractive programme. The horse race card wil consist of a 2.15 class and a 2.30 class with purses of $500 each and in addition there will be a green race with six speedy horses. A league baseball match with Oshawa and Port Hope; Zetto and Bowen, a Chinaman and a clown, in acrobatic and ring work; a wonderful trained animal act with three ponies and fourteen dogs. Music for the day will be furnished by the 57th Regimental Band of Peterboro, and the Citizens' Band of Oshawa. In the evening these bands will mass and give a high class programme during the vaudeville entertainment. Following this will be a wonderful display of fireworks, including many war numbers. The best holiday entertainment in the province. Join the crowd.

SANDY LOCKINGTON,
Secretary of Committee.

Proper Thing Now is to Peel Off Soiled Skin

Those who abhor sticky, greasy, shiny, streaked complexions, should religiously avoid creams, powders and rouges during the heated days. There is no need for them anyway, since the virtues of mercolized wax have become known. No amount of perspiration will produce any evidence that you have been using the wax. As it is applied at bedtime and washed off in the morning, the complexion never looks like a make-up. Mercolized wax gradually takes off a bad complexion, instead of adding anything to make it worse. It has none of the disadvantages of cosmetics and accomplishes much more in keeping the complexion beautifully white, satiny and youthful, free from freckles, pimples, blotches and other blemishes. Just get an ounce of it at your druggist's and see what a few days' treatment will do. Use it like cold cream.

GERMANY'S WAR LOSSES

1,350,000 Killed, 500,000 Maimed, 1,650,000 Widows and Orphans.

GENEVA.—Recent statistics published in Germany on that country's war losses state that 1,350,000 men were killed.

There are to-day 520,000 war widows, according to the statistics, 1,130,000 war orphans and 500,000 maimed or consumptives supported mostly by charity.

Stomach and Liver Trouble

Once the liver fails to filter the poisonous bile from the blood, there is a clogging up and poisoning of the whole system which causes many troubles to arise. Therefore, upon the liver, more than any other organ of the body, depends the general health.

Carelessness and neglect, and oftentimes willful disregard of nature's laws will put the system out of sorts. The bowels become constipated, the liver inactive and the stomach upset. To bring the system back to its normal you should take Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. They liven up the liver, get the bowels back to their proper condition and tone up the stomach.

Mrs. G. L. Cackett, Enchant, Alta., writes:—"I have used Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and have found them good for both stomach and liver troubles. I have told others about your valuable medicine and they have used them with good results.

"They are also good for headache."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c. a vial at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

CALLED TO FIGHT LOCUSTS

All Available Men Summoned to Combat Spain's Plague of Insects.

MADRID.—Reports were received from various places to-day stating that dense clouds of locusts have devastated the fields in the districts of Almagro, Bolanos and Terralba.

From Toledo came reports of immense damage by insects to newly sown fields, olive orchards and truck gardens. The military and civil authorities have asked all available men to aid in fighting the plague of insects.

DOCTORS BAFFLED.

A CASE OF SCIATICA WHICH REFUSED TO YIELD TO THEIR TREATMENT.

The Patient Spent Nearly Three Months in a Hospital Without Getting Relief—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Restored Him to Health and Strength.

For upwards of a quarter of a century, Mr. Geo. McLean has been a resident of the town of Thorold. He is foreman in the lumber yards of McCleary & McLean, and is known not only to the citizens of the town, but by most of the inhabitants of the adjoining region as well. Many of Mr. McLean's friends know that he was afflicted with a severe type of sciatica, and know also that he has been released from the pangs of that excruciating trouble. Believing that his story would be of public interest, a reporter called upon him, and asked him to what agency he attributed his fortunate release from pain. Mr. McLean's unhesitating reply was: "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I never hesitate to say so either." Mr. McLean continued: "I was afflicted with sciatica for a number of years. The most severe attack occurred several years ago, when I was confined to my bed for several months. I suffered horribly with the trouble, and the only relief I could get was from morphine, either in tablets or hypodermically injected. I could not put my left foot on the ground without undergoing intense agony. I was treated by physicians, and at the hospital in St. Catharines, to which institution I had to be taken on a stretcher. I was in the hospital nearly three months, but without being cured. Then I returned home very much discouraged. I next tried electricity, but it had no perceptible effect. I also tried a number of advertised medicines, but with no better results. Finally I was urged to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and as I was willing to try anything that seemed to offer hope of a cure, I got several boxes. I had been using the pills nearly a month before I found much relief, but from that on my recovery was rapid, and in the course of a few months, I was as well as ever I had been. I am now a strong, healthy man, and although I have since endured much exposure, I have had no return of the trouble, and feel that my cure is permanent. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills certainly proved a blessing in my case, and I shall praise them when opportunity offers."

Rheumatism, sciatica, neuralgia, partial paralysis, locomotor ataxia, nervous headache, nervous prostration, and diseases depending upon humors in the blood, such as scrofula, chronic erysipelas, etc., all disappear before a fair treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They give a healthy glow to pale and sallow complexions. Sold by all dealers and post paid at 50c. a box or 6 boxes for $2.50 by addressing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. Do not be persuaded to take some substitute.

GREEK ARMY CAPTURES IMPORTANT TOWN AND QUANTITY OF WAR SUPPLIES.

(Canadian Press)

PARIS, July 2.—Greek army which late last week halted its offensive against Turkish nationalists in Asia Minor while positions it had taken in drive from Smyrna were being consolidated resumed its advance of Wednesday and captured the town of Balikesri about fifty miles south of Panderma on sea of Marmora. It is announced in the Greek communique received here to-day. With the town, statement reports, the Greeks took fifty four heavy field guns, twenty quick firing guns and twelve hundred prisoners.

GOVERNMENT HAS CUT OFF CHANCE OF INVESTIGATION

(Canadian Press.)

WINNIPEG, Man., July 2.—Judge Robson, former chairman of the Board of Commerce, anounced to the Canadian Press to-day that Parliament having prorogued, he saw no necessity for carrying out his intention of proceeding to Ottawa to take up there the Murdoch controversy.

"Last week," said Judge Robson, "there was a despatch from Ottawa indicating the certainty of an inquiry into the extravagant charges made against the Ministers and myself in respect of the Board of Commerce. Parliament was then sitting, and it appeared would not immediately prorogue. I intimated my intention of leaving for Ottawa. I had not been in communication with the Government, and had no idea of what they were going to do.

"The Government, as every one knows, put its feet down on the whole business, and officially terminated it right there. Authority to whom alone I was responsible having terminated the matter, I need do nothing further."

IMPORTANT AMENDMENTS TO LUXURY AND SALES TAX.

The returns of manufacturers, jobbers, wholesalers and retailers that were made to the local Inland Revenue Office to-day, Mr. W. H. Buller said, were larger than last month and much more satisfactory. They were made more clearly and concisely and except from the outlying districts all business houses have turned them in on time. The staff has been rushed all day and even during the dinner hour the number of returns poured in unceasingly.

Two important amendments have been made by the department to the Special War Revenue Act. This morning Mr. Buller received an important telegram from the Department that the stamp tax of two cents on promissory notes, bills of exchange and advances made by a bank by way of overdraft of the value of one hundred dollars or less and a tax of two cents additional on every one hundred dollars or fractional part thereof, in excess of one hundred dollars, had been assented to to-day and was effective from July 1st.

A stamp tax of two cents will also be collected on each one hundred dollars of face value or fraction thereof of stock transfer.

This is an important amendment and the banks and saving companies in this city were notified at once by Mr. Buller.

Dated June 30th, he has received an amendment to the tax on men's and boys' suits. A tax of 15 per cent will be collected on amounts in excess of $45 on ready made colthing but the exemption on tailor made suits is placed at $60. This takes effect on clothing delivered on and after June 17th but the tax already paid on such clothing is not subject to adjustment by refund if such clothing has been fully paid for.

The tax on pipes sold in excess of $2.50 each by jewellers operating under special jewellers' license is 20 per cent.

STREET CAR AND AUTO IN SMASH-UP

A car driven by an Indian, Thomas Taylor, got a severe bumping by a one-man street car at the corner of Charlotte and Aylmer streets, at 11.15 to-day. The car was going south on Aylmer and on account of having his curtains up on the left side he could not see the approaching car going west on Charlotte street, and before he knew what had happened it struck him, spinning him completely around in the pavement and doing serious damage to the front of his car. The street car came out with a broken window. The young man was severely shook up, but luckily esaped anything serious.

WET AND DRY PLANKS TAKEN OUT OF DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2.— Platform committee of the National Democratic convention completed its labors early this morning with the decisive defeat of both wet and dry planks. The committee drafts of platform which will be submitted to the convention to-morrow contains no mention of prohibition enforcement issue. William Jennings Bryan announced that he would carry the fight of the bone dry declaration to the convention floor.

BELLEVILLE, July 2.—Mr. D. M. Clark, who has been commercial teacher at the Belleville High School for five years, has accepted a position on the staff of Peterborough Collegiate Institute. He will be assistant in the Commercial Department.

BORDEN WILL RETAIN SEAT.

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, July 2.—Premier Borden is to retain his seat as a private member, but won't run again. White is favoured for leader to-day.

SAYS WOMEN BATHERS ARE DAMP FRIGHTS

SCOTCH TOWN COUNCILLOR WOULD PREVENT MIXED BATHING.

LONDON.— "Hundreds of brides have been doomed to a life of useless celibacy through that infamous institution known as mixed bathing."

This statement is the nucleus of a protest made by Councillor Donald Clark, of Tonbridge, Ker., after a momentous debate by the Town Council as to whether or not mixed bathing should be permitted in the town's swimming bath.

"I oppose this motion," said the Councillor, "not on Puritanical grounds, for although I am a Scotchman. I recognize the necessity of washing even on a Sunday. But I oppose it as an ardent imperialist and as a patriot. I have watched mixed bathing for a long time, and have come to the conclusion that it stops more marriages than any other institution."

He besought his listeners to imagine a young man infatuated overnight by the charms of a beautiful Kentish maiden dancing at his partner at one of the dazzling balls for which Tonbridge is famous.

"Then," said he, "think of him meeting her the next morning clad in a ready-made bathing costume that vulgarizes her figure, her hair bunched in a hideous cap or straggling over her eyes, making her look like a wet Scotch terrier."

"No woman," he declared, "could stand the test of appearing before the man she had inspired, in the damp and bedraggled condition that was the inevitable consequence of a bath—whether public or private.

"Women bathers are nothing more or less than damp frights."

The Councillor failed in his endeavor. Tonbridge will have mixed bathing, and as the woman's vote is strong in Tonbridge, the Councillor will not seek re-election.

WEALTHY BRITISHERS FLOCKING TO B.C.

LONDON, July 2. — The record orf immigration to British Columbia show a particularly heavy number of wealthy settlers during the last eighteen months, representing an aggregate capital of twelve million dollars. In addition there are hundreds with capital of les sthan five thousand dollars. English domestics are said to be showing a preference for the Pacific slope.

BAGLEY EXEMPTION CASE WAS HEARD THIS MORNING IN THE DIVISION COURT

JUDGMENT GIVEN AGAINST THE MAN WHO IS ALLEGED TO HAVE SOUGHT EXEMPTION.

At the Division Court which opened this morning before his honor Judge Huycke, twenty-two cases are slated for hearing.

The case Frederick et al vs. E. S. Ivy was adjourned till September.

Miss Etta Lawson of Cavan, appealed against a conviction against her last September, by which she was in the police court, fined and assessed casts for breach of the motor vehicles act, in not having returned and given her name and address for the police after a collision with Horace Blake, a young cyclist of this city, at the corner of Park and Charlotte streets.

The bicycle rider in question, it appears was not an expert rider. Mrs. Lawson at the time of the accident had several young children in her car, and her plea was that Blake shook his fist and swore at her, after replying to her enquiry af his wheel was damaged; "It's all the same to you." Mr. G. N. Gordon, for Mrs. Lawson, the plaintiff, contended that she had reasonable excuse for her breach of the act in that Blake by his attitude and language had practically intimidated her. Mr. Gordon also took exception to the costs incurred by the police in taking a pleasant ride out to Cavan to serve a summons on Mrs. Lawson instead of 'phoning or writing her to come to town and be served. He also pointed out that the plaintiff comes to market regularly.

His Worship sustained Magistrate Dumble's conviction, ruling that Mrs. Lawson had neglected a duty incumbent on her under the motor vehicle act in now reporting her name and address to the authorities.

Mr. C. R. Widdifield for defendant, Chief Thompson.

Conviction Upheld.

W. J. Clancy vs. Chief Thompson was another appeal against a conviction by Police Magistrate Dumble [illegible] when His Worship found judgment against W. J. Clancey for negligence when colliding in his motor truck with Malcolm Vincent, driving a truck for Cooney. This accident occurred on Charlotte street, near Juby's Grocery store, and the court's decision hinged on whether the best judgment had been used by either Clancey or Vincent, to award a collision under confusing circumstances.

Mr. G. N. Gordon for plaintiff, contended that no clear case of negligence had been made out against Clancey. Hence his appeal.

Judge Huycke on evidence submitted, ruled that Clancey had been guilty of negligence and he sustained the magistrate's conviction of last April.

Exemption Case.

F. J. A. Hall et al vs. Elliott and Windover was another case in which Mr .F. J. A. Hall, assignee for J. Guise-Bagley's creditors ,is suing to recover from defendant $40.20 for alleged services rendered by Bagley in an effort to secure military exemption for Windover in 1918.

Chester M. Windover belongs to Harvey originally, but is now a motor man in Toronto. Evidence was submitted to show that Windover had written to Alex. Elliott, a farmer in Smith to ask Mr. Bagley to try and get Windover exemption from military service, in which event he would work for Elliott on his farm.

Personally, Windover did not know exactly what services Mr. Bagley had rendered him to warrant the bill of $40.20. He had understood there would be no charge unless he got off, which he did not.

Mr. Elliott swore that in engaging Mr. Bagley's services it was understood the fee was to be $3, and more should Windover be allowed exemption.

Witness McConkey swore that he accompanied Mr. Elliott to Bagley's office, heard this arrangement entered into and saw $3 paid by the farmer rin the latter.

Mr. Bagley emphatically denied this evidence.

An exhibit in evidence was an affidavit drawn up by Mr. Bagley, and signed by Mr. Elliott, giving the latter's number of cattle and horses and his farm conditions. This affidavit read that unless Elliott secured the services of Windover on his farm, he would have to dispose of some of his horses.

Mr. Elliott denied responsibility for such a statement. He had informed Mr .Pagley that "unless he got some help, he would have to sell some of his horses, "not mentioning Windover.

His Honor, however held defendant responsible for this affidavit in its entirely, which bore Elliott's signature; and he found judgment against Elliott and Windover to the amount of $36 and costs, allowing that $4 of the accoum had already been paid.

Mr. B. D. Hall for plaintiff, and Mr. Joseph Wearing for defendants.

Many any embryo statesman lands in jail before he has a chance to make good.

INDIGNATION OVER THE GERMAN GUNS

Among many citizens, especially those who were deprived of loved ones in the war, there is much indignation over the placing of the captured German guns in Central Park.

"I think it is an outrage," remarked Mr. G. W. Mulligan, whose son was killed in France, "and I have talked with many other bereaved people who share my opinion. Why, one of those guns in the park may be the one that blew some of our boys to pieces, and yet we place these souvenirs of barbarism in a public park to wrench anew the hearts of those who lost their sons in the war."

Other citizens have expressed the same opinion.

In many towns in the British Isles captured German guns have been seized and thrown into the rivers.

A CROP REPORT FROM THE WEST

WILL BE A FAIR CROP THROUGHOUT THE WEST.

(Canadian Press.)

WINNIPEG, Man., July 2.—A careful survey of the crop conditions throughout the West shows that 90 per cent. of the crop is good, and a very fair average of the past ten years, according to a report issued yesterday by the C. P. R.

The report further states that the crop on the whole is from ten to fourteen days later, and the yield in all probability will be decreased two or three bushels per acre on this account.

Ten per cent. was destroyed by soil drifting, cut worms and grasshoppers.

The pastures in all three Provinces are reported excellent, with a general improvement in cattle and horses.

FIGHTING THE TYPHUS PLAGUE

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, July 2.—The Department of Health is taking special precautions at the quarantine stations to prevent the introduction into Canada of the typhus epidemic, now raging in Russia.

To aid the battle in Europe against the plague, Canada has contributed two hundred thousand dollars. The Health Branch of League of Nations has the work in hand.

A cordon of halt stations is to be established from the Baltic to the Black Sea, and at these stations provision will be made for the treatment of infected persons.

The main idea is to fight the plague in Europe rather than to have to fight it later, in all probability, on this side of the Atlantic.

OSHAWA WON AND SO DID LINDSAY

Oshawa and Lindsay were the other winners in addition to Peterborough in yesterday's Central League games, Oshawa beat Port Hope 7 to 3 on the Ontarios' grounds, the sixth straight loss for the Hopers, while Lindsay won at home from Cobourg by 9 to 2, revenging themselves for the beating sustained on Empire Day.

OFFERED $3,000,000 FOR THE LEVIATHAN

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 2.—An offer of $3,000,000 for the giant passenger liner Leviathan and $800,000 for the liner De Kalb were the only ones that had been received when sealed bids on these two former German liners were opened today at the shipping board.

The American Ship and Commesce Company bid for the De Kalb, which it would operate in its passenger service to be inaugurated between the United States and Germany.

SCIENTIFIC INVESTIGATION

A small boy came hurriedly down the street, and halted breathlessly in front of a stranger going in the same direction.

"Have you lost half a crown?" he asked with his hand in his pocket.

"Y-yes, yes, I believe I have!" said the stranger feeling in his pockets. "Have you found one?"

"Oh, no," said the small boy. "I just wa it to see how many have been lost today. Yours makes fifty-four!"

Council Meeting

GERMAN REPARATION DISCUSSED BASIS OF DEMANDS

Canadian Press.

BRUSSELS, July 2. — The supreme Allied Council met here th morning and began consideratio of the programme which will be discussed with the German delegates a meeting at Spa next week.

The German experts submitted to the council memorandum regarding the economic situation of Germany, and her ability to meet reparation demands.

This memorandum mae a very unfavorable impression and prepares the way for a strong resistance to the execution of the treaty by the German delegation at Spa.

It was also taken as a confirmation of reports from Berlin that the attitude of Konstantin Fehrnback, German Chancellor, and head of the German delegation to Spa, will be that a financial settlement must be made on the basis of the present economic situation of Grmany, without taking into accout any future economic improvement.

CARRY OUT TREATY

BERLIN, July 2.—Charles Laurent, the French Ambasador to Germany presented his credintials to President Ebert yesterday. He declared he would do his utmost to bring about economic rehabiliation of Germany and would assist in steps necessary to carry out the Versailles treaty, but stated that the Berlin government must help in accomplishing his mission. Laurent conversed with Herr Ebert for twenty minutes.

SIR SAM HUGHES IS NOT IMPRESSED WITH NAME OF THE NEW POLITICAL PARTY

BLIND GIRL CURED BY "FAITH HEALER"

(Canadian Press)

OTTAWA, July 2.—Following visit of J. M. Hickson, the church of England layman who has earned for himself recognition as "Healer" one young afflicted from birth with blindness can see and several other cases of physical ailment and disability have been reported cured or on way to recovery. Woman subject to epileptic fits for eleven years is reported absolutely cured and another is reported on way to recovery after having suffered nervous breakdown as result of pain from a growth on her left eye.

THE MEMBERS ARE SCURRYING AROUND FOR A SUCCESSOR— RESULT OF WHITE BOOM.

Canadian Press.

OTTAWA, July 2. — The name of the newly constituted National Liberal and Conservative Party does not appeal to Sir Sam Hughes. Sir Sam wanted to return to the name of straight Liberal-Conservative party, and this morning he expressed dissatisfaction with the course of yesterday's caucus. As to the leadership and future of the party he was very much in doubt.

"I was not elected as a Unionist," declared Sir Sam to the Canadian Press. "I was and am Conservative, and the name Liberal Conservative is the one which should have been adopted. I have supported the present government will do so only so far as it carries out along the lines of conservative policy.

"The name National Liberal and Conservative Party has too much flavour of National Trust and Bhatassa. The party would have been well advised to keep away from both, for it will give suspicion of big interests behind the government."

As to the leadership, he remarked that for three or four weeks back there had been a big boom in favour of Sir Thomas White and he thought that might have an effect on the choice.

THE SUCCESSOR.

Canadian Press.

OTTAWA, July 2. — The members of the Senate and the House have begun their recommendations of a successor to Sir Robert Borden as the Prime Minister. Already a large number have been received. By this evening it is expected they will be completed and the Premier will be in a position to place his formal resignation in the hands of the Governor General and to suggest a successor.

The recommendations are not made public but it is understood that Hon. Arthur Meighen leads in favor at present with Sir Thomas White a close second.

Among the members there is a feeling that the latter, if requested to form a government might yet accede.

There is considerable doubt whether Hon. N. W. Rowell will join the new government. Hon. J. A. Calder on the other hand is supporting the new party. Three other members of the Cabinet, Sir George Foster, Hon. A. L. Sifton and Hon. Martin Burrell have for some time expressed a desire to retire from active public life. Although they may be induced to remain for a time it is probable that their retirement is not far distant.

VITAL STATISTICS FOR LAST MONTH

CUPID MADE TWENTY-NINE HOME RUNS IN JUNE.

Cupid had 20 victories to his credit in the city this month. Last year, only 18 marriage ceremonies were performed so June is keeping up its reputation as the month of weddings. 45 baby boys and girls were ushered into the big world by the stork in June, while last June 33 answered the muster roll. 19 deaths in the past month occurred or 3 more than in June 1919.

Warsaw Correspondence

WARSAW, June 30.—A very pretty wedding took place at half past twelve in the Methodist Church last Thursday, when Miss Bessie Aikens, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Aikens, was married to Mr. Rufus Payne son of Mr. Nathan Payne. The Church was prettily decorated, ferns, white peonies and orchids. The bride wore her travelling suite of blue colored cloth and has to match they were unattended. Rev. John Cox officiated. After a wedding breakfast at the bride's girlhood home the young couple motored to Indian River, and left by the 3.20 p.m. train for the west where they will visit friends and relatives for a few weeks. On their return they will take up their new life on the farm, where the groom passed his early days. The bride and groom are well known and the former received many useful and beautiful gifts.

Mary's Anglican Church was the scene of a very pretty wedding at high noon, June 28th., when Rev. Dr. Archbald united is the bonds of holy matrimony Marjorie youngest laughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Choate and Mr. Harrison W. Riddle of Des Moines. The Church was prettily decorated with ferns, white peonies, and Marguerites. The seats reserved for the wedding party were tied off with syringa. Mrs. Charles Foster presided at the organ. The bride looked very charming as she came in on her father's arm and perhaps more so as she left the church with her husband.

Both Mr. Riddle and his bride were unattended. The bride wore a becoming little suit of white silk with large leghorn hat. There were no invited guests present outside those of the bride's immediate family living in Warsaw and Mrs. Bell. The bride's sister, Mrs. Norman Bell, and her brother Mr. H. G. E. Choate, signed the register. After the ceremony at the church the company sat down to a wedding breakfast at the bride's girlhood home. The bride donned a travelling suit of navy blue serge, with hat to match and the happy couple motored to Indian River from whence they left on the 3.20 train to spend a few days in Toronto and at other points and then proceed to their new home in Des Moines. The bride well known in Warsaw, where she has practically lived all her life, was the happy recipient of many beautiful and useful presents.

Sunday Services.

There was no service in the Presbyterian Church Sunday as the Cotton congregation were holding their anniversary services. Rev. Fraser officiated, and both services were well attended. Rev. Peter Currie, a former pastor was expected to be present, but owing to illness could not attend.

Rev. Stringer conducted services in the Anglican Church. He will be at Buckhorn on Sunday afternoons for the next two months, and Rev. Dr. Archbald will be here. By many Dr. Archbald was expected here Sunday Rev. Vose conducted services in the Baptist Church.

Rev. Hinton, a former minister on Zion, Bethel and Warsaw. Sunday. Mr. Hinton's old friends were very glad to see and hear him.

Crops Look Well.

Wild strawberries seem quite abundant this year.

The grain crops are looking well. To-day's rain is welcome, for the wind was getting very hard.

Ladies Aid Meet.

A regular meeting of the Presbyterian ladies Aid was held at the home of Miss Margaret Miller. All members who were not detained by illness were present and there was a very pleasant gathering. No special business was done. The hostess served refreshments which all enjoyed very much.

W. M. S. in Session.

There was a very pleasant meeting of the Methodist W. M. S. on Friday evening at the church. Perhaps the principle part of the program was the very able report of the conference session work given by Mrs. James Weystock.

Personal Mention.

Mr. Thos. Wilson visited old acquaintances last wek. He has been in the hospital nearly all spring.

Mr. Roland Payne installed iron machions etc., in several barns this district last week.

Mr. E. N. MacDonald and Mr. David Miller accompanied the government engineer on his trip to the Northern townships last week. Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Meadow returned home on Friday. Mr. Miller was not able to leave until Saturday evening. Rev. John Knox took Rev. Hinton's work on the Seymour East circuit Sunday.

Mrs. Norman Bell, Ottawa, is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Choate.

Mrs. George Taylor is taking a short holiday.

Many will regret to know that both Miss Dewart and Miss Sandy have resigned their positions as teachers in the Warsaw School. Miss Sandy left for home Tuesday morning.

Mr. Archie Parker is renewing old acquaintances. It is over twelve years since he left Warsaw.

STRAWBERRIES 8c BASKET.

TILLSONBURG, July 2.—An abundant crop and the reluctance of housewives to can strawberries for winter use, owing to the price of sugar, has been the reason of several sharp declines since Monday morning.

So big is the crop that cars and trucks are delivering from house to house to get them sold before spoiling, and orders are being taken to deliver the berries at 8 cents a basket by the crate—a price far below prewar prices.

Music No Luxury

With music now forming an important part in our NATIONAL EDUCATION—being taught in the schools as a regular study, and with the phonograph being used as an aid to teaching languages and for other purposes, without question

It Is A Necessity

As a home maker and an invaluable aid to maintaining the real home atmosphere, MUSIC HAS NO RIVAL. Never let the national taste for music be side-tracked by the mistaken idea that it is a luxury, but secure this desirable educational advantage in fullest measure.

Your best aspirations demand music, and in whatever form you most desire it, this store will make it easy for you to have it, not only by the best possible price, but on easy terms.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Lewis and baby Grace with Miss Adams and Miss M. Black, were in town no Tuesday.

Chief Jamieson of Colborne, was in town on Tuesday and succeeded in capturing the young man who had been guilty of theft in the vicinity of that town. The accused had stayed at the Clarendon House on Monday night, ate breakfast, and made away without any settlement, taking the stage for Norwood. A telephone message with a description of the thief came in shortly afterwards and he was captured in Norwood.

COMFORT IN HOUSEWORK

A man who has made a study of the causes of fatigue declared that people get tired not because they stand at their work or because the work involves muscular effort but because they remain in one position all day. Thus the woman who has to be on her feet at housework all day is tired—but no more so than the office woman who has to sit at a desk all day. It is the confining to one position without change or relaxation that makes fatigue more than laborious effort.

While it may seem more comfortable to stand at the sink washing dishes or scraping vegetables—and it is true that one feels freer to move about while standing—nevertheless, the sum total of so much standing creates that famous tired feeling at the end of the day.

One solution offers itself in the use of a different kind of chair in the kitchen. It has been customary to use any ordinary plain, cheap chair for the kitchen—sometimes the combination folding step-ladder and kitchen chair has sufficed. Now the only time this is used is when vegetables of some kind are pared or a cake mixed. This makes it possible to sit down and keep the bowl in the lap. But how often are these tasks performed.

A high chair has its place right before the sink in the surest way of enforcing a sitting posture at the major kitchen tasks. It is perfectly easy to wash and dry dishes when one is sitting, even though it may be the habit of a lifetime to do it standing. It's a little awkward at first, but once get used to it and it will take a good deal of the weariness out of dish-washing.

Remember that the kitchen is the only place where you can sit when doing housework. Therefore, if you make it a routine matter to sit down at your work as soon as you get into the kitchen it will become automatic to manage to do the work there while sitting.

This will make up for the great amount of standing that is absolutely unavoidable in housework. You have to stand while sweeping and dusting and making beds. There's no device whereby these jobs can be performed in a sitting posture.

Alternating in this way so that one moves about, changing the posture to sitting or standing frequently during the course of the day's work there should be no uncomfortable sensation of over-exertion even in a day normally full of the thousand and one tasks connected with running a house hold minus any help.

Many of the house furnishing stores now carry these high stools in plain oak or in white enamel, and one should be in every kitchen. If the chair is too high, sawing off an inch or two of its legs will make it comfortable. Try the chair carefully until you have found exactly what height is most comfortable. Some of the office fixture stores carry a high stool with a revolving seat which can be made to the height of the surface you wish to sit before.

A piano stool can be impressed into service, and you will find it more convenient, because you can raise it to whatever height you desire, than the plain kitchen chair, too low for comfort, at the place where most kitchen work is done—the sink.

STRAWBERRY BOXES SCARCE.

Oakville Factory Burned Last Winter —Growers Husbanding Supplies.

While there has been no such scarcity of fruit boxes as was anticipated in this city at first, due to the falling off of the strawberry crop, boxes and fruit receptacles are both scarce and attempts to secure any from outside places have failed. One hundred thousand boxes were ordered through the Steel Briggs Co. from the Oakville Basketry Co. by Mr .Bruce Johnston for the local Gardeners' Association. Mr. Walter Oke ordered 20,000 boxes, but from the large crop of berries expected at first it was thought these would be insufficient.

In Western Ontario and at Niagara the shortage is acute. The Oakville factory was burned down last winter, and this has been aggravated by the large crops in these districts. Mr. Johnston was particularly fortunate in securing his boxes before the fire.

Growers are husbanding any boxes they have, for there is still much fruit to be handled. Old boxes of any kind that are suitable for fruit are being put into commission.

UNIQUE HONOR TO MR. FRANK SCOTT

Mr. Frank Scott, Vice-President and Treasurer of the Grand Trunk System, enjoys a somewhat unique honor in that during his forty-one years of service with the Grand Trunk Railway Company, he has risen from a junior clerkship to a Vice-Presidency through the one department. He is a son of the late W. F. Scott, M.D., for many years Professor of Anatomy at McGill University. Entering the Grand Trunk service in 1879 he began work in the Audit Department but was very soon transferred to that of the treasurer. He became secretary of the Board of Audit and Purchasing Committee in 1891, and was appointed Assistant Treasurer in 1893. In 1901 he was appointed Treasurer of the company. In 1906 he became Treasurer also of the Grand Trunk Pacific and many of its subsidiary companies, and in 1914 was appointed to a Vice-Presidency of the Grand Trunk System. A keen student of financial problems Mr. Scott has had unusual opportunities for acquising experience on a vast railway system that has gone through the evolutionary process that the Grand Trunk has during the past thirty-five years. In September, 1909, the society of railway financial officers of America elected Mr. Scott to the Presidency of the society.

When The Day Is Over

When the household cares and the worries of everyday life have dragged you down, made you unhappy, and there is nothing in life but headache, backache and worry, turn to the right prescription, one gotten up by Dr. Pierce fifty years ago.

Everything growing out of the ground seems intended for some use in establishing natural conditions. Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., long since found out what is naturally best for women's diseases. He learned it all through treating thousands of cases. The result of his studies was a medicine called Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This medicine is made of vegetable ... that ... surely intended for backache, headache, weakening pains, irregularities, and for the many disorders common to women in all ages of life.

Collis, Ont.:— "I suffered from a bad case of woman's trouble with headache, nervousness, disordered digestion, irregularity and I had great pain all the time. I would faint at my work. I had been under physician after another but they did me no good. I then took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it has made me well and strong. I can eat and sleep well and feel fine. I will recommend the 'Prescription' to all suffering women." MRS. MAYBELLE M. CRATER, Box Allen Co.

Write Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., for confidential advice. All letters are held sacredly confidential. You will receive the medical advice of a specialist, wholly without charge, and no charge whatever.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

FRIDAY, JULY 2, 1920.

A RECKONING LATER.

The people of Canada have only one consoling thought in regard to the salary grab at Ottawa and that is that sooner or later the time must come when the members who reached their hands into the public treasury and extracted therefrom $500 each in the shape of increased sessional indemnities will have to face their constituents. How many of them will be given another opportunity to enjoy the privileges that go with membership in Canada's parliament depends to some extent upon the length of the public's memory, but it is certain that if an appeal were to be made to the people to-morrow that not a corporal's guard of the present members would be successful at the polls. The people are indignant and angry over the action of Parliament—no one who has heard the comment whenever two or three citizens come together can doubt that fact. Even those who believe that in view of the difference in the cost of living there should be increased indemnities, condemn the larger allowances at this time. They know that the majority of the members are discredited in the eyes of their constituents, who are anxious only for an opportunity to get rid of them, and under the circumstances they feel that the increases should should have been deferred until after a general election had given the people a chance to select representatives in whom they had confidence. That was the effect of the amendment moved by Mr. Roch Lanctot, M.P. for Laprairie, and only eleven members, including the Liberal leader, Hon. McKenzie King and Hon. T. A. Crerar, head of the Farmers' party, had the fortitude to brave the disapproval of their fellow members, and voted in favour of the amendment.

THE WATER SUPPLY.

The Medical Officer of Health is advising the people of Peterboro who use the city water, to boil it before using it for drinking purposes, and the warning should be heeded by every water consumer. The situation is that there is an unusual amount of pollution in the water at the present time, more than the chlorination plant of the Utilities Commission can take care of, and while there are no cases of typhoid fever in Peterboro, the presence of a comparatively large amount of organic matter in the water renders it desirable that the simple precaution advised by Dr. McPherson should be followed.

The time is rapidly approaching when Peterboro will have to face the question of building a proper filtration plant in connection with the water system. While it is true that treating the water with chlorine removes the danger of pollution, and that the auxiliary chlorination plant that has been ordered will enable the proper amount of chlorine to be employed, the result of such a process will be inevitably that the water will be so unpalatable in taste that it will be useless for drinking purposes. It will be safe enough, but too much tainted with the chlorine to be used as a beverage.

That is not a condition of affairs that is wanted in Peterboro and the only alternative is a modern filtration plant that will purify the water, and at the same time keep it sweet for drinking purposes. Such a plant cannot be built for the proverbial song in these days but whatever it costs it will before long have to be constructed and the condition of the water at present, rendering it unfit to be used without first boiling it, will hasten the movement to provide a water supply that will be sanitary and safe. The health of a community depends to a very large degree upon its water supply, and Peterboro cannot afford to gamble with the lives of its citizens.

In a river such as the Otonabee, there is always bound to be a certain amount of pollutionn. Some of it comes from steamers that ply on these waters, and some perhaps from bathers and campers on the river above the water works, and while these sources might be eliminated, there is much organic matter from cattle in the fields near the river and from the roads washed down into the water by rains, that it is impossible to prevent entering the river. The only course oepn then is to chlorinate the water to a degree consistent with safety, and that may involve the rendering of the water unfit for use as a beverage, or to build a filtration plant. Both the Utilities Commission and the Board of Health favor the latter alternative, and although it maybe an expensive project, the results will most assuredly justify the expenditure.

But in the meanwhile, Safety First—Boil the Water.

"MAN'S RIGHT TO WORK."

A man's right to work is one of the most intimate rights of his being. It is the right to the exercsie of his mental and bodily faculties. It is more—it is the right to his life, which depends for sustenance on the fruits of his labor. It is for the same reason the right of his wife and children to their lives. Of this right no man can, with any shadow of equity, derprive another; neither can any man by his own authority dictate to another when and how this right is to be used, else this other were his subject, his slave. And when in order to deprive a man of this right, violence is done to him and bodily injury inflicted then there is no measure to the injustice put upon him; al semblance of liberty is effaced; physical force becomes the ruling law in the relations of man to man.

—Archbishop Ireland.

"LEAVES ON THE WIND."

Many readers of the Examiner will remember Rev. Father D. A. Casey, formerly curate of St. Peter's Cathedral in this city, afterwar ls stationed at Campbellford and Bracebridge, and pastor at Norwood. Father Casey, who is now editor of the Canadian Freeman, published at Kingston, has just issued a splendid volume of poems entitled "Leaves on the Wind," a copy of which the Examiner has been delighted to receive. The book more than fulfills the promise indicated in Father Casey's first volume, "At the Gates of the Temple," many of the best poems of which are republished in his new work.

His verse covers a wide range of subjects. Naturally, religious topics have a prominent place, but as Rev. James B. Dollard remarks in an eloquent foreword, books of poetry like this are badly needed in these unbelieving and materialistic days, for in its pages religion and art are intermingled with the happiest results.

Father Casey has a convincing and pleasing style, a wealth of muse and expression in his verse and every line he has written comes from the heart. Each poem is a message to humanity, a contribution of beauty and inspiration to those who will be fortunate enough to come into possession of this delightful volume. It is difficult amidst such a splendid collection of verse to select the poem that has the most merit; but certainly "Memories" will win a warm place in the affections of most readers. It is as follows:

Our hands go out in greeting to the friends of every day;
We have a smile for many a one
we meet upon the street;
But to the inner shrine of Love how few can find the way?
Strange that it should be sacred to the tread of ghostly feet!

The memories that cluster round the friends of other years
Are dearer far than all the gifts the coming years may hold;
The heritage we prize the most is bitter sweet with tears—
The Voice we heard the Face we loved in the dear days of old.

"Leaves on the Wind" is published by McClelland and Stewart, Toronto.

THE COUNTRY TOWN.

(From the Farmers' Sun.)

There is no such thing as a country town. There are towns in the country, bu they are city towns. They are dominated by the city spirit. In the contest between the city and the country, they are outposts of the city, strategically placed, like the fortress colonies of ancient Rome, to command the territory about them.

In the rivalry and contest which is constantly carried on between rural and urban ideals, nothing is more important for the country than that it capture and control the villages and small towns. They ought to be centres of rural thought and enterprise, upon whose streets and within whose institutions the farmer should not feel himself a stranger. It should be in his town, and he should be at home in it.

At the present time every town is is wildly ambitious to become a city. Many of them have almost ruined themselves in the attempt, mortgaging themselves to the utmost limit to attract factories, which often play out and leave the town to pay the bill. Most town people home some day to move to city. Those whose callings are itinerant, such as agents for loan companies, insurance companies, railways and banks, with the teachers and preachers, covet promotion to a city appointment. The most successful merchants, doctors and financiers go "up higher" to the city. The city is the admiration and envy of the country town.

The effect upon the population is not a happy one. With far more comfort and beauty in their surroundings than city dwellers possess they are nevertheless unsatisfied, and, if promotion each other in times of crisis and tragedy, they fill the long periods between the occasional disasters with censorious gossip. Every family which out of a small town, into either city or country, rejoices in the new found freedom to do as they please, without incurring the impertinent criticism of their neighbors. Elbert Hubbard once said: "If man made the city, and God made the country, the devil made the small town."

Nothing shows the radical opposition between the town-spirit and the country-spirit more than the average town's treatment of retired farmers. These aged and venerable men, resting a little after a lifetime of hard work, before they move on into the peace of the great beyond, are considered the most undesirable citizens of the place. Being frugal, thrifty, and independent, careless of noise and show, they are regarded as behind the times. Instead of the respect and veneration which is the due of their life's labors and their sturdy honesty, they are regarded as a block in the patuway of progress.

It will not be done in a day, but the strategy of a Farmers' Movement must aim at the conquest of the towns whose life is fed from the farms. When the business of the town is done through co-operative societies, owned and managed by men who till the soil; when the financial institutions are designed to promote the agricultural industry; when the schools and churches have become strongholds of out-of-door ideals; when the town is content to be small and beautiful and comfortable; when the boys and girls of the farms come naturally to the town to share in its social pleasures, and not merely as visitors to see its sights; then the town will have been redeemed and the country will have come into its own.

Voice Of The People

IS LIFE WORTH LIVING?

In Peterboro, well, one does wonder these days when the poor working girls have to walk four times a day, and the street cars run with lots of room in them to sit down now if you get in long enough to have the conductor collect your fare and then off you go again for a little walk to straighten your limbs for the next car some blocks north or south. Then probably an older person gets in sight of the car in time to wave it farewell and it goes on leaving the poor old cuss behind who was just as smart as the conductor in their time. Talk about conveniences, well, if your legs allow you they are always at your best service, for how many times one pays their car fare to enjoy standing all the way; it would be too bad to put an extra car on a busy line even about five o'clock on a Saturday.

Now, about extensions: If the Street Railway Co. would extend more and tear up less one might get better service, but how many times the tracks have been changed when they should have spent that money in putting down more tracks in other directions.

God bless the East City people who have lived and died without the blessed cars they had so long looked forward to and how many others have gone to leave even the new Hunter street bridge behind them?

Now, who are the most popular men of our city? Why, the man who does not carry such a high head if he owns a car to pass a poor person belonging to the working class but gives them a lift to and fro and gladdens their heart on their way.

"ONE WHO TAKES NOTICE."

THE GUEST.

Soft knocking at my house of life
A stranger came to me.
My door unbarred, he entered in,
A welcome guest to be.

But soon 'twas I that was the guest
For me the feast was spread.
He whom I asked to sup with me
Became my Lord instead.

The rooms which I had held most dear
Kept for myself alone—
I laid the keys within his hand:
He made them all his own.

Would I then have have my treasure back
And bid him go away
Ah, Loving Lord, I only asked
Thou wilt forever stay.

AWAITS TRIAL ON 14 MURDER CHARGES

Said to Have Cremated Bodies of Victims in Kitchen Stove.

(Canadian Press)

PARIS, July 2.—Landru, the Gambais blue-beard as the police call him, who has been in La Sante prison for 14 months awaiting trial on murder charges growing out of the disappearance of 11 women to whom he is alleged to have promised marriage, received what he told his lawyer to be the greate' shock of his life a few days ago.

His lawyer had just informed him that his villa at Gambais where Landru is accused by the police of having done away with his numerous fiancees had been ransacked and pillaged by burgalrs. The villa is famous, as it was the last place that the missing women entered and from it they were never seen to come out.

The police charge that Landru murdered his victims in the villa, disposing of the bodies by cremating them in a little kitchen stove. Human bones, hair, and little trinkets belonging to the missing women were also found in the villa, the police say.

"What a world we live in," exclaimed Landru, when his lawyer broke the news to him. "Our generation respects nothing, nothing is sacred to them. It is enough to make one despair of the human race."

VIRTUOUS WIVES

By OWEN JOHNSON

PART III.

What is called fashionable society, or that portion of it which sets itself a steady task of dining, dressing, and dancing, is divided into two distinct groups: the debutantes of the first and second years, who are organized defensively against the married women; and the young married set, about which cluster the foolish virgins of the fifth and sixth seasons. Fifi Nordstrum was a social guerrilla, pursuing her predatory way through all sets. The young matrons feared her; the young debutantes imitated her with gushing admiration. She was in her twenty-seventh year, and her portrait and doings were as well known to the readers of Sunday supplements and fashion magazines as the best advertised actress. She had been reported engaged to three celebrities of the headlines—an Arctic explorer, a famous aviator, and the hero of the last international polo match. She knew every one of note from the opera and the stage, where she had the entree, to the latest dancer with whom she danced and the last cafe favorite who sang his songs to her. She was a dark North-of-Ireland type, without particular beauty except for deep blues eyes that were radiant with animation, and teeth of remarkable whiteness and regularity. Her body was straight and firm as an Indian's, her nose upturned, her mouth thin and wide. She spoke in a high, nervous voice. She walked without grace, and she dressed often with complete disdain for coquetry. But, for all that, she knew how to place a value upon herself in the eyes of men.

Her first movement, after embracing her cousin with the ardor of a young bear, was to start at Morley.

"Hullo! What's your name? Seen you before," she said, flinging her furs in the general direction of the maid.

"Morley, Miss Nordstrum: I was three years with Mrs. Challoner."

"Yes; I remember, you were with the Ice-maiden," said Fifi, who resented Mrs. Challoner's sculptural beauty. "Well, Morley, hang up my things in the hall, and don't listen at the door, for we want to be alone."

She dismissed the maid thus in the most natural way in the world, so that Morley, who patronized her mistress, went out laughing. Fifi installed herself by the gas log, drawing up her skirts to warm her legs, lit a cigarette, made a grimace, and flung it away.

"Well, tell me all about it. You beast, you might at least have waited till I got back from California! What made you marry him, anyway?"

"Couldn't help it," said Amy, laughing, and forgetting that a moment before she had asked herself the same question.

"That's no answer," said Fifi, looking round. "Who furnished the apartment? Hubby? Heavens, what a scramble!"

Amy burst out laughing, which was the only way to handle her, and brought out two photographs of Andrew, one on horseback, taken on their trip West, and another in football togs, a memento of his college days.

"I see—the cave-man idea," said Fifi, in the slang of the day. I like ugly men. He's nicer than I expected."

"Keep off!"

"Oh, that kind of man has no use for me."

"What do you mean?"

"Oh, no offense," said Fifi, throwing herself back in a chair and plucking out a cigarette which, this time, she continued to smoke with rapid, deep-taken breaths. "Business men are the only real type of Americans—if only they wouldn't be ashamed of it. The others are imitation, bad European imitation. They don't know how to play. They make love like sand crabs, and they bore you. How can they help boring you when they are bored to death themselves. If you've got nothing to do, you must have brains to do it. Well, if you don't treat Andrew decently, I shall come up and play with him myself."

Amy laughed and replaced the photographs. Fifi's appreciation seemed to make Andrew more real.

"And you?"

"I? I haven't even got my winter engagement. I shall fight the matrons again, I suppose," said Fifi, shrugging her shoulders. "However, I am getting ready for the season. I have joined a complexion party."

"Good heavens, what's that?"

"Helena Partridge is giving it. There are four of us, all freckled. You cover your face with a new cream and keep in a dark room for three days. I want Dolly to marry this season, so I am sacrificing myself." She broke off suddenly. "Are you sorry you are married? Have you seen any men since you've been back?"

Amy was afraid that her cousin would take her answer from the embarrassment on her face, so she hastened to say:

"Fifi, you are incorrigible! I'm terribly in love—more than ever."

Fifi looked unconvinced.

"Hurry up and dress. Andrew's a self-made man, isn't he? How do you like keeping house? Who's in town?"

"You're the first soul I've seen," said Amy, avoiding the previous questions.

"And the Old Guard?" said Fifi, opening her eyes. "Just because you're married, you're not going to live in a convent, are you?" She glanced admiringly at her cousin, who stood glowing with youth. "Really, Amy, you are too delicious to be married. Oh, you needn't blush, and you needn't say it. You're like all the rest, never going to look at another man. But you'll get over that quick enough. You've got a lot of hearts to break still. Mother will never forgive you. She had picked you out for a duke at least. Well, I want to see him. Telephone down to Andrew and tell him he can take us out for lunch."

"My dear Fifi," said Amy, with a touch of pride, "Andrew isn't lounging around a broker's office—"

"He's an important personage, of course," said Fifi, interrupting; "yes, yes."

"Besides, we are running down to the Dellabarre's this afternoon."

"To Irma? That body-snatcher!" said Fifi, in surprise. "Never mind; I dote on Irma. She's the one really clever woman I know. By the way just tell her for me that I've made up my mind to play with Monte Bracken this winter, and that she can keep off the reservation."

"I'll be sure to tell her nothing of the kind."

"Then I've a mind to throw the complexion and run over and do it myself," said Fifi, following her out to the elevator. "I'm only a hundred miles away. By the way, you'll probably find an old friend there."

"Who?"

"Tody Dawson," said Fifi, and then, as she saw the dismay on Amy's face, she added, with a laugh: "You innocent thing! Why, he's consoled long ago. He's already one of Irma's crocodiles. You don't know what that is? That's what Irma calls the languishing type of adorers—crocodile tears, you know. I'm crazy about Irma. If I were sure Monte would be there, I would come over and grab him. He's quite exciting—but too dangerous for you, my dear. So don't lose your pretty little head. Is this your car?" she said, examining a magnificent green limousine which was waiting and, without caring whether she was heard or not, she added, "The chauffeur, my dear, is very handsome."

Once inside the luxurious body, dainty as a jewel box, she nodded in appreciation.

"Good for Andrew!"

"We have a runabout, too," said Amy, with a sigh.

Fifi noticed the sigh. Little escaped her, and thinking of all the whirl of gaiety, of flattery, and of admiration that her beautiful cousin had renounced at the end of one season, she put out her hand and patted her shoulder.

"You poor dear!" she said sympathetically.

AMERICANS ARRIVE DAILY.

Biggest Tourist Season in Years Seems Assured.

The tourist and summer season is opening up at the local hotels, and daily Americans are arriving en route to our northern lakes and summer hotels. Many are motoring up, and cars with New York and other American licences are noticed on George Street every day. The number of tourists this year is expetted to surpass those of any previous record season, and this week and next week will see the opening up of the trade.

Mr. A. McNab, local agent of the G.T.R., said to-day that the Lakefield division was the busy end of their line, and people are flocking northwards in unprecedented numbers.

Much luggage and supplies are also going to the Lakes. Among the supplies, a certain amount of "wet goods," it is said, are included.

Tourists and summer cottagers will be able this year to enjoy liquid refreshment in other ways besides splashing around in the cooling waters and imbibing iced lemonade.

MOSCOW LOOKED LIKE BUSY, PROSPEROUS CITY

(Canadian Press)

LONDON, July 2.—An attempt to make Moscow look a busy and prosperous city during the visit to that city of the English Labor delegates is told by the Lettish Information Bureau, whose press bureau at Riga has a special correspondent attached to the peace delegation in Moscow.

"The various institutions in Soviet Russia had for a long time been busy in making preparations for the reception of the English Labor delegates in order to show to them Russia in attractive colors," says the correspondent. In Petrograd, where as a rule almost no people are to be seen in the streets, all the officials were ordered to take part in the reception. Theatrical representations and grandiose banquets were organized with the participation of actresses from the Marinski and Alexandrovski theatres. The delegates were taken to Moscow in a special train, accompanied by Tcherkess soldiers in bright uniforms.

In Moscow, the day before the arrival of the English delegates, all the papers published strict orders issued by the military and civil commissaries, setting out what everybody had to do and how to behave. On May 17 the tramway service in the city was suspended, all the cars being taken to the neighborhood of the Nikolasvski station, where gaily decorated, they moved to and fro, trying to convey to the visitors the idea of busy traffic.

In the station all the motor cars from Moscow were mobilized even the highest commissaries having to walk. On May 18 a parade was organized but no private persons were allowed to be present. This is the way the Bolshevists organized the tragi-comedy of the communistic paradise in order to deceive the English visitors as to the real state of Soviet Russia.

WILL ARREST POLICE CHIEF

WINDSOR, July 2.—Provincial police officers have left for Amherstburg to apprehend Chief of Police Hirons and three other men of that town, for whom warrants were sworn out by License Inspector Stone of South Essex.

Inspector Stone charges them with the alleged theft of a large quantity of liquor valued at several thousand dollars. The others involved in the case are Everett Trasher, John Disantell and Walter Goodchild. The trial will be held at Windsor.

Chief Hirons stated that with the exception of one case of whiskey, which was lost on the return trip to Windsor, all the missing liquor was taken away in a launch. He did not say who owned the boat, nor did he make any statement as to its destination.

Will Clean Up District.

License Inspector Stone has declared his intention of cleaning up the border district within his jurisdiction of rum runners and their activities and reiterating his intention of arresting a number of the men who participated in the gun battle on the old Indian burying ground, four miles out of Amherstburg, recently when two rival gangs of rum runners fought a pitched battle for two hours in the early dawn with a large cache of liquor as the prize of combat.

In Paris box seats for a gala opera performance for the benefit of the French prisoners in Russia sold for $1,000 apiece. Several Americans were among the purchasers.

CARRIAGE OF HAWKER'S AIRPLANE RECOVERED

Picked Up By Fishermen, Presented to St. John's Museum.

(Canadian Press)

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., July 2.—The undercarriage which Harry Hawker dropped from his airplane when he took flight from here a year ago on his pioneer attempt to cross the Atlantic without stop has been recovered, and presented to the Public Museum for keeping with other exhibits associated with the colony's history. The gift was made by W. B. Grieve, M.L.C., who purchased the carriage after fishermen had picked it up off Cape St. Mary's, 200 miles south southwest from the point where it was dropped into the sea.

When Hawker set out on his transoceanic attempt on May 18, 1919, he flew over the airdrome of Frederic P. Raynham, almost on the edge of the coast. Within sight of his rival, who was standing by his plane unable to take-off because of an adverse wind, Hawker cut loose his undercarriage as a gage to contest for the honors of the air, and to lighten his load; then winged away seaward with Ireland as his object. Raynham, accepting the challenge, sought to start notwithstanding the unfavorable conditions, but he was unable to leave the ground and his machine was wrecked, he was injured, and his navigator, Major C. W. F. Morgan, almost killed. Hawker, it will be recalled, flew 1,100 miles before engine trouble brought him down.

The undercarriage was actively sought by Hawker's agents and by others as a souvenir, but search of the coast and of nearby waters, long-continued, failed to disclose the wheels and their mount. Fishermen resently picked the carriage up off the coast, southwest of Cape Race, and brought it into Presque, where they disposed of it for a nominal sum.

LOSES "TIPPERARY" SUIT.

Court Rules Song Was Not Pirated from Miss Jay.

NEW YORK, July 2.—Supreme Court Justice Ford dismissed the suit of Miss Alice Smythe Burton Jay against Chappel & Co., publishers of the song, "Tipperary," for an accounting of the sales of the song on the ground that the authors pirated it from the "Booster Chorus" which she wrote for a church affair at Green River, Wash., in 1908. The court decided from the evidence that the authors of "Tipperary" were never in Seattle, as the plaintiff alleged, and also held that while the two compositions were strikingly similar in some features they were quite dissimilar in others.

Victor Herbert was one of the witnesses for the defendants, who testified that the compositions were not sufficiently alike to lead to the belief that one was pirated frim the other.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

ADDRESS ON THE PILGRIM FATHERS

REV. C. G. SMITH IN MURRAY STREET BAPTIST CHURCH.

The address of Rev. Charles G. Smith of Temple church, Montreal, on the "Pilgrim Fathers," delivered at Murray street Baptist church on Wednesday evening to a large and appreciative audience, was one of exceeding interest to all Baptists and theological students, inasmuch as this year the tercentennial of their landing at Plymouth will be observed. The scripture lesson from Ephesians 2 was read by Rev. W. E. Morrow of Park street Baptist church. "For by grace are ye saved through faith, and that not of yourselves; it is the gift of God." This the 8th verse, is the Scripture upon which the Pilgrim Fathers built their church. Rev. Webb in introducing the speaker, reminded them of the sacrifice Rev. Smith made to be present, and he also referred to the pleasure they should feel in having Rev. Morrow of Park street Baptist church at the meeting, as this was his first visit to their church. Mr. Joseph Wearing led in prayer.

In beginning his address the speaker referred to his long friendship with the Murray street pastor and his pleasant memories of former visits in Peterborough. He told of the formation of the society by Elder John Johnston, who was at first an English clergyman and curate near Norwich in the year 1600. He was a stranger to grace but was met by an unknown Baptist and in the faith he found joy and healing. No longer he said could he believe in certain things in the prayer-book and it was a conflict with him whether to choose the New Testament or the Prayer Book. He chose the former and was expelled from his church by the Bishop of Norwich. He preached as an itinerary minister for some years, suffering persecution on all sides and at last choosing between death and exile he went to Holland with his little band of followers and there they carried on in Amsterdam and other centres, making slow progress in their teaching. The need for a new land was seen and in the early months of 1620 a solemn league and covenant drawn up and a determination made to seek freedom and work out their salvation in the New World. After a trying sea voyage of 63 days they landed at Provincetown Bay, Cape Cod. Elder John Robinson never came, due to a slight disagreement with Elder John Smith, one of the leaders. Only one hundred and two persons were numbered among the first band. "The Pilgrim Fathers were Baptist Fathers," he said. In London in 1611 Robinson founded the first Baptist church. The object of both leaders was to have a free church, a free people and free education. In a half century the Pilgrim Fathers passed down into decay and out of their beginning has grown the Baptist church. Rev. Smith regretted that the Pilgrim were regarded by the public to-day from a materialistic standpoint more than from a religious, due probably, he said, to magazine articles by hack writers. The inventions that have come since then were odious comparisons and at the place of landing the cheap capitalization of the landing stone was a feature to be regretted. Why they were poor he said was because they preferred a life to a livelihood ,or as Williston Walker has said "the poverty of the Pilgrim Fathers has made all the generations rich." In conclusion he said that while they all couldn't put their foot on the Pilgrim's Rock this year they should plant their feet on the ground principles. The Pilgrim Fathers faced perils on every side, but we today are facing equally as great perils in the sin of the world. The address of Rev. Smith will be given in Walmer street Baptist church, Toronto, in the near future. Careful preparation is revealed in every word of the address, which is filled with historical facts, many references and quotations from famous pens, and those who listened to Rev. Smith last evening heard a lecture, the opportunity of hearing which comes only once in a long time to the citizens of Peterborough.

ABUNDANT HARVEST PROMISED ROUMANIA

(Canadian Press)

BUCHAREST, July 2.—Rumania's crops this year promise to be exceedingly abundant, provided no drought sets in. Nearly four-fifths of a corn crop has already been planted. The Government hopes to be in a position to export a large quantity of cereals this year. This is expected by Rumanians to bring up the present low value of the Rumanian franc which is about two cents. The Ministry of Industry and Commerce has entered into a contract with the Italian Government for the early delivery of 40,000 carloads of maize.

The farmers are much retarded in their work by reason of the scarcity of horses, draught, ozen and agricultural implements. None of the farming machinery carried off by the Germans has been replaced. Horses and ozen have been brought into the country from Hungary and Transylvania, but the number is inadequate. Much industry has been tied up by lack of tools, machinery and transportation. There is a fertile field in Rumania for American agricultural implements of all kinds.

The taking of the Government of all state and institutional lands and more than 4,000,000 acres of private holdings, for use by the peasants, is expected to have a stimulating influence on production. It is the first time in Rumania's history that the peasants have been given outright ownership of land. The exappropriation of large private estates by the Government did not please the proprietor classes, but it had a steadying influence on the temper and spirit of the people, who were showing distinct signs of unrest.

After all, you've got to give full, fair value. Or you won't last.

PERMANENT COURT UNDER LEAGUE PLAN

TWELVE DISTINGUISHED INTERNATIONAL JURISTS TO COMPOSE NEW ORGANIZATION.

(Canadian Press)

THE HAGUE, July 2.—The twelve distinguished international jurists, among them Elihu Root, of the United States, invited by the Executive ntroduce cards to show that the olders are bona fide church members.

Escape from church taxation is said to be the principal reason for the withdrawals. Every German citizen is assumed to be a member of the state church and is taxed for its upkeep. Formerly there were few withdrawals owing to the difficulties placed in the way of those wishing to do so and also to the social discredit that accompanied the act. But under a new law all a person has to do is to appear before a designated official and state his desire to give up his church membership. Thereafter he is exempt from the payment of church taxes.

Council of the League of Nations to plan the organization of the new Permanent Court of International Justice, constitute an impressing array of the world's most competent authorities on questions of international legislaion. Those who accepted the invitation gathered here in mid June to undertake the task. Those invited were:

Baron Descamps, Belgian Minister of States, Professor of International Law of Louvain University; member of the Permanent Court of Arbitration of the Hague, and Secretary-General, formerly president, of the Institute of International Law and writer on international questions.

M. Drago, formerly Foreign Minister of the Argentine Republic. While holding that office he sent to the Argentine Minister in Washington instructions known as the Drago Doctrine (1902). He was formerly a judge in Argentina; one of the arbitrators nominated by agreement between Great Britain and the United States in the North Atlantic Fisheries Arbiration. The Hague (1910); one of the Argentine delegates to the Second Peace Conference at The Hague and members of the Permanent Court of Arbitration of The Hague.

Professor Fadda, professor of Roman Law at Naples University.

M. Fromageot, legal adviser to the French Foreign Minister; member of the Permanent Court of Arbitration of The Hague, and delegate to the second Hague Peace Conference.

M. Gram, formerly a judge on the mixed tribunals in Egypt; former member of the Supreme Court of Norway; Minister of State at Stockholm before the severance of the union between Norway and Sweden; member of the Permanent Court of Arbitration at The Hague and member of the Institute of International Law.

Doctor Loder, member of the Cour de Cassation of the Netherlands.

Lord Phillimore, English Privy Councillor; a Lord Justice of Appeal (1913-1916); president of the International Law Association (1905-1908); author of publications on ecclesiastical and international law and "Three Centuries of Treaties of Peace and their Teaching" (1917); president of Committee of Inquiry appointed by the British Government on the subject of the League of Nations.

Elihu Root, former Secretary of State, United States; president of the American Society of International Law; member of the Permanent Court of Arbitration of The Hague, senior counsel for the United States in the North Atlantic Fisheries Arbitration at The Hague (1910); member of the Alaskan Boundary Tribunal and head of special United States Mission to Russia (1917).

M. Vesnitch, Ambassador Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of the Kingdom of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes at Paris.

Satsuo Akidiuki, formerly Japanese Ambassador to Vienna and one of the legal advisers of Japanese Peace Delegation in Paris.

Rafael Altamira, professor of law in Madrid University; Senator.

Clovis Bevilacqua, professor of law and legal adviser to the Minister of Foreign Affairs, Brazil.

In London very few new lesses are being granted now to tenants of flats, and a three-monthly basis is all that most of them are able to secure from the estate office.

Thousands of German Lutheran Members Withdraw Their Allegiance.

(Canadian Press)

BERLIN, July 2.—So great is the falling off in church membership here that the Berlin Synod of the German Lutheran Church has voted to take drastic measures against persons who withdraw. Reports read at a recent meeting of the synod showed that while in 1915 thee were only 25 defections, the number last year reached 5,287. As many women as men withdrew, most of them being young, and the majority members of the Social-Democratic party.

The synod resolved that all those withdrawing should be excluded from the privileges of the church, their children to be denied baptism and to receive confirmation instrution only on certain onditions. To make these measures effective the synod voted to

STORE OPENS 9 A.M. | The GRESSMAN Company Limited | CLOSES SATURDAY 9.30 P.M.

The First Saturday of the July Clearance Sale

A SALE SUCH AS THIS IS OF MUTUAL BENEFIT—WE CLEAR THE ODD LINES AND THE PURCHASER PAYS LITTLE PRICES

TO determine the age of a tree, "count the number of rings in the grain," some say. Just how they would tell you to arrive at the age of a store we can hardly guess. Maybe by counting the amount of old stock lying around. That might be a successful method with some stores but would be a failure if tested in this establishment.

There is little, if any, real old stock in this store. Ever since we have been established we have held Clearance Sales twice a year—January and July. They have always been real clearance events with genuine clearance prices that enabled us to dispose of our odds and ends after a season of busy selling.

This advertisement is the forerunner of the many JULY CLEARANCE SALE Prices that will be advertised during the month.

The Gressman Co. Ltd.

LETTER FROM MR. J. H. BURNHAM

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Sir,—Just one final word regarding the recent increase in the pay of Members of Parliament. The various deputations of members to the leaders asked for "a bonus" which means that when the H. C. L. had ceased to exist the members' pay would go back to where it was. This however, was rejected I understand because to bring the pay up to the $2500.00 it was before being brought down to $1200.00 by the H. C. L. would mean an increase not of $1500.00 but of over $2,500.00. If the present pay is worth less than half what it nominally is then $1500.00 the amount of the recent increase is only really half that amount or $750.00. So that your readers will se that with the recent increase added the whole amount of members' pay is now worth only $2,000.00 not $2,500.00 what it used to be. It requires, only a moment's thought to see that the farmer who demands more than double for his grain, etc, because of the high cost of labour etc., and the wage earner who demanded an increase because of the H.C.L. and the shoemerchant who sells boots by the eye-hole must expect others to ask for an increase. But to make assurance doubly sure I have sent to-day to the House of Commons notice that at the next session, I will move that the amount of members' increase shall be a bonus only and shall not be permanent. As this was the real intention of the members I know it will carry. I have also sent notice that I will move that the word bonus wherever it applies under recent legislation to pensioned soldiers and their dependents shall be struck out and the amount of increase remain permanent. As a last word let me say that Mr. Crerar, Mr. King and Mr. Robert Borden suggested what was in reality that we should slip past the next election first and then take the increase. They should have said 'the count'. Surely the members ought to get credit for rejecting such a proposal.

J. H. BURNHAM.

BIG SESSION POLICE COURT

JOHN BARLEYCORN CLAIMED A FEW HOLIDAY VICTIMS.

As a result of yeseerday's holiday this morning's police court did a land office business with a waiting list which included a variety of charges

The first case, that of a young man charged with vagrancy, was left over until Tuesday and the court turned to the consider ation of the case of Henry Hill who, having had his annual week's holidays, applied for another six months at the jail. In consideration of his age he was sentenced to six months, as usual.

Next appeared a citizen who was found last evening on Chambers street in the company of John Barleycorn. His holiday companion cost him $14.10.

A Harvey Township farmer was charged with a breach of the traffic regulations by overtaking and passing a standing street car. As no one was entering or leaving the car the magistrate was lenient and the accused was allowed to depart only $13.10 poorer than he entered.

A local man apeared in behalf of a St. Thomas friend charged with disobeying a traffic officer's signal. The case was dismissed.

ST. ANDREW'S SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC WAS ENJOYABLE EVENT

The picnic arranged by the teachers of St. Andrew's Sunday school to Chemong Park on Wednesday afternoon, was a most enjoyable affair.

The scholars and friends met at the church at 1:30 and proceeded by motor to the park.

The Committee on Transportation appreciate much the kindness and cooperation of those friends of the Sunday school who lent their motor cars and trucks, and to these they extend their hearty thanks for their assistance in making the picnic a big success.

After supper a programme of sports was held with Mr. F. E. Keer as official starter.

The following is the programme of the various races:

Boys under 7—1 Holy Mowry, 2 Ernie Bathgate, 3 Billy Miler.
Girls under 7—1 Marjory Long, 2 Helen Cole, 3 Doris Tremaine.
Boys 8 and 9—1 Archie Cocks, 2 Jack Wyllie, 3 Douglas Hamilton.
Girls 8 and 9—1 Florence Weiss, 2 Freda Herron, 3 Pat Clarke.
Boys 10 and 11—1 Walter Cox, 2 Pearson Mowry, 3 Elmer Mowry.
Girls 10 and 11—1 Dorothy Henry, 2 Ada McNamee, 3 Edna Josselin.
Girls 12 and 13—1 Effie Dick, 2 Florence Evans.
Girls 14 and over—1 Isabel Tremain, 2 Lena Hamilton, 3 Alice Cocks.
Boys 3-legged race—1 Elmer Mowry and Walter Cox.
Throwing ball—1 Lilian Green, 2 Lena Hamilton, 3, Isabel Tremain.
Lady teachers' race—1 Miss Hazel Eaton, 2 Mrs. Charles Thornton.
Fat men's race—1 Vernon Foster, 2 John Hill, 3 John A. McKone.

REDECORATED THE CUSTOMS HOUSE

Coleman Bros. will complete tomorrow the redecorating of the interior of the Customs House having finished the work in some two weeks time. The contract was between $500 and $1000 Mr. George Colgman said to-day. The walls and ceiling of both upstairs and down have been cleaned, repaired and papered in cream and white, the woodwork being painted in a darker contrasting colour. The contract throughout shows the skill precision and execution of the master painter and commendary remarks have been heard from all who have had occasion to visit the Customs House and see the transformation that has taken place. It was many years before the walls and ceiling ever felt a painter's brush and the appearance of the interior has been improved one hundred per cent. The employees of the Customs department are fairly revelling in their newly painted surroundings.

ORIGINAL SCRIPT OF TASSO'S WORK

First Copy "Jerusalem Delivered" Turned Over to Italians.

(Canadian Press)

VIENNA, July 2.—The original manuscript of Tasso's "Jerusalem Delivered" is among a vast quantity of art objects and other treasures just turned over to the Italians under the treaty terms. It is said to have been plunder of early wars.

Torquato Tasso, author of "Jerusalem Delivered," was a celebrated Italian poet of the latter part of the 16th century and a protege of Cardinal Luigi d'Este. The poem was published first at Venice and subsequently at Palma. It was translated into many languages.

Tasso became insane and for many years was kept in more or less seclusion but partly recovering was summoned by Pope Clement to Rome to be crowned as poet laureate but he died in that city in 1595 before the ceremony was performed.

DOCTOR AND NURSE TESTIFY TO PATIENTS' CURE BY HICKSON

OTTAWA WOMAN SUFFERING FROM PARALYSIS WALKS ACROSS DORMITORY.

OTTAWA, July 2.—An authentic case of healing as the result of laying-on of hands and prayer by Mr. James Moore Hickson, the Church of England lay healer, has come to light. It is testified to by the patient's physician and by nurses in the hospital where the healing occurred.

The person in which the healing has been effected is Miss Edith Lafontaine. She is a patient in St. Luke's Hospital. For four and a half years she has suffered from a form of paralysis, which has rendered useless her body from the waist downwards. When Mr. Hickson and Rev. Cannon A. H. Whalley of St. Alban's Church visited the hospital she occupied a cot in one of the wards. Mr. Hickson laid on his hands and offered the short prayer which is his custom in his healing ministry. Canon Whalley followed and blessed the young lady.

The next development is that the same night the nurse on duty reported that Miss Lafontaine was much improved. This morning her medical attendant, a well-known Ottawa practicioner, went to the ward to verify the report of the nurse. Miss Lafontaine walked the length of the dormitory in which she had lain so long.

The doctor who saw her walk stated that she had been an absolute cripple for four and a half years. She could not bear the weight of her body upon her limbs. Both feet were turned in. Tuesday night she was improved.

"She walked the length of the dormitory," he said. "She has straightened out one foot, and the other is straightening out, too." He added that he believed it would soon be normal like the other one.

CHOIR PICNIC WAS DELIGHTFUL

GEORGE STREET WENT TO GORE'S LANDING.

The good weather yesterday enticed many townspeople to leave the city behind for the day. Among the many parties doing this was the choir of George Street Methodist Church and friends, as guests, who recently assisted at the augmented choir concert.

The steamer Rainbow was chartered, and at 9.30 the jolly party proceeded, about eighty strong, to Gore's Landing, arriving in time for dinner which the good folks of Plainville Church had purveyed—tables being set out under the trees in the park near the wharf. The task of satisfying the appetites of the choristers was quite a big one—and the repast was certainly a top notcher. Everyone was delighted with the dinner, and voiced the feelings of the party to the purveyors.

Games were on the programme following dinner, with a football match, and racing among the various classes.

A pleasing element was the rendering of several hymns by the choir for the benefit of the Plainville folks—who seemed delighted with the idea.

The return trip was commenced about four o'clock, and on reaching Wallace Point a landing was effected, when tea and cake and sandwiches—provided by the ladies of the choir—was enjoyed by all. The neat touch of a few hymns on the grounds of the hotel was repeated here; with cheers for the donors for use of the grounds. This concluded the events here, and a delightful sail home brought the Rainbow, at 9.30, to George Street Wharf.

The committee in charge, Mr. W. Cunuingham, Miss Minnie Higgins, Mr. Leon Frazer, Mr. J. H. Renwick, the organist, and others, with the donors of the day's festivities, are to be thanked for their kindness, along with the captain and crew of the steamer. Ideal weather and other conditions all went to make the day memorable in the annals of the choir.

COAL FOR PETERBORO VIA LAKE AND RAIL

Mr. Robert Hicks Plans to Get Supply from Cobourg Port.

According to The Cobourg World, Mr. Robert Hicks, of this city, is looking forward to bringing in coal via boat to Cobourg and rail from there to Peterborough. It is understood that in this lake transportation plan Mr. Hicks is associated with Mr. George Greer, of Cobourg, who met the Harbor Committee, Tuesday, with a view to renting land at the harbor. Should this privilege be allowed it is the intention to erect sheds and arrange for the loading of cars with coal direct from schooners.

The committee will allow a trial cargo to be brought in for Peterborough at the rate of 5c per ton harbor toll, but 15c will be charged on all subsequent cargoes.

FLOATING ITALIAN FAIR.

Will Carry Samples of Products Italy Can Export.

(Canadian Press)

ROME, July 2.—A floating fair has been organized by the Italian Government and will visit Tunis, Algiers, Tangier, Lisbon, Barcelona, Marseilles and Genoa. It will carry samples of all the products Italy can export and will remain from four to seven days at each port. Orders will be despatched to producers by wireless, this enabling the buyers to receive an answer the same day.

If the undertaking is successful, as it is confidently expected, it will be, another floating fair will be sent to North America, another to Brazil, Uruguay and Argentina and a third one to Antilles, Venezuela, Peru and Chili.

SMALL CROWD WITNESSED THE PRESENTATION WAR TROPHIES

SPEECHES WERE MADE BY LEADINC CITIZENS—MAJOR M'PHERSON MADE THE PRESENTATION ON BEHALF OF MILITIA DEPARTMENT.

A much smaller crowd than was expected witnessed the formal presentation of the three captured German guns, Peterboro's quota of war trophies, in the Central Park, last evening.

It was fitting that the presentation of these tangible evidences of Peterboro's part in the Great War should have been made in the park from which a former mayor bade farewell to Peterboro's first volunteers of the 2nd Battalion, C.E.F., and on Canada's birthday.

Alderman H. Gainey, chairman of the Parks Committee, was the chairman of the meeting.

In the absence of Lt.-Col. E. B. Cleg, O.C., the 7th Regiment, the presentation was made by Major A. W. MacPherson, of the 57th Regiment, who spoke of Peterboro's magnificent war record, and stated that in point of volunteers in proportion to population, Peterboro was one of the leading Canadian cities. He alluded to the memories which these trophies would arouse and then on behalf of the Department of Militia and Defence, made the presentation.

Mayor McIntyre acepted them on behalf of the city and spoke at length of the meaning they would would have for future generations, and the city's remarkable war record, of which it should be proud. He dwelt upon the sacrifices made in the war, and the inspiration which these trophies should prove to be.

Following the playing of the National Anthem by the G.W.V.A. band, Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P. made an address in which he cast delicate sarcasm at the prohibitionists, and drew a comparison between the liquor referendum of last October and the methods used by the Germans in suppressing liberty. He further stated that 30 years from now the people of Canada would be in a slavery worse than German bondage as a result of the present tendency toward what he considered the curtailment of individual liberty.

Mr. Burnham was followed by Mr. Thomas Tooms, M.L.A., who briefly traced the history of the war, and pointed out some of the lessons to be derived from it. These guns, he believed, would serve as reminders of the sacrifices made in our defence, and would inspire us to a better citizenship.

Rev. Father Phelan next spoke. He drew a vivid picture of the 60,000 Canadians who lie in Flanders and appealed for a better and purer Canada, a fuller realization of the Supreme Power and the cooperation of all for the betterment of Canada.

Judge E. C. S. Huycke and Rev. F. E. Malott were to have spoken but were unavoidably absent.

The ceremony closed with a selection by the G.W.V.A. Band.

The guns are placed as follows:—The 150 mm. field gun at the south east corner of the park; the 75 mm. field gun (whizzbang") in the middle, and the 150 mm. howitzer, at the northeast corner.

BIG PROFITS MADE IN ANTHRACITE

EX-SECRETARY OF WAR LABOR BOARD TESTIFIES BEBEFORE COAL COMMISSION.

SCRANTON, Pa., July 2.—Charges of profiteering and monopolistic control in the anthracite coal industry were made before the anthracite coal commission by W. Jett Lauck, former secretary of the United States War Labor Board, and now consulting economist of the United Mine Workers of America.

Mr. Lauck appeared in hearings on the demands of the anthracite workers for wage increases that will bring their earnings to a level with those of the bituminous workers, with a minimum wage of $6 a day.

"A survey of the anthracite industry," said Mr. Lauck, "shows an increase in net profits of the principal operators for the period 1916-1918 over 1913-1914 of nearly 90 per cent. as compared with an increase in production during this period of less than 12 per cent.

"The net income earned by these companies on their capital stock outstanding during the period 1916-1918 ranged from 20.4 per cent. to 36.6 per cent., as compared with a net income in 1912-1914 ranging from 14.2 per cent. to 18.9 per cent.

"The actual increase in profits during the war years of the coal companies which market their own product is indicated by the income account of the Philadelphia and Reading Company. This company, which had no selling device for concealing its profits, increased its production only 12 per ent. during the war years, but increased its profits nearly 500 per cent. and its profits per ton of output 4[illegible] per cent."

"ASTONISHING," SAYS MRS. ALAIN

RID OF LONG STANDING TROUBLES BY TANLAC SHE WANTS TO HELP OTHERS.

"I am more than satisfied with the results I have obtained from Tanlac, and feel justified in giving you a good recommendation, for a medicine that relieves anyone of all the troubles that I had, cannot be praised too highly," said Mrs. Appolinaire Alain, of 190 Durocher street, Quebec, recently.

"For a whole year I was in a very run down condition, and suffered terribly with indigestion," she continued. "I did not dare to eat meat of any sort and I could not touch a thing but what it would lie heavy on my stomach and cause me severe pain. Then too, the gas that formed made my heart palpitate and caused me great distress. In the midst of my housework, I would be seized with spells of dizziness, and break out in a patch of perspiration. My nerves were fearfully excited, so that I would spend whole night's without a wink of sleep, and would get up next morning absolutely tired and worn out. At last I got so weak that I was downhearted and discouraged.

"I had tried so many medicines without getting any relief, that it was a long time before I could be persuaded to try Tanlac, but I am so thankful now that at last I consented to do so. It's effect was nothing short of astonishing. It quickly gave me a splendid appetite, and I soon found that I could digest anything that I fancied to eat, without fear of any trouble aftrwards. The gas has stopped forming on my stomach, and I no longer have palpitation of the heart. My nerves have quieted down and I sleep well every night now. When I get up in the mornings I just feel that it is good to be alive. Tanlac has made a wonderful change in my health, and I hope this treatment will help some one else back to strength and happiness."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd.; in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield, by the Tanner Drug Co., Ltd., in Fowler's Corners, by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert by A. J. Scott; in Westwood, by G. Pringle and Son.

BED BUG POISON

There are a great many different preparations to kill bed bugs. Some people use turpentine or carbolic acid, but the best remedy is a solution of corrosive sublimate in wood alcohol. This is the formula of Post's Bed Bug Poison and it seldom fails to destroy this pest. It is very poisonous and should be kept out of the reach of children.

Post's Bed Bug Poison is sold in 25c. and 50c. bottles at Lynch's Drug Store, 168 Hunter street.

U.S. COAL FAMINE CAN BE AVERTED

COMMISSIONERS SAY DEFICIT MAY BE MADE UP IN THREE MONTHS.

WASHINGTON, July 2. — The "deficit" of 35,000,000 tons in the American coal reserve should be made up in three months, if favorable conditions prevail. Interstate Commerce Commissioner Aitcheson said here.

Commissioner McChord backed this statement, declaring that the Interstate Commerce Commission orders giving priority to movement of open-top cars will prevent a winter coal famine, if the coal can be mined.

Aitcheson also outlined the steps the Commission is taking to enable the country to catch up with its coal demands, and to lay aside a reserve for the winter. This reserve was practically depicted during the mine and "outlaw" railroad strikes.

One result of the priority orders, Aitcheson said, is to give the miners every car that has been carrying non-essentials, such as automobiles.

Another result is practically to shut off exports of coal until the needs of this country are supplied.

The full effect of these priority orders would be apparent now if the unauthorized railroad strikes had not broken out anew and hindered car movements, Aitcheson said.

McChord pointed out that operators have said that high prices of bituminous coal are due to the car shortage. With every available car carrying coal, this claimed will no longer be valid, he declared.

The department of Justice has under way an investigation of its reports showing that bituminous coal is selling at from $7 to $11 a ton at the mine. A report issued by the Federal Trade Commission today shows that the cost of producing coal is $2.97 a ton.

SENATORS OBJECT TO JUDGES ACTING IN ARBITRATION CASES

Proudfoot Declares Other Court Work Delayed As Result.

OTTAWA, July 2.—During the Senate sitting here Senator Belcourt objected to practice of asking judges to sit on arbitration commissions.

He felt that no matter how fair or just might be their judgment there would always be a strong suspicion that some of the members of the commission had acted under some influence or other in arriving at their conclusion. Senator William Proudfoot, while not agreeing that the prestige of judges had suffered as a result of their sitting on commissions, stated that the Ontario situations now gave grounds for contending that judges should not be arbitrators.

Two judges were now sitting as arbitrators for the Ontario Government, and had been for three weeks. There was a vacancy on the bench, and another judge was ill. Consequently the ordinary duties of four judges were not being attended to. The court of appeal failed to sit from June 15 to the end of the month, and at the close of the sitting there were some 60 cases not disposed of, and these must stand over until September.

TWO GUNS FOR LINDSAY.

Lindsay has received from the Militia Department of the Dominion Government trophies of the great war in the shape of two captured German field guns. The Town Council, however, has decided to petition for two more guns if such concession be possible.

The guns already to hand are now at the freight sheds, and will be placed on Lindsay's armory site, to be held by the 45th Regiment in trust for the town.

SCIENCE PROVES THE DANGER OF BLEEDING GUMS

Medical science proves that unhealthy gums cause serious ailments. People suffering from Pyorrhea (a disease of the gums) often suffer from other ills, such as rheumatism, anaemia, nervous disorders, or weakened vital organs. These ills have been traced in many cases to the Pyorrhea germs which breed in pockets about the teeth.

Four out of five people over forty have Pyorrhea. It begins with tender and bleeding gums. Then the gums recede, the teeth decay, loosen and fall out, or must be extracted to rid the system of the infecting Pyorrhea germs.

Guard your health and your teeth. Keep Pyorrhea away. Visit your dentist often for tooth and gum inspection, and make daily use of Forhan's For the Gums.

Forhan's For the Gums will prevent Pyorrhea—or check its progress—if used in time, and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's will keep the gums firm and healthy, the teeth white and clean.

PETES BEAT BELLEVILLE TEAM 6 TO 5 IN A GREAT TWELVE INNINGS BATTLE

THE TWO TEAMS ARE NOW TIED FOR THE CENTRAL LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP WITH FIVE WINS AND ONE LOSS—ROSE OUTPITCHED GOYER IN ONE OF THE MOST EXCITING GAMES EVER SEEN HERE

HILLCRESTS BEATEN, TOO

PETES HAD ENOUGH LEFT AFTER THE LONG DRAWN OUT MORNING STRUGGLE TO BEAT TORONTO WESTERN CITY LEAGUERS BY 10 TO 9—GOT EARLY LEAD AND STAVED OFF VISITORS BELATED RUSH.

The Peterborough Central League team and 3,000 fans celebrated Dominion Day right royally at Riverside Park yesterday, the Petes triumphing over the Ontario champions of 1919 and 1918 by beating Belleville 6 to 5 in twelve innings in the Central League fixture in the morning and taking the afternoon exhibition pastime from Cannonball Ed. Scott and the Hillcrests of the Western City League, Toronto, by 10 to 9. It was a great day for the Solomon crew.

More thrills have never been crowded into a ball game on the local lot than were experienced in the morning game, which was a bitter scrap from the first ball pitched. The championship of the Central League and the right to play off for the Ontario title virtually depended upon the result, and with everything at stake the teams fought for every point and excitement was at fever heat from the first ball thrown by Lornie Rose until Max Swanston slapped a single over second base in the twelfth and sent Micky Murray, who had doubled a moment before, scampering across the plate with the run that meant Belleville and the Petes were fifty-fifty in the Central League race.

The only regrettable feature was the assault on Umpire Ed. Thomas, of Belleville, who was giving the decisions on the bases. Thomas' work, it must be said, was crude. The Petes got the worst of several bad decisions, and in the eighth, when Swanston threw to Murray, catching Smith a yard off third, Thomas called the runner safe.

Immediately a bunch of fans from the right field bleachers dashed out on the field, seized Thomas, and started to hustle him towards the river. Only quick work on the part of the police and the local players saved the arbitrator from a plunge into the Otonabee. They rescued him in time however, and the game went on.

Hap Harrison Makes Everything Look Easy Around First.

The incident was one that every true fan will regret. Admittedly the Thomas decisions were bad, but the crowd has no business on the field.

Manager Solomon selected Lornie Rose for the task of holding the League leaders in check, and he made no mistake in his choice, for Rose delivered a magnificent brand of pitching, going the twelve innings in great style. Of the eight well-scattered singles he allowed the visitors, several were scratchy, and the few errors made by the Petes were costly. Rose had nice control, only passing two men in the twelve innings, and he retired nine of the visitors by the strike out route. He was always cool and steady, and outpitched his famous rival Goyer.

The Belleville southpaw was out there with all the stuff in the world, striking out fifteen men and only allowing five hits, two of them bunched in the twelfth for the winning run, but he lacked one essential, control, and his wildness cost him the decision. Try as he might, he could not keep the ball away from the Peterborough batters, and seven times he hit the man at the plate. With three bases on balls added to the hit by pitcher record, Goyer put ten of the Petes on th runways, and five of the charities were converted into runs by the Petes, so that in spite of his unhittable slants and his row of strike outs Goyer really beat himself. The Petes did not get a hit off him until the fifth, but when the blow did come—a single from Harrison's bat—two runners, whom Goyer had hit, tangoed in with a brace of runs. And that was the way it went.

Both teams did some snappy fielding. Murray's bare-handed catch of Fred Goyer's near hit back of third resulting in a double play being a feature. Murray and Cherrett handled seventeen chances between them in great style, and Harrison covered first base like Hal Chase. The Belleville team also took care of their fielding opportunities in masterly style.

The Petes scored in the first on Carroll's hit by pitcher, his theft of second and third and an infield out. That one run looked as big as next year's rent until the fifth, when errors by Cherrett and Shaughnessy paved the way for three Belleville runs. Hap Harrison's timely single after Goyer had hit Cherrett and Murray in the Petes' half of the fifth put the homesters on even terms again. They forged ahead in the sixth when with the bases full and Murray at the plate, Umpire Kay sent Murray to first base because Mills interfered with him by touching his bat with his glove. That gave the Petes a one run lead, and they increased it to two by sacrificing Harrison home in the seventh. Belleville got one back in the eighth when Swanston left the plate unprotected to kick at a decision, and in the ninth the visitors tied it up. For the first two extra innings there was no scoring, and Belleville were blanked in the twelfth. Then Murray and Swanston decided the game had gone long enough, and Murray drove a long double over Smith's head in left. Swanston immediately lined a single over second and the game was over.

Two thousand fans saw the battle, and most of them are too hoarse today to talk. The excitement was at fever heat all the way, and Manager Tommy Figg, of the visitors, was so much infected by it that he got chased out of the game for crabbing.

First Innings.

Belleville—Ross lined to Harrison. Rose tossed out Frank Goyer and Casey.

Peterborough — Cherrett fanned. Carroll was hit and stole second. Murray purloined second on the next ball. Carroll then stole third. Swanston cracked one to Fred Goyer, who got him at first. Carroll scoring. Harrison missed three. One run.

Second Innings.

Belleville—Cherrett disposed of W. Mills and Weir on rollers to short. H. Mills grounded to Holyman.

The fans are all hoarse to-day. Yesterday morning's game did the trick.

Peterborough — Shaughnessy, Corrin, and Holyman fanned.

Third Innings.

Belleville — Kelleher struck out. Symons beat out a hit to Harrison. Murray made a one-handed catch of Goyer's fly to third and doubled Symons off first. One hit.

Peterborough—Rose was hit. Cherrett sacrificed. Carroll was safe on Weir's fumble. Rose going to third. Carroll stole second. Murray and Swanston struck out. One error.

Fourth Innings.

Belleville—Rose tossed out Ross. Frank Goyer fanned. Casey popped to Cherrett.

Peterborough — Harrison rolled to Frank Goyer. Shaughnessy was hit and Corrin drew a pass. Holyman hit to Weir, forcing Shaughnessy at third. Rose grounded to Weir.

Fifth Innings.

Belleville—W. Mills was safe on Cherrett's fumble. Weir singled between short and third, and when Shaughnessy let the ball roll throughs, Mills scored and Weir pulled up on second. H. Mills walked and the pair stole on a short passed ball. Meagher batting for Kelleher laid down a perfect bunt and was safe at first. Weir scoring. Meagher died stealing, Swanston to Holyman. H. Mills scored on a wild pitch by Rose. Symons and Goyer fanned. Three runs, two hits, two errors.

Peterborough—Cherrett was hit in the neck with a pitched ball, and after a delay took his place on first. Carroll fanned. Murray was hit, Swanston bunted and was called out at first, although Mills was off the bag. Harrison came through with a timely single to left, scoring Cherrett and Murray and taking second on the throw to the plate. Pearson, batting for Thompson, rolled to H. Mills. Two runs, one hit.

Sixth Innings.

Belleville—Ross fanned. Frank Goyer hoisted one to Harrison. Casey flied to Cherrett.

Peterborough — Corrin fanned. Holyman walked and went to second on a balk. Rose was safe on Frank Goyer's fumble. Cherrett was safe on a neat bunt, filling the bases. Carroll fanned. Murray was sent to first base for interference by Catcher Mills, Holyman scoring. Weir nailed Swanston's fly. One run, one hit, one error.

Seventh Innings.

Belleville.—W. Mills flied to Pearson. Corrin was under Weir's fly to right. H. Mills missed three.

Peterborough— Harrison was hit. Pearson sacrificed. Meagher to H. Mills, Harrison to third. Corrin bunted past the box and was out at first, Harrison scoring. Holyman struck out. One run.

Eighth Innings.

Belleville—Meagher was thrown out by Cherrett. Smith, batting for Symons, was safe on Murray's fumble. Goyer singled to right, sending Smith to third and taking second on the throw to the hot corner. Swanston threw to Murray to catch Smith and had the runner a yard, but Umpire Thomas called him safe. There was a wild scene for a few moments. Swanston ran out to protest the decision and Smith romped home with the plate unguarded. Murray, however, tagged Goyer between second and third. Meanwhile a bunch of fans invaded the field and carried Umpire Thomas towards the river, the interference of the police and the Peterborough players averting a ducking for the base umps. When play was resumed Rose fanned Ross for the third out. One run, one hit, one error.

Peterborough — Rose singled to right, but was caught off first. Cherrett struck out. Carroll flied to centre. One hit.

Ninth Innings.

Belleville—Frank Goyer singled to right. Casey shot a swinging bunt past Murray. W. Mills grounded to Cherrett, who got Goyer at third. Weir singled to left, scoring Casey, and sending W. Mills to third. Carroll's throw to the plate would have nailed Casey, but Rose intercepted the peg and everybody was safe. Swanston picked Mills off third on a perfect throw, nicely handled by Murray. Murray tossed out H. Mills. One run, three hits.

Peterborough— Murray rolled to Frank Goyer. Swanston popped to H. Mills. Ross grabbed Harrison's long fly to deep centre.

Tenth Innings.

Belleville—Meagher walked and was sacrificed to second and third by Smith and Fred Goyer, but Ross popped to Murray.

Peterborough—Pearson was safe on Frank Goyer's bad throw. Corrin fanned. Pearson died stealing, Mills to Fred Goyer. Holyman struck out. One error.

Eleventh Innings.

Belleville— Frank Goyer rolled to Holyman. Casey fanned. W. Mills drew a pass. Rose threw out Weir. Peterborough—Rose grounded to H. Mills. Cherrett fanned. Carroll was hit but died stealing.

Twelfth Innings.

Belleville — H. Mills singled past first. Meagher struck out and Mills was doubled at second. Swanston to Cherrett. Murray tossed out Smith.

Peterborough—Murray doubled to left. Swanston singled over second, scoring Murray with the winning run. Two hits.

Mick Murray's double in the twelfth paved the way for the winning run.

THE AFTERNOON GAME.

The Petes were so tired after the long, exciting game in the morning that sending them out in the afternoon to battle with the Hillcrests, leaders of the Toronto Western City League, looked like cruelty. However, Manager Solomon called on the reserves as much as possible, and the Petes turned the trick by 10 runs to 9, thanks to the big lead they set up early in the game. They wilted badly on end and Hillcrests made it close, but the home crew had enough left to stave off the final rush, winning by one run after being ahead 8 to 0 at one stage of the proceedings.

As a ball game it did not compare with the morning fixture. The Petes fielded brilliantly in the early stages, but most of them were all in, and they fell to pieces in the last few innings, errors and dumb fielding, coupled with a few timely hits, giving the Hillcrests six runs in the eight and making a close finish of what appeared early in the struggle as a runaway game. The Hillcrests had their full team in action, supplemented by Sammy Trotsky, the hard hitting third baseman of the Juneans, and his addition to the line-up gave Manager Nip. Divan's crew the same batting order practically as won the Ontario championship two years ago. Crocker was missing from the outfield and Nicholson, the second baseman of the 1918 champs, was on the bench, but the rest of the line-up was the same as two seasons ago. The Willowvale Park outfit, however, failed to play championship ball, their fielding being sloppy, while Cannonball Scott, whom the Petes beat three times last year, had to once more admit defeat at the hands of the Solomon crew. They nipped the big fellow for ten runs in the six innings he worked, and he was glad to quit when an accident to Catcher Hennessey, who was hit by a foul ball and had to retire, made it necessary for Scott to go to first base, Spanton moving in behind the bat and Lynn taking Scott's place on the rubber.

Hap Harrison did the heaving for the Petes, and until the eighth had the visitors well in check. In that session the Petes blew up completely. Two flies to left that Jackson did not see in time to reach went for hits, and so did a pop fly in the infield that Kirn chased nearly to second and then allowed to drop without trying for. Morse muffed a fly in the outfield, and a couple of other boots added to Harrison's troubles, as the Hillcrests put in a couple of solid hits where they would do the most harm. As a result the visitors got six runs, where a couple at the worst were all that they should have registered. "Hap" was very tired on end, but he showed the old fighting spirit by fanning Scott, a dangerous hitter, for the third out in the ninth with Hillcrest runners on second and third ready to score.

Bob Ross did the catching and made a nice job of it, handling Harrison's slants in good style, throwing nicely to second and grabbing on a couple of foul flies.

Although the error column was well loaded, there was some fine fielding just the same. Walter Jackson tore off a pretty running catch in the first. Cherrett pulled down Spanton's liner with one hand and got a double play unassisted, and "Unc" Allward, the Hillcrest centre fielder, made a fine grab of a liner to short centre from Harrison's bat.

Manager Solomon threw fourteen men into the game, and altogether during the day seventeen Peterborough players got their names in the box score, which shows what a wealth of good material there is in the city.

Cherrett was beaned with one of Goyer's fast ones in the fifth.

LEROY SCOTT'S GREATEST NOVEL BECOMES MASTERPIECE IN PHOTOPLAY PRODUCTION

"A Daughter of Two Worlds" Provides Entertainment of Strong Interest for Friday Movie Fans.

The motion picture, "A Daughter of Two Worlds," starring Norma Talmadge, which will be seen at the Allen Theatre, is an adaptation of the novel of the same name by Le Scott, one of the highest priced and foremost authors of the country. One of his works, "Mary Regan," was recently picturized with Anita Stewart as the star and made a hit with the movie fans.

A Dramatist of Actions.

His stories seem well suited to the screen although the cinema version of "A Daughter of Two Worlds" departs in some respects from the original. In the main however it follows the general plot, taking the heroine Jennie, pretty daughter of Black Jerry Malone, the one wholesome character of his underworld dance hall, through the bottom and top of life.

Jennie, whose part is taken by Miss Talmadge, lives in two worlds. She emerges from the slums to enter society under an assumed name after being spirited away to a fashionable boarding school to escape jail on a charge of forgery, a crime that she did not commit.

In her new environment she meets the man of her heart, but when the life of a friend of the other world, wrongly accused of murder, depends solely upon her, Jenie is forced to decide whether she shall continue living a lie, with the alternative of losing everything that she holds dear.

The charitable man is kind to the weak and the wise man is courteous to the strong.

Billy Mills, the Belleville catcher, was umpire-in-chief and made a fine job of it, while Edgar Lebarr called the decisions on the bases and there was no kicking on the way he called them.

Neither team scored in the first, although Hillcrests made a great start when Michie, first up, walked, and Turofsky singled .Harrison, howevr, struck out Allward, Jackson made a great catch of Hyndman's fly to left and Eagan missed three.

The Petes broke into the run column with a vengeance in the second. Ross walked. Kirn rolled to Turofsky who balled up the play. Holyman bunted for a sacrifice, but Scott missed the roller, everyone being safe. McCarney hit to Garnett, who threw to third too late to get Kirn, and Ross scored. Jackson fanned. With the bases full, Cherrett singled to left, scoring Kirn and Holyman, and when Hennessey let Michie's throw get away, McCarney also scored and Cheirett went to third. Adams singled to left, sending Cherrett home. Murray fanned and Harrison bounced one to Scott. Five runs.

Peterborough gathered three more in the third. Ross opened with a single to right and Kirn walked. Holyman fanned, but McCarney bunted safely. Turofsky's wild throw on this play sent Ross in. Jackson bunted to Turofsky and was out at first, Kirn scoring. Cherrett bunted safely, scoring McCarney. Cherrett was caught off first. Scott to Spanton.

Hillcrests got their first run in the fourh. Hydman singled to centre, reached second when Cherrett dropped a perfect throw from Ross to stop him stealing, and scored on Eagan's double to left. Cherrett pulled down Spanton's liner with his gloved hand and completed an unassisted double play by touching second before Eagan could get back.

In the fifth, with two out, Scott's double to left and Kirn's miss of Michie's grass cutter, gave Hillcrests their second.

Peterborough got three in the sixth. Jackson started with a single to left. Cherrett sacrificed. A missed third strike on Morse, a wild pitch and Eagan's miss of Harrison's grounder sent two over.

In the first of the seventh, Kirn's fumble of Hennessey's grounder, the Hillcrest catcher's theft of second, and Scott's double to right, gave the Toronto crew another counter.

Kirn was the first Peterborough batter up in the seventh. While he was at bat a foul tip struck Hennessey, injuring the visiting catcher so badly that he had to be removed from the game, Spanton going behind the bat and Scott to first base, while Lynn was sent to the firing line.

The new pitcher held Peterborough safe for the balance of the game, while Hillcrests came through with a rally in the eighth, assisted by some dumb playing on the part of the Pets, that gave them six runs and nearly sewed up the game. Kirn started the trouble by missing Harrison's throw from Allward's grounder along the first base line. Allward stole second. Hyndman hit to Cherrett, who held Allward at second and then nailed the batter at first. Eagan singled to left, taking second on the throw to get Allward at third. Jackson did not start after the ball until to late to reach it. Spanton walked, filling the bases. Garnet singled to left, scoring Allward and Eagan. Scott struck out, but singles by Michie and Turofsky, the latter's a pop fly that was allowed to drop safe in the infield, and Morse's muff of Allward's fly to centre, sent four more runs over the counting station. Harrison finally stoped the rungetting by fanning Hyndman, leaving the score 10-9.

Hill crests had a chance to win out in the ninth. With one gone Spanton walked. Garnett flied to Harrison. Lynn drove a fly to right, which Lowe dropped and there were enemy pickets on second and third, with Scott up. The bi gpitcher had had two doubles, but th is time Harrison blew three strikes by him and the long drawn out game was over.

A FEW NOTTES.

Some game yesterday morning and some crowd.

Murray and Swanston are a winning pair to push over the decisive tally in the final session. Oshawa and Belleville both know it.

3,000 people saw the two games. There were 1800 paid admissions at the morning game.

TThe Petes have won five straight games in the Central League, Rose pitching three victories, Harrison one and Kirn one.

The next game is on July 12th, when Cobourg pla yhere. Then the Petes go to Lindsay for a battle with the Grey Birds.

One run victories are getting popular with the Solomon gang. Their last three wins have been by the narrow margin and two of them were won in the last innings.

Umpire Alex. Kay was the busiest man in Eastern Ontario yesterday. After being on duty three hours here in the morning game, he got outside of a sandwich and left immediately for Port Hope, where he officiated at the Port, Hope-Oshawa game in the afternoon.

Cherrett had a busy day at shortstop yesterday, having seventeen chances in the two games.

Yesterday's loss was the first that Scot thas experienced this season.

DOUBLE HEADER IN CITY LEAGUE

There will be a double header in the City League series to-morrow. The G.W.V.A. and Canadian Woollens team meet at 2 o'clock and the Thistles and the C.G.E. clashing in the second session.

Both games should be good battles. The Woollens with a victory over the Thistles to their credit, are out to make it two straight while the Vets are strengthened by the signing of Carroll and Pearson both of whom will be in action to-morrow.

The following Vets are asked to be on hand at 1:30 o'clock: Morse, Wade, Murphy, Rose, Pearson, Carroll, Campbell, Legon, Jackson, Field, Anderson, Foley.

In the second game the Thistles and the C.G.E. ought to put up a battle royal with Kirn pitching for the Thistles and Frost for the Electricians.

IMPORTS AMERICAN TEAM.

Gananoque has imported a baseball team from Buffalo and will play the fast teams from Northern New York State. The imports from Buffalo are not better players than our own Ontario champions, the G.T.R. team, says the Belleville Intelligencer, but the Gananoque business men cheerfully go $1,000 each, and provide a first class playing ground, assisted by the town council, to put Gananoque on the sporting map.

Why don't you answer your friend's letter at once? It will have double value if written promptly, and will take no more time now than by and by.

GUNNERS LOST TWO MORE POINTS

VETS FULL TEAM TURNED OUT BUT ONLY A FEW GUNNERS APPEARED.

A large crowd of spectators were disappointed on Wednesday evening at the return league fixture of the Football Association when the Machine Gunners should have played the Great War Veterans at the Exhibition Grounds. The only players of the Machine Gunners who made an appearance were R. G. McLeish, E. Bell, R. A. Metcalfe and Bill Hitchen from Havelock.

After waiting for a while Referee Alex. McKinley started the game and immediately the Vets went down the field to score according to the rule, so as to claim the two points.

To entertain the spectators present the War Vets played against the Gunners present along with a number of enthusiasts who were anxious to have a game.

The cause of the disappointment was brought about through a few members of the team not turning up two weeks ago when the Gunners defeated them 5 goals to 4 goals. The rest of the players who hailed from Warsaw, had forfeited many valuable hours to play the previous games but they claim that when the same was applied to some of the others they did not turn up and gave up the ghost.

Last Saturday the same treatment was handed out to the Caledonians, who also received two points on the failure of the Gunners' non-apearance.

LOCAL FOOTBALL GOSSIP

FOOTBALL EXECUTIVE MEETING TO-NIGHT—OTHER ITEMS OF INTEREST.

The Football Executive will meet tonight in Mr. Fred Sutcliffe's Barber Shop, Charlotte street at 7.30 prompt.

The two teams now heading the League are the C.G.E. and Great War Veterans who have 14 points apiece They will play a sudden death game at the Exhibition Grounds on a date selected by the Football Executive.

In the Exhibition game played at the Exhibition Grounds between the Caledonians and G. W. V.A. on Monday evening last, Dunkley, the outside right of Caledonians received a very serious injury to his leg. The doctor says he will require a great amount of rest. Many of the Football Fans will wish him a quick recovery.

Many of the Football enthusiasts were giving Bill Hitchens of Havelock the rudiments of the game. He was right there with a great salutation. He recalled the day of the old Quakers of 1907 and is busy training the Boys of the High School in Havelock the rudimenes of the game. He is certainly a great coach

Bestard of the C.G.E. has returned to join and was in the team that was opposing the Vets on Wednesday evening. He was playing outside left not left outside—as Mortimer would say.

Wilfred Jones of the De Laval will not play for the Separators any more because he has changed his place of employment to Brinton Carpet Works therefore the prominent goal keeper will seek new quarters in the Fall. Who will get him?

To-morrow afternoon at University of Toronto Stadium the Wyllis-Overland of Toronto anud Westinghouse, of Hamilton will play the Ontario Final for the Connaught Cup. The Association in Toronto are anticipating a record crowd.

WORTH ADOPTING HERE.

Signs In American Cities Indicate Approach to Schools.

In connection with the campaign of the Ontario Safety League against avoidable accidents, visitors to the United States have noticed that in several of the American cities large signs are placed at the side of streets leading to schools which read: '300 feet to school house—drive slowly." On some of these signs are placed glass prisms to reflect the light. These have proved invaluable in minimizng the number of accidents occurring near schools and might prove worthy of consideration by other municipalities.

GRANDMA NEVER LET HER HAIR GET GRAY

She Kept Her Locks Dark and Glossy, with Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is mussy and troublesome. At little cost you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger.

TWO FAMILIES HOMELESS AS RESULT OF A FIRE IN HUNTER STREET BUILDING

TWO OCCUPANTS OF BUILDING HAD A NARROW ESCAPE— THE FIRE WAS EASILY EXTINGUISHED.

Fire breaking out at 9.10 on Wednesday night in the back kitchen of the residence of Charles Matthews, on the corner of Hunter and Sheridan Streets, gutted the interior of the house and caused damage to the building, estimated at several hundred dollars, and considerably larger damage to the furniture of Mr. Matthews and Mrs. Mary Murphy, the other occupant who lives at the western half of the double house.

The building is owned by the Chamberlen Estate, and is fully covered by insurance, but the unfortunate victims of the fire carried no insurance whatever on their goods.

Mr. Matthews' and Mrs. Murphy's quarters are on the second floor, and his entrance opens out on to Sheriday Street and hers on to Hunter Street. Below is the Lavoie Knitting Co.'s empty rooms and Frank Barber's office. These adjoining quarters escaped the fire, being protected by the heavy floor above.

Charles Matthews' two little boys, aged eight and eleven, were sick in bed with measles. They were up on the third floor of the building when the fire started. The smoke pouring out the back of the house was noticed about five minutes past nine by John Francis, who lives next door at 413 Sheridan Street, and who was reading on the verandah. Knowing the Matthews children were sick upstairs, and grasping the situation at once, he and his son William rushed into the house. The stairway was filled with heavy black smoke. From the floor above the cries of the children could be heard, and without heeding their own safety father and son rescued the little boys and took them into their home. The children were deathly sick, and if Francis and his son had not noticed the fire so quickly and acted on the spur of the moment, the little boys might have been burned to death.

Ernest Francis rang in the alarm from box 22, and simultaneously Mr. Longo, who lives across the road on Hunter Street, telephoned the Fire Hall. Confusion in the alarms evidently existed somewhere, and by the time the firemen arrived the fire had a death grip on the building, and in spite of the water poured on from three lines of hose, it swept the interior of the second and third storeys. In half an hour the fire was out, but at 5.30 on Thursday morning it broke out again in the back shed of the building. By a miracle the outbreak was seen by Mr. Francis, and the station notified. It was quickly put out with chemicals.

Matthews is employed at the Lock Works, and has lived in the house for about six months. Five months ago his wife died, and since then he has kept a housekeeper from time to time. The last girl who undertook to fill the bill was a Pearl Preeston, from New Ontario. Her ways did not please Mr. Matthews, and when the girl announced she was leaving he was not displeased. She left on the 5.30 on Wednesday for home, and it is alleged left a hot iron on the floor. Whether this was done maliciously or was simply a slip of the mind has not been determined, but it is believed to have burned slowly and started the fire.

Mr. Matthews did not get home from work until 7.30, and about eight o'clock he went out to pay the rent. When he came in from work he thought he smelt smoke, but did not discover the fire.

Mrs. Mary Murphy, her husband (who is incapacitated from wounds received in the South African War, and has been sick considerably), and their five children live in the western half of the house. They also suffered heavily, with not a cent of insurance to cover the damage. Mr. Murphy was almost trapped in the fire, for he did not smell the smoke until it was well under way.

The loss or serious damage of the best of their household effects, representing the toil of years and all they had, has left Mrs. Murphy distracted. She was down town at the time of the fire, having only left the house at 8.55. Everything was apparently all right, and when the alarm rang she believed it was the Quaker Oats. She ran towards home, but to her dismay found her own home enveloped in flames. She had lived in the house four years, and now she is at her wits' end to know how to care for her children. Her husband and two girls are staying with Mrs. Guerin on London Street, and she and her three little boys are staying with Mrs. Peter Scott, Hunter Street.

OSHAWA DEFEATED THE SHAMROCKS OF TORONTO

AND PETERBORO'S LACROSSE TEAM HAS TWICE WON FROM OSHAWA.

With only George Mein of the regular defense and with several absentees in the home field the Peterboro lacrosse team lost to Hastings yesterday afternoon by the score of 5 to 4. Because of the late hour in starting the game only three periods were played. Hastings were much stronger than when they appeared in Peterboro. Several Norwood men and one or two others filled out their team and Stubby Scriver, McConnell and the rest put up a fast hard game for the big crowd of visitors to the Trent town's Dominion Day celebratiin. It was clean throughout and a friendly spirit prevailed. Hastings will play here on July 12th at Exhibition Park.

Oshawa Won.

Oshawa's victory over Shamrocks of Toronto yesterday four goals to twi in an overtime game affords an indication of Peterboro's comparative standing in the Intermediate O.A.L.A. Peterboro has twice defeated Oshawa, who it is said have been developing rapidly. Oshawa on the other hand have tied ane game with Toronto Maitlands and have the holiday win from Shamrocks to their credit.

All this is decidedl yencouraging to the promoters of the local team, who are confident that with regular practices and backed by the interest and support of the public they can make a big bid for the O.A.L.A. intermediate championship. Several of the Hastings cam are eagtr to sign up with Peterboro and according to the regulations there is nothing to prevent them. There is plenty of material here and most of the lacrosse players have been attending practices regularly, but there are other valuable men who should be persuaded to turn out with the team now while the other districts are being decided. If "Browning" and "Lazure" who played several periods in the Oshawa game here were added to the line up and could get away for the important games there would be no doubt Peterboro's chances. Dr. Sutton, Johnnie Sutherland and the other supporters need more co-operation from lovers of the game in this critical summer of its come back.

C.P.R. EMPLOYEES WERE REINSTATED

TORONTO, July 2.—Every C.P.R. employee enlisting for war service was told that "his job would be waiting for him when he came back." Up to June authenticated statistics show that 11,018 C. P. R. men joined the forces. Of these 1,096 were killed in action or died of wounds, etc., while 2,084 were incapicated by wounds leaving 7,838 presumably available for re-engagement in the Company's services. Some of these however reenlisted in the permanent forces; others chose to remain in England or formed other business connections. The remainder, 6,014, are all again working for the company. In addition to thus re-absorbing its own manpower contribution to the war's requirements, the Company since the signing of the armistice has found employment for 10,726 other returned Canadian soldiers not previously on its payroll and now musters in all 17,640 war veterans—almost sufficient to form a complete army division of four brigades. All lines of the Canadian national railways system gave up 5,000 odd employees for the war, of whom approximately 500 have been re established.

MURDERER'S PROPERTY GIVEN TO VICTIM'S HEIRS

REGINA, July 2.—For the first time in the history of the courts of Saskatchewan a ratification of settlement has been made by a judge of the court of King's Bench, which give the proceeds of the property of a murderer to the heirs and assigns of the murderer's victim. In April, 1918, Pierre Guilloux shot and killed Jean Marie Buorhis and his father. He was sentenced to hang October 1, 1918, but the sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

THE LINE OF BEAUTY.

Shrill pipings now and then I hear—
The Swallow never sings;
I watch him write upon the air
Sweet poems with his wings—
A rondeau here, a roundel there.
With a sure rime that rings.

Rescuring rhythm, graceful curve.
Describes he from the ground,
And suddenly you see him swerve
To bring his line around—
The line that Rodin loves to carve
And Wagner strove to sound.

WEDDING BELLS

MURRAY—YOUNG.
At St. Paul's Church Manse, this city, at three o'clock on Wednesday, 30th June, Miss Jane Young, eldest daughter om Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Young, of Monaghan, was mited in marriage to Mr. Owen Angus Murray, of the same township. Rev. Robert Pogue officiated. The happy couple were attended by Miss Ruby Young, sister of the bride, and Mr. Walter Bowles. Mr. and Mrs. Murray left on the 3.30 C.P.R. train for a trip to Western points. On their return they will reside on the groom's farm in Monaghan.

REVOY—FLEMING.
On Wednesday afternoon, 30th June, at 4.30 o'clock, in St. Paul's Church Manse, by the Rev. Robert Pogue, Miss Jessie May Fleming and Mr. Frederick Roy Revoy, both of Peterborough, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. Theve were attended by Miss Lottie Saxby and Mr. John C. Dormer. On their return from a wedding trip West, Mr. and Mrs. Revoy will reside in Peterborough.

PHELAN—PERRY.
A very prettywedding was solemnised on Tuesday morning at eight o'clock, at St. Ann's Roman Catholic Church, Toronto, by Rev. Father Pennylegion, when Agnes Florence, second daughter of Sylvester George Perry, was united in marriage to Daniel Phelan, formerly of Peterborough. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked very dainty in her gown of white satin, with overdress of white georgette with silver trimmings and veil of tulle, with wreath of orange blossoms, and carrying a shower bouquet. The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Lena Anderson, who looked very pretty in orchid shade organdie, carrying a bouquet of sunset roses. Mr. Patrick Phelan, brother of the groom, acted as best man. After a reception at the bride's parents, and showers of joy and happiness, the happy couple left for a short honeymoon, and on their return will reside in Detroit.

CLARKE—GRAY.
The wedding took place quietly on Wednesday, June 30th, 1920, of Muriel Leta Gray, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Gray, Gilchrist street, city, to Mr. F. T. Clarke, city. The latter served nearly five years overseas. Rev. James Rollins officiated. The bride looked charming in a blue georgette crepe dress and carried a bouquet of roses and carnations. The bridesmaid was Miss Olive Foster. She was dressed in a blue crepe de chine. The groom was supported by Mr. Walter James. The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful hand-painted berry set and to the bridesmaid a pretty maple leaf brooch. The bride received many presents of Old Colony silverware and other useful and costly gifts, showing the esteem in which the bride was held. After the wedding a dinner was served and the young couple left on the 3.20 train amid a shower of confetti and good wishes for Toronto and Niagara. On their return they will reside in the city.

VIVIAN—CHILES.
A quiet wedding took place at the home of Mrs. R. Chiles, Havelock, on 30th June, when her youngest daughter, Charlotte Theodora Chiles, A.T.C.M., was united in marriage to Mr. John C. Vivian, of Mitchell, the wedding ceremony being conducted by Rev. H. Brown, of Toronto. The bride was given away by her brother, and looked very pretty in dress of white satin and georgette crepe. The wedding march was played by Miss Ruth Coon, a niece of the bride.

Mrs. Vivian was well known in Peterborough, having been for some time organist of Knox Presbyterian Church.

LEE—HICKSON.
A quiet but pretty wedding took place on Tuesday, June 29th, at St. Mary's Church, Lindsay, when Margaret, daughter of Mr. John R. Hickson, of East Ops, was united in marriage to Wesley Lee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lee, of North Ops. The ceremony was performed by Monsignor Casey.

The bride was prettily gowned in a suit of blue satin, and large picture hat, and wore a bouquet of pink sweetheart roses.

She was assisted by her sister Josie, who also wore a dress of blue satin, with white leghorn hat, and wore a bouquet of pink carnations. The groom was assisted by Mr. Joseph McCabe.

The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome parlour clock; to the bridesmaid, a pearl ring, and to the groomsman, a signet ring.

After the ceremony the happy couple motored to the home of the bride's father, where a dainty wedding dinner was served, after which the happy couple left, amid showers of confetti, on the 3.15 train for Toronto.

After their return Mr. and Mrs. Lee will reside on Queen Street.

DOWNING—PHILLIPS.
On June 28th a very pretty wedding was solemnized at 410 Roxton Road, Toronto, when Esther Louise Phillips became the bride of Anthony Herbert Downing.

Rev. Major Morrow performed the ceremony in the presence of a few intimate friends and relatives. The bride was gowned in cream crepe de chine with veil and orange blossoms. She wore a pendant of amethysts and pearls, the gift of the groom. Her bouquet was of white orchids and roses.

Miss Louise Downing, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. Mr. A. Jones, of Saskatoon, acted as best man. After the wedding supper the happy couple left for Hamilton and Tillsonbury.

The bride wore a travelling suit of blue Tricotine and while Milan hat.

On their return they will reside in Toronto.

OBITUARY

About 4 o'clock yesterday morning the death occurred at Nicholls Hospital of Fred C. Cubitt, who resides at the corner of Reid and Kings streets, after an illness of about four months' duration.

The deceased was born in Bowmanville and was the son of the late Col. Cubitt of Bowmanville. He came to Peterborough about 15 years ago and for several years conducted a bookstore here.

He is survived by his widow, one daughter, Hilda of New York, and one son, Fleetwood, at home.

The funeral will be held in Bowmanville to-morrow morning.

A service is being held at the house this evening, at which Archdeacon Davidson will officiate.

MRS. WILLIAM J. DERRY.
This morning the death occurred at the family residence, 469 McDonnel Street, of Celia Currens, beloved wife of William J. Derry. The deceased had been ill for the last fourteen weeks. She was born in Emily Township, where the younger years of her life were spent, and following her marriage twenty-nine years ago, moved to Peterborough, where she has since resided.

The late Mrs. Derry was a member and active worker in Trinity Methodist Church. Her long illness was borne with Christian fortitude and faith characteristic of her daily life. She will be missed by a wide circle of friends.

Besides her husband, she leaves to mourn her loss four children at home—Wilfrid, Cecil, Florence and Ruby, also her father, Mr. William Currens, Smith Township, and one brother, William Henry Currens, of Demaine, Saskatchewan.

The funeral will take place on Monday afternoon at two o'clock. Service will be conducted at the house by the Rev. Mr. Manning, in the absence of Rev. F. E. Malott.

PROGRESS.
"Is this an imitation of butter?" inquired the man with the market basket.

"I can't say that it is," replied the conscientious dealer. "We have got far beyond imitating butter. We are now imitating the imitations."

Steamers will leave Lakefield on arrival of the Morning, Noon and Evening trains from Peterborough, and will leave the Lakes to connect with the Morning and Afternoon Trains for Peterborough.

Premiers Fail to Agree at the Allied Conference

Credit Situation Still Unsettled

BANKS PREPARE TO MEET HARVEST DEMANDS—MONEY MARKET FOR THE WEEK.

(Canadian Press).

NEW YORK, July 3.—Trading in stocks this week was the smallest in volume and scope of any similar period for almost two years, but the bond market was relatively active and variably higher on moderate mid-year investments buying. The turn into the second half of the year witnessed further tightening of credits. This was especially marked in the rate for commercial loans, which rose to eight per cent. for all but prime paper. This is the highest quotation for such accommodations in almost thirteen years. While well-informed banking opinion still inclines to the belief that money will soon become less stringent, it is generally recognized that the credit situation, as affecting industrial conditions, calls for further corrective measures. Need of concerted and effective action in this respect continues to be stressed by the Federal Reserve Board, as well as by private financial interests with country-wide connections. In conservative quarters there was further evidence of tendency to confine rediscounts to essential loans and to concentrate on financing for crop requirements. Banks in agricultural sections have recently drawn heavily from their reserves at this centre to meet harvest demands.

BOOZE MIXED IN MURDER?

The late Joseph B. Elwell is Said to Be One of a "Ring."

(Canadian Press)

NEW YORK, July 3.—James S. Shevlin, supervising prohibition enforcement agent, announced here he had obtained information that Joseph Bowne Elwell, turfman and whist expert, shot to death in his home here June 11, had been engaged in the purchase of large quantities of liquor for speculative purposes shortly before his death.

Elwell, according to Mr. Shevlin, was a member of a "whiskey ring" which included several prominent business men and sporting associates of the slain turfman. His information Mr. Shevlin said, showed that this "ring" had made plans for a large profit through the sale of liquor in this city and at Saratoga during July and August.

"Although we have obtained no evidence as yet to support the theory that these transactions led to his murder," said Mr. Shevlin, "we are seeking such infirmation."

BE CAUTIOUS

When you see a testimonial from someone in Texas whom you do not know, pay no attention to it.

When your neighbor tells you the great benefit he derived from Dr. Norvall's Stomach & Tonic Tablets and if you are still in doubt as to their merits ask your druggist and he will tell you that as a tonic and laxative and to relieve constipation, biliousness or a sick headache Norvall's Stomach & Tonic Tablets have no equal and they are in a class by themselves.

WHAT PARLIAMENT DID THIS SESSION

OTTAWA, July 3. —Parliament was prorogued by the Governor-General, after a session lasting rather more than four months. The principal measures adopted during the session were:

A Franchise Act.
Increase in pensions.
Establishment of State insurance for returned soldiers.
Further provision for soldiers' land settlement.
Continued authority for supervision of the marketing of the wheat crop.
Provision for the naval service, for assistance to shipbuilding and for the air service.
Taxation adopted broke fresh ground in the imposition of a new form of taxing luxuries.

EDITORIAL EULOGY FOR PREMIER BORDEN

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, July 3.—Times' editorial under heading, 'An Imperial Statesman," says: g

"Sir Robert Borden's retirement from the leadership of the Canadian-Unionist party will be received by the Mother country as well as Canada with deep regret. Under his guidance Canada won equal nationhood within the empire. He is one of the great figures of the war, and neither Canada nor the Empire can ever forget the debt we owe him."

The Daily Mail says that through all weathers he has been true to every high idea of imperial service.

EXCITING EXPERIENCE ON LONG MOTOR TRIP

CALIFORNIANS TAKING 5,000 MILE JOURNEY REACH LINDSAY.

After a motor trip covering 5,000 miles, over mountains and across deserts, Mr. Beth Black and party arrived in Lindsay Wednesday evening. The party left Pasadena, Calif., on May 7th and came by way of the Grand Canyon and Sante Fe trail. Many exciting experiences and the various feasts of scenic beauty made the trip one long to be remembered.

At one point the motorists found that the Rio Grande river had overflowed and they were obliged to cross the Mexican border in making the detour. At this point it was necessary for the ladies to walk while the car was piloted over the ties of a railway bridge. The party crossed the "Great American" desert, a trip that has only been made by twenty motor cars. They were obliged to rely on a compass and found that they reached a point 100 miles off the regular trail. They crossed another desert and in the whole area there were only 30 trees. Each tree, however, marked a watering place.

The motor party consisted of Miss Doreen Jordan, Judge and Mrs. Johnston and Mr. Beth Black.

WRITS SERVED ON THE SOVIET REPRESENTATIVES

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, July 3. — Writs have been served on the Soviet mission here for the purpose of securing sequestration of its property for satisfaction of alleged creditors of the Soviet government according to the Herald. Newspaper adds that action will raise International question of the right of a revolutionary government to nationalize industry without compensation to stockholders and abjure debts contracted by its predecessor.

Sir Edward Carson, Ulster leader in the House, has been retained as attorney by the Soviet mission.

SIR ADAM BECK'S NARROW ESCAPE

Nearly Electrocuted When Telephone Line is Charged.

LONDON, Ont., July 3.—Sir Adam Beck, while using a private telephone instrument in one hand and a Bell telephone in the other to-day, suffered a shock of 550 volts through the private line being short-circuited against a heavily charged trans mission line. Sir Adam was almost lifted out of his chair, but though he narrowly escaped electrocution he suffered no after-effects of his experience.

WOMAN INVENTS A WATERLESS, WEEDLESS LAWN

LOS ANGELES, CAL., July 3. — A lawn that is not a lawn, but looks like a lawn, and is said by its owner to be better than a lawn—a waterless, mowerless, weedless, gopherless lawn—in short a cement "lawn," painted grass-green, has made its appearance in front of a Los Angeles bungalow.

Mrs. A. C. Woodward, the inventor and owner, says it saves time, money and worry. She never has to water it; she never has to cut it; it is always dry enough to sit on—and it needs painting only once a year.

She has circular holes cut through the lawn and in them and along the edges she has flowers planted.

"I invented the cement lawn," she said, 'because of the trouble I had in getting a man to take care of my old grass lawn. It cost only $65.00."

"You don't know what a blessing it is," she continued. "Do you know I believe there would be much less unhappiness in married life if the husband would use a cement instead of a grass lawn and so avoid having to come home after work and run an old lawn mower over the front yard every night."

THE RATEPAYERS LEFT TAXES FOR LAST DAY

TAX COLLECTOR GREEN DID A LAND OFFICE BUSINESS YESTERDAY.

Tax Collector Green stated to-day that he coul dnot recall a busier tax day than that of yesterday. From eight o'clock in the morning until nine at night Mr. Green handled the pink slips counting money and doing a hundred and one other incidetal tasks. When he arrived at the office before eight o'clock there was then a small gathering waiting for him. In a short while the office was swamped with eager rate payers, who virtually fought to get near the wicket and rid of the pink sheet and some hard earned cash. The congestion instead of decreasing, increased during the day and it presented all the appearance of a 99 cent bargain sale or a box office for a burlesque performance.

In the afternoon the door into the Utiliites Commission had to be opened and the people circled around in an endless stream of humanity armed with tax bills and pocket books.

At five o'clock the doors were closed to the dismay of many but some leniency has been allowed and delayed payments are being taken in to-day. Fully 4,000 bills were paid yesterday, Mr. Green said, out of the 8,000 sent out 2,000 were paid before July 2.

The majority of ratepayers therefore left the matter till the last day and many if these without a doubt could as easily made the payment a week ago and not thrown so much extra work on Mr. Green for in the rush it was not possible to make the necessary entries and these must be all done over.

Mr. Green looks for an easier day on September 2nd when the second payment is due for many of the ratepayers have paid the whole bill.

Over $50,000 has ben taken in on the taxes already Mr. Green seated.

CROP OUTLOOK THIS DISTRICT

PETERBORO CROPS LOOKING FINE

The crop outlook throughout the country appears to forecast an excellent crop. The haying will begin next week and while some farmers have a light crop, on the whole they are satisfied. The grain looks better than it has in years they say, and few complaints have been heard from the growers. The rain yesterday did a world of good and to-day the farmers are very optimistic when they talk "crops."

The gardens are the pride and joy of the farmer's wife for everything is doing well. The potatoes are in bloom, and the bugs are back again in large numbers, but this is only a reminder that they will soon have new potatoes.

The corn has picked up and while the cut worms have made costly depredations amongst the cabbages, the cauliflowers and tomatoes. The plants are getting strong and luscious. New cabbages are coming on the market and the tomatoes are almost in flower.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, July3.— The New York stock exchange and other New York markets were closed to-day a three days holiday being declared over the fourth.

CUT OFF BY THE TURKS.

Warned to Leave Adana Two Weeks Ago, But They Stayed.

(Canadian Press).

NEW YORK, July 3.—Seventeen relief workers are believed isolated by Turkish Nationalist forces in Adana, Syria, according to a cablegram received here at the Near East Relief Headquarters.

Couriers, who have arrived in Beirut, the message said, report that the Turks two weeks ago warned the relief workers to leave Adana, but they refused to go. Eighteen hundred orphans from the city had been moved to safety on the Island of Cyprus.

ONLY CHILD DROWNED AT STURGEON POINT.

Little Douglas Mullen, of Lindsay, the Victim.

LINDSAY, July 2.—A distressing fatality took place at Sturgeon Point on Wednesday afternoon, when Douglas Mullen, the only child of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Mullen, of Lindsay, went to his death. The little fellow, who had been writing his examinations in Lindsay the early part of the week, had gone to the Point on Tuesday to spend the holidays at his parents' cottage. His father, who had been at Fenelon Falls on business, returned to the Point, and after dinner told Douglas that he could accompany him on a sail, having purchased a skiff a few days previous. Before the sail Douglas told his parents that he would go down to the wharf to see the Lintonia come in. When approaching the shore, he saw a little boy playing on the step formerly owned by Mayor McLean in front of Mr. Shelley's cottage, and on which are a number of irons and hooks. It is believed that the little fellow stubbed his heel and fell backwards in the water. His companion became frightened and ran off in search of his father, afterwards coming down to Walkey's store, where he informed several people that there was a little boy in the water. No time was lost in repairing to the scene. Mr. A. Flack and others searched for the body, which was found in three feet of water, about twenty minutes after the little fellow fell in. In the meantime, Mr. Mullen had been apprised of the sad affair, and the heartbroken father assisted in the search. On being taken from the water it was found that there was life in Douglas's body. Efforts at resuscitation were promptly resorted to, and 'phone messages were sent to Drs. Graham, Fenelon Falls; Kelly of Bobcaygeon, and for the pulmotor at Peterborough. Dr. Graham made the trip from the Falls in eleven minutes, on two front flat tires on his car. The truck from Peterborough, conveying the pulmotor, broke down on the road. After heroic efforts at resuscitation, it was found that the spark of life had fled.

BRINGING MEN OUT FROM OLD COUNTRY

WEEK'S BUSINESS AT THE LOCAL LABOUR BUREAU.

The local Employment Bureau has arranged with the Department of Immigration for the bringing out from the old country of farm and domestic help and have received word that two men are now sailing for Canada who desire work on farms. The Bureau is anxious to place these men. More are expected later.

During the past week the Bureau has had 38 applications, 33 vacancies of which 27 were for unskilled labour, has placed 36 of which 7 were women, and has referred 43 to vacancies.

There is a big demand for unskilled labour and the average is 50 cents per hour, which compares favourably with wages elsewhere for unskilled labour.

PRICES ON THE LOCAL MARKET

On this morning's market, eggs sold at 53 cents a dozen, butter at 60 cents a pound.

THE EGG MARKET.

Market continues firm, with practically no change. Production is falling off very rapidly, and country dealers are having difficulty in making up car-lots of graded eggs. Toronto firm, jobbing specials sixty, extras fifty-seven eight, firsts fifty-five six, seconds forty-eight. Montreal firm, unchanged. Winnipeg firm, advance expected. Dealers are paying forty-two cents, cases included, jobbing forty-five six, specials fifty. Saskatchewan receipts light. Dealers paying thirty-six eight straight, jobbing thirty-eight, retail forty forty-two. Car seconds rolling Winnipeg costing forty-one f.o.b. Chicago, New York, unchanged.

BOLSHEVIK ADVANCES CONSIDERED SERIOUS

POLISH GOVERNMENT HELD AN EXTRAORDINARY SESSION OF THE DIET YESTERDAY.

(Canadian Press.)

WARSAW, July 3.—Control of the Polish government may be placed in the hands of the National Council of Defence under terms of proposal considered by the Council of War and an extraordinary session of the Diet yesterday. Extreme measures are deemed necesasry to meet the critical situation caused by the Bolshevik advance into Ukrane. It is proposed that immediate military action be taken to check the Bolsheviki.

The Diet adjourned at midnight for further discussion of the proposition to create a Council of Defence. During the meeting Father O'Kone, a peasant member, offered resolution for immediate peace negotiations. Although nearly thirty-five Socialist members of the Diet were present, only two voted for his motion.

Artillery Duel.

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, June 3.— Polish communique for July 2 and 3 were received here to-day. Former reads: "Heavy artillery duel took place between the Dvina and Beresina. In Polesia the enemy suffered heavy losses from our counter attacks. South of Polesia, after they had been attacked by detachments of volunteers under General Balakavitch the majority of the Bolshevik deserted and joined our ranks. Calm prevailed in Volhynia." July 3 communique does not show any important engagements, Bolshevik activities being restricted to local actions all along the front.

PRESENTATION TO MISS J. FLEMING

WAS A VALUED EMPLOYEE OF REVIEW PRINTING COMPANY.

A presentation of a gift, accompanied by the following address, was made to Miss Jessie Fleming on the eve of her departure from the Review Printing Company. The address follows:

Miss Jessie Fleming.

Dear Miss Fleming,—The time has come when we are about to sever our relations, although it may be said that we have been expecting just such a move for some little time. However, be that as it may, we are sincerely sorry to see you go.

During the years you have been associated with us you have endeared yourself to all with whom you came in contact. You have always been courteous and faithful, every ready to do anything to help a fellow worker out ,and speaking for the management as well as for the staff, I may tell you that we feel it will be some time before we are able to fill your position as satisfactorily as you have filled it in the past.

But before you leave, we, the members of the staff of the Review office want to show our regard for you in some more tangible form than in mere words and would therefore ask you to accept this slight token of our esteem, with the hope that in after years you may often look upon it and think kindly of those whom you left behind in the Review office.

Justone parting wish we want to leave with you and that is that your troubles throughout life may be little ones and not too close together. May your married life be long and happy and we hope that if you are to remain in Peterborough after the happy day you will occasionally drop in to see the old crowd here.

FIFTY MORE EMPLOYEES LEAVING BUREAU SOON

OTTAWA, July 3.—Now that Parliament has prorogued, more retirements from the Printing Bureau are pending. The number will be in the neighborhood of fifty employees, and it is probable will be the last of the 402 extra men and women engaged before the investigation of the bureau. It is announced that before the next session of Parliament the bureau will have been transformed into a modern, efficient plant, about which will be no suggestion of the bad old days when it fell into disrepute owing to the evils of patronage.

Unofficially, it is stated that the position of Director of Public Printing will be thrown open to public competition, and that it will be advertised shortly.

CLAIMS DEPOSIT PAID ON HOUSE

CASE HEARD IN THE DIVISION COURT YESTERDAY.

T. J. Parker vs. Mrs. R. Smith before Judge Huycke, in the Division Court yesterday afternoon, was a case involving the forfeiture or note of $100 deposit paid on a real estate deal.

The plaintiff, Mr. T. J. Parker, is suing the defendant, Mrs. R. Smith, for the return of $100 paid by him in the way of a deposit on the sale of 195 Reid street.

Defendant claimed that the $100 deposit was given her in April as a guarantee that the deal was to be completed by May 7th, Parker to then pay the balance of the $3500 purchase price agreed on. This arrangement, however, fell through, plaintiff, it is alleged, being unable to pay the remaining $3400 due the defendant, who contends that under the agreement she is entitled to retain the $100 deposit.

Mrs. Smith also gave evidence that she was forced to cancel another sale because Parker failed to pay up, and declared that the transaction cost her $50 and considerable inconvenience.

At the conclusion of considerable evidence and legal argument for both sides, His Honor reserved judgment.

Mr. C. R. Widdifield for defendant; Mr. F. D. Kerr for the defendant.

Suits for Accounts.

A number of suits to recover alleged debts due, involving sums ranging from $3.50 to $48.32, were quickly disposed of, after which the court adjourned.

TROOPS OUT IN DUBLIN.

Discharge of Firearms Causes Some Excitement—No Explanation Given.

DUBLIN, July 3.—Soldiers were hurriedly called out of their barsacks in this city at 1.30 yesterday morning by the discharge of firearms in the neighbourhood of the Kingsbridge terminus of the Great Southern Railway line.

The troops patrolled the streets and stopped all pedertrians and examined their permits to be abroad. Everyone was warned to get home as quickly as possible.

Firing was renewed later, but there has so far been no explanation of the disorder.

ITALIANS STAND FIRMLY FOR PAYMENT OF GERMAN INDEMNITY—MEETING YESTERDAY.

(Canadian Press.)

BRUSSELS, July 3.— Italian delegates to the Allied conference here are understood to be standing firmly for payment to their country of twenty per cent. of indemnity to be paid by Germany. Means to readjust other shares so as to satisfy Italy's demands have not as yet been found and Belgian delegates are showing great surprise that they should be requested to make sacrifices for the sake of Italy. Owing to failure of Premiers to come to an agreement yesterday this morning's conference of the Supreme Council were replaced by informal conferences at headquarters of Premier Lloyd George. Whether an agreement is reached or not various delegations will leave for the Spa to-morrow.

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, July 3. — Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain, favors compromise of financial demands made by Italy and other allies at Brussels' conference of Supreme Allied Council according to the Echo de Paris. It is said he favors agreement giving France 52 per cent. of the sum due from Germany in indemnities and holds Great Britain should receive 22 per cent. Of the balance he will give Italy ten per cent., Belgium 7, Jugo-Slavia 8, Roumania four-fifths of one per cent. and Portugal and Japan the remainder for division between them. The Matin declares the understanding among the Allies remains complete and that they still adhere to the plan adopted at the Boulogne conference by which Germany would be called upon to pay three billion marks in gold and annuities to be determined later. Under this plan Germany would receive immediate aid that would assist in her rehabilitation.

MOORE SAYS PRICES MUST TUMBLE DOWN.

But Wages Remain Same, Yet Profits Will Still Be Large.

(Canadian Press).

OTTAWA, July 3. — Quoting statistics to prove that there had been persistent profiteering in food, clothing and other necessaries, Mr. Tom Moore, President of the Trades and Labour Congress of Canada, speaking at the opening of the convention of the Quebec Provincial Council of Carpenters in Hull City Hall here, declared that prices will tumble, and must tumble, but that the present wages to workers should remain the same. In support of his contention, Mr. Moore declared that the actual increase in the cost of making a pair of boots over 1914 was 13 cents, while the retailers were asking $10 to $12 for boots that sold in 1914 for $5. The price of bread, he declared, had advanced 7 and 8 cents a loaf over the 1914 price, while the actual cost of labour producing bread had increased only five-eighths of a cent. He quoted the prices of other necessaries to the same effect.

"Even when prices take the big tumble that is sure to come, the manufacturers can afford to pay the present wages and still make handsome profits, said Mr. Moore.

The speaker also urged upon the Council the necessity to amend the Industrial Disputes Act, so that firms and employees, outside of public utilities, could apply for Boards of Arbitration with compulsory acceptance by the other party involved.

MIXED FARMING IN WESTERN Canada—In Central Alberta and Saskatchewan are rich park lands —open prairie ready for the plow, interspersed with trees, which afford excellent shelter for stock. Here grain growing, dairying and livestock raising are being carried on successfully. The country is ideal for mixed farming The Canadian Pacific Railway is offering a large area of these fertile lands in the neighorhood of Lloydminster and Battleford. These rich districts will become the home of thousands of prosperous farmers. On similar land Seagar Wheeler grows the world's prize wheat Near Lloydminster the world's prize oats have been grown and butter of the highest quality is made A man can soon become independent on a farm here.
These lands can e bought now at prices averaging about 18. You pay down 10 per cent. If land is purchased under settlement conditions, no further payment of principal until end of fourthe year, then sixteen annual payments. Interest is six per cent.
Irrigated lands in Southern Alberta $50 an acre upwards. Same terms. Write for illustrated booklet.

Mr. and Mrs. James Powers of Manvers were in town on Monday.

Mr. Fred Coombe and Son, Norman, left on Tuesday for Denver, Col., after a pleasant visit with his brother, Mr. W. H. Coombe.

Mr. Calvin A. Powers, C. P. R. agent of Bathurst, and Mrs. D. J. Bannoh of Toronto, were the guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Powers of Manvers.

Review services held in the Methodist church on Sunday last were very interesting. The Sunday school scholars built the "arch of peace," and the foundation stones were Faith Hope and Love. The reports from the different departments showed the school was flourishing.

Miss M. Lexchin of Toronto, was the guest of her friend, Miss Fanny Newman, last week.

The Misses Thelma Paxman, Marion Chevrill and Messrs. W. McKim and P. Borland, of Peterboro, motored to town on Tuesday and called on friends.

Mr. Albert Fee and Mr. Jule of the Bank of Toronto staff, Toronto, were the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Lee, over Sunday.

Dr. F. A. Fitzgerald and daughter, Miss Nora of Missoula, Montana, are guests of his mother, Mrs. John Deyell.

Dr. Lee was elected moderator of the Presbytery at a meeting held in Port Hope Tuesday.

The many friends of Mrs. H. Gardiner will be pleased to learn she is improving and expects to leave the hospital this week.

The Masons marched in a body to the Methodist church on Sunday night last and listened to a very interesting sermon by the pastor, Rev. S. T. Tucker.

The Misses Lottie and Margaret Luxon are home for the summer holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Brown and Miss H. Jones motored to Midland, to visit friends.

Messrs. Jack Wilcox and N. Smith of Toronto, motored to town and were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. Brock.

Light, tasty Tea Biscuits

The EASIFIRST way

Everything you cook or bake will be more delicious if you use EASIFIRST. It is the ideal shortening—always of the same high quality. Economical to buy. Economical to use—12 ounces go as far as 16 of butter or lard—and, further, the EASIFIRST left after frying anything can be used for something else without carrying over food flavors.

These things being so—EASIFIRST will save you money every week of the year. Easily proved—your first carton of EASIFIRST will do it.

THIS RECIPE WILL DELIGHT YOU

3 cups flour.
3 teaspoons baking powder.
2 level tablespoons EASIFIRST
1 teaspoon salt.
1 tablespoon sugar.

Sift flour, salt and baking powder together. Add sugar, rub in EASIFIRST, add sweet milk to make soft dough. Moderately hot oven. For a delightful variation, press into top of each biscuit a small piece of sugar loaf which has been dipped into orange juice, or drop a small portion of raspberry jam into a little hollow. Bake as usual.

Your grocer will supply you. Sold in cartons and tins.

"MAKE BELIEVE LIONS ARD OTHERS"

By H. F. GADSBY

(B. H. F. GADSBY.)

It is understood in parliamentary circles that ex-Commissioner O'Connor made the bomb but that ex-Commissioner Murdock threw it. The bomb has been hanging around ever since Chairman Robson quit the Board of Commerce and the Government was hoping that it would prove a dud in which the explosive material would rapidly deteriorate.

This did not prove to be the case. Commissioner O'Connor taking care that such a formidable weapon be kept from wind, rain, ill treatment; loving kindness and other destructive elements. In a word Commissioner O'Connor cherished the Almighty special tid-bit, namely revenge, and when the time came for Commissioner Murdock to retire, which he did when all was lost save honor, he found his colleague not unwilling to deliver the Parthian shot.

The gist of Commissioner Murdock's charges is, as everybody knows, that the Government never really wanted the Board of Commerce to function freely. It was, as Sir Thomas White would say, a make-believe lion, like so many other Royal Commissions whose object in life is to del y, to report and to pigeonhole. Unluckily for the Government two of the Commissioners seem to have taken their duties seriously—one because he liked the spot light and the other because he was in earnest. This led to trouble. The chairman, Judge Robson, one of Artful James' selections, was the only safe man.

A Safety Razor.

How safe he was may be judged from the degree to which he carried professional etiquette, receiving before hand the other side's brief and thus discovering, just where the strong argument was which the Board of Commerce could not withstand. Broadly speaking, Judge Robson was always prepared for the worst and knowing the worst, from a previous perusal of the documents, he could tell just where not—to meet it. These are Commissioner Murdock's charges—that the examination papers, so to speak, were handed out before the examination was held so that the man who had to give the answers would pass with good marks.

The letter to Judge Robson in which Mr. J. B. Hugg, representing the Crescent Creamery of Winnipeg, enclosed the factum he was using before the Supreme Court in opposition to the Board of Commerce is said to have met with an unlucky adventure. It was placed on the wrong desk and was given the once-over by Commissioner O'Connor who has ever since cherished the desire of placing it on the records of parliament. Up to that week the Government withheld the latter as "not in the public interest" but of course there are more ways of killing a cat than choking it with cream. Between them Commissioner O'Connor and Commissioner Murdock found the way, a little oblique perhaps but direct enough for all practical purposes. The withheld letter, which may have had something to do with Judge Robson's sudden resignation some months ago, screens that great jurist's face no longer.

Critics of the Government, who smart under the answers "not in the public interest" whenever an awkward question comes up, are quickly chuckling at Commissioner Murdock's plan to prevent a letter of great public interest being withheld by handing a carbon copy to the newspapers at the same time he handed it to the Government. This plan has its advantage—it not only prevents the letter being withheld, but it also prevents it being lost, forgoten, or destroyed. One cannot be too careful about one's letters to the Government these days. The archives of the various departments are labyrinthine and the clerical staffs are in such confusion over the Civil Service Reclassification.

The O'Connor is Wavy.

It is presumed that it was Commissioner O'Connor who took all these precautions with Commissioner Murdock's letter of resignation, largely because Commissioner O'Connor knows the Government he has to deal with far better than Commissioner Murdock does. At all events, the letter did not go astray—as the one to Judge Robson did—and people who know both the commissioners say that the diction closely resembles Commissioner O'Connor's free flowing style. He may even have written it, leaving Commissioner Murdock to copy it out and sign his name in a fair round hand afterwards. Other internal evidence that a Nova Scotian was at least looking over Commissioner Murdock's shoulder when he penned the lines, is found in the compliments handed out to Premier Borden—a fellow Nova Scotian who gave O'Connor his chance to make a name for himself. Commissioner O'Connor, speaking as a friend — Commissioner Murdock touching the pen as his colleague speaks—takes the ground that Premier Borden wanted the Board of Commerce to do well but that it fell into the hands of the sand-baggers while poor Sir Robert was away in search of his health—a sneaking advantage to take of a sick man. Perhaps we had better let it go at that, remembering the while that Sir Robert had stock in a cold storage company that kept half a million dollars' worth of food out of circulation last year.

Conscious to the Last.

It is the general opinion that Commissioner Murdock got out while there was something to get out of. Thwarted of its functions by one court and another the Board of Commerce was in great danger of death by anaemic convulsions. From this horrible ending Commissioner Murdock's resignation happily cuts it off. It will die now because it has nothing left to live with—or for. The trouble with the Board of Commission was that in spite of all the opiates that could be administered by the Government or the courts, it never lost consciousness. It was clear sighted to the last and only a few days before it expired, its accusing glance fell on a bunch of Montreal uplifters who made a clear million and half by inducing another uplifter on the War Trade Board to put an export embargo on sugar, enabling then to welch on a contract with Chicago purchasers and thus get the full profit of the rising Canadian market. The only uplifter who suffered by this deal was the little fellow at Ottawa who had since been fired as a naughty little goat. All of which goes to show the Board of Commerce was getting "warm" and that it was high time that its moral glow on behalf of the ultimate consumer should be extinguished.

The fate of the Board of Commerce is a sad warning to all make-believe lions that want to be real ones. If a Royal Commission will not roar, as Bottom the Weaver puts it, like a sucking dove it must not roar at all.

Windsor Chief Denies Police Responsible for Disorderly Road Houses.

WINDSOR, July 3.—Rev. J. O. L. Spracklin, pastor of Sandwich Methodist Church, was charged in a statement made to the Town Council that "drunken women staggered from the Chappell House," must place his charges on paper.

This is the decision of the Police Committee, of which Reeve Alexander McKee is chairman, according to an announcement made by Mayor Donnelly.

This action by the committee has been taken, the Mayor said, as a result of the opinion given by the Town Solicitor, John Sale, who advised that, to comply with the by-laws governing the procedure of the Town Council in dealing with matters relating to police discipline, the evidence must be placed before the committee in writing.

"I will not admit that our police department is responsible for condition at any of the road houses," the Mayor said. "What are the inspectors of the Ontario License Department doing that such conditions as alleged by Rev. Mr. Spracklin are allowed to continue?"

UNFORTUNATE CHINESE ARE DEPORTED TO OLD HOME

NEW YORK, July 3. — In Hong Kong many years ago two little Chinese boys planned how they would some day come to the United States and make their fortunes.

To-day the same two, now full grown and known as Ung Foon and Der Jun, are bewailing the fate that caused them to fall into the hands of United States' Federal agents at Hudson, N. Y., where they were taken, with four other Chinese, after having crossed the Canadain border.

Their money gone — they say they gave their lives' savings to a taxicab driver to bring them into the United States —they started from Ellis Island Immigration Station for San Srancisco, from where they will be sent back under bond to China.

THOSE GERMAN GUNS.

The protest of those citizens of Peterboro who have been bereaved as a result of the war, at the placing of the three captured German guns in Central Park, is one that will be sympathized with by the public generally. These fathers and mothers and wives whose loved ones lie beneath the wooden crosses in France and Belgium, declare that the sight of the German guns is abhorrent to them, and it is easy to appreciate why this should be the case. The feeling seems to be general among those who have lost dear ones, and under the circumstances the authorities would be well advised to consider the removal of the guns from their present prominent position. If their presence there has the effect of tearing open the old wounds of bereavement and grief, by all means let the souvenirs of Hun militarism be thrown into the river or sold for old iron. They caused enough suffering in Canadian homes when the war was being fought; if they are to cause fresh sorrow by being publicly displayed here, then Peterboro wants none of them.

It is all very well to say that the presence of these Hun guns is a symbol of victory; that they signify that the cause for which so many Peterboro men laid down their lives, has been gloriously successful. Those facts are quite true but they do not justify a display that jars the sensibilities of every bereaved relative.

THE NEW PARTY.

The resignation of Sir Robert Borden as Prime Minister of Canada is accompanied by the announcement that the Unionist members of Parliament have formed themselves into a new party which calls itself by the long and lofty sounding title of "The National Liberal and Conservative Party." Undoubtedly the name Nationalist will shortly be in common use in referring to the new party. The platform as revealed shows a decidedly Conservative aspect; the Liberal colours being introduced by a few planks embodying Liberal principles, but which are not to take effect for the present. But it has been made plain that there is to be no coalition, and the Liberal-Unionist members are facing a choice between sacrificiing their political principles and of forsaking the organization under whose wing they have been sheltered themselves for the past three years. The predominant aim of the new party, no matter what its platform may contain, is to remain in office as long as possible, and no amount of name-changing or of high sounding phrases, will convince the people of Canada that its membership is actuated by any other ambition than to prolong as far as possible the life of the party. The Nationalist Liberal and Conservative party will avert as long as possible an appeal to the people, but sooner or later the eventful day will come, when an account of their stewardship will have to be given by the members to their constituents and that day will wreck the new organization. The people only want a chance to turn it out of office as a discredited, incompetent and blind party, no matter what name its members chose to select.

ANOTHER INQUIRY.

The announcement made by Premier Drury that the Ontario Department of Mines is next in line for investigation, will be received with satisfaction. The timber inquiry has proved to have been amply justified by the condition of affairs it already has uncovered. The system, as Premier Drury put it in a recent speech, was "rotten to the core." The investigation has shown that forgery and perjury were rampant in connection with timber returns, with the result that hundreds of thousands of dollars that should have gone into the public treasury, have instead been pilfered by firms and individuals. No wonder Ontario, with resources ten times as great as those of New Brunswick, was only receiving the same income as that province. Until the advent of the Drury government, the forests and lands of Ontario were under control of the same department as the mines. The astonishing revelations made in connection with the timber inquiry have naturally aroused grave doubts as to whether the administration of mines was any more efficient or more honest than the conduct of the affairs of the Lands Department, and the Ontario government is acting decidedly in the interests of the public in deciding upon a thorough inquiry with the object of seeing to, to use the Premier's own words, 'if we have been cheated in that department also."

THE SAME OLD FINISH.

Once more has the scandalous farce been played out to its shameful finish at Ottawa. The closing hours of the session just concluded have been marked by the usual scramble of members to get home, the mad rush to get the slate cleared regardless of the public interests, the voting of millions of dollars in the last few hours. According to the press reports in the last ninety-five minutes in which the House sat, with only a handful of members in atendance, estimates involving large sums of money were passed merely by number, not even the clause describing the purpose for which the money was spent being read. The members knew nothing about these expenditures and cared less; they simply rushed the whole lot through in record time, anxious to get home and start spending the extra $1500 indemnity that they had succeeded in extracting from the public treasury in defiance of the public will. Every session tells the same old story of the early months wasted in fruitless debate and the consideration of unimportant legislation, followed by the crowding of vital legislation into the last weeks of the session and climaxed by a last minute orgy of money voting, authorizing the expenditure of large amounts on business, the details of which most of the members know as little about as they apparently know of the feeling against themselves throughout the country.

THE PREMIER'S RETIREMENT.

Sir Robert Borden is to retire and to turn the leadership of the Government over to a new chief to be chosen by the cabinet. The long expected announcement has been made at last. It would have assured Sir Robert Borden of a much higher niche in the annals of Canada that he seems now destined to occupy, had it been made last year. The events of the past few months have injured the reputation of the Premier, and instead of retiring as he might have done, in the full flush of the triumph of having been at the head of the country's affairs during the five most important years of Canada's history, he drops out of public life at a time when his government has completely lost the confidence of the people and when nothing but an inglorious defeat at the polls is before the administration. Sir Robert's resignation removes a prominent figure from the national arena. He has long been before the public and his personal honesty and the sincerity of his intentions on behalf of Canada have not been questioned. But it has been felt that he suffered from the inability to make decisions and to stand by them—once made. His failure to stand out against some of the mistaken policies of his colleagues has reacted to a considerable extent upon his own fame, and he suffers, too, from having been at the head of the government during the past eighteen months. Much better would it have been for him, if once the war was over Sir Robert had announced, that his government had fulfilled the mission for which it was elected and had appealed to the people at that time. He retires now on the eve of the complete annihilation of the party of which he has been leader.

THE RESPONSIBILITY OF MEMBERS OF PARLIAMENT.

The little flurry of excitement and argument caused by the action of the United Farmers of Ontario in connection with the government bill for the superannuation of civil servants in that province has now practically subsided. As far as one could judge from this distance, the winners in the dispute, if dispute it may be called, would appear to be the Drury government. However, whatever may be the final result it is well that the question arose when it did, and tha tit should have been discussed as widely as it was. The last has not been heard of it and the supporters of the Progressive Party in the west, more particularly the farmer organizations, would be well advised to give careful thought to the principle involved. We have dealt with this question on two or three occasions already, but it is one or more than ordinary importance and at the risk of repetition we return to it again. Briefly, the details of the Ontario controversy were as follows. The provincial government introduced a bill designed to provide pensions for the civil servants of the province. The measure met with general approval from most of the parties of the House; indeed, some of the opposition offered to it was on the ground that its provisions were not sufficiently generous. After the bill had been under discussion for some time and, apparently without a word of warning, the central offices of the United Farmers circularized all the local branches of the organization urging them to oppose the bill and to bring what pressure they could on their members at Toronto to vote against it. This letter was signed by Mr. Morrison, secretary of the U.F.O., and, although it was sent out under instructions from the provincial committee, he was held largely responsible for it. The bill did not really involve any serious questions of policy, and as we have previously stated, the arguments advanced by the U.F.O. were by no means strong, while the stand taken by the government was practically unassailable. However, we are not here concerned with the merits of the question at issue. The action of the central executive put the Drury government, which owed its existence primarily to the support of the U.F.O., and which is mainly composed of members endorsed by that body, into a very awkward position. The only course open for the premier was to go ahead with the bill, for, although that meant risk of defeat, to withdraw it would have been an acknowledgment that the seat of power was not in the Legislature but in the offices of the U. F. O.—an acknowledgment which no self-respecting premier could afford to make. The local branches of the U.F.O. passed resolutions requesting their members to oppose the bill but the vast majority of the members refused to be dictated to and the bill became law by a large majority. The point at issue in this whole question is this: If a party founded on democratic principles nominate candidates in support of its policy at open democratic conventions, should that party have power to dictate the actions of the candidates when elected to parliament? Or, to put it this way: quite probably at the next general elections the Progressive Party will have candidates in practically every constituency in the three prairie provinces. These candidates are to be chosen by the electors in the constituencies. They will, no doubt, receive the votes of hundreds of electors who are members of no party. When they arrive at Ottawa, are they to be free agents or are they to be under the dictation of some outside organization such as, say, the Canadian Council of Ogriculture or the Independent Labor Party? We believe that there is no doubt as to the answer to this question. The governing of the country should be done from parliament and the members of parliament should be responsible to the country for their actions. The other course would mean that parliament would be composed of puppets and would be merely a shadow which might be dispensed with while the real power would rest in some semi-private organization. Under the Progressive Party—and the same is true of the Farmers' Party in Ontario—the people themselves have everything to say as to who shall be nominated, and they themselves control the party funds. It is for them to exert care in the choice of candidates, and if they do so it is surely possible to find at least one man in each constituency who may be trusted to represent fairly the bulk of opinion. We do not propose that members of parliament be exempt from criticism or that electors should not endeavor to influence their representatives by argument, but we do contend that the member should not be under the thumb of any section of his electors. Any system which tends to remove responsibility from the shoulders of members of parliament is a dangerous one. This contention is all the more true owing to the fact that henceforth candidates will be chosen by the electorate and the time is fast approaching when the system of election by proportional representation will be in force throughout the whole Dominion. We believe it to be unassailable. The substitution of delegates for representatives in parliament would open up glorious possibilities for the shifty politician, would clear the way for interminable controversy and would give elegant opportunities to that section of the pess which take a delight in stampeding public opinion.—Turner's Weekly.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

BROTHERHOOD.

How can this world be better, strife has blighted it so badly?
It needs real brotherhood.
Sectarianism and its curse on simple beasts show badly
It needs real brotherhood.
True power has gone from man since afew at Pentecost
Stood firm before a sin cursed world that power to-day is lost.
The rock of faith is not deceit, nay
One has paid sin's cost.
He lived true brotherhood
Greed for gain and lust for power
God's earth has ever cursed,
It needs real Brotherhood.
To disunite His creatures 'tis sinfulness, it's worst,
It needs real Brotherhood.
The other sheep can not get in, alas
the fold is barred.
False shepherds and greed's hirelings
the work of love has marred.
Drive back the wolves of unbelief,
you'll gain the real reward.
It is real Brotherhood.
I came not to send peace through sin,
take up truth's mighty sword,
That is true Brotherhood.
I died that man should happy be in freedom, I'm his Lord.
That is true Brotherhood.
Ye will not let them come to me, their blindness to dispel,
My word is sealed to them by you, ye drive my world to hell.
Awake ye, false deceit like yours as filthy sores does smell,
I gave them Brotherhood.
Beware, I'm coming back to earth,
give back my peace and joy,
That is true Brotherhood.
Ye hpyocrites that rob M eof My rights, I wil destroy.
Mankind created by Me I shall bless,
as I am king,
The song of endless ages He will learn
once more to sing,
True peace on earth, good will to men our Masters's brave will sing
At last in Brotherhood.

SIXTY CENTS FOR A COLLAR IN GERMANY

Steady Rise of German Mark, and Tourists Mulcted by Shopkeepers.

BERLIN, July 3.—As a result of the steady rise of the German mark, foreigners are discovering that for them Germany is now perhaps the dearest country in Europe. And as the mark strengthens prices continue to rise.

For several months German hotels have been forcing foreigners to pay from 100 to 200 per cent. more than natnves are charged. Many shops also make a practice of mulcting foreigners, some haberdasheries in Berlin charging 60 cents (American) for an ordinary white collar.

Newpapers, learning of the great influx of American tourists to England and France, are beginning to wonder if the extortions of shops and hotels wil lhave the effect of keeping the Americans and other foreigners out of Germany.

Life itself is aptly likened to a game.

VIRTUOUS WIVES

PART IV.

At four o'clock, in obedience to a telephone message from the office, Amy was in the car, drawn up by the subway station at Columbus Circle, searching the crowd which flowed muddily up from that great underground tube for the first glimpse of a swinging, rapid figure. Her conscience did not exactly reproach her, for the conscience in youth, before it can enlist the services of a rebellious digestion, is more of a courtier than a mentor. Yet, all the same, she felt she owed it some explanation. She had been frightfully extravagant. When two women go shopping together the devil begins to smile. The presence of Fifi had incited her. She felt the need of establishing that shade of superiority which her cousin denied her. She knew that Fifi in common with the rest of her friends, considered that she had thrown away her worldly opportunities, and she desired to rather exaggerate the new independence which was hers. After an orgy among the counters, Fifi, in spite of the fact that luncheon had been ordered at home, had carried her off, commandeering two men by telephone.

The rendezvous had been at Sherry's, just beginning to fill up with the return of society. There were fifty persons she knew, and as Fifi was a public character, their entrance caused quite a stir. She felt instinctively the test of this criticism and asked herself a little anxiously how they would judge her. In an instant, she was back in the life of the year before, the old chatter rising easily to her lips, eager for the glances of tribute which she could detect in the crowd. She felt a new vivacity, and it seemed to her, for the first time in months, that the radiance of her youth was returning to her eyes and to her glowing cheeks. She forgot her perplexities and half-expressed longings. This world welcomed her back by a hundred solicitous attentions, claiming her charm and her beauty. She no longer had a feeling of isolation.

What was strange was to be waiting for him. When he was absent, she could never see him distinctly.

In the crowd, she saw the kind, ugly face, and, at his powerful, confident approach, she had a swift feeling of gladness and delight.

"All right, Bingham; good time, but don't be caught!" He swung into his seat, and the coupe was filled with his virile, conquering strength. "Kept you waiting long? Turn around, Mrs. Yum-Yum; let's see how pretty we are!"

At the pride with which he gave her his favorite nickname, the little girl from school began to laugh. Then she remembered.

"I've been awfully extravagant," she said contritely, and the obnoxious word "extravagant," like the terrifying word "duty," she pronounced in a way that made him break into laughter.

"I make it; you spend it," he said, taking her hand. "The best, and damn the expense!"

"No, really, Andrew; you should scold me."

"Really?"

"Yes, really," she said, with a mischievous smile. Then she added, serious once more, for it shocked her in her sense of fitness that he did not reprove her a little. "If you did, it would make me feel loads better."

Andrew had already forgotten the incident. He examined her with affectionate pride as his glance, satisfied, ran over the trappings of his car and rested, in final approval, on the trim figure of Bingham. Bingham was in excellent style. They were at the throat of the great Queensboro Bridge, halted in the jam of traffic. Other cars were about them. He estimated them with a little righteous pride in his own wife, his own car, and his own chauffeur. He had done it all, and he feared no comparison.

His hand closed over hers, with the feeling that life was now happily settled and the road clear ahead.

"Fifi came in and carried me off to luncheon at Sherry's," she said. "Any number of persons came up to see me. My head's quite turned with compliments. Do you know a Mr. Argesinger and a Mr. Devine—Wall Street men, friends of Fifi?" She hesitated a moment, then added, "They lunched with us."

He looked at her without the slightest shade of jealousy, overjoyed at her triumph.

"Just what you need! Play all you want; nothing would please me more."

As he said these words, his voice was so gentle that a great wave of tenderness went through her.

"How kind and big he is!" she thought to herself, with a little remorse.

"What dresses have you brought?"

"The black, the gold, and the cerise."

He frowned at the mention of this last, for, in the perfect chivalry of his attitude toward women, he was, by training, old-fashioned.

"The cerise, my dear, is—I'm not quite sure. The Dellabarres are quite conventional, aren't they?"

She smiled from her superior knowledge.

"I'm afraid you're in for a shock. Chilton is rather the racing set."

"True; but they are mostly families like the Dellabarres and Brackens, who have had money for generations. They'll be—a little rigid—especially the women. That's why I wouldn't wear the cerise gown, not just at first—not to-night."

"But with a scarf, Andrew!" she exclaimed, amused at his native conception of a strange world.

"Well, suppose we wait and see. Now for some bad news. I've got to pass to-morrow night with Gunther on his yacht. The king has summoned me."

"What—to-morrow! Our first visit together!" she cried, cut to the quick.

"But, Amy, do you know who Gunther is?" he answered, astonished.

"I don't care who he is. He can wait."

She had not the slightest idea of Gunther's importance. To her the blow was a vital one, directed at all her prerogatives as a wife. She withdrew her hand, turning toward the window to hide the tears which rose to her eyes.

"It's something I can't refuse," he said slowly. "I must have Gunther for a friend. It is a great opportunity for me."

"Am I invited, too?"

He hesitated.

"It is not a pleasure party. You don't understand. Gunther has offered me a position which would mean we'd be millionaires in five years. Whether I accept or refuse, I must make him interested in me."

"Millionaires! Really? Then why do you hesitate?" she said, her chagrin forgotten—for this word "millionaire" had to her ears the charm of a fairy tale.

"Well, I've been slaving for twenty years," he said slowly. "It would mean five years more and a lot of it away from New York—and you."

She was of a primitive, emotional, nature, quick to every influence. Before his generosity, she answered impulsively.

"Not from me. Wherever you go, I go."

And in saying this, she believed it.

"No, no," he said, his frown disappearing as if by magic; "you are young; you're going to enjoy yourself. I carried you off because I wasn't taking chances. But you're not going to regret anything you might have had. No, siree; nothing is going to make me quite so happy as sitting back and watching you sweep them off their feet. The best for you! And I shan't be jealous at all if men admire you — quite the contrary."

She was silent, profoundly moved. In these few moments, he had come closer to her than in all the months she had known him.

"Yes; you are right," she said, with such gratitude in her blue eyes that he had never seen them more beautiful. "Give me a year or two, dear. I am only a girl, and it is awfully hard to settle down and be serious just yet. I know that it won't last—I shall get tired of it—but just now—I do want to be seen, admired, flattered—I do want to play."

He laughed in his deep, hearty rumble, a weight lifted from his mind.

"Play," he said, smiling; "play for both of us, and if you want any more money, just say so and I'll make it." She turned to his arms impulsively, and to each, in the happiness of this new understanding, it seemed that all problems of marriage were happily resolved. "Now let me explain my position," he said gently, "and wherein you can help me. I have gotten to the point where I am strong enough to need friends. Dellabarre is an old fogy, but he's got property and connections. Make him our friend. I've gotten to where I am now, without having to say 'Thank you' to any one, but now I intend to use every arm that comes handy. Make friends; make friends," he said, listening to his own words. "You never know when the weakest hand can give just that last little push that will topple over the rock. You see, I am at a critical moment."

"What do you mean?" she said anxiously, for she had not the slightest knowledge of his business affairs.

"I am about to be known as a successful man. When my January report is out, I shall have a dozen enemies after my scalp. You don't understand? Here's the situation: American business is war. We are not shopkeepers, piling up reserves in our safes. We are speculators, adventurers, fighters, and we fight not for avarice but for the pure joy of combat. You never see any such motto as 'Live and let live' hung up in an American office. Oh, no! If you come up out of the crowd, you've got either to impose yourself or be crushed. Hit then first! This is where I am."

"But how can they hurt you?"

"If they can't break me, or buy me, or bring me into the family within five years, I shall absorb them. It'll be a fight to the finish. They can't touch me inside my own walls. They can't beat my organization or buy my lieutenants. Outside, it's different—raw materials, transportation, and credit. But don't worry; I am ready. My alliances are made. That's why Gunther must be my friend."

"But you are going to refuse?"

"I'm going to be cleverer than that. I am going to make him refuse for me," he said smiling. (He leaned forward, and taking the trumpet, cried cheerily, "To the right, Bingham, and the straight road ahead.") "So we understand each other. You're to play for both of us. It's the time of life to dance and to be extravagant. Do so to your heart's content."

"You need never have any fear."

"Hush," he said gravely, as though the very thought were treason.

She had no fear herself. The world was an immaterial thing, and pleasure had no form to her ardent imagination—least of all a masculine form. A feeling of great content came over her, and, smiling, she lifted his hand to her lips.

"How he loves me!" she thought.

The dusk had been creeping in as they had flown over the smooth macadam roads crowded with automobiles. The air had become moist and chill with the threat of rain which hung in the black drapery of the autumn clouds. Lights had begun to pop out of the darkness, postern lights and home lights, and in the turning of the road she caught flashes of cosy interiors—families gathered at the supper table, mothers with children.

The car slowed down. A flaring light showed the entrance to the drive. A child ran out to swing a gate. Ahead, at the end of the road, which lost itself in a tunnel of shadows under mysterious trees, the house lights were glowing, afloat on the night. She leaned forward eagerly, gay with anticipation, free now to seek without a qualm all the youth and pleasure ahead under the promise of the lights which fluttered at the end of the deep black way.

There was no one to meet them as they descended, and the great house seemed stranggly dark and inhospitable. She felt a splash of raindrops as she hurried into the vestibule. The butler, a family watchdog, eyed them with surprise and indecision, and receiving their names, departed.

"You've made no mistake in the day?" she said, surprised, to her husband.

"No."

At the end of a long wait, a footman hastened to throw on the lights, and suddenly brilliant vistas of halls and salons arose before their eyes. The butler returned precipitately, followed by a rapid, noiseless person, who introduced herself as Miss Bane, the housekeeper, and made nervous excuses for their strange reception. Underneath all this was such a feeling of agitation and confusion that Mrs. Forrester, her curiosity awakened, glanced at her husband. But Andrew perceived nothing. He was in admiration before the simple elegance of the baronial entrance, noting every detail, registering each effect which pleased him, making mental comparisons, already perceiving new worlds to attain.

RINSO—not a cake soap, not a washing powder—a new form of soap in granules.

SOAK the clothes; that's all.

—the very hardest things!

Children's rompers, grimy from the playground—kitchen aprons, long used curtains, towels—things you dread washing because they need so much rubbing—pile them into a tub with RINSO. Other things too! RINSO harms nothing! Let them soak over night or for three hours in the morning. Then—just rinse them. They're gleaming white and CLEAN. The gentle strength of RINSO has loosened the dirt. It just runs away. The bubbly tubful of rich RINSO suds has done all the work. Seems too good to be true, does it? Just one package of RINSO—enough for the week's wash—will prove it.

At night—soak the clothes with RINSO.
Morning—rinse them out. That's all.

The Last Corn

When you end your corn with Blue-jay, it will be the last corn you let grow.

You will know how to stop the pain. And how to quickly and completely end all corns.

There are millions who use Blue-jay now, and they never let a corn remain.

The new-day way

Blue-jay is the new-day way, the scientific method.

It was perfected in a laboratory world-famed for its surgical dressings.

It is supplanting the many treatments which are harsh and inefficient.

It has made paring as ridiculous as it is unsafe, for paring doesn't end corns.

Do this tonight:

Apply to a corn a Blue-jay plaster or liquid Blue-jay—whichever you prefer.

Mark how the pain stops. Then wait a little and the corn will loosen and come out.

© B & B 1920

What that corn does all corns will do. Some 20 million corns a year are ended in this way.

Don't suffer corns. Don't have your feet disfigured. They can be ended almost as easily as a dirt-spot on your face. They are just as inexcusable.

Don't forget this. It means too much to you.

Ask your druggist for Blue-jay.

"Owes her life to Virol"

No. 43, St. Ann St., Bolton. 24/5/1918.

Dear Sirs,

I have much pleasure in forwarding to you a photo of my little girl who I am quite sure owes her life to Virol. From birth she would not take her natural food, and I tried all the patent foods I knew of, but nothing would suit her; then I took her to three different doctors, after that I took her to the London Hospital; then when I was giving up in despair I was advised to try Virol. She is now 3 years of age and I think the picture speaks for itself.

Yours faithfully,

(sgd.) C. CONNOLLY.

Virol is invaluable for the expectant and nursing mother herself, whilst for children it supplies those vital principles that are destroyed in the sterilising of milk; it is also a bone and tissue-building food of immense value. Virol babies have firm flesh, strong bones and good colour.

Miss Mary Dorris was shopping in Peterborough on Friday.

Mr. John Moore has purchased a five-passenger Ford car.

Mrs. Stanley Taylor spent the week-end with Peterborough friends.

Miss Clara Roche, of Rochester, is at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Roche.

Mrs. Huntley and children, who have been guests the past week with friends at the Victoria House, have returned to their home at Toronto.

Mr. George Gillespie and family, of Peterborough, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. John Lang.

Mr. Thomas O'Neil, of Hastings, was the guest of friends at the Victoria House on Sunday.

Masters Alex. and William Wedlock, of Peterborough, are at the home of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry McLachlan.

Mrs. Robert Campbell was in Peterborough last Friday.

Mrs. Thomas Manley, who was called to Keene two weeks ago account of her mother, Mrs. George Brown, has returned to her home in Saskatoon accompanied by her sister, Miss Minnie Brown, who will spend the summer in the West.

Narrow Escape.

Mr. Wilfred Fletcher had a narrow escape from injury on Monday evening on making his usual trip to the station. The car became unmanageable, ran into the ditch, and upset. Aside from the damage to the car, no harm was done.

A Memorial.

The committee of arrangements for the soldiers' memorial of Keene and vicinity met on Monday evening at the Town Hall to make the final arrangements for the erection of the memorial, and preparing the grounds which they have purchased on the corner of Main and High Streets. The monument is to be completed and the unveiling ceremony will take place early in September.

FRECKLE-FACE

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots. How to Remove Easily.

Here's a chance, Miss Freckle-face, to try a remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable concern that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes the freckles; while if it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from any druggist and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength Othine as this strength is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

U. S. LABOUR PARTY'S CONVENTION PLANS.

Will Meet in Chicago July 11-13—Canada Will Be Represented.

(Canadian Press.)

CHICAGO, Ill., July 3.—The programme of the convention of the Labour Party of the United States, to be held in Chicago, July 11 to 13, is announced by Secretary Frank J. Esper.

The first day, Sunday, will be given over to hearing addresses from the various organisations. These include the Friends of Freedom for India, the Proportional Representation League, and the American Friends of Irish Freedom. Governor Lynn J. Frazier, of North Dakota, is scheduled to speak on behalf of the Nonpartisan League. It is regarded by Secretary Esper as very probable that Labour Party of Canada will be represented by fraternal delegates.

The Nonpartisan League will be represented by fraternal delegates, but will not participate otherwise in the convention. Max S. Haves, of Cleveland, chairman of the National Labour Party, will preside.

Nominations for president and vice-president are scheduled for Tuesday, if the convention is then ready to act. Platform is also to be adopted then.

PETROLEUM AT PEACE RIVER.

Dr. John A. Dresser Heads Geologist Party to Investigate.

(Canadian Press.)

VICTORIA, B. C., July 3. —Following steps last year when Professor Gwilin was engaged by the Provincial Government to investigate and report on Petroleum possibilities of the Peace River district, arrangements are being made for further investigation during the summer. Dr. John A. Dresser, consulting geologist, Montreal, will head a party, among members of which will be Prof. MacLean of the University of Toronto, and Edmund Speaker, geologist of John Hopkins University, Baltimore. The party will investigate the section south of the Dominion block and also to the north-west and its work will be more detailed than any heretofore undertaken.

TEXT OF PLATFORM OF NEW PARTY

OTTAWA, July 3.—The platform of the National Liberal and Conservment caucus is as follows:

Constitution.

Firm adherence to British connection, in full confidence that Canada will find its ample scope for development and usefulness and influence as a member of the Britannic Commonwealth, with the status of a self-governing nation equal to that of the other members. The maintenance of the autonomy of Canada and its existing rights and powers of self-government; the approval of the principle that no treaty, understanding or commitment which may involve the Empire ought to be undertaken except after consultation, and by common consent in the common interest.

Approval of Canada's membership in the League of Nations and a firm determination to maintain our recognized status as a member of the League. The upholding by every means within the Federal power of constituted authority throughout the Dominion, the maintenance of Parliamentary control over all legislation; respect for the rights and powers of the Provinces.

Citizenship.

The adoption of such measures as are necessary to maintain and protect the ideals of Canadian citizenship and co-operation with the Provinces in their efforts to Canadianize alien immigrants. The fostering of a Canadian as opposed to any class or sectional spirit, and the elimination of all prejudices that end to retard or destroy national unity and development.

National Policies.

Practical application of the principle that Parliament and Government exist to make and administer laws for all the people and not for any particular class or section to the detriment of the national as a whole; the carrying out of policies that are nation-wide in their application or effect and that look toward the growth and development of the whole of Canada and the prosperity and happiness of all its people.

The Tariff.

A thorough revision of the tariff with a view to the adoption of such reasonable measures as are necessary:

(a) To assist in providing adequate revenues.

(b) To stabilize legitimate industries.

(c) To encourage the establishment of new industries essential to the economic development of the nation.

(d) To develop to the fullest extent our natural resources.

(e) To prevent the abuse of the tariff for the exploitation of the consumer, and

(f) To safeguard the interests of the Canadian people in the existing world struggle for commercial and industrial supremacy.

As a means of raising revenue the tariff should be so adjusted as to place the chief burden upon those best able to bear it. Articles of luxury should be heavily taxed through the imposition of customs and excise rates. Food commodities and other necessaries of life not produced or manufactured in Canada should, if taxed at all, bear only such imposts as are necessary for revenue purposes. Those produced in Canada should be subjected to such customs duties only as may be necessary in the general national interests, to be determined after strict investigation from time to time.

Apart from the question of revenue, the tariff should have regard to the maintenance stability, and prosperity of Canadian enterprise in the development of all our natural resources in lands, forests, mines, fisheries—as well as our agricultural and manufacturing industries.

Consideration must also be given to the importance of creating and maintaining conditions that will afford to Canadian industrial workers opportunities for steady and remunerative employment, and maintain proper and decent standards of living among our laboring population. It is undoubtedly in the true interests of Canada as a whole that Canadian workers should not be forced to seek in foreign countries employment and opportunity denied them at home by reason of the export of natural resources, primary products and raw materials with which the Dominion is so amply endowed.

For the purpose of encouraging the fullest development of our natural resources the tariff should be so adjusted as to permit machinery and the implements of production to be purchased at prices that will compare equitably with those paid in other countries for similar articles. The revised tariff laws should be so framed and administered as to prevent effectively any customs duty being used to facilitate the formation or maintenance of any combine, trust, association or agreement among manufacturers, dealers or producers for the purpose at the expense of the general public, of restraining trade, preventing competition or unduly enhancing the selling value of any article of commerce.

The principle of trade preference between the different members of the Britannic Commonwealth should be maintained and extended from time to time to such a degree as may be found practicable and consistent with Canadian interests.

While a general revision of the Canadian tariff upon the foregoing consideration is due, it must be recognized that, owing to the war economic and commercial conditions the world round have been profoundly disturbed and that, as a consequence, it is neither practicable nor possible in the national or public interest to undertake such revision until a thorough inquiry is made to ascertain the essential facts upon which tariff provisions must necessarily be based.

The maintenance and continued application of the principle of direct taxation with a view to increasing the national revenue from this source should be continued. Such taxation should be so adjusted that the burden may be borne by those most capable of sustaining it. In devising methods of taxation and in fixing rates consideration must be given to the revenue necessities of Provinces and municipalities, and care must be exercised to avoid the creation of conditions that will discourage immigration or the investment in Canada of capital essential to our economic development.

National Expenditure.

Owing to the heavy financial burdens entailed by the war and resulting from railway policies adopted in pre-war days, the general national interest demands the utmost economy in every department of Government and effectual provision of the gradual reduction of the war debt. All expenditures, including even those of a productive character, should be strictly limited to essentials.

More comprehensive and effective methods of providing for the control of expenditures by Parliament may be devised and adopted.

National Railways.

Recognition of the necessity under existing conditions of amalgamating and unifying the various railway lines owned by the Dominion, with a view to eliminating duplication and effecting economies in construction and administration.

Expert management and operation of the entire railway systems, unfettered by partisan political interference. The fixing of a proper capitalization for the National Railway System.

National Defense and Air Service.

The reorganization, upon a moderate scale, of the Canadian militia system, and the restriction of the permanent forces to such establishment as will constitute a nucleus for defense, maintain respect for constituted authority, and ensure the public safety.

The establishment and maintenance of an efficient nucleus of a Canadian Air Service, so constituted and administered as to be available for either military or civil duties.

Ex-Members of the Forces.

Continuation of the policy of aiding ex-members of the forces to become satisfactorily established in the civil life of the community.

Should experience show the necessity, further special consideration of claim made upon behalf of the disabled, or the dependents of those who have fallen, in order that the nation may discharge its full obligations to those who have thus suffered.

Labor.

The enactment of such laws as will carry into effect the ideals and principles embodied in the Treaty of Peace, regard being had, as contemplated by the treaty, to the time and character of similar legislation enacted by other nations. The encouragemen of confidence and co-operation between employers and employed.

Agriculture.

The inauguration of policies conceived with a view to increasing the agricultural production of Canada, and of improving marketing methods and facilities in order to obtain the best net return to producers.

With this object in view, and for the purpose of eliminating duplication of services and expenditures, the reaching of an agreement with the Provinces respecting the future activities of the Federal and Provincial Department of Agriculture.

Co-operation with the Provinces in the direction of providing better rural credits and improved social conditions in rural communities.

Regulation and control of cold-storage and refrigerating facilities, so as to provide for the satisfactory marketing of perishable products in the interests of both producer and consumer.

Co-operation with the Provincial Department of Agriculture in a united effort, having for its object the improvement of the live stock and dairy interests, to the end that production may be increased and quality improved.

To facilitate further and encourage all phases of agricultural production by investment and experimentation.

Foreign Trade.

Continued thorough study by competent experts of foreign markets and the opportunities therein for the development and extension of Canadian trade, and the collection and distribution of pertinetn and up-to-date information in relation thereto to the business men of Canada. Efficient publicity agencies for making known abroad the commercial resources and products of Canada. The maintenance of continuous communication by correspondence and personal visits between our agencies abroad and our producers at home. A system of accurate and comprehensive statistical representation of our commercial and productive output a nd distribution.

Immigration.

A firm adherence to the principle that Canada as a self-governing nation has the absolute right to determine its own immigration policy.

The energetic promotion of immigration of desirable classes of persons who wish to establish homes in Canada and to become loyal Canadian citizens. As in the past, encouragement will be confined to prospective landseekers, agricultural labor, and household workers.

The continuation and extension of the policy adopted to prevent the landing in Canada of mental or physical defectives, of all such persons as are likely to become public charges, and if those whose ideals, customs and modes of life are such as to render them incapable of assimilation within a reasonable time.

Natural Resources and Conservation.

The transfer under fair terms and conditions of the remainder of the public domain held by the Dominion to any Province of Canada in which such domain is situated, subject to such reserves as may be deemed advisable in the public interest.

As regards the public domain and all other natural resources outside the Provinces and owned by the Dominion, the adoption of such policies as will result in their use and development to the advantage of Canada as a whole.

Inland Waterways and Highways.

Such further development of the existing canal systems of Canada as is necessary to improve navigation and cheapen transportation; with the additional object in view of developing the production and use of electrical energy for domestic, agricultural, municipal, industrial and railway purposes, and under such prudent regulations as will thoroughly safeguard the interests of the people.

The carrying to completion of the provisions made by Parliament for co-operation with the Provinces in the matter of highways construction.

TO SAFEGUARD YOUR DIGESTION

THE BLOOD SHOULD CONSTANTLY BE KEPT RICH AND PURE.

If you suffer from any form of indigestion, your diet should be carefully chosen. Over-eating is always harmful, but at the same time one must take enough food to supply the needs of the blood. It must be remembered that the blood has to carry nourishment to every part of the body, find fuel for energy and defence against its enemies, as well as the requisite juices for digestion. Hence, when the blood becomes weak and fails to do its work, indigestion arises; also when indigestion begins the blood still further suffers. Therefore, to safeguard your digestion the blood should be kept rich and red, and this can best be done by taking a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills are a blood-building, nerve-restoring tonic and through their use your digestive system will respond naturally, your appetite will improve and your food will do you good. The value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in cases of stomach trouble is shown by the experience of Mrs. J. H. Alexander, Barriefield, Ont., who says: "Some years ago I was in a terribly broken down condition. I had indigestion of a severe nature, and sharp pains of agony all through me. My stomach was so weak that it was difficult to retain food, and often after eating I would have vomiting spells. I was under medical treatment, but as I did not improve my nerves were in a terrible condition and I was always in much misery. One day I read of a woman who had been cured of similar trouble through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I decided to try them. The result can be summed up by saying that after using the pills for some weeks I was completely cured, could eat a hearty meal and was again enjoying life. If I feel run down at any time I take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and always get benefit from them."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

RICH RESOURCES IN CANADIAN NORTH

PEOPLE GENERALLY DISPLAY LAMENTABLE IGNORANCE CONCERNING THIS COUNTRY.

(Canadian Press.)

WINNIPEG, Man., July 3.—"It is deplorable and ridiculous what the schools of Canada teach Canadian children about the northlands of the Dominion," declared Vilhjalmur Stefansson, a recent visitor here. "It amounts to most defamatory propaganda," added the noted explorer.

People generally display a lamentable ignorance concerning this country, and it is simply due to the fact that they are wrongly instructed when they are children, according to Mr. Stefansson, who declared that the country north of the Arctic circle is very different to what people believe.

There are 640 different species of flowering plants, and roughly three times as many species of flowering plants as non-flowering plants in the Arctic country, Mr. Stefansson said; and he described some of the conditions responsible for what to the people of Canada seems anomalous, because of the climatic conditions there.

In the north, he explained, there are two seasons similar to the settled part of Canada.

Just in the same way as grass cannot grow here in the winter time, the grass cannot grow in the country around and north of the Arctic circle in the winter. But in the summer time, one can find Kentucky blue grass, which is the most prevalent among the vegetation up there, golden rod, poppies, blue bells, dandelions, timothy, and watercress, "and these plants grow as far north as any land that has been discovered," added Mr. Stefansson.

Speaking of the development of the it would be developed in the same northland, Mr. Stephansson predicted that it would be developed in the same way as other countries. He explained that there are rich resoorces up there, and when asked if the climate would act as a deterrent, replied "A land is measured by its productivity and not by its climate, and if a land is productive, it will be developed irrespective of its climate."

Not Always.

"Seeing is believing, you know."

Miss Flipp: "Not always. I see you quite frequently, but I seldom believe you."

NOT LIKE THE OLD DAYS

"Times have changed," sighed Uncle Bill. "Times have surely changed."

"What makes you think so?"

"A little family party I attended last night. The women folk talked politics, while the men folk got off in a corner and exchanged recipes."—London Opinion.

Voice Of The People

NOT ALL "INDIGNANT" OVER GUNS.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—From the reference to the German guns that appeared on the front page of Friday's Examiner, one might imagine that all citizens felt "indignation" over the placing of the guns in Central Park—in fact, over the placing of the guns anywhere in the city. Surely such is not the case. I, for one, am proud to see them there, or anywhere on Canadian soil. Much better that they to have Canadian guns on German soil. We fought for those guns, and we should glory in the fact that we got them.

"Why, one of those guns may be the one that blew some of our boys to pieces!" Shucks! The greater the glory and the pride, then, in seeing that gun now in our possession. I lost a brother in June, 1916, near Ypres (2nd Battalion). Shrapnel did it. I would give much to know that the gun that fired that shot was captured and is now in Central Park, Peterborough. I would be proud to know it. I lost other relatives over there. Would that the guns that were responsible were captured—and "got" right, crews and all—and that those guns were now proudly placed on good old Canadian soil! Would that we had a German gun in Peterborough for every brave Peterborough man or lad who fell. That's what our soldiers were there for, and what many of them fell for—to silence, capture, and bring home, if possible, German guns. I know a little about it (along with countless other veterans), I being there in the 15th Battalion (48th Highlanders).

Among Canada's proudest possessions are old enemy guns in various cities from coast to coast captured in the Crimean War and the Boer War. Who ever heard that wails of woe and anguish were expressed over those guns being mounted in the public places concerned? Not much! Unfortunately, however, in spite of our glorious record in the Great War, many of us have lost the real British spirit since those days—the spirit that "braved the battle and the breeze," the spirit that not only conquered, but held what it conquered, including guns. Let us be proud of our quota of German guns—in honour of those Canadian men who conquered by giving their lives for the cause.—Yours, "Old Sarge."

ANOTHER BIG PULP MILL.

Company Composed of Toronto People and Has $1,000,000 Capital.

(Canadian Press.)

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., July 3. — The Kaministiqua Pulp and Paper Company, with a capitalization of one million dollars, and composed principally of Toronto people, has leased sixteen acres from the Port Arthur Parks Board in the north and industrial section of the city, and will proceed at once with the erection of a thirty-ton per day ground wood pulp mill. C. D. Howe has been engaged as engineer in charge. Mr. Howe was in charge of the erection of a number of the large elevators here recently, and also of the repair work on the big Government plant at Port Colborne.

CREDIT MARGIN FOR THE BRIDGE FAST DECREASING

TOTAL EXPENDITURE TO THE END OF JUNE IS CLOSE TO THE $260,000 VOTED BY THE PEOPLE—EXCESS REQUIREMENT MUST BE VOTED ON.

ESTIMATE AWAITED

Rumours of the appropriation for the Hunter street bridge having dwindled to a precarious margin and of the probability of the cessation of the work until more money is voted by the people have cropped out of the Council's recent proposal to prepare a bylaw to present to the ratepayers for the provision of sufficient money to finish the work.

At the city treasurer's office it was learned that the payments recorded there up to the end of June total $242,039.68, and that the expenditure for the last month was $29,684.13. At the office of the city's accountant on the work no verification of these figures could be obtained yesterday afternoon. The monthly statement, it was learned, has been made out and will be presented to the Council at the regular meeting on Monday night. Until then the only available figures are those from the treasurer's office, and accepting these as a basis of computation it is apparent that the sum of $260,000 voted by the ratepayers will barely cover the cost of the operations for July. However, there is the additional credit of $50,000 received from the Government and the $5,000 from the Railway Board, making a total of $300,000 in round numbers.

Presuming that the city has $300,000 on hand there should be little apprehension of the exhaustion of credit and the suspension of work before the bylaw for the extension of funds is voted on.

Some members of the Council are inclined to criticize Mr. Frank Barber for not calling their attention earlier to the bridge account. It is assumed that he must have foreseen the overrunning of the appropriation and it is pointed out that even now there is no definite estimate of the additional sum needed to finish the work. Had the information been received during the session of the Legislature, it is believed that the presentation of a bylaw to the people could have been avoided by the Council securing permission through a private bill to borrow whatever amount may be required to cover the expected deficit.

While declaring that they will not countenance the expenditure of a dollar beyond the present appropriation members of the Council are anxious to have the new bylaw prepared as soon as possible. July 30 has been fixed for the voting, but Mr. Barber must first submit an estimate of the excess cost which will be discussed by the Bridge Committee and the Council.

In the meantime the construction is progressing steadily. The western spandrels have been poured, both approaches are well advanced, the excavation of the western pier of the main arch is practically ready and the piles upon which the false work for the long arch will be erected now reach half way across the river.

RAGGED AND HATLESS HAD 115,080 FRANCS

Won Small Fortune at Races. Ex-Soldier is Dazed at His Luck.

PARIS, July 3.— Ragged, hatless and practically shoeless, an elderly man was sitting in the park on the south side of the Seine a few night since, muttering to himself, 50, 60, 70, the while in stacking thin little slips of paper one upon the other. He attracted the attention of two gendarmes for he apparently had been drinking too much wine. He was taken to the station.

The desk sergeant was bewildered when the ragged man explained that the little slips of paper he was counting were good bills of the Bank of France and that the figures he was mumbling represented their amount. He had 115,080 francs.

'I won this money at the races," explained the denizen of the park.

Ex-Colonial Soldier.

It developed that the man was one Billigot, a former colonial soldier, at times street newspaper vendor, known to the citizens of Grenelle ward in Paris as "Father of Luck" or "Father Cherry" (the little fruit being known in the parlance of the Paris gambling circles as the emblem of luck.) He had run up 140 francs, the amount of his pension paid to him as an ex-soldier, into 115,080 francs. The police released him, after giving him a little advice about counting his wealth in public parks while slightly under the influence of red wine.

Bought Life Annuity.

Billigot invested 80,000 francs in a life annuity the next morning, bought a suit of clothes, shoes, et cetera, and before departing for Saint Cloud race track called on the friendly police sergeant and gave him a tip on the races for that afternoon. The horse won. The newspaper L'Eclair has offered him 100 francs per day for his racing selections until the end of the year.

INTERNATIONALISM IN THE LIGHT OF THE GOSPEL OF CHRIST.

Prof. Edward Arthur Wicher, D.D., a Canadian who has been residing in California for some years, will preach at the union services to-morrow of George Street Methodist and St. Paul's Presbyterian, both morning and evening, in the morning in St. Paul's and in the evening in George Street. His evening subject will be "Internationalism in the Light of the Gospel of Christ." He believes that in the present condition of world politics, a good understanding should exist between Britain and the United States. He is anxious that at the evening service there should be in attendance representative citizens, such as the City Council and members of the Board of Trade. A cordial invitation is hereby given to all who might wish to hear Prof. Wicher. Mr. Wicher is paying a visit to the place of his birth, Warsaw, where he will give an address

GUARD BABY'S HEALTH IN THE SUMMER

The summer months are the most dangerous to children. The complaints of that season, which are cholera infantum, colic diarrhoea and dysentiy, come on so quickly that often a little one is beyond aid before the mother realizes he is ill. The mother must be on her guard to prevent these troubles, or if they do come on suddenly to banish them. No other medicine is of such aid to mothers during hot weather as is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the stomach and bowels and are absolutely safe. Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A GREAT RACE IN CENTRAL LEAGUE

BELLEVILLE, OSHAWA AND PETERBORO ARE ALL IN A HEAP.

The Central League race looks like a race right down the stretch between Belleville, Oshawa and Peterboro, with the result in doubt until the final game of the schedule on August 7th, when the Petes play in Oshawa. Lindsay, Port Hope and Cobourg are out of the struggle, but the other three teams are neck and neck, with Belleville and Peterboro tied for first place, and Oshawa only half a game behind. The Petes have a slight edge, inasmuch as they have a victory over both of their closest rivals to their credit, having beaten both Oshawa and Belleville. They have four games to play, two at home with Cobourg and Lindsay, and the other pair away with Oshawa and Lindsay. Oshawa has to play Belleville and Cobourg, both away and at home and has a home game with Peterboro. Belleville's remaining games are with Oshawa and Lindsay.

ARMATURE WINDERS DEFEATED CRESSMANS

The Armature team of the C.G.E. defeated Cressman's, Mercantile League leaders, by 4—2, in a seven-innings game at Riverside Park on Friday evening. The batteries were Bartley and Cobb for Cressman's, and Frost and Huff for the Armature Department. Joe Picard umpired the game, with Pete Gettas on the bases.

Cressman's had their regular line-up, and the Armature team was as follows:

Shannon 1b, Guerin 2b, Fry 3b, Rutherford ss, Nixon l, McCoy cf, Powell lf, Huff c, Frost p.

CALEDONIAN CLUB'S SUCCESSFUL OUTING

AN ENJOYABLE TIME WAS SPENT AT SOUTH BEACH—THE PRIZE-WINNERS.

Under the auspices of the Peterboro Caledonian Club a very successful excursion was held on Dominion Day to South Beach. The members gathered together at the G. T. R. Station to travel by train to Lakefield so as to connect by boat for the selected destination and arrived in the early part of the forenoon as per schedule.

The first part of the programme was the necessities of life that all had brought with them to enjoy themselves and do justice to the "good things."

Sports.

Immediately after Mr. Harry Taylor and Mr. Alex. McArthur introduced the sports with a Women's Tug-of-War that demonstrated the power of the arm but the great surprise of the day was the defeat of Mrs. Peter McArthur's team by Mrs. Hurry's Team. The pulls were very steady and if the losers had only put a little more weight into the last pull they would have been successful.

Football Players' Race—1st John Shaw, 2nd S. McMillan, 3rd M. Shaw, 4th Jas. Shaw.

Girls' Race, 9 to 12 years—1st Effie Dick, 2nd Annie Shaw.

Young Ladies' Race—1st Miss McLeish, 2nd Miss Ingram.

Married Women's Race—1st Mrs. Alex. McKinley, 2nd Mrs. Perrie.

Needle and Thread Race—Mr. and Mrs. T. McArthur.

Boys' Race, 9 to 14 years—1st David Grant, 2nd J. McLeish, 3rd Jim McCulloch.

Married Men's Race—1st Jas. Shaw, 2nd C. Fenner.

Girls' Race, 5 to 9 years—1st May Thomson, 2nd Effie Hockadv.

Young Men's Race—1st Matt Shaw, 2nd S. McMillan.

Men's Swimming Race—John Shaw and Len Walner a tie.

Fishing Competition.

There was great excitement among the fishing enthusiasts for the prizes. Mr. Moyes, Perrie, Wyllie, Duthy, McCulloch, Veitch, McLeish, and others all reported excellent catches of fish. One young man returned with a 12 pound lunge but the prize was awarded to Mr. Andrew Duthy for the best fish, caught from the shore.

Piper and Eightsome Reel.

During the afternoon Piper Thom played a number of reels and strathspeys for the company. The eightsome reel and Highland fling attracted the attention of a number of visitors.

Return Trip.

At four o'clock the boat left South Beach for Peterboro, and throughout the trip down a number enjoyed themselves dancing while others sung "Auld Scotch Sangs." A pleasant journey terminated with everybody singing "Auld Lang Syne" and all recording the day a perfect treat.

DONATION TO THE GREAT WAR VETERANS' BAND

The following letter has been received by the G.W.V. Band from the secretary of the Soldiers' Wives' and Mothers' Club:

Dear Sir,—The above named society have disbanded and find they have $20.60 balance, which was decided to be handed over to the "G.W.V. Band." Trusting this small amount may be of some benefit to the members, and wishing you all success in your undertakings.

Yours truly,
Soldiers' Wives and Mothers' Club.
F. K. STANLEY, Secretary.

On behalf of the Band of the G.W.V. I wish to acknowledge the receipt of $20.60 from the above society and beg to tender them many thanks for their generosity and appreciate their kind remarks. Signed,

WALTER DYER.
Band Sec-Treas. G.W.V. Band.

GOOD CROPS IN DAKOTA.

Indications Promise No Shortage of Farm Labor.

MINOT, N.D., July 3. — For the first time in five years indications point to good crops in Northwestern North Dakota, according to reports received here by bankers. Heavy rains of the past few weeks have given good impetus to growing grains and crops are in excellent condition, the reports say.

Corn acreage in the Northwestern part of the state, bankers estimate, has been increased 35 to 40 per cent. over past seasons, while a large percentage of flax also has been sown.

The labor situation on North Dakota farms has improved greatly and in the opinion of the United States employment officials here there will be no lack of labor in the harvest fields. Many inquiries have been received from persons in the east who wish to work on North Dakota farms during the harvest. The usual number of college students are expected to be in the fields; many inquiries have already been received from them. Wages being paid by the farmers now are unusually high.

Call It Quits.

Stern Parent—Edwin, didn't you promise me not to play marbles again?

Little Edwin—Yes, sir.

Stern Parent—And didn't I promise to whip you if you did?

Little Edwin—Yes, sir, but I forgot to keep my promise, so I won't hold you to yours.

HEART APPEAL IS WRITTEN ALL OVER "THE SAGEBRUSHEB"

Has the Mark Twain Formula, a Mixture of Tears and Laughter.

What the litereray critics said of Emerson Hough's famous novel, "The Sagebrusher," has proven true of Benjamin B. Hampton's screen edition, a powerful W. W. Hodkinson release, which is the attraction at the Allen Theatre, beginning Monday namely, the fact that it has the quality of universal appeal.

Universal appeal is the thing that made Shakespeare and Dickens immortal. It is a quality that makes a story of a play or a book here and there to-day rise from the ranks of the merely good, and make a pronounced artistic and financial success.

"In fact," as Mark Twain said before he himself had joined the immortals, "what Shakespeare and those other fellows did was easy enough. Just write something that is a mirror of human life and emotion, only better than life; make it what might happen o any man, but more interesting than anything that ever happened to a man before. Paint truly, but color highly. Mix hearts tugs with brain tussle and thrills; tears with laughs in the right proportion. Oh yes, it's easy—when you know how!"

That is what Emerson Hough did in "The Sagebrusher." With one of the strongest human situations on record in either fiction or drama, he has combined "heart tugs with brain tussle and thrills; tears with laughs in the right proportion." In the Great Authors production a cast of star players interpret the roles of the novel, under the supervision of Benj. B. Hampton who has proven that he, too, had the formula of mixing "tears with laughs in the right proportion." Although Mr. Hough has been a celebrated novelist for years, "The Sagebrusher" is the first of his works to appear on the screen.

THE "PRODIGAL WIFE" AT THE REGENT THEATRE

Mary Boland, who is featured with Lucy Cotton in the Screencraft production of "The Prodigal Wife," which is to be shown at the Regent Theatre, beginning Monday next, thinks only such moving pictures should be made as have a purpose.

As opposed to those screen stars who demand that they shall appear exclusively in stories which will give fullest scope for their beauty, Miss Boland cares little for whether the story presents her in the most attractive light, or not, so long as it provides the opportunity for real acting, and contains a message that will touch the hearts of audiences.

In "The Prodigal Wife" Miss Boland is called upon to depict a woman who is utterly destitute and wretched. Underlying the dramatic force of the story is a beautiful object lesson of the value of ideals. The manner with which Miss Boland brings this purpose home to the onlookers, without their being conscious of it, is a signal tribute to her own ideals and to her remarkable talent as an actress.

This talent for several years has been utilised principally on the stage, where Miss Boland appeared as leading lady for John Drew. At the present time she is playing opposite Leo Ditrichstein, in "The Matinee Hero."

There is a better market for smiles than frowns.

The highest form of saesmanship is nothing but service.

SAY SUGAR BILLED AS LOW AS 9 CENTS

CHICAGO, July 3.—Shipments of between four million and five million pounds of sugar which are now being received in Chicago by way of Canada, were billed to packers, canners and wholesalers at as low as 9 and 9 1-2 cents a pound, Federal investigators said here.

The United States' District Attorney's office said that an investigation would be started to determine if evidences of profiteering existed.

Wholesalers and other large users were generally reported to be paying 26 and 26 1-2 cents for sugar, with the retail price hovering around 30 cents.

SOLD HIS PROPERTY BUT BALL TEAM LOST

Mr. Louis Yeotes has returned from Toronto where he has been successful in selling on a cash basis his fine property, with a 42 foot frontage on Queen street. The deal was a good one, but Mr. Yeotes is inclined to think that he should have delayed the transaction until after the ball season was over seeing that his Thistles were beaten while he was away. He has now disposed of all his outside property, and will devote his whole attention to the local business and to baseball.

TRAPPER MAKES A LIVING NEAR THIS METROPOLIS.

Tom Kay, of Agincourt, Remembers When Muskrat Was Not Worth While.

TORONTO, July 3.—There is nothing about the well-tilled fields and occasional wood-lot in the district to the east of the city to suggest that anyone could possibly make a living by trapping fur-bearing animals in that district. But the animals exist there, and so does the trapper, the last of his race in the older settled sections of the Province. Foxes, mink, muskrat, skunk and weasel are than sixty years ago, commenced to trap them, but there are some left, and every year he can produce enough pelts to back up his statements.

Tom Kay, the last of the trappers, lives in a little one-roomed shanty beyond the village of Agincourt, less than eight miles from the city limits, and as long as he can remember he has tramped the woods with his muzzle - loading shotgun on his shoulder, and in winter time has set his traps on the banks of every stream within a radius of eight miles. As pelts have lessened in number their prices have increased, so that, living frugally as he does, Tom Kay has been able to make nearly as good a living from the civilized wilds of the present day as he did from the wilderness of sixty years ago.

UNITED SERVICES BEGIN TO-MORROW.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and Trinity Methodist Church begin to-morrow their third series of union services. The morning service will be in St. Andrew's Church and the evening service in Trinity Church. This arrangement will be continued for five Sundays, when it will be reversed for five more Sundays. Rev. James Rollins, minister of St. Andrew's, will be in charge of the work of both congregations for the first period and Rev. F. E. Malott, minister of Trinity, will have charge during the second period. During the first five Sundays the music will be in charge of Mr. and Mrs. George H. King, after which Mr. John Crane will preside at the organ, and the soloist will be Mrs. Maurice Park, who has been recently appointed soloist of St. Andrew's Church.

The united choir will consist of such members of each choir as may be in the city.

These churches open wide their doors in Christian hospitality to each other, to strangers visiting in the city, and to all who care to worship with them, and offer whatever privileges of worship and fellowship these services afford. Attentive ushers will meet you at the door and conduct you to desirable sittings.

WHISKY TAKEN OFF FREIGHT.

One night last week, between the Brockville yard and what is known as "the deep cut," one mile east of the town, 35 cases of whisky were removed from a car of an eastbound freight train, and detectives have been unable to locate them. Owing to a stiff grade, trains move slowly leaving Brockville for Montreal.

The goods, it is said, were apparently lowered from the car by means of a rope. Apparently more than one man was implicated.

S. A. TEMPLE NOTES.

The week end services at the Temple will be conducted by the officers in charge, Adjutant and Mrs. Bunton. There will also be some special visitors in the persons of Bandmaster and Mrs. Baldwin of Guelph. They are well known at the local corps, having visited Peterborough last year, and their musical talent was very much appreciated during their stay in the city. A special treat will therefore be in store for those who attend the services this week end. Sergeant Major Gandy ha salso returned from a business trip to the States and will assist at the meetings.

A short old fashioned Salvation Army open air service will be conducted to-night at the corner of Simcoe and George streets.

The Sunday morning open air will be held at the corner of London and Bethune streets sharp at ten o'clock

To any who are strangers in the city and to all visitors a cordial invitation is extended. Plenty of soul-stirring musical and the old story of Divine love told in plain and simple manner. Come and see and hear for yourself.

REAL ESTATE BOOM SUFFERS FROM A TEMPORARY SETBACK

PETERBORO REAL ESTATE MEN LOOK FOR REVIVAL OF THE BOOM IN THE FALL.

While real estate in the city is quiet now, an impetus in business is expected in the next month or so, local real estate men say. The quiet spell for the last six weeks has been due largely to the different strikes in the city and also to the nervousness amongst would-be purchasers to take the plunge and buy a house or property at the high figures prevailing now. These figures, apparently high, are not so compared to those in other centres, they say, and they claim that until property values in the city do go higher, a slackness is bound to prevail. A house that would cost $6,000 to build now is not saleable at that price, for people look on the amount of its pre-war value, not that of to-day. They expect to buy it for $4,000.

Rents High.

Rents are high and are going higher. With values of houses up, a man must get a good rent to make a fair return, is the reason they offer. At present they state dozens of people are waiting hopefully to buy a house in the fall, looking for a lower price, but their roseate expectations are nonsensical, the dealers state. Property will be higher, without question.

Many people are now camping down the river and at Chemong for the summer, this providing a temporary relief, but what will they do in the fall? asks a dealer. Then there are the newly June weds and the extraordinary large number of these must be housed. Decent rooms, they say, are as scarce as bananas in Baffin Land, and the business in these, if there are any to reht, is good. While the sale of houses is dead, the renting of houses keeps them busy, but the difficulty is to get any to rent.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. Garret Fitzgibbon, of Wisconsin, is visiting his sister, Mrs. McWilliams, of the city.

DRURY WON'T BE RUSHED

Wants to Be Sure That Hydro Radoial Scheme is Safe Before Acting.

TORONTO, July 3.—When asked as to the delay in authorization by the Government of the transfer of the Guelph Radial to the Hydro-Electrical Power Commission Premier Drury stated that the Government was procuring expert advice in respect to the whole radial situation.

"Before going ahead we want to know that it is a sound financial project, otherwise we don't want to saddle the people with it," he said. "The Guelph radial is only part of the huge scheme and the Government must deal with it as such." The Premier added that patience was necessary and that the Government's attitude had not changed since he informed the delegation from the municipalities that the Government must be satisfied as to the financial soundness of the scheme.

TIMES' TRIBUTE TO BORDEN.

Recalls That He Was a Teacher in a U.S. Institute Away Back in 70's.

NEW YORK, July 3.—"In the retirement of Sir Robert Borden from the Premiership of Canada, there passes a statesman whose life has been marked by the effectiveness with which he maintained the political equality of Canada and the other Dominions with the Mother Country," says the New York Times. The newspaper accentuates his friendship for the United States, "despite his opposition to the passage of a trade reciprocity treaty between Canada and the United States in 1911."

The Times recalls that in the early 70's the "grey-eyed Nova Scotian" left his home in Grand Pre to become an instructor in the Glenwood Institute at Matawan, N.J., and says that his friendship for the United States was begun in those early days.

GOVERNOR ON THE CARPET.

Shorn of His Honours and Held Responsible for Cleric's Death.

PEKIN, July 3.—General Chang Ching Yao, military Governor of Hunan, whose failure to sombat troops of the southern Chinese Republic caused the loss of the Chang-Sha and Yo-Chow, it is alleged, has been deprived of his military rank, shorn of his honours, and ordered to this city to answer for his conduct of the campaign in Hunan.

The United States Legation here insists that he be held responsible for the murder of Rev. W. A. Reimert, of New Tripoli, Lehigh County, Pennsylvania, who was killed early in June when Yo-Chow was abandoned by the northern trooos. Yo-Chow was reoccupied by forces of the northern Republic on 26th June.

SHOULD BE UNIFORM.

Attorney-General Comments on Eight Hour Day Legislation.

TORONTO, July 3.—"We have not considered that question," said Attorney-General Raney here when asked if he had any opinion to offer on the pronouncement from Ottawa that the eight-hour day question was one for the Provinces to deal with. "There is no doubt it would be inconvenient for one Province to pass a law of that kind unless the other provinces joined. It ought to be Dominion legislation or legislation concurrent in the different Provinces so that law would be uniform."

PERHAPS THE PRAYERS MAY BE NEEDED, TOO.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Ministers of all negro churches in the country are asked to offer prayer Sunday for the success of the Republican candidates for President and Vice-President in an appeal sent out by the negro ministerial campaign committee.

TO ENFRANCHISE WOMEN.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—A race between the Democratic and Republican parties for the honour of enfranchising the women of the nation in time for their participation in the November elections here appeared probable. The two parties, the indications were, would work through Legislatures in which each has a majority; the Democrats through the Tennessee Legislature and the Republicans through the Vermont law-making body.

ENGINEERS ON TOUR.

BELLEVILLE, July 2.—The members of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers arrived here late Wednesday night by special train from Ottawa, and were welcomed at the depot by Major Riggs and citizens. The visitors, who number about 150, spent Dominion Day in Belleville, and in visiting various chemical plants in Hastings County. A complimentary banquet was tendered the engineers on Thursady night before their departure.

NEVER ANOTHER CHANCE.

That Deseronto's chances of ever securing another training camp for fliers are pretty slim is a fact that the Deseronto Post learned some time ago. Camp Borden, with its cemented in hangars, a camp that has cost the Government upwards of two millions, will be the east's only training grounds. Other camps are assured in Canada, but these camps will spread from Winnipeg to the coast.

CANADIAN GETS THE JOB.

Thorold Releases Auditor Who Lived on American Side of Line.

ST. CATHARINES, July 3.—Thorold Town Council has declined to reappoint L. Gray, of New York State, as Town Auditor, and has selected N. C. Martin, a Canadian, instead. Gray was getting $300 a year, and in applying for reappointment he asked for an increase of $300 to make up for the American exchange in Canadian money he was paid in, and his travelling expenses.

$98,000 FOR HIS SEAT.

NEW YORK, July 3.—Allan A. Ryan, chairman of the Stutz Motor Car Company, was notified by the Board of Governors that his seat had been sold for $98,000.

The Plain Truth.

He (after the quarrel)—Then what did you marry me for?

SMALL RIOT NEAR THE C.G.E. WORKS

EGGS OF ANCIENT VINTAGE USED BY ALLEGED STRIKERS.

A small riot occurred this morning when alleged C. G. E. strikers rottenegged and stoned two carloads of strike breakers near the C. G. E. plant. As a result, Frank Meeks, of Townsend Street, was charged in this morning's Police Court with assault.

Considerable difficulty was met with in laying the charge, and at first an effort was made to charge the strikers as a body with assault.

After consultation between the Magistrate, the prosecution, and the defence, Meeks, the only one against whom there was evidence, was charged with assault, the complainant being Charles E. Martin, one of the strike breakers.

From the United States.

G. N. Gordon, who appeared for the defence, alleged that the strike breakers were professional strike breakers from the United States, who had been ordered deported from the country.

Meeks was remanded until next Friday.

During the consultation over the laying of the charge, Mr. Gordon objected to a charge of assault on the grounds that rotten eggs could not be considered as doing "grievous bodily harm."

The Magistrate replied, "That depends on how rotten the eggs are."

$86.40 in Liquor Fines.

There was a rich harvest of fines for intoxication this morning—$86.40 in all. Three men were charged with being drunk in a public place, and one with driving a car while under the influence of liquor. When the third case of drunkenness was brought in, the Magistrate remarked that he was glad to see money getting so plentiful.

All four pleaded guilty. The three charged with being intoxicated in a public place were each relieved of $14.10, and the one charged with driving a car while under the influence of liquor contributed $44.10 to the coffers in payment for the aesthetic pleasure of seeing two suns rise early this morning over his windshield.

The Magistrate refused to heed the plea for leniency in this case, and stated, "No drunken man has a right to get into such a murderous machine."

FIREMEN ON MAURETANIA DESERT FOR BETTER PAY

NEW YORK, July 3.—Prospects of obtaining higher wages on vessels flying the U. S. flag, is believed by Cunard line officials to account for the desertion here of 42 firemen of the steamship Mauretania, the departure of which was delayed three hours here. The vessel left for Cherbourg and Southampton after replacing stokers had been secured. Lady Geddes, wife of Sir Auckland, ambasasdor to Washington, sailed home to bring her children to the United States.

Other passengers included the Earl of Limerick, who is returning to England, rather than his estate in Ireland, because of disturbances there, after having visited his daughter and son-in-law, James C. Brady, at Gladstone, N.J. Lord Limerick said he hoped to see the statue of "prohibitive liberty" on his way down the harbor. "Every time that I have come to New York it has been so foggy that I was unable to see the statue of "prohibitive liberty," he said.

CAFETERIA FOR LADIES.

Oshawa will shortly have a cafeteria for girls and women only, that will serve meals of the highest order at the lowest possible cost, and the cooking of which will be done by experienced cooks. The foreman of the work now being done at the Mary Street School, Mr. Fred. Curl, who went to Oshawa last fall from Smith's Falls, likes Oshawa so well that he is going to remain there and start a grocery store, the back part of which will be used as a cafeteria for girls, and will be run by Mrs. Curl.

RESTORING RELATIONS

BRITISH AMBASSADOR PRESENTS CREDENTIALS TO PRESIDENT EBERT.

(Canadian Press)

BERLIN, July 5.—Lord Abernon, the newly appointed British Ambassador to Germany presented his credentials to President Ebert yesterday. He declared that the world crisis will be overcome only by General collaboration of which the basis is the maintenance of firm, friendly alliances and strict execution of the Peace Treaty. He asserted that in accepting the task of restoring relations betwen two great nations he counted on good will and collaboration of the German government. President Ebert replied that the German people shared the firm resolution of their Government to face their obligations to the limit.

HEARST ANNOUNCES SELF AS THIRD PARTY LEADER

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

NEW YORK, July 5.—The newspapers owned by William Randolph Hearst announce that William Randolph Hearst has been selected to lead a third party in the coming United States' elections. The Hearst papers call this the "American Constitutional Party," and state that the call to leadership came from "delegates representing the most important States on the Atlantic seaboard." In the balloting at the Democratic National Convention Friday Hearst received one vote out of a total of 1,094.

Position Awarded

NEW PLUMBING INSPECTOR APPOINTED AT INCREASE IN SALARY.

Arthur G. Metherel was the successful applicant for the position of plumbing inspector for the city, at the meeting of the Property Committee, on Saturday afternoon. Ald. James Hamilton was appointed chairman pro tem., who with Ald. J. Crowe and Ald. F. Whitehouse, constituted the committee.

The resignation of Peter Thompson, plumbing inspector, was accepted and on motion his salary will be paid up till Aug. 1st.

A letter will be sent expressing the appreciation of the committee for his faithful services.

The following applications were received for the position.

John F. Shaughnessy $1500
No name signed $1800
R. McCullough $1200
A. G. Metheral, $1500 to $2000
Fred O. Goodfellow $1500
P. G. Wallace ....$35 week
Wesley Rose $1400
F. A. Rathbone $1400

On the motion of Ald. J. Cowe, seconded by Ald. Whitehouse, Arthur Metheral was appointed at a salary of $1500 a year.

The matter of the stand for the statue in the Public Library was left to the chairman of the Property Committee, the Chairman of the Public Library Board, and the President of the Women's Art Association to deal with, the cost not to exceed $50.

Dog Catcher.

James Gates is once again official dog catcher for the City of Peterboro. He was reinstated to the position by the committee on the same terms as last year. This action was taken on the recommendation of the Board of Health.

The Plumbing Union wrote asking that the Plumbing Inspector be placed under the jurisdictoin of the Board of Health and this was done.

While subject to their jurisdiction, and that of the M.O.H., he must still report to the committee as well as to the Board.

From the Board came a request that a small pox hospital be built. They will be asked to submit a plan and an estimate of such a hospital before any action is taken.

No action was taken on a letter from the Trades and Labor Council, asking that the hours for the collection of garbage be changed from 7 in the morning till 8, as the contracts are made and the hours cannot be changed.

BAD STORMS AT NIAGARA

SERIOUS DAMAGE TO THE FRUIT CROPS IN NIAGARA DISTRICT.

(Special to The Examiner.)

NIAGARA FALLS, July 5.—It is estimated that as a result of the storm on Saturday afternoon a considerable portion of the fruit crop in this section has been ruined. Seven inches of water fell inside of fifty minutes. Two storms met here. A thunderstorm came up from the north-east and the wind veered and brought up a hailstorm from the east. Hailstones as large as walnuts fell, breaking windows and even making dents in wooden roofs.

Stamford Township received the full force of the storm, and an old resident says it was the worst storm in memory. It is stated that 50 per cent. of the grape crop has been destroyed. Growers say that two-thirds of the plum, cherry, and apple vield is gone. Peaches were torn down and the majority of those left look as if they had been hit by a stick with a nail in it. They will still grow, but will have small holes in them. Three or four inches of hail lay on the ground and could be shovelled up. The centre of the disturbances seems to have been Stamford. Nearby sections seem not to have suffered so badly.

A great deal of damage was done in Niagara Falls on Saturday afternoon. Basements and cellars were filled. The basement of the Bell Telephone Company, where the machinery is kept, had to be pumped out by the fire engine. Windows were broken by hailstones. Six inches of water fell between three and four o'clock. Two local street cars were struck by lightning in the storm yesterday and badly damaged. Although both cars were crowded with people, no one was injured, and the cars were towed to the repair shed.

DR. J. T. HALLIDAY DIED YESTERDAY

DEATH OF PHYSICIAN CAUSES WIDESPREAD REGRET.

The death occurred yesterday of James Thomas Innes Halliday, M.D., at the family residence, 457 Water Street. The deceased was 76 years of age, and one of the oldest members of the medical profession in Peterborough.

The funeral will be held at two o'clock to-morrow afternoon from the house to St. John's Church, Rev. Archdeacon J. C. Davidson officiating.

NATIONAL COUNCIL OF DEFENCE GIVEN COMPLETE CONTROL

(Canadian Press)

WARSAW, July 5.—Supreme power in government of Poland and full military authority has been vested in the National Council of defence which was created by Polish diet. The Council is composed of President Pilsudski, chairman, General Leszniewski, Minister of War, Stanislas Haller, Chief of Staff, M. Trompoynski, President of Diet, Premier Grabski, three members of cabinet and nine members of diet. Formation of this council was decided upon owing to menace of Bolshevik invasion of Galicia and Ukraine.

SPECIAL SERVICE AT ST. JAMES'

Yesterday morning a reception service was held at St. James' Methodist church when 20 young people joined the church. The pastor, Rev. J. F. Chapman, B.A., preached an eloquent sermon and special music was rendered by the choir.

In the afternoon a missionary service was held by the Sunday school, a feature of which was the presentation of "The Challenge of the Cross."

Rev. B. Greatrix, former pastor of St. James', has been chosen by the Board of Trustees to fill the pulpit during the absence of Rev. J. F. Chapman on his holidays.

The Ladies' Aid Society of St. James' will serve dinner and supper in the market hall on the 12th and are prepared for a large number.

TRY ESKIMO FOR MURDER AT CHESTERFIELD INLET

(Canadian Press)

WINNIPEG, July 5.—For the first time in Canadian history, court will be held at Chesterfield Inlet, when Ouangwak, an Eskimo, and alleged murderer of two kinsmen, will be tried. The Eskimo was brought to Winnipeg to-day by Sergt. Douglas of the Canadian Mounted Police, who will take him to Chesterfield Inlet sailing from Montreal, July 10. Ouanwak was captured by Sergt. Douglas after a two-months' tramp in the Far North last February.

BATTALION MUTINIED

IRISH CONNAUGHT RANGERS EXPRESSED REGRET THAT THEY WERE UNABLE TO SERVE LONGER AND GAVE UP THEIR ARMS.

(Special to Examiner.)

LONDON, July 5.—Three-fourths of a battalion of Irish Connaught Rangers, stationed at Jullunder, in the Punjab, India, mutinied, following the arrival of news of recent events in Ireland, according to a despatch from Simla under date of July 2 to Reuter's, Limited.

Upon receipt of the same news at Solan, in the Simla Hills, another detachment is reported to have attempted to seize arms and ammunition, the despatch says, adding that gaurds killed two of the men and wounded one.

The despatch says that when the last mail reached the troops they became greatly excited, and the decision to lay down their arms soon was reached, one-fourth of the men remaining loyal to the colonel.

The troops expressed regret that they were unable to serve any longer, and gave up their arms and ammunition. Although remaining entirely respectful to their officers, the men explained ther sympathies with their friends in Ireland. The troops now are separated in camp under the strict guard of a British regiment.

Following the drastic action of the guards at Solan, the despatch continues, all is quiet there, and reports from Jutogh, six miles from Simla, say that the detachment there remained tranquil.

According to the despatch, the officers regard the whole affair as a development of Sinn Fein agitation, and believe the prompt measures taken to restore order will soon cause the men to settle down.

NO CHANGE IN WATER SUPPLY

CITIZENS ARE STILL ADVISED TO BOIL THE WATER.

Mr. R. L. Dobbin, the waterworks superintendent, stated this morning that there was no improvement in the condition of the city's water supply.

The new machinery for chlorinating the water has been installed, and the water is now getting a full supply of chlorine.

The citzens are still advised "to play safe by boiling all water," he said.

SERIOUS DAMAGE.

PALESTINE GIVES ROYAL WELCOME TO SAMUEL

JAFFA, July 5. — Sir Herbert Samuel, the first British High Commissioner for Palestine, arrived here on Thursday and was given a rousing reception. He was welcomed by the Mayor and the heads of the various communities, who presented Sir Herbert with addresses of welcome. The salute of 31 guns was fired.

After the official reception Sir Herbert proceeded by train to Jerusalem, where he was received at headquarters by General Bols, who for some time past has been British Ambassador in Palestine.

Fight in the Camp

TORONTO MEMBER WILL NOT RESIGN AT REQUEST OF MEETING.

TORONTO, July 5.—The South-east Toronto Liberal Association, dissatisfied with the attitude of J. Walter Curry, M.L.A., South-east Toronto, Seat B, towards the leader of the party, H. Hartley Dewart, have asked Mr. Curry to resign his seat. There is no system of recall operative in the constituion of the party, but the executive in that riding is going to thoroughly investigate the possibilities in this connection within the next few days. By a vote of about ten to five Mr. Curry was asked to resign as the member for the constituency at a meeting of electors, some 60 strong. The others present did not vote. The meeting was held at O'Neill's Hall, and Mr. Curry was bombarded by all manner of questions, such as, "Was it true that he twice accompanied Dr. Tolmie to Ottawa?" "Did he realise that he was rending the Liberal party in twain by dissension?" "Was it true that he sponsored certain articles in one of Toronto's morning journals?" and others equally illuminating.

Dr. Carscadden, a prominent member of the executive of the South-east Toronto Liberal Association, at eleven o'clock on Saturday night, handed out to the press the following statement:

Press Not Present.

"Mr. Curry declared before the meeting opened that he would deal only with the executive of the riding, and would not consent to have the press present, or to have a record made of the proceedings.

"The press having retired, Mr. Curry, in a series of as many as fifty questions, was pressed to particularise any points of divergence between himself and Hartley Dewart, K.C., M.L.A., relating to the party policy or procedure in the Legislature.

"Mr. Curry stated that the only matter of particular divergence he could remember was that respecting the Minimum Wage Bill. H. E. R. Stock asked if it were not a fact that Mr. Dewart had pressed for an amendment to the Bill to the extent of exempting farm labourers and domestic servants, and that the Government had accepted Mr. Dewart's amendment. Mr. Curry admitted this and stated he had himself voted for these amendments proposed by Mr. Dewart.

"Mr. Curry was pressed again and again for other particulars, but was unable to give other details. He admitted his prior knowledge of an article appearing in The Globe, issue of 1st July, also his approval of that article. He also declared that he had fully expected the disruption of the U.F.O. as a political party, and stated his idea was that the Liberals should prepare for such an eventuality. Mr. Dewart did not agree with him in this matter.

Resolution Passed.

"After hearing the explanation offered, the executive passed the following resolution: 'The executive of the South-east Toronto Liberal Association having heard and questioned Mr. J. Walter Curry, member for South-east Toronto, Seat B, concerning his position in publicly declaring his intention to not follow the Liberal leader in the Legislature, M. Hartley Dewart, K.C., M.L.A., do consider that Mr. J. Walter Curry has not given satisfactory reasons for the position he has taken, and believing that his attitude will tend to disrupt and disorganise the Liberal party in Ontario, we do therefore resolve that J. Walter Curry be asked to resign as member fo Seat B, South-east Toronto.'

"The resolution having been read to the meeting, Mr. Curry declared his intention to not resign. The chairman, S. J. Thomas, said it would be his painful duty to submit the resolution to the meeting at large. The resolution having been submitted in the form of a motion, it was unanimously and enthusiastically endorsed."

A resolution of entire appreciation of Mr. H. Hartley Dewart, K.C., M.L.A., as leader, and approval of his present attitude, was moved and spoken to by Mr. Stock, Mrs. W. H. Ferguson, and Mr. Hogg. It was carried without a dissentient voice. The meeting gave three cheers for Mr. Dewart, and closed by singing "God Save the King."

Dr. Carscadden, on Sunday afternoon, replying to a query, stated that so far as he knew there was at present no direct means of forcing Mr. Curry to relinquish his seat in the house, and there was no provision for recall of members in the constitution of the party. However, it was the intention of the association in South-east Toronto to take the matter up in the course of the next few days.

AMERICANS VISIT HERE

HEAVY TOURIST TRAFFIC IN THIS DISTRICT—HOTELS TAXED TO CAPACITY.

If hotel registers may be taken as any indication of the American tourist trade, this district is enjoying a larger share than usual. Local hotels carry the names of Americans from all over the United States. At South Beach every room is either taken or reserved and at Burleigh the hotel is taxed to capacity.

Representatives of the Union are coming in by rail, motor, and boat, but the latter two are by far the most popular. American motors, loaded with luggage and human freight of happy, rollicking holidaymakers are a daily, almost hourly, sight on Peterborough streets. Many, too, have come in by motor boat, and the Trent Canal is receiving more attention and praise than it has in past years.

Much abuse has been heaped on the canal, but it is now coming back into public favour. Some twelve cruisers, hailing from American waters, have gone over the Lift Lock, bound for the upper Lakes, and many more are expected to reach the city in the near future.

The Americans all express themselves as more than pleased with the trip. The courteousness and hospitality of the Canadians appeal to them and the scenic beauty of the route as far as Peterborough has been more enchanting than they believed possible. The service they have received at Canadian hotels leaves little to be desired, and as far as prices go they are indeed reasonable in comparison with hotel rates, meal tariffs, and incidental expenses in American hostelries.

Summer Hotel.

The Board of Trade has been in communication with both the C.P.R. and the G.T.R. with a view of interesting them in building a summer hotel at Chemong and Stoney Lake but the scheme has been given the cold eye by both railways, and if anything is done, private capital will have to do it.

The Board of Trade having spent some $1,600 on advertising expense in pushing the Trent waterways, is eminently pleased that their program of advertising has netted some material results and the campaign to push this foremost beauty spot of Canada will be continued. G. B. Fraser, president of the Trent Waterways Development Association leaves in the future for a motor boat trip to New York and at the American metropolis will advertise the beauties of the trip and secure American interest in this district as a holiday centre unsurpassed on the continent.

There is no other race so easy for the bookmaker as the human race.

ENGLISH BANKER ASSERTS HIMSELF

At last, after five years of subservience and passive obedience, the British banker is once more asserting himself. He has already taken several decisive steps to regain control of credit and finance.

In the commercial countries, there is now a duel between the banker and the bureaucrat. The banker, on the one hand, seeks to restore normal conditions of trade and industry; and the bureaucrat, on the other, seeks to perpetuate the socialism that was established during the war.

The conflict, therefore, between the banker and the bureaucrat is inevitable; and as the fate of Russia has shown, civilization itself depends upon the victory of the banker.

In England, fortunately, all the banks are private. All are controlled by private tax-payers, not by political appointees.

During the war, the banks were submerged by the Government, as completely as were the factories and the railroads. But they were not under a ministry of banking. They were not incorporated into the structure of bureaucracy, as the railroads were.

They endured everything during the war. They endured the inflation of the currency and the waste of public money and the stupendous war debt. They have not even protested against the intolerable taxation.

The direct taxation in Britain is now $70 a year per capita. This is the highest direct taxation that has ever been imposed in any country. In France, it is only $11 per capita. In Italy it is $10. But the banks have made no protest against it.

What they have protested against is the excessive borrowing on the part of the Government and the speculator. Between these two, the banks have not had enough money for their regular customers.

The banks endured their hardships quietly until several months ago. Then they decided that "too much is enough"—to quote from Mrs. Katzenjammer.

They protested against the gigantic floating loan; and as a result the Government is now trying to sell an issue of Treasury Bonds. These, up to the present moment, are believed to have been a flat failure. But they are a sign that the banks are applying strong pressure to the Government.

In short, the banks have now begun to fight for their rights. They have their backs against the wall; and they are fighting to protect the structure of credit against the irresponsible speculators and bureaucrats who have been breaking it down.

The bank rate is now 7 p.c. and may be 8 p.c. before the summer is over. On June 30, the rate of interest will be increased to borrowers—so says a notice that was sent out this week by many London banks. The reason given is that there is not enough money for the ordinary purposes of trade.

Already there has come to fall in prices because of the elimination of speculation. Goods that were bought on borrowed money are now being thrown on the market.

Copper has suddenly fallen $140 a ton. There has been a dramatic collapse of the wool and cotton markets. Fish prices are down. Shipping freights are lower. Nothing has gone up in the past week except rents, and they have risen 40 p.c. by special act of Parliament.

So, a ray of hope is now shining in the darkness of British finance. The banker has come to the rescue. He has had enough of the mad dance of waste and taxation; and he has come to the help of his own customers.

In the dingy old Bank of England, which, by the way, is now a monstrous institution with 6,000 employees, there are serious conferences now being held. These conferences are unreported, but they are of vital importance to the prosperity of the British people.—Journal of Commerce.

MY LADY'S GRAVE.

(Emily Bronte.)

The linnet in the rocky dells,
The moor-lark in the air,
The bee among the heather bells
That hide my lady fair.

The wild deer browse above her breast;
The wild birds raise their brood;
And they her smiles of love caressed
Have left her solitude.

I ween that when the grave's dark wall
Didst first her form retain
They thought their hearts could ne'er recall,
The light of joy again.
Blow, west wind, by the lonely mound
And murmur summer stream,
There is no need of other sound
To soothe my lady's dreams.

THE HUSSY.

"Isn't that the pretty young widow Peachy?"

"Yes, the deceitful thing! She acts just as if she really does not want to marry again."

W. H. ROBERTS

Successor to B. Shortly is pleased to announce that he has opened his NEW HARNESS and LEATHER GOODS SHOP At No. 182 SIMCOE STREET

(opposite Montgomery House)

Harness, Stable Sundries, Trunks, Valises, and Leather Goods of the most reliable kind. Repairing done Promptly and Satisfactorily.

The patronage of all the old customers of Mr. Shortly and the public generally is solicited.

Lady Patricia Ramsay, formerly known as Princess Patricia, is to become the patroness of the Provincial Arts and Industrial Institute of B.C. Lady Ramsay has written to Mr. John Forsythe, provincial librarian, who discussed the art situation with her when she was in Canada. The princess was in Victoria in 1913 with her father, the Duke of Connaught, and laid the corner stone of the provincial library. At that time she told Mr. Forsythe and others that she hoped that an art society would be established in Victoria. Now that this has been established, she has consented to the request of Mr. Forsythe and become patron. Besides holding the office of patroness, it is likely that Lady Patricia Ramsay will send out some of her paintings.

CAN A FOOTBALL PLAYER BE REGISTERED WITH 1 OR 2 TEAMS?

MR. FRED. SUTCLIFFE GAVE THE DECIDING VOTE THAT ALLOWED MANDERS TO PLAY—MR. F. M'KINLEY REFUSED TO VOTE—GUNNERS' REPRESENTATIVE ABSENT.

A very important discussion was discussed upon at the special meeting of the Peterborough Football Association last week, when the executive was asked to give a ruling upon the following subject:

"The football season is now nished and, according to the minutes of the Association, they state that the season shall end on July 1st

"Can any football player register with either the two clubs, as he thinks fit, so as to allow himself to play in the deciding game of the C.G.E. vs. G.W.V.A.?"

The C.G.E. representatives, Rae and Everall, informed the executive that they were going to re-gister Manders again for this game within the 48 hours agreement. The said player has played with the Homesides (Hamilton) in a Connaught Cup Tie and was in a losing team. He returned to Peterborough with the C.G.E. but was scored off the list to allow other players to register when he left the city. Eventually he became a registered player in some other city.

Vice-President Baldwin — Gentlemen, what are you going to do with this important subject.

Representative Cook (De Laval) — It is not fair to the sport and I have been in same position myself. The player should not be allowed to play according to D.F.A. rules, although we are at present an outlaw association.

Representative Rae — "If we had known that we could not re-register Manders our team executive would not have put him off the list.

"When this meeting started there should have been a motion put through to the effect that the association extend the football season until after the deciding game, but it has not done so," replied Representative McKinley.

Fred Sutcliffe—"Why not let the C. G.E. play Manders?

Vice-President Baldwin—"It is not fair to the Vets, because he is a registered player with another team according to D.F.A.

Representative Dick (Caledonians) —"I make the following motion as a sport: "That any player who has played one or more games for either side, provided he has not played with another team in the City League this year, must be registered 48 hours before the game.

"I want to get out of this chair to make an anmendment," replied Baldwin."

"I second Mr. Dick's motion," said C.G.E. (Rae) representative.

Mr. Fred Sutcliffe took the chair pro tem and Mr. Baldwin (Can. Woollens) made the amendment—"That no player be allowed to play unless he was registered at end of the season (July 1st) in the City League.

Representative Cook — "All the players are released now and Vets are entitled to use Jones or any other player, because they automaticaly drop when the season ends. An injustice to Vets who have played the game and have much pleasure in seconding.

The chairman called for the amendment—Mr. Baldwin and Cook (2). The motion—Mr. Dick and Rae (2.)

Mr. Sutcliffe requested Mr. McKinley (G.W.V.A.) to vote, but he would not give any decision. Questioned for the third time Mr. Sutcliffe gave the motion the verdict and amendment defeated.

Mr. Baldwin returned to the chair and asked for the motion, that was carried allowing Manders to play.

"Gentlemen you have given a decision that clears the situation and avoids a protest," was parting shot of the chairman.

Letter Sent to the Machine Gunners.

A motion was made that the secretary write the Gunners about their unsportsmanship in not turning out to play schedule games and disappointing the public.

GERMAN CHANCELLOR WILL EXECUTE TREATY

BUT IS EVASIVE ON THE QUESTION OF DISARMMENT—THE SPA CONFERENCE OPENS.

(Canadian Press.)

SPA, Belgium, July 5—At the opening of the conference here this morning between the Allied and the German delegates, Chancellor Konstantin Fehrendach declared he had come with the intention of executing the Treaty of Versailles.

M. Delarocix, of Belgium, then referred to disarmament, asking what reply the Germans had to make.

Herr Fehrendach said that the War Minister and General Von Seechl had not arrived, and suggested that Dr. Walter Simons, Foreign Minister, be permitted to make some observations on this subject.

Premier Lloyd-George, after a conference with the Allied delegates, said the Allies saw no object in discussing disarmament with anyone except those responsible.

The session was then adjourned until two o'clock to-morrow.

BOARD OF COMMERCE TO STILL FUNCTION

WILL PROBABLY MEET TO-MORROW MORNING FOR ORGANIZATION PURPOSES.

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, July 5.—The Board of Commerce will continue to function as formerly, and investigations into any alleged profiteering will be continued, said Captain White, K.C., the newly appointed Chief Commissioner. He said a meeting for organisation purposes would probobly be held to-morrow morning.

DISMISSED CLAIM.

Judge Roger Disposes of an Action Involving a Smith Farmer.

An action of some local interest was recently tried before Judge Roger of Cobourg at Port Hope.

George Wragge of Hamilton Township, sued S. Harrison of Smith, for a balance of $200 and interest alleged to be due upon a note given in part payment for a stallion. The defendant claimed that by the terms of a collateral agreement, since lost, and alleged to have been left in the plaintiff's possession, he had paid all that was owing.

In a written judgment handed out by Judge Roger, he finds on the evidence that there was such an agreement and dismisses the case.

Mr. Henry White of Port Hope appeared for the plaintiff and Mr. O. A. Langley for the defendant.

A straight-line dress of voile has deep tucks encircling the skirt. Threads are drawn in the tucks to give the effect of a looped fringe. The upper portion of the dress is perfectly plain, except for a large fichu collar of the voile similarly fringed.

Lingerie frocks are popular this summer. The designs are very simple, hand-work trimmings furnishing their principal charm. Many of them are of the chemise type, with trimmings of drawn threads and hemstitching. When they are made with a waist-line it is placed low on the hips.

WILL DEFER ACTION ON APPEALS TO CLEMENCY

CASES OF WINNIPEG STRIKERS TO COME BEFORE GOVERNMENT AGAIN.

Canadian Press.

OTTAWA, July 5. The government has decided it is understood to defer action on appeals for clemency in the cases of Winnipeg strike leaders.

The view is taken that action could not properly be taken while the application for leave to appeal is still pending before the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council. When the Judicial Committee has given its ruling, these cases will no doubt again come before the government for consideration.

Says Unconstitutional.

The appeal to the Privy Council is based on the contention that the section of the criminal code limiting the right to appeal in criminal cases is unconstitutional.

BOARD OF CONCILIATION

Will Arbitrate Between C.P.R. Operators and the Company.

DUST.

Dust upon my window sill—
Only dust it is, and still,
Drifting dust is where we know
Everything will ever go!

Every dream and every plan—
Everything of every man—
Every dome and pillar—must
Molder back into the dust.
Where are Babylon and Tyre?
Where the temple and the spire,
Fabulous in Troy and Rome?
All have drifted to the loam!
Lover and beloved, too—
Every kiss they ever knew,
Even every sweet caress,
Flaming once to loveliness—
Sleep where every glory must
In the drift of passing dust.

Dust upon my sill—who knows
But it was a crimson rose?
Did it blossom in the sun
For a wanton or a nun?
Dust, the wind is bringing in—
Who can tell what secret sin;
what the fever, what the pain,
What the fire in the brain,
What the vigil and the prayer
Carelessly is sleeping there?

Dust upon my window sill—
Only dust it is, and still,
Drifting dust is where we know
Everything will ever go!

Fashionable Attire

Some one remarked the other day of the change of outing fashions from season to season on Stoney Lake. No one has ever heard of a fashion magazine for this district and yet there is an unwritten law it seems for the correct attire for the summer girl. For years the correct garb was a middy and skirt and these might be worn at any hour or time of the day even to the Juniper dances. The last three seasons have seen the ever increasing vogue of the hand-knit sweater and this season to be really correct a pretty voile dress and gay colored sweater are the fashionable attire it seems for the Stoney Lake belles. The middy seems to have disappeared from the docks and woods and lake.

PROF. WICHER AT ST. PAUL'S

Rev. E. A. Wicher, D. D., was the speaker at St. Paul's Prebyterian Church yesterday morning. Rev. Mr. Wicher took as his text St. Matthew 18; 20, "For where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them."

Mr. Wicher is a Professor of the San Francisco Theological Seminary, San Alsemo, California, and received his early education in Peterboro, having been born in Warsaw.

Professor Wicher stated, in opening his subject, that the phrase "in the midst" was significant and proceeded to give three Biblical examples, illustrative of Christ's position as the centre of human life.

The speaker first referred to the incident of Christ's questioning and teaching the learned doctors in the temple when only twelve years of age. This was the first occasion upon which Christ demonstrated the fact that he was the intellectual centre of life and this was the beginning of his leadership of the world's thinkers. It was then that He formed His first conception of religion and first unsettled the beliefs of the Hebrew religious leaders.

Since then attempts have been made to upset His teachings and to propound a philosophy which entirely disregarded Christ, but the speaker believed that we were a perpetual enigma, believing in immortality with no recollection of a former life to support that belief, beings with aspirations unsupported by experience, and that Christ was the only solution of the enigma.

Continuing, Mr. Wicher stated that the crucifixion of Christ "in the midst" of the two thieves was significant of Christ's being the centre of the world's sorrow and shame. Christ, crucified by men such as we of to-day, was the supreme ideal.

As a third example the speaker took the vision of John recorded in Revelations in which Christ is seen "in the midst" of the seven churches. Christ was the centre of the church and would ever remain such.

In concluding, Mr. Wicher said that some thought of Christ as a palpable spirit beyond space. Instead He was omnipresent and always "in the midst" of us.

Though the King passed so many years afloat as a naval officer he is far from being a good sailor, and in this direction is certainly surpassed by the Prince of Wales, who, so far, has never felt the slightest qualms while at sea. On one occasion a ship upon which His Majesty was serving had a rough passage, and a colonial newspaper commenting upon this said: "The weather was so rough that even Prince George of Wales was slightly indisposed." "Stuff and nonsense," was the emphatic comment of the present king when the cutting was brought to his notice. "If the paper had said I was beastly sick the whole time it would have been more correct." It may be added that the queen is an even worse sailor, and regards a lengthy sea voyage with reluctance.

THE GUN ISSUE.

In a letter to the Examiner on Saturday "Old Sarge" presents a good case in favour of allowing the captured German guns to remain where they have been placed in the Central Park. There is much in his views with which we agree, but nevertheless if the majority of the people who have been bereft by the war are opposed to the public display of these trophies, as undoubtedly are many of the War Veterans, who have so expressed themselves to The Examiner, the guns would be much better put in the armouries, or otherwise disposed of, for after all the men who fought the war, and the people who suffered from the war, should be the jury to decide this question. "Old Sarge" of course belongs to both these classes himself, for he was a member of the 48th Highlanders and his brother fell fighting with the Canadians at Ypres, but all the evidence shows that in advocating the retention of the Hun artillery where it is he is taking a stand that is not representative either of the Veterans or of the relatives of the men who perished for the cause of the Empire. In many places in England argument over the same issue was definitely settled by crowds of war veterans who took possession of the captured guns, dragged then to the nearest river and threw them in.

THE NEW COMMISSION.

If the Drury Government uses the same sound judgment in all its appointments as it has displayed in the selection of the personnel of the Athletic Commission which is to exercise jurisdiction over wrestling and boxing in Ontario, in order that the public may be protected, there will be little fault to be found with the present administration. The general impression seems to be that the Government has made a very wise choice in its appointments to this important body. The name of Mr. Francis Nelson, who is to be the chairman of the commission, is known all over the continent as that of an authority in sporting matters, of an honest, clever and accomplished gentleman. He is essentially fitted in every way to act as the executive head of the commission. A similiar tribute can be paid too to Captain Jas. P. Fitzgerald, M. C., who is to be secretary of the Commission. Capt. Fitzgerald, former sporting editor of the Toronto Telegram, President of the Canadian Baseball League, and prominetnly connected with many other sporting activities, brings a ripe experience and a sound judgment as assets in his responsible position. The other members are of splendid calibre and the sporting public will be greatly disappointed if the Commission does not succeed in eliminating many defects that have existed in connection with wrestling and boxing and placing those sports on a sound and healthy footing. If they are given a free hand by the Government, they will undoubtedly create better conditions and improve the standing of the mat and ring contests. There is much work to be done and the Ontario Government has shown splendid judgment in its selection of the men to accomplish the reforms required.

DR. HALLIDAY.

During the past few months Peterboro has suffered the loss of many well known and prominent citizens, as a result of death's call. Another familiar name was added to the list yesterday when Dr. J. T. S. Halliday passed away. Dr. Halliday was the dean of the medical fraternity in Peterboro and his name was a household one in many families. A faithful physician, a credit to his profession, and a worth-while citizen, was the deceased, and his passing will be deeply regretted by the very many citizens who had reason to know the many estimable qualities possessed by him. Even those who had not come closely in contact with Dr. Halliday will experience a feeling of loss for he was a familiar figure on the streets as he travelled through the city on his mission of healing and comfort to the sick and afflicted. Many families to-day are realizing that they have not only lost a dependable physician, but also a good friend in the death of the veteran doctor. His life has been one of activity and service exercised for others, and the full story of the good he accomplished will perhaps never be known, but everywhere in the city there are those who can testify to the faithful services of Dr. Halliday and who will lament the death of an old and tried and true friend. Citizens of his calibre can ill be spared by Peterboro.

THE BOARD OF COMMERCE.

The Dominion Government has named three new members of the Board of Commerce to take the place of Judge Robson, W. F. O'Connor, K. C., and James Murdock, the three Commissioners who resigned their positions. Captain William White, K.C., the former Secretary of the Board, F. A. Acland, the Deputy Minister of Labour, and G. A. Dillon, the purchasing agent of the Department of Justice, are the new members, and the announcement is made that the appointments are to be regarded as temporary, pending the decision of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council as to the validity of the Act under which the Board was established.

Unfortunately the Government has not seen fit to accompany the announcement of the new appointments with any assurance that the Board will be given a fair opportunity to deal effectively with the cost of living or to introduce measures that will tend to curb the activities of the profiteer. The people therefore will be inclined to greet the appointments with faint hopes and scant enthusiasm, remembering the charges made by Commissioner Murdock that the Board's operations were constantly interfered with by members of the Cabinet, who were more concerned with protecting the big interests involved than they were in the welfare of the public. Mr. Murdock's indictment was clear and emphatic and has not yet been proven to be a mistaken charge. In view of that fact, the selection of two Government officials as members of the Board, no matter how well qualified they may be in every other respect, is not likely to inspire the people of Canada with fresh confidence in the ability of the Board of Commerce to be an effective factor in the fight to reduce the cost of living. If men who were not before in the Government employ and consequently were more or less independent, found that ministerial interference made it impossible to do effective work, a commission of officials who are directly under the control of the Government is hardly to be expected to produce the desired results.

CONTEMPT FOR DANGER.

Most of the 187 men, women and children who were killed on the highways of New York State in June were the victims of carelessness.

Some of them courted death themselves by recklessness as they rode or walked.

Others were sacrificed by the recklessness of unthinking persons who disregarded the rights of everybody on the roads.

Relatively few of these unfortunates met their fates through accidents which ordinary prudence would not have averted.

The absolute contempt most persons show for danger on the highways presents a problem in human weakness which is worth serious study.

Women who are naturally timid wander along the roadways without paying the slightest attention to intersecting streets, to crosswalks or to private driveways from which two or three tons of steel, propelled by a powerful engine may issue at any moment.

Men who ordinarily protect themselves sanely drive motor cars in a manner which not only imperils all other citizens but endangers their own skins.

Parents allow their children to make a playground of congested thoroughfares, in which it is cause for wonder that any of them survives, not that some of them are killed.

The State and all the cities and towns in it by traffic regulations and police supervision try to keep the death list down. These efforts undoubtedly save many lives. Were the public abandoned to its own care the accidental deaths would be overwhelming in number.

There is fault on the part of pedestrians, on the part of motor vehicle chauffeurs ,on the part of horse drivers. It is difficult to say where most of the blame for the misnamed "accidents" belongs. Unsatisfactory though it be, apparently it must go on the shoulders of the public, which does not value human life highly enough to teach each individual that he must take care of himself.—New York Sun and Herald.

TABOOED SUBJECTS

There were four boys in the Douglas family, and consequently the house, hard-used furniture, and even, or perhaps better, the conversation bore masculine imprint which, though though attractive enough to the cause of endless worry and discussion on the part of the fond parents. In fact, by the time the youngest of the family, Jack, was able to lend a helping hand in the family discussions, the conversation, unless carefully guided into other channels, was apt to be devoted to baseball, hunting, and dead fish.

Things got so bad that these topics were brought to the family table irrespecitve of the number or quality of guests present. Finally, after a particularly painful experience, Mother Douglass devoted an afternoon to instruction in dinner talk and dire punishment was promised to any who introduced the tabooed subjects at table.

"Remember," said mother, as a parting warning, "it's all right to tell daddy of these things, but it is not to be done at the table." Everyone was impressed and talk flowed smoothly if a trifle slowly, until one day a cat was caught and it dawned on Jack at the dinner table that daddy had not been told of the important occurrence. Thinking it too good to keep and yet mindful of his mothre's instructions, he jumped from the table with a hurried " 'Scuse me," and running to the other end of the room, said breathlessly:

"Oh, daddy, I couldn't tell you at the table. Mother wouldn't let me. Can you smell it? There's a dead rat downstairs and it's all chewed up. Fido did it."—Providence Journal.

Unlimited Guarantee on Goodyear Solid Truck Tires

There is no time or mileage limit to the guarantee behind Goodyear Solid Truck Tires.

Every Goodyear Solid Truck Tire is guaranteed to be perfect in material and workmanship.

No strings—no conditions.

If your tire runs 25,000 miles and then shows defective material, it will be adjusted.

If it runs for two years, and then shows defect in manufacture, it will be adjusted.

This Goodyear guarantee policy is important in itself to truck owners.

But it is far more important as an example of the principles which guide the Goodyear institution.

Principles which have inevitably led to the building and selling of Goodyear Solid Truck Tires and Goodyear Pneumatic Cord Truck Tires on a basis of low cost-per-mile for tire and truck.

The Evidence

The mileage which Goodyear Solid Truck Tires render is high. Numberless testimonials prove it. Here, for instance, are some mileages which should interest any truck owner:

VIRTUOUS WIVES

PART V.

Since the morning, the Dellabarre household had been in an uproar, the guests uncomfortably conscious of eavesdropping, Mr. Dellabarre sulking, the children neglected, while Miss Bane ran to the telephone to command or countermand the car, postpone the dinner, and send frantic inquiries for Mrs. Clove, Mrs. Dellabarre's mother, who was sorely needed to restore the peace.

While the servants were in a panic for the security of their winter positions; while the guests—Mrs. Lightbody, young Dawson, and Larcy—had fled to the country club for lunch; while the children had covered themselves with grease at the garage and were bawling at the top of their lungs; while Mr. Dellabarre was savagely pacing his library with a longing to smash the mantel ornaments, Irma Dellabarre, quietly ensconced on a Recamier chaise longue, by the flowery window of her little morning room, was solicitiously brushing the coat of Mon Armour, the Pekinese.

At four o'clock, her mother arrived like a gust of wind that set every door in the house to banging. Though Mrs. Clove experienced not the slightest anxiety at these periodic summons, she came all in a flutter, prepared to stretch her visit to agreeable proportions by agreeing both with her daughter, whom she idolized, and with her son-in-law—first, because she was sure he would be in the right, and, second, because she had that sense of gratitude which is the lively looking-forward to favors to come.

"My poor darling," she cried, after the first sympathetic embrace, "I was afraid I'd find you in tears!"

"I? No; why should I?" said Irma, rising to put Mon Amour in his pink cradle. Whatever her feminine subterfuges, she never deceived herself in her domestic relations. "I suppose I've been stupid somehow; but, Lord, I can't imagine where!"

"Well, dear, who is it this time?" said Mrs. Clove, drawing off her gloves. From behind she had the figure of sixteen. She dressed in baby pinks and blues, and might have passed for the early thirties—that custom-made age, toward which debutantes and grandmothers now incline.

"Heavens, if he'd only say! But you know Rudy. He's capable of sulking a week before I can get it out of him."

Mrs. Clove, reassured, looked at her daughter with the keenness of one who avoided expressing her thoughts in words.

"No; I assure you," said Irma, in response to the unspoken question. "This time, I haven't the slightest idea of whom he's jealous."

The mother, who had come to that age when a compensating Providence replaces the distractions of youth by the arrival of interesting ailments, had a private conviction that these temperamental outbursts had a bilious origin, but as this extreme view had found no favor, she contended herself with an admiring glance.

"My darling child, how can he be angry at anything so lovely as you are?"

Irma smiled. She adored compliments, even from her own mother. She had a sense of the scenic, and even in her own bedroom, kept in the picture. Her charm was of art rather than from natural gift, for while her body was slender and graceful, her head, which was Latin, was striking, though the boldness of her forehead was softened by the deep black hair which had been directed in curling abundance about the temples. Her eyebrows were bold; her nose too aquiline, but her teeth shone brilliantly against the duskiness of her complexion and the brilliant rouge of her lips. What was really striking were the eyes, which were of a thin gray, so clear and so light, that they gave the effect of being as transparent as the negligee which floated lightly about her in a cloud of costly old lace which had cost the price of a season's wardrobe.

"My dear mother," she said calmly. "You don't know Rudy. Appreciate what he's got? Why, he would be delighted if I'd go in flannel wrappers and braid my hair like a dowdy little Hausfrau. I don't see how I stand it. He's getting more and more impossible."

Mrs. Clove, with the memory of twenty lean years in genteel boarding houses, appreciated what sacrifices her daughter had been called upon to make.

"Tell me all about it," she said, patting her hand with sympathy.

Irma raised her eyebrows.

"Good heavens, mother, there's nothing to tell! He's been making a scene about everything but the real reason." She hesitated and added. "He began by giving up his hunting trip."

Mrs. Clove did not disguise her surprise. For Dellabarre to renounce his semi-annual outing was a fact of revolutionary importance.

"As serious as that?"

"Yes."

"It's a man, of course?"

"Of course."

"And you really have no idea?"

"No, no."

The second negative and the impatient shrug which accompanied it confirmed Mrs. Clove in her suspicions. She rose and went down to the den. Mr. Dellabarre was walking back and forth before the fireplace with such precise little steps that one could almost imagine the creaking of the joints.

"Ah, there you are!" he said, with a sudden treble rise in his weak voice, but, correcting himself, he added ceremoniously, "How do you do? I am very glad indeed to see you."

He gave his hand limply as though he were making her a present of it, and suddenly reddened with embarrassment, for his pride was excessive, and he suffered during these scenes which his timidity prolonged.

He was a gray, perpendicular little man, passing fifty, with a short, stubby nose, overhanging eyebrows, and a gray, drooping mustache, a drooping glance, and a voice which drooped into whisners. He held himself stiffly, and his arms and legs moved on hinges. He dressed in a stiff gray cutaway, which appeared newly starched, square-toed boots, and a make-up tie of pepper and salt, pierced by a fat cameo pin. Eccentric, old-fashioned and furtively shy, there was still a precise dignity about him, which commanded respect, even from the crowd of irreverent youngsters who danced, gambled, and paid their court to his wife.

"Tell me all about it, my dear Rudolph," said Mrs. Clove, with the utmost sympathy. She glanced at the table, which was littered with stray sheets of stamps which he had been sorting — a sure sign of a tempest. "What has that poor child been doing now?"

Mr. Dellabarre instantly began to defend his wife.

"It's my fault. It's your fault — yes, of course, it's your fault," he said in jerky sentences, after a glance at the door. "It's the fault of American education, of the ridiculous way we permit young girls to be brought up. Irma is what we have made her. Yes; but that doesn't help any, and that isn't the point," he added, suddenly perceiving where this would lead him. "She has her side, but I have my side, too, and I tell you now I am going to come to a decision."

This was said in rising sentences, while he continued his precise and mechanical stepping off of the carpet, for he experienced the need of heating up his courage. In all this, there was nothing new. So Mrs. Clove contented herself with a sympathetic sigh and the remark,

"It is very sad."

"What do I count for in my own house?" continued Mr. Dellabarre, in a thin complaint. "Nothing! Do you suppose any one ever comes here as my friend?"

"You mean, my dear Rudolph, what does Irma bring to you in your marriage?" said Mrs. Clove, who knew that, so long as he generalized, they would get nowhere.

"Exactly," said Mr. Dellabarre, for unless he had worked himself up into a passion, his pride made him hesitate before taking a third into his confidence.

"But she is no different from others of her set, is she?" continued Mrs. Clove.

"The modern wife is a monster," said Mr. Dellabarre angrily. "Do you suppose Irma even knows the names of her own servants? Do you? I'm not sure she knows the names of her own children, for all she sees of them."

"Now, Rudolph," said Mrs. Clove, lifting a chubby hand in protest.

"You don't believe it? Doris coughed all last night. Do you think Irma has even heard about it? She isn't a mother. She isn't a wife. She isn't a housekeeper. What does she do? She amuses herself. That is all she thinks of from morning to night, and that is all any of them think of! Well, I'm going to come to some decision."

Mrs. Clove saw that he had no intention of being specific.

"I will speak to Irma," she said, in a tone of decision, wondering if her daughter had given him any real cause for jealousy. "Poor dear, she is dreadfully upset!"

"She should be."

"But has anything happened anything special?"

"What! Don't you think that is enough?"

"My dear Rudolph, of course I do!" she said hastily, starting for the door. "I will talk at once with Irma. She certainly should pay more attention to the children. You should ask more of her. You should insist! But, then —you said it yourself—it's the life of the younger generation."

"Well, I've made up my mind," said Mr. Dellabarre rapidly, "and I'm going to make a decision."

Mrs. Clove knew her daughter and her inherent appetite for admiration, but she judged her incapable of going further than a light flirtation, because she understood the modern coquette's need of multiplicity in her adorers.

"Well?" said Irma, without looking up from a Russian novel.

"He's very excitable."

"I see I shall have to go down," said Irma, who perceived that her mother had learned nothing. She rose. "It is really too humiliating. Kitty Lightbody is here, and will tell it all over New York. I must bring it to a head—a violent scene, that's the only way," she concluded, rearranging her hair in the mirror.

Paris Fashions In False Teeth

Paris, Mar 8.—We may safely predict for the coming season that styles in artificial teeth will include their being worn snug-fitting and smoothly cushioned in place by means of the dental plate comfort-powder Corega, procurable at drug stores and dental dealers.

This antiseptisc adhesive powder gives a pleasing sense of security to wearers of false teeth. It allows complete mastication of foods with ease, relaxes facial muscles and prevents sore gums.—Adv.

VISITORS' DAY AT "Y" BOYS CAMP

Yesterday was Visitors' Day at the Y.M.C.A. Boys' Camp at Lee's Point on Rice Lake. Many of the parents and friends of the boys made the trip from the city to the camp by motor and found the boys in the best of health and spirits, having had the time of their lives during the past week. A number of the boys who had planned to spend but one week in camp arranged to stay until the close. The camp is situated on the south shore of the lake, 1 1-4 miles from Bewdley. The location is excellent, with a splendid beach, where the swimming is fine. The boys spoke in the highest terms of the meals that had been served them by Mrs. James. The big event this week will be a baseball game between the camp and a team from Bewdley.

THOUSANDS DISCHARGED THROUGHOUT JAPAN DUE TO ECONOMIC DEPRESSION

SAVED HER LIFE

St. Catharines, Ont.:—"I was in a very miserable condition when I first started taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription sixteen years ago. I suffered and was extremely emaciated and weak. Although I was a young woman my doctor thought I was going through the critical stage of life, but after using these remedies my strength returned, another child came and from that time on my health was perfect and my weight increased. I really believe that Dr. Pierce's remedies saved my life and I shall always praise them as long as I live."—MRS. ELIZA OVERHOLT, 45 Beech St.

Favorite Prescription should have the full confidence of every woman in Canada because it contains no alcohol and no narcotic. Dr. Pierce knew, when he first made this standard medicine, that whiskey and morphine were injurious, and so he has always kept them out of his remedies. A PRESENTATION TO MR. THOMPSON

VETERANS OF 1866 JOIN IN THE FAREWELL TO PLUMBING INSPECTOR.

On Saturday Mr. Peter Thompson, Plumbing Inspector, who is leaving the city for the United States on Wednesday, was the recipient on Saturday of a leather wallet presented by his fellow civic employees. Following is the address which accompanied the presentation:

Peter Thompson, Esq.,
Peterborough, Ontario:

Dear Mr. Thompson,— We hear with regret that you have decided to sever the very pleasant relation that has existed between us as employees of the finest city in Canada. We cannot permit you to leave us without expressing our appreciation of your devotion to the duties of your very important position and the very favorable opinion we have formed of you as an official with whom we have been associated for the past fifteen years.

We ask you to accept this gift as a slight token of our esteem and we trust that you and your family may long be spared to enjoy yourselves in your new home with Uncle Sam.

Signed on behalf of the city employees—H. Evans, C. S. Stapleton, W. J. Green, Tax Collector, S. R. Armstrong City Clerk, R. H. Parson City Engineer, F. Adams Treasurer, W. J. Henry Assessor, A. A. Ringer, Asst. Assessor.

Peterborough, Ont., June 10th, 1920.

From the Veterans.

Mr. Thompson was also presented with the following address by the local Veterans of 1866 Association:

Veterans' 1866 Association.
Peterborough, June 18, 1920.
Peter Thompson, Esq.,

Dear Comrade,—As you are about to leave Peterborough, the members of the Association cannot let you go without expressing regret at losing so faithful a member, always prompt in attendance and helpful at all times in promoting a spirit of good fellowship amongst your comrades. You will be missed at our re-unions, but it will encourage us to know that your thoughts will often turn to the good times spent together.

Your old comrades will be glad to keep in touch with you and keep you advised as to matters of the Association or anything that would be of interest.

We will continue to think of you and wish you success in your new field of labor and should you at any time return to Peterborough there will be a hearty welcome from your old comrades. Signed—

J. W. Miller, John Kylie, J. D. Collins, Geo. Stenton, Alex. Fitzgerald, W. C. Bourn, R. S. Sanderson.

Real-Fruit Desserts The Rarest Sort

The only gelatine dessert which has fruit-juice flavors sealed in glass is Jiffy-Jell.

No artificial flavor can take the place of fruit. For Jiffy-Jell the fruit is crushed, condensed and sealed in vials. A bottle of this liquid essence comes in the package. And sugar is used—not saccharine—to sweeten Jiffy-Jell.

Jiffy-Jell comes in ten flavors. Try loganberry and pineapple for desserts. Try lime-fruit flavor for tart salad jell. Try mint for a refreshing mint jell.

DRINK MORE WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat less meat and take Salts for Backache or Bladder trouble.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

CANADA AS VIEWED BY AUSTRALIAN EYES

(From the Bendigo, Australian, Advertiser)

The forthcoming Empire Press Conference to be held in Canada will provide an excellent opportunity to the Australian delegates to compare the aspirations and development of our sister Dominion with those of Australia, and while in many regards the comparison will be altogether in favor of the Commonwealth it will doubtless be found that in many phases essential to growth and expansion, the Dominion is far in advance of Australia. The two countries form excellent subjects for comparison, for they are the two largest Dominions in the British Empire, both of them having a greater area than the United States. Extending from 47 degrees north latitude to the Arctic regions, Canadian territory stretches from the temperate to the frigid zones, while the Commonwealth cavering less latitudinal area, experiences a much greater diversity of climate, for the great southern continent extends from 37 degrees south to within a few degrees of the Equator. This variety of climate and soil conditions makes it possible for Australia to produce a far greater range of plant life than does Canada. The Dominion has physical advantages that Australia lacks. Its lofty mountains and its magnificent waterways make it impossible for a destructive drought to bring ruin and devastation, while at the same time the harnessing of the mighty rivers and waterfalls has resulted in the provision of cheap hydro-electric power which is practically unknown in Australia, and which tends enormously towards industrial development and initiative. Canada again has magnificent forests which today are of inestimable commercial value, while the Commonwealth has no forests comparable with Canada, and is doing very little in regard to reafforestation. But Canada with its great possibilities and its unrivaled natural resources is governed by one feature which is happily unknown in this country. For nearly half the year the great Northern Dominion is held fast in the grip of the ice king, and for that period practically all agricultural activity and outdoor work has to be almost entirely suspended and the work of the year crowded into the remaining six months. How vastly different, therefore, are conditions in Australia, how much more favorably circumstanced is this southern land, and how much greater are the opportunities in Australia for national development in all spheres of human activity. At no time is Australia forced to suspend outdoor operations because of regular and normal climatic conditions, and yet Canada's trade and output is far in excess of Australia's. Work can proceed practically the whole year round in the Commonwealth, with perhaps the exception of the extreme northern latitudes, where the heat in the summer months is too excessive and enervating for laborious effort. Yet while Australia is capable of supporting a larger population than Canada and has so much more to offer settlers, primary producers, and industrialists of all classes our population today is a little more than half that of Canada, which recently passed the nine million mark. Not only has Canada's population almost doubled Australia's, but its increase has been much more rapid and consistent, as the following figures will show:—

	Canada.	Australia.
1901	5,371,000	3,824,000
1911	7,206,000	4,568,000
1919	9,000,000	5,100,000

It will be seen by the above table that in the last nineteen years while Australia's population has increased by 1,000,000 Canada has added 3,700,000 people to its population. It is unquestionably true that the most urgent requirements of Canada and Australia, as indeed is the case with all the Dominions of Empire, is increased population, but of far more importance to British power, and indeed to the future peace of the world is a greatly increased population of Australia, for while Canada is in a favored geographical and international position politically, and not open to attack by possibly envious and overcrowded neighboring nations, Australia's geographical situation makes it a more than probable centre of future international interest and a country on which will be decided many important phases of international politics. Our nearby neighbors are yellow and brown races whose teeming millions are awakening to existing possibilities, and who, it cannot be denied, are becoming imbued with ideas that create unrest and discontent. Their millions are increasing, while our population is to all intents and purposes at a standstill. The birthrate in Australia is declining, the death rate amongst infants is abnormal and marriages have decreased. The only logical conclusion that can be arrived at is that by a natural increase in the population Australia will reach the present population of Canada in a quarter of a century hence, and in that period it is impossible to say with any degree of certainty what international changes may take place to alter the entire Australian outlook. The only hope, therefore, of averting a palpable danger is for Australia to obtain a greatly-increased population of a desirable type by a freer and less conservative policy of immigration. The Canadian policy is so far ahead of ours that its population today is nearly double that of Australia, for while the Commonwealth policy tends towards exclusiveness the Canadian policy is to offer possible inducement to desirable emigrants to make the Dominion their home, and in that connection Canada aims at a White Canada as we do at a White Australia. It is a notorious fact that in Australia Labor's attitude towards immigration is consistently and unwarrantably conservative, and there is an outstanding tendency on the part of Labor to consider a freer policy of immigration a detrimental factor in industrial activity, and individually an industrial competitor, being totally obvious of the fact that every emigrant landing on these shores is not only a competitor but a consumer, and from what he earns or produces he expends on the products of others, thus adding to the general wealth of the community by what he produces, and creates an extended field of operations for other workers and other producers. Euronean artisans and laborers do not experience the difficulty of landing in Canada as they do in landing in Australia, for here the law is extremely rigid, while the immigration arrangements are not systematised to anything like the same extent they are in the Dominion where the newcomer is taken a direct interest in until he is permanently settled. Canada, though less favorably situated than Australia and offering less opportunities to energy and initiative than we do, nevertheless attracts the right class of emigrants in an overwhelmingly greater proportion, and while this country is crying aloud for workers and producers to fill and till the empty places for immigration laws do not attract the number or the class of settlers and emigrants desired. While other parts of the Empire are bidding for the surplus population of Europe the Commonwealth would be rendered a valuable service if both the Federal and the State Governments were to immediately revise the laws regulating immigration and pursue a more vigorous and less conservative policy in regard to it.

A CITY FACING BANKRUPTCY

The City of Chicago is in a fine predicament financially. James B. Forgan, chairman of the Chicago Clearing House, recently notified the City of Chicago that the request for a $15,000,000 loan had been refused by Chicago banks, and that no more money would be lent to the city at this time. The refusal of the city to adopt the suggestion made by bankers that improvement projects be curtailed until a more opportune time for financing them is responsible for the bankers' action. Mr. Forgan declares that Chicago faces bankruptcy before the end of the year.

This is a serious state of affairs and one which we hope, for the sake of Chicago, can be remedied. It is due to the lack of business capacity in city administration and what has happened in Chicago is just as likely to happen in New York. Fortunately, New York's credit is still good, but the fact that it is so is due to the checks and balances provided by the charter of the city, which has saved it in spite of the pitifully incompetent administration now in office.—New York Commercial.

MARK STREET CHURCH NOTES

PASTOR OCCUPIED PULPIT AT BOTH SERVICES.

Communion service was held at Mark Street yesterday morning and was well attended. The pastor, Rev. G. E. Ross, occupied the pulpit at both services, and the excellent music furnished by the choir was much appreciated. "The Magnetism of the Cross" was the morning subject, and was based on the text found, 1 Cor. II., 2, "For I determined to know nothing among you but Jesus Christ and Him crucified."

The following points were discussed in the sermon:

1.—Even apart from the cross, Jesus Christ was the greatest human magnet of all the centuries. As a mere representative of the Jewish race, the disciples might have preached Him as the Morning Star of the Hebrew nation. His matchless character, unparalleled for humility, purity, tenderness and dignity, was never matched by sage or ancient seer. He stands alone. He is supreme and His supremacy is not comparative. It is absolute. There is none that can approach Him. His enemies never dare bring a moral charge against Him. The worst they could ever say was, "This man receiveth sinners." The sweetness and gentleness of the character of Jesus were never touched by the bitterness of lif. There is not a trace of selfishness in His character, no blot, no stain, no flaw, no failure, no mistake, but sweetness, purity, love, ideality; in a word, perfection. Jesus came with the purity of the lily, the breadth of vision of the Son of Man, and with a spiritual conception of truth that has revolutionized the thinking of the world, and has poured itself into Christianity as the sunshine into the flower. None but God could invent such a character.

2.—But this character preached apart from the cross cannot save the world. Without sheding of blood there is no remission of sin. The death of Christ is the life of the world. The cross was a demonstration of God's love. All nature says, "Through death to life." The cell, at a certain stage of development, must divide or die. No other power has stirred or can stir the world like the cross. Constantine saw its image in the heavens and threw all his military power into the balance on the side of Christianity. It meahs the salvation of the nation and the poor sinner looks thereon and lives. Lift the cross before the dying eyes, and if faith grasps its meaning, the light of immortal beauty covers the face. Nothing grips the heathen world like the preaching of the cross.

3.—As we hold in our hands this morning the broken bread and the holy cup, we are reminded of the cross and the Christ crucified. This is not His body. This is not His blood, and no power in earth or heaven can make it so. The bread and wine represent the broken body and shed blood of the Son of God, and if we eat and drink by faith, we appropriate all the benefits of the blessed Atonement to our own spiritual uplift. Go, my dear friends, and make much of the cross, and never separate the cross from the Christ, whose matchles death consecrated that rugged altar.

Evening Service.

In the evening the congregation was large. Mr. Ross took for his subject, "The Panoply of Truth," Ps. XCI., 4, "His truth shall be thy shield and buckler." Note the following points for discussion.

God raises up men to meet every crisis, not always young men, sometimes advanced in years like Moses. There is always an Elijah, clothed with truth, to cope with the false and scheeming Ahab. God arms His soldier to the teeth. His head is covered with the helmet of salvation. The temptations of young men are more fiery to-day than ever, before, then let Him entertain, beneath a guard of spiritual steel, a cluster of clean thoughts. No short cuts to wealth. No unlawful pleasure. No getting something for nothing. Wheels of industry rather than wheels of fortune, should attract our young men. No honest men will take something for nothing, unless it be a gift. I am sorry if any of my boys try to secure by chance or lottery or gambling an article worth $1,000.00 for a 50 cent ticket. You are too big to ride in an automobile secured to you by gambling. You are too big to steal your way into Riverside Park to see a baseball game, better go in by the door. Don't be afraid, if you don't happen to have the money, we will make same arrangements by which these splendid boys, who want to see a good game of ball, can come in by the gate. You are too big and splendid to lie and steal.

God covers the head, heart and hands of His warriors with the armourof truth. Let us be first-class citizens. A great head and a great heart is better than a great purse. What a magnificent game the "Thistles" played at Riverside Park last Thursday morning. It was a clean, honest, manly, quiet game, and we were proud of the "Thistles." Can we not play life's game with such credit? We can and we will. But we must be clothed with truth.

SO UNEXPETECD.

Boys have such original ways of looking at things — so unexpected. What can you make of a lad like the one in the following story? One day a rent collector knocked three times at a certain house, without even once getting a reply. Becoming enraged, he went back a fourth time, and in response to his knock an urchin opened the door.

"Where were you all day?" demanded the collector.

"I was out," replied the boy.

"Where is you father?"

"He's out."

"Where is your mother?"

"She's out."

"Well," said the collector, "I will just go in and sit at the fire until some one of them returns."

"But the fire's out too," quickly responded the boy.

DEMOCRATIC PARTY FACES CLEAVAGE ON PARTY LINES

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.—There are two distinct lines of thought and possible courses of action developing in Democratic quarters here on the eve of the National Convention. One of these sponsored by a strong group who profess to see an opportunity for the party to become the great Liberal party of the country and who advocate a two-fisted platform and a nominee who could be "something more than a politician."

The other movement is an "old guard" movement sponsored by the old party chieftains and having as its objective a platform that will be no more liberal than the Republican platform and a nominee who will in no way jeopardize, through inexpedient positions on leading issues, the "safety" of the party.

Whether justified or not, it happens that the first of these movements advocated the nomination either of William Gibbs McAdoo or John W. Davis. The second of the individual lines of thought happens to be behind Governor Cox, of Ohio, Senator Owen, of Oklahoma, or Attorney-General Palmer.

Situation Little Changed

Neither the latest expression of President Wilson, through the medium of an interview, nor the announcement of William Gibbs McAdoo that he would not permit his name to go before the convention, has materially changed the situation. There has been little heed paid by the party leaders to rumors that the President sought a third term. In the first place it has been repeatedly stated that his physical condition would not permit of continuing him in the White House after this term. And in he second place, any attempt to nominate him for a third time would cause a tremendous upheaval in the party itself. Wilson as a possible nominee has been eliminated by the leaders.

FRENCH HOUSEWIFE'S CARE OF BEDDING

"France is certainly the land of comfortable beds. Wherever one goes, even in the most primitive country inn, one may be almost sure of a good night as far as the bed concerned. I often wondered why this was," says a correspondent of "The Queen," "for the beds, in all but the best English hotels are proverbially uncomfortable, and then one day while staying with some French friends, I met 'la matelassierre,' and understood why French bedding is so comfortable. "La Matelassiere' arrived at seven o'clock, pushing her little machine in front of her, and installed herself in the garden surrounded by clean sheets. The mattresses were carried down to her, and while the charwoman washed the covers (quickly dried in the sunny land) she passed the wooly stuffiing through the teeth of her carding machine, till what had been a mass of little hard lumps became a mountain of fleecy wool. When this was finished she stretched each cover upon a wooden frame, and carefully restuffed each mattress. By eight o'clock at night she had completely renovated three mattresses, one double and two single. This process is repeated every two years.

"I expressed my interest to the lady of the house and she told me that every young Frenchwoman who has a good domestic education is taught to take a pride in, and to care for her bedding, which often in the provinces forms part of her trousseau.

"Every day, if circumstances permit, each bed is laid out to air in front of an open window for at least two hours. Nothing is better for bedding than pure fresh air. The linen is as much as possible washed at home, for the French housewife has little faith in laundries. When washed every piece is carefully examined for thin places and darned and patched before the hole comes!

"Worn sheets are turned sides to middle, and two worn blankets placed together and stitched all round and across form one good blanket.

"The linen cupboard is the French woman's particular pride. At one time every young wife brought to her husband a sufficient stock of household linen to last for several years as part of her dowry.

h "This nucleus is added to constantly, and each set, embroidered with the initials of both husband and wife, is carefully kept apart, tied up with colored ribbons.

"French linen, excepting the most expensive, appears generally somewhat coarse to English eyes, used to the finest Irish productions, but it is very hard-wearing, and when well-cared for seems to last eternally, the better portions descending from one generation to another. This remark applies to linen bought before the war, for the present day linen is both poor in quality and very expensive, and if this state of things continues the cult of the linen cupboard in France will soon be a thing of the past."

FAM-LY-ADE

ITALY HAS BEGUN ATTACK ON H.C.L.

"No Buying" Movement Spreads to All Classes—Prices are Lower.

ROME.—The "no buying" movement, begun by the middle classes two weeks ago, has now developed into a concerted drive by consumers to reduce prices of food and clothing, resulting in many case in decreases of thirty per cent., according to figures made public by the Ministry of the Interior.

This strike of the people against exorbitant charges for commodities has been taken up by persons in all walks of life, and the movement to-day received the official approval of Pope Benedict, when all employees of the Vatican announced they would participate in the effort to reduce prices.

The slogan "abstain from buying" meets the eyes of the public on lurid posters, in the tram cars, factories and offices. A number of civic and labour organizations and even many aristocratic clubs have pledged their membership not to buy new clothes, shoes, hats or articles of luxury.

At the first meeting of the Consumers' League, delegates from many organizations pleaded for continuation of the movement to force down prices.

The movement has gained strength at Milan, Naples, Turin and Genoa and is spreading rapidly throughout the country.

One Rome newspaper, which promised to carry without charge, advertisements of any store making a 25 per cent. reduction, has given up the idea, as in one day the newspaper received enough advertisements to fill all available space for two months.

CHERRIES ON LOCAL MARKET

RASPBERRIES ARE LOOKED FOR AT END OF WEEK.

Niagara cherries are coming into the city in large numbers, and are retailing at $1.60 an 11-quart basket, or $1.25 for a smaller basket of poorer quality.

New potatoes are selling at $1.25 a peck, the old ones being found in almost negligible quantities on the local market. Several weeks will see the local new crop in in large numbers.

The last of the strawberry crop is on the market at 25 cents a box.

Raspberries will put in their first appearance the end of this week.

"WHITE COLLAR POOR' FLOCKING TO FARMS TO ESCAPE H.C. OF L.

WINNIPEG. — The "White collar poor" are flocking to the promising farm lands of Western Canada, the officials of the Canadian National Railways declare. They say that 60% of the settlers now taking up farms along their lines are back to the land bookkeepers, tradesmen, artisans, shop keepers, clerks and other folks who are seeking relief from the high cost of living in the cities. Between 200 and 300 such persons inquire about farm lands at the Winnipeg office alone each week, they report.

PETERBORO LADY FAMED IN SCULPTURE

PARIS, (Special by Doris Hemming.) — One of the pleasures in store for the art lovers of Montreal is the collection of miniature statues of dogs and babies that will be exhibited by the Canadian sculptor, Miss K. E. Wallis, in the Art Gallery next October. Miss Wallis is already beginning to dismantle her studio at 27 Rue Fleurus in the Quartier Latin, for it takes many months nowadays to send statues across the Atlantic. Miss Wallis sails for Canada early in June and expects to spend six months in Toronto and Montreal and at her home in Peterboro.

Miss Wallis' collection is not large but it is good. She has a happy faculty for catching the expression of a laughing boy and imprisoning it in clay. "Mon petit chou" is the most adorable youngster. He grins at you from ear to ear and claps his fat little hands. A tiny statuette in bronze represents a baby sucking his toe, with incidental contortions of his plump little body. The statuette, like many others in the collection, is mounted on a semi-circular block of wood innocent of polish, with the bark still left on it. A pussy cat is carved lightly in the side of the stand. Miss Wallis also has several terra-cotta bas-reliefs of babies framed in oak that are as delicate and sympathetic as the little models themselves.

The same gift that enables her to catch the action of a baby that will never sit still makes her particularly successful with animals. No Parisian school boy is more appreciative of the joys of the Zoo than is this Canadian artist who spends a great deal of her time sketching in the Jardin des Plantes. One of her finest works is a bull dog, a little statue in bronze, mounted on a slab of green marble. The bull dog's nose is just as short and wrinkly as ever a bull dog's nose can be and one longs for a magic wand to bring him to life. On the studio walls are also a number of plaques of greyhounds and lynx, and a study of a lion and lioness stands in the corner.

Armistice Day, with its attendant emotions, inspired Miss Wallis with ideas for two statues. Nothing could be more charming than her angel of peace. She is a cunning little cherub —kissing the beak of a dove, which she holds in her arms.

The second topical statue isentitled "Puck: Lord, what Fools these Mortals be," and is decidedly original and clever. The sprightly Puck of "A Midsummer Night's Dream," is posed on a large walnut base. Underneath the bronze figure of the sprite are the originators of the war, carved around the sides of the base. One easily recognizes many friends of yetserday, the Kaiser, and his long nosed son, Hindenburg, Bethmann-Hollweg, Ludendorff and Mackensen, the Emperor of Austria and the Sultan of Turkey, old Ferdinand of Bulgaria and many more. Peeping over the top of the solemn procession are the Big Four, Lloyd George, Clemenecau, Wilson and Orlando.

Miss K. E. Wallis is now in Montreal and is expected to arrive in this city in a few days on a visit to her sister, Mrs. W. Roger, 309 Park street. This talented Canadian artist was born in Peterboro.

NEW YORKER'S ARE SEEING RED TO-DAY

NEW YORK.—Fifth Avenue is seeing red. To be exact, it is seeing shrimp, lobster, crab, raw beefsteaks, or Bermuda potato, for such are the vivid new color names that have been given to the midsummer reds that shriek aloud and are heard. The dainty mid-summer girl of pale pink or orchid lawn has given place to a riotous varnish sister, all in scarlet clad from head to heel. The glaring truth is that gorgeous dyes are once more upon the textile market and that designers and manufacturers are more than making up for the days when neutral tones were of a necessity declared most chic.

Fifth Avenue window-shopping, these warm days, is very much like Christmas shopping, for the craze for red has even called forth poinsettas and holly decorations from the shop attic. In flagrant disregard for the milliners who have declared that summer lids must be as cool and limpid as spring brooklets, one leading house is displaying a black velvet hat adorned with a huge, scarlet poinsetta and flapping black velvet streamers. The hat goes with a crisp peppermint-stick sport skirt that terminates about eight inches from the tops of some lurid red kid pumps. This "simple little outfit" also numbers some spiderweb hosettes of hue as penetrating as the shoes, and even a glazed paper parasol all adorned with fiery Chinese dragons and lanterns.

Styles Red to Degree.

There is no denying that present mid-summer styles have taken red unto their bosoms and even unto their feet, for if gown, hat or shoes be not as red as the old-time bibulous nose it is passe as far as those who know what's what in fashions are concerned. Even modest, unassuming lingerie shrieks aloud, and the "sweet little blue bird-patterned" underthing is out of the spotlight, while a lobster-colored bit of satin lingerie shines from its own light instead.

Red striped horse blankets have been pressed into service for the sultry summer days and many a courtier is displaying sport skirts made of these bona fide race track goods. Jockey suiting in hues most hectic is also found swathed about the female of the species, and even awning canvas if it is bright enough is used.

WATCH YOUR GUMS— BLEEDING A SIGN OF TROUBLE

Medical science knows how serious is the sign of bleeding gums. For it knows that tender and bleeding gums are the fore-runners of Pyorrhea, that dread disease which afflicts four out of five people over forty.

If the disease is unchecked, the gum-line recedes, the teeth decay, loosen and fall out, or must be extracted to rid the system of the Pyorrhea poisons generated at their base—poisons which seep into the system and wreck the health. They cause rheumatism, nervous disorders, anaemia, and many other ills.

To avoid Pyorrhea, visit your dentist often for tooth and gum inspection, and use Forhan's For the Gums. Forhan's For the Gums will prevent Pyorrhea or check its progress, if used in time and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's keeps the gums firm and healthy—the teeth white and clean. Start using it today. If gum-shrinkage has already set in, use Forhan's according to directions and consult your dentist immediately.

35c and 60c tubes in Canada and U. S. If your druggist cannot supply you, send price to us direct and we will mail tube postpaid.

THE HUNTER STREET BRIDGE

QUESTIONS FOR COUNCIL AND ENGINEER TO ANSWER.

A by-law was submitted to the ratepayers about a year and a half ago to authorize the City Council to raise $200,000 for the construction of a high level bridge at Hunter street.

After the ratepayers had voted in favor of this by-law I drew attention to the fact that the Government during the time I had the honor to be member for West Peterborough promised to contribute substantially to the cost of the construction of a high level bridge by reason of the fact that the Government were expending money on improvements to the river at this point.

By reason of united efforts the Government made a grant of $50,000 which should have been used and was intended to be used to relieve the ratepayers of Peterborough to that extent so that the proposed bridge would really only cost the ratepayers $210,000 and that is all that the City Council were justified in expending without the sanction of the ratepayers.

It is currently reported that the City Council, through its engineer, Mr. Frank Barber, have used up not only the $50,000 they received from the Government, but have expended in the neighborhood of $260,000 as well and yet we have only the approaches built to the edge of the river on each side and even they are not complete.

Th ratepayers of Peterborough, therefore, are entitled to a full, honest and clear statement of exactly how this whole matter stands.

The ratepayers are also entitled to know on whose shoulders the responsibility for this extravagance and waste must rest.

What will it now cost to complete this bridge by carrying out the proposed plans of the engineer?

What does the city's own engineer estimate would be the cost of erecting a steel bridge across the river connecting with the present concrete approaches?

It is believed the Council will meet to-night. The ratepayers will expect from them a full, clear, honest statement regarding the exact position of all affairs relating to this bridge and what are its proposals for the future.

HOTEL MAN PUTS TANLAC TO TEST

SAYS HE WANTS HIS FRIENDS TO KNOW THE RESULTS OF HIS EXPERIMENTS.

"Tanlac has done me so much good that I want to let my many friends at Black Lake and here at Quebec know about it," said Edouard Lecours, recently to a Tanlac representative. Mr. Lecours is well known to the travelling public, as he is the popular clerk at the St. Ursule Hotel in Quebec, and was formerly proprietor of the Hotel at Black Lake.

"For six or seven years now I have suffered from indigestion," he continued. "The gas would form on my stomach and cause me great distress. I used to dread going to the dining table, because I knew only too well what I would have to go through afterwards, even though I was very careful what I ate. As the result of my indigestion, my nerves got very bad and I used to have terrible dizzy spells while at my work. Any little excitement or exertion would make me break out in a bath of perspiration. My sleep at night was very disturbed, and I would get up in the mornings feeling more tired than when I went to bed the night before. I lost energy and ambition in life. I was getting gradually weaker every day, and at last my condition became alarming.

"When I read of the wonderful benefits people were receiving from Tanlac I decided to try it, and put it to test. I have only taken three bottles, but already the change in me is simply extraordinary. I never would have thought it possible that any medicine could do one so much good. It gave me a tremendous appetite. I'm always ready when the dinner bell sounds, and I can eat anything I want without being troubled in the least afterwards. The gas no longer bothers me, and I do not have those dizzy spells any more. I sleep soundly every night, and in the morning I feel full of life and vigour. I have every confidence in recommending Tanlac to my fellow-citizens."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Wayne Drug Co., Ltd.; in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield, by the Tanner Drug Co., Ltd., in Fowler's Corners, by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert by A. J. Scott; in Westwood, by G. Pringle, and Son.

BRING CAPITAL AND LABOUR TOGETHER

ANOTHER NATIONAL INDUSTRIAL CONFERENCE NEXT FALL IS PLANNED.

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, July 5.—Plans are under way for the calling of another National Industrial Conference, at which both capital and labour will be in attendance. An appropriation for this purpose was provided by Parliament in the Department of Labour estimates, which passed during the last week of the recent session.

The conference held last year, it is felt, was productive of good results in bringing capital and labour together, and ironing out many incipient difficulties. This year it is hoped to continue the good influence started last September.

It is not likely that the conference this year will take place before September or October.

HON. ARTHUR MEIGHEN MAY BE NEXT PREMIER

SIR ROBERT BESIEGED WITH SUGGESTIONS AS TO HIS SUCCESSOR.

(Canadian Press)

OTTAWA, July 5.—Letters and telegrams continue to pour into the office of the Prime Minister and today more communications were received from parliamentary supporters of the government, suggesting a successor to Sir Robert Borden.

There is still gossip of the possibiley of an outsider being called in, although it is unquestioned that Hon. Arthur Meighen has the majority support of members of the new party in both Houses of Parliament. In some quarters his following among government supporters in Parliament is placed as high as ninety per cent.

To-day there is a recurrence of the suggestion that Sir George Foster may be called in to form a temporary government.

Method of Selection.

The constitutional position of the retiring Prime Minister is set forth in an official statement issued today.

The selection of a New Prime Minister is one of those new personal acts which under the British constitution the Soverign, or the representative of the soverign is required to perform. The retiring Premier has no right whatever to name his successor nor has he any responsibility with respect to the selecton of his successor, the statement reads.

Sir Robert's Right.

It adds that the Soverign or his representative may not see fit to ask the view of retiring Prime Minister with respect to the selection of his successor. On the other hand, if requested, the Premier has the right to epress his opinions, but they need not necessarily be followed.

THIS TREAD CONSERVES TIRES

Goodyear Service Plan Provides a Bonus of Mileage Greater than any Discount in Price You could Hope to Secure

The development of the All-Weather Tread is in keeping with Goodyear policy — to conserve tires; to get for motorists greater mileage and so lower cost-per-mile; to disregard price, if the cost-per-mile is lowered.

The All-Weather Tread is tough and long-wearing, adding extra miles. It resists punctures and cuts which so frequently neglected, let in water and sand to rot the fabric. This tread combats skidding which wears down the tread and weakens the tire carcass.

Its adaptability for all-wheel use aids further in tire saving. No tire change you may make spoils the balanced appearance of your car. This permits balanced wear on all tires.

This tread is one factor in the Goodyear Conservation Plan. This plan embraces many other Goodyear Tire Savers which prevent or cure tire injuries, and definite, personal help from Goodyear Service Station Dealers in securing a lower tire cost-per-mile.

Because of steadily increased quality with the mileage making service of Goodyear Service Station Dealers (which means lower cost-per-mile) Goodyear Tires have become the largest selling brand in the world. This gives a final tire-cost below that of any tire which sacrifices quality or service to achieve a lower price or "special discount."

SATURDAY'S SCORES.
G. W. V. A. 4, Woollens 1.
Thistles ,7 C.G.E. 6.

The iCty League double-header at Riverside Park Saturday provided an excellent afternoon's sport, the quality of ball showing much improvement over earlier League fixtures. The Great War Veterans and the Thistles were the afternoon's winners, the Vets beating the Woollens 4 to 1, while the Thistles just nosed C.G.E. out by 7 to 6 after a great battle.

The opening game after the first innings was a fine exhibition. The Woollens gang in the first session introduced a bunch of errors where they would do the most harm, the Vets getting three runs after the side should have been out. After that one run each was the best the teams could get in the last six innings.

The G.W.V.A. gang uncorked a surprise when they sent Carroll out on the firing line. The new box artist should have had a shut out, two wild throws giving the Woollens their only run. Carroll allowed only six hits and did not issue a complimentary. Heenan pitched for the Woollens, and although his delivery was found for nine hits, he should have had only one counter registered against him, the Vets earning a counter in the fourth.

Some nice fielding was done by both teams, each coming through with a fast double play.

The Vets won out in the first innings. Morse, first up, went to second on Lawrence's bad throw to first. Murphy fanned and Heenan tossed out Head. The side should have been retired on Pearson's tap to Lawrence, but the shortstop made another bad throw and the runner was safe, Morse scoring. Carroll singled to left and went on to second when Russell let the ball get away from him, Pearson scoring, Anderson doubled past third, scoring Carroll. Campbell made the third out on a fly to Lawrence.

The winners got their other run in the fourth when Campbell beat out a roller down the third base line, advanced on Foley's tap to Legros and scored on Legon's single to left.

The Woollens got their solitary counter in the fourth. Heenan led off with a single, and when he started to steal Morse threw high to second. The runner went all the way home when Campbell, recovering the ball, made a wild heave to third. Mulhall singled but was doubled up at third when Coughlin hit to Carroll. The pitcher threw the batter out at first and Head got the ball over to Pearson in time to nail Mulhall at the difficult corner.

A snappy double play killed a Veteran chance for a score in the sixth. With one gone Anderson singled to left and Campbell doubled to the same field .Foley drew a pass filling the bases. Jackson rolled one to Heenan, who got Anderson at the plate and Bergoine's fast throw to Legros nipped Jackson at first.

THE SECOND GAME.

It as a real battle in the second game, which looked like a Canadian General victory until the last innings. The Yeotes crew were behind 5 to 3 when they went to bat in the last session, but they came through with four runs and won out, although the Electricians almost tied it up again in their half, a close decision at the plate going against the Canadian General. Whether Umpire Phelan called it right or not depends upon whether you ask a C.G.E. or a Thistle supporter.

McCarney was on third and Ross on first with two out and Jackson at bat. Ross started to steal and Swanston surprised the Electricians by shooting the ball to second. It beat Ross there by yards and the runner dashed back for first with Holyman in pursuit. McCarney tore in from third and Holyman made a perfect throw to Swanston who dropped on one knee as McCarney slid in. Umpire Phelan called the runner out, to the indignation of the Electricians. Swanston claims McCarney was blocked at the plate. McCarney says he touched the rubber with his toe, and the fans saw the play one way or the other as their sympathies were, but as the umpire's opinion is the only one that counted, McCarney was out and the game was over.

It was an exciting finish, for even Louis Yeotes had given up hope. When Thistles went to bat in the last canto he offered his crew a banquet at the Empress Monday night if they came through with a win, and evidently the Thistles were hungry for they steped into Frost's offerings with a vengeance and turned the trick.

Kirn and Frost were the opposing pitchers, and the former finished the stronger ,although he got a hot reception in the early stages. The hitting of Cherret and Kirn featured, Cherrett had two triples and a single in four times up, scoring one run himself and driving in three others, while Kirn came through with a double and two singles, crossing the plate once and driving home three of his team mates. Frost had two useful doubles in three times up.

The outfields of both teams were weak and a bunch of flies that went for extra bases should have been easy outs with accurate fielding.

The Canadian General outfit got away to a great start, after the Thistles had wasted two hits, a single by Lowe and a triple to right by Murray, without scoring in their half. Lowe died stealing before Murray camee through with his long drive.

Cherret opened for the Electricians with a triple to centre, waited on third while McCarney was thrown out on a tap in front of the plate, and came home when Corrin singled through the box. Ross doubled to right, and when Sheehan let the ball get away, went on to third, Corrin scoring. Jackson flied to Lowe and McWilliams to Murray.

The C. G. E. gang came right back with another pair in the second. Collins singled to right and went to third when Swanston fumbled Frost's roller in front of the plate after Gorham had popped to Murray. Then Cherrett came through with a triple to right, which Sheehan misjudged. Collins and Frost scoring. Cherrett over-ran third and was tagged out and McCarney rolled to Kirn.

The Thistles broke into the run column in the third. With one out, Murray got a life when Corrin dropped Frost's throw. Swanston died on a tap to Jackson. Murray being safe at second. Kirn doubled to left, scoring Murray, and Holyman singled past third to score Kirn. The decision at the plate was close, McCarney making an accurate throw from left. Wilgar ended the innings with a fly to centre.

The C.G.E. got one back in their half when ,with two out, Frost doubled to centre and scored on Cherrett's single to right, the third hit in succession for the shortstop.

In the fifth the Thistles added another. Cunningham singled to left and was forced at second on Turner's tap to Frost. Lowe sacrificed the latter to the middle station, and he came home on Coursey's double to centre. Frost threw out Murray.

The C.G.E. were blanked in their half and neither team scored in the sixth ,although the Thistles had a great chance. Swanston opened with a single past second and Kirn bunted safely. Holyman fanned, but Wilgar was safe on Frost's high throw to first, filling the bases. Cunningham bunted a fly to Frost, who doubled Swanston off third, getting out of a bad hole.

Thanks to the bad judgment of centre fielder McWilliams, the Thistles shot to the front in the seventh and last innings. After Turner had fanned Lowe drove a fly to centre, which McWilliams misjudged, Lowe pulling up on second. Coursey's fly to centre also dropped safely, Lowe scoring. Murray singled on a line to right, sending Coursey to third and taking second on the throw in. Swanston cracked one to Cherrett, whose throw to the plate was too late to get Coursey and everybody was safe. Swanston stole second and came home with Murray and Kirn singled to left, his third hit in a row. Holyman flied to Collins and Wilgar to McWilliams.

The Electricians made a great bid to save the game in their half. Frost opened with a double to centre which Coursey misjudged. Cherret fanned, but McCarney singled past Lowe and Wilgar, scoring Frost and taking second when Cunningham threw to the plate. Corrin's out to Wilgar sent McCarney to third, Ross was hit. With Jackson up, Ross started to steal second, but was headed off by Swanston's perfect throw to Holyman. The latter chased Ross back towards first and then shot the ball to Swanston as McCarney dashed for the plate. McCarney was declared out and an exciting game was over.

A League Game.

A league game of baseball will be played on Thursday afternoon at 2:30 between Keene and Lakefield, both being ties, it will be one of the most important games in the schedule.

A game of baseball will be played on Monday evening—Cressman's City League team, and a local team. Some fast slugging may be expected.

LAKEFIELD vs. NASSAU and LAKEFIELD vs. DOURO.

Just a word to the Lakefield supporters:

Root the players, root the umpire, root—that's half the ball game—but DO NOT be personal. You will only ruin the U.F.O. League, just nicely started.

One who witnessed both games.

LACROSSE

PRACTICE TO-NIGHT.

The lacrosse team is reminded of this evening's practice at the Exhibition Park. All the players are requested to be present. Mimico will likely be the first team Peterborough will meet in the intermediate O.A.L.A. and every practice should bring new improvement. The local team will be picked from those who turn out regularly.

Notice that two-thirds of "Promotion" consists of "Motion."

ACTION TO BE TAKEN TO PROTECT LEAGUE UMPIRES

DECLARES PRESIDENT LOCKINGTON AND MEETING HAS BEEN CALLED FOR WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

A meeting of the executive of the Central League has been called for Wednesday night at the Dunham House, Cobourg, for the purpose, as the official notices of the meeting puts it, of considering business "affecting the welfare of the League." The notice, read in connection with the following article in the Port Hope Guide from the pen of Sandy Lockington, President of the Central League, is significant. Says the Guide:

Peterborouhg fans will no doubt recall their visits to Belleville last year when some over excited supporters of the eastern town had the audacity to pinch Manager Solomon of the Peterborough team and also throw missles at him. Peterborough promptly protested the game and the executive ordered it replayed at Port Hope. Now it is the duty of the executive to decide if Umpire Thomas is not just as important a personage as Jake Solomon. The league was perfectly justified last year in ordering the game replayed as a punishment to Belleville. But the league must also exercise its authority to protect its umpires. As soon as the official notice comes to the proper authorities action will be taken.

GOOD GAME IN THE CITY LEAGUE

Every game in the City League race just now is a battle and there is every reason for expecting a fight to-morrow night when the G. W. V. A. and Thistles will clash. The Vets are in front in the second section of the race as a result of their win Saturday and they hope to increase it by beating the Yeotes crew to-morrow. The latter can take the lead by a victory and will have a strong line-up out. Carroll will o the pithin gfor the Vets, while either Harrison or Kirn is slated for the assignment for the Yeotes crew.

GREATEST SCREEN FIGHT WAGED ATOP SUBMERGED SHACK

Roy Stewart Overpowers Villain in Thrilling Encounter in "The Sagebrusher."

Where is the man who said that nothing thrillingly new could be evolved in man-to-man fights in motion pictures?

Whoever it was has not seen Benjamin B. Hampton's latest Great Authors production "The Sagebrusher," photoplay of the famous novel of that title by Emerson Hough, a W. W. Hodkinson release which comes to the Allen Theatre, beginning to-day.

Looking back over the huge variety of big fights in picture climaxes, it seems as though there is no longer any room for change. Film directors made their fights in storms, on land and sea, on top of cliffs ,in balloons and aeroplanes, in border saloons and in the delicacy of elegant feminine boudoirs.

It remained for Emerson Hough, the novelist, to write into a novel not intended for the screen the color of an incident he had witnessed nearly thirty years ago, and thus, when the novel was filmed at last, to furnish motion pictures with an entirely novel setting for a primal struggle. As seen in the photoplay, Roy Stewart and Edwin Wallock in the res pective roles of chief hero and chief villain of the all-star cast, fight desperately on the roof of a shanty that is drifting, half-submerged, down the roaring flood caused by the bursting of a huge power dam in a narrow mountain canyon.

The photoplay of "The Sagebrusher" is one of a new school, which depends upon winning the sympathy, joy and tears of the heart rather than, by wild thrills, exciting the nerves of the spectator. It is true drama ,always human and always familiar, true to life as we know it. But many a scene, nevertheless, raises a supreme thrill of sheer excitement. And behind it is the background of a powerful heart story of human pathos and humor.

CENTRAL LEAGUE PRACTICE TO-NIGHT

The Peterborough Central League team will practise to-night and Friday night in preparation for next Monday's game with Cobourg here. Every player is expected out. There will be no practice on Wednesday this week.

LOCAL MARKETS

In the grain market there is a slight rise in prices, oats being up from $1.00 to $1.25, pastry flour from $5.75 to $7.00 wholesale, and from $7.30 to $7.75 retail. No further rise is expected. A change may come with the new crop, however.

Cabbages are practically off the local market, due to the fact that the southern crop is exhausted and the native crop is not yet in.

Strawberries are up this week, and will sell as high as 37 cents on account o fthe demand greatly exceeding the production.

Old potatoes are down to $4.00 to $5.00.

A COUNTRY NIGHT PIECE.

(From Punch.

The darkness my footsteps were swathed in
Is drenched with a luminous spray;
For a chain's length the kerbstone is bathed in
A spindrift of silvery grey;
By the roadside is mistily glimmering
A wall phosphorescent with pearls,
All glancing and dancing and shimmering
Like star-dust that swirls.

Where the high road dips down to the dingle,
A coppice in arabesque gleams
Whose traceries melt and commingle
Like ghost trees in moon-fretted streams,
As the tremulous glamor sweep o'er it
And skirts the inscrutable sky;
Then, Fairland, flitting before it
The car flashes by.

FAMILY SENTIMENT.

Father: But, my dear Dorothy, your husband already owes me a lot of money. I don't think he should expect me to lend him more.

Daughter: Well, father, he has to get it somewhere, and he has a certain sentiment about keeping his creditors in the family.

BELLEVILLE HAS ENTERED PROTEST

The Peterboro Ball Club has received official notice from Secretary Nott of the Central League that Belleville has protested Thursday's game with Peterboro because of the action of a section of the crowd in encroaching upon the field. The matter will be taken up at Wednesday's meeting of the Executive at Cobourg.

BOWLING TOURNEY OPENS.

(Canadian Press)

NIAGARA ON THE LAKE, July 5.—Everything is in readiness for the Ontario Bowling Association Tournament to open this afternoon. Mayor McPhee will officially welcome the bowlers and hand them the freedom of the town. The bowlers have nearly all arrived. Saturday's heavy rain was just what was needed to put the green in the proper condition.

FIRE VICTIMS IN NEED OF HELP

As a result of Wednesday's fire which gutted the building at the corner of Hunter and Sheridan streets, the family of Michael J. Murphy, is homeless and destitute, and at present is dependent upon the hospitality of neighbors for shelter and support.

Murphy is a veteran of the South African war in which he received a wound from which he never recovered. He has been ill a great deal, and for the past two months has been unemployed. There are five children in the family.

The family lost practically all their possessions in the fire and are now without shelter, clothing, food or the means to obtain these.

Any contributions in the way of money, clothing, etc., are needed, and will be welcome.

This is an excellent opportunity for charitable and benevolent organizations, churches and individuals to be of assistanec in one of the most pitiable cases of late years in Peterboro.

WILL CLEAN UP ALL STRAY DOGS

DOG-CATCHER GATES ON THE WARPATH AGAIN.

James Gates is on the warpath again, and people who own and admire their dogs are forewarned to keep them tied up. In the first flush of his glory, dreadful depredations may be made amongst the canine family by this energetic officer.

While the cost of living has ascended, the official dog catcher's remuneration of $1.00 per head has not been raised, and he must therefore increase his catch. No longer will wild-eyed brutes be allowed to range the streets at night, knocking over garbage pails, scaring two-legged night owls, and eking out a miserable existence on scraps and stray crumbs. These night pests will be searched out and eliminated.

3000-ROOM HOTEL.

New Bowman Enterprise Announced in New York.

NEW YORK. — The erection of a 3000-room hotel on the site of the Murray Hill and an addition of 2,000 rooms to the Commodore were announced yesterday by John McE. Bowman as projects designed to increase the capacity of the Pershing Square group of hotels controlled by Mr. Bowman and associates to 10,000 rooms. The successor to the Murray Hill will be the most luxurious in the world, according to Mr. Bowman, whose announcement also contained the information that the Hotel Manhattan will be closed on June 30 and turned over to the National City Company, which recently purchased the lease of it and which will convert it into an office building, with stores on Madison avenue and Forty-second street.

Premier's Secretary Appointed Assistant Deputy Minister of Railways

(Canadian Press)

OTTAWA, July 5.—George W. Yates, who since the formation of the Union Government, has been private secretary to Sir Robert Borden, was to-day appointed Assistant Deputy Minister of Railway.

Mr. Yates was previously private secretary to Hon. Frank Cochrane at the time he was Minister if Railways and Canals.

GET BEHIND ME, SATAN.

Of Dr. W. L. Watkinson, the British Wesleyan preacher and wit, many stories are told. This one has made many Britishers smile:

A Christian "Scientist" insisted that there was really no such thing as pain, that all aches were imaginative, an illusion of the devil. Dr. Watkinson would not agree and mentioned that at the moment he felt a twinge of indigestion.

"Nonsense, doctor, you must say 'get thee behind me, Satan!'" exclaimed the other conversationalist.

"H'm!" retorted the preacher, bringing into play that inimitable Watkinsonian "sniff." "A lot of good that would do, my friend. It would simply change indgestion into lumbago!"

TO AN INTELLECTUALIST.

(From "Forgotten Shrines" by John Chipman Farrar.

Have you ever felt the touch
Of soft wings in the night?
Or played at being river god
In some red mountain brook?
Or walked with Christ across the dawn
When no one else was near
To say he was but myth?

You have not?
Then go back to your dull books,
And tired dusty thoughts,
Until, perhaps, some day
A sudden mist will dim your eyes
And there
Between you and your intellect—God!

NO MOCKING BIRD, EITHER.

Waiter—"A little bird, sir?"

"Customer—"Yes, a swallow."

OBITUARY

JOHN ROLAND KNOX.

The death occurred yesterday at 1.30 p.m. at his home in Otonabee, of John Roland Knox, in his 24th year. Mr. Knox has been ailing for some time.

Besides his parents he leaves to mourn his loss two brothers, Wm. and David at home, three sisters, Mrs. Weir of Lang, Irene of Peterborough, and Bessie at home.

The funeral will take place to-morrow, Tuesday, at 1.30 o'clock, to the Little Lake cemetery. Service at the house at 1.30 o'clock.

DOG'S HAIR USED IN COUNTERFEIT NOTES

The risky ways of the counterfeiter are ever romantic, and many are the ingenious schemes that have been employed by him.

His methods are continually changing, for it should be remembered that even in the swindling business, new dupe propositions are being evolved almost as fast as old and weatherbeaten methods can be tracked to earth.

For instance, some years ago it was noticed that a large number of light coins in circulation in England had been "sweated," and discovery revealed the trick had been accomplished by electrolysis. The scientific swindlers had constructed an electro-deposition plant, using a gold piece as an anode, and a small metal plate as a cathode. The battery was set in motion, and, presto in a few minutes a couple of shillings worth of gold coin was worth so much less than before. As the gold was removed equally from all parts of the surface of the coin, its appearance was scarcely altered by the process, only an expert being able to detect the slight blurring of the design and lettering.

The dodge of increasing the weight of gold has also been tried. At intervals, a piece of gold was rubbed carefully with thin silver until the gold absorbed it. A strong solution of brimstone and quicklime was then prepared, and the gold boiled until the right color was obtained.

Forced Down Turkey's Gullet.

A branch industry once flourished in the manufacture of counterfeit coins, by a very novel method. The pieces were not circulated in their new condition, but were given an aged appearance by being forced down the gullet of turkeys, reared on a farm close at hand. The gastric juice of the birds thus covered the coins with an excellent patina, while the small stones in the bird's gizzard ground down any over prominent relief which might betray the recent origin of the coin.

Splitting coins found favor at one time, especially amoung the Chinese. Their favorite and most successful deception was to split a genuine silver or gold coin, hollow out the two halves on the inside, and join them together over a thin sheet of copper. So cleverly was this work excuted, that none but the smartest of the smart Chinese bank officials could detect the fraud.

Perhaps the most ingenious method was that of utilising the fine, silky hair of collie dogs in the production of bank notes.

A case of this kind occurred in the States some time ago, when the Government silk-threaded bank note paper was imitated by working in fine dog hairs. So accurate was the imitation that the counterfeit notes had just the same texture and appearance as the genuine notes. For a considerable time this ruse was entirely successful, baffling the efforts of the Secret Service men completely, and it was only on the counterfeiter's own evidence that the secret was revealed. Even then the authorities were sceptical, but an analysis revealed this to be perfectly true.

WEDDING BELLS

WATSON—RICHMOND.

At high noon on Wednesday last, June 30th, at Mark Street Methodist parsonage, a very pretty wedding took place, when Mr. W. L. Watson, of the town of Trenton, was united in marriage to Mrs. S. Richmond, of the same place.

The bride was unattended, and looked exceedingly well, wearing a rich gown of taupe silk. The parlor of the parsonage was tastefully decorated for the occasion with marguerites and ferns, and the ceremony was performed by Rev. G. E. Ross, a former pastor of the happy couple.

The groom's present to the bride was a handsome gold wrist watch, and the bride travelled in a suit of brown serge with hat to match.

On their return from Toronto and other Western points, Mr. and Ms. Watson will reside in Trenton. They have the best wishes of a large circle of friends.

CURTIS—BRISBIN.

A four o'clock in the afternoon of Wednesday, June 30, 1920, a very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ezekiel Brisbin, Roseneath, when their daughter, Alta Mae, was united in matrimony to Mr. Oswald Curtis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Curtis, of Peterboro.

To the strains of Lohegrin's wedding march, played by Mrs. Stuart Atkinson, the bride entered the drawing room escorted by her father, and took her place beneath an arch of evergreen and rose. She looked charming in a gown of white duchess satin trimmed in silver and pearls, wearing also the customary bridal veil made in juliet cap effect, trimmed with orange blossoms and maiden hair fern; and carrying a shower bouquet of bridal roses, her only ornament being a wrist watch, the gift of the groom.

The bride was attended by her little niece, Donna Talling, as flower girl, and her little cousin, Lillian McCleary, as ring bearer.

The groom's gifts were, to the flower girl and to the ring bearer, a gold bracelet, and to the pianist, a pearl pin.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. A. Bunt, B.A., pastor of the Roseneath Methodist Church.

After the signing of the register, the guests, numbering about fifty, partook of a very hearty wedding dinner.

Immediately after dinner, the young couple left on a short wedding trip to the Thousand Islands, in the midst of a shower of confetti, and taking with them the heartiest good wishes of all, the bride travelling in a suit of nigger brown gabardine with hat to match.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis will take up their residence in Toronto.

The large nuumber of beautiful and costly presents speak highly of the esteem in which the young couple are held by their many friends whose good wishes will go with them into their new home.

DUTHOIT—LEE.

A very pretty and interesting wedding took place at St. Paul's Church, Winnipeg, on June 24th, when Verna Maude, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee, formerly of Gilbert Plains, Manitoba, became the wife of Albert Gill, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Dutholt, 256 Cathedral Avenue, Winnipeg.

Promptly at 2 o'clock to the strains of Lohengrins bridal march, the bride entered the church on the arm of her father. She wore a peacock blue taffeta suit opening over a white georgette crepe waist embroidered in the same color, and a hat of white satin straw and tulle, trimmed with corded silk ribbon. Her bouquet was of white peonies and she carried an Oriental bead bag, the gift of the groom. The bride's gift to the groom was a gold watch chain. Both were unattended. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 656 Victor Street. The table was decorated in white and mauve with bunches of peonies and the wedding cake centred the table over which was suspended a huge white wedding bell. Immediately after the wedding breakfast the bridal couple left for Minneapolis on the afternoon train where the honeymoon will be spent. A large party of friends surprised them at the station and gave them a hearty send off. The groom was one of the original 16th Canadian Scottish and served four and one-half years in France. The wedding gifts were both numerous and costly.

After their return, on July 5th, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Duthoit will be at home at 656 Victor Street, where they will reside.

The bride is a niece of John Melvin, and spent most of her school days in Peterboro.

BIRTH.

McLEOD — On Thursday, July 1st, 1920, to Mr. and Mrs. A. McLeod, Water street, a daughter.

SULLIVAN—To Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Sullivan, 473 Rogers street, July 27, 1920, a daughter.

DEATHS.

HALLIDAY—On Sunday, July 4th, at the family residence, 457 Water street, Peterborough, James Thomas Innes Halliday, M.D.

Funeral from the family residence, 457 Water street, at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, July 6th, to St. John's church.

IN MEMORIAM.

VOL. XVLII. NO. 4 — PETERBOROUGH, TUESDAY, JULY 6, 1920 — PRICE THREE CENTS

Another $100,000 By-law for the Hunter Street Monument

Ratepayers Asked to Vote $100,000 to Finish Bridge

BY-LAW ENDORSED BY THE CITY COUNCIL LAST EVENING—THE ENGINEER'S EXPLANATION.

The City Council last night passed a by-law authorizing the issuing of debentures to borr w $100,000 with which to complete the construction of the Hunter street bridge. These debentures are to bear interest at 6 1-4 per cent.

This was the motion of Ald. Hamilton and Turner, and it carried unanimously.

Originally, when the erection of this bridge was in contemplation, its cost, including removing and re-erecting at London street the old Hunter street bride, was estimated at $260,000, and the ratepayers voted that amount.

Subsequently the Dominion government gave the city a grant of $50,000 towards the strcucture, and the Ontario Municipal and Railway Board made a grant of $5,000 in consideration of changing a grade railway crossing at Hunter street to a high level one on the bridge.

This gave the Council a total of $315,000 with which to construct the new bridge, pay land damages and reconstruct the old bridge at London street.

But this bridge, with its approahes all but finished, and the long centre span to be constructed, has already cost $273,600.05, and Engineer Barber now estimates the structure's total cost at $437,000.

From this sum, however, Mr. Barber would subtract several items of expenditure not directly chargeable to the bridge, reducing its actual estimated cost to $393,000. These items are land damages, cost of temporary bridge and cost of gravel pit, together with salvage amounting to $6,000 on cement bags, $10,000 on timber and $10,000 on motors, tools, etc.

Too Late For Steel.

To Ald. Gordon, Engineer Barber replied that it is too late to think of building the centre arch of steel.

Cause of the Excess.

Ald. Hamilton, chairman of the Special Bridge committee, generally speaking found no room to complain of extravagance. He said the work running over all estimating was quite unforseen and certainly unavoidable and uncontrollable, resulting from the following extras Council had to meet in the past and must provide for before the bridge will be completed:

Extra for wages	$25',000
Extra for timber	10,000
Extra for excavating and concrete for enlarged foundations for piers	25,000
Extra for centring arch	9,000
Extra for Quaker Oats platform	4,000
Extra because terra cotta was not purchased last fall	4,000
Temporary bridge not anticipated	6,000
Extra for sundries, coal, etc.	5,000
Total	$88,000

To Ald. Phelan, Ald. Hamilton replied that he was quite confident the bridge would be completed with the $100,000 to be asked from the ratepayers. "We have," he said, "gone into the matter carefully; there has been no money wasted; we have started the work and it must be finished."

Prices Climbing.

Engineer Frank Barber, in his explanation of the situation, said prices of material have gone up and are still climbing. Concrete sidewalks per foot had jumped from 12c. a foot before 1914, to 14, 25, 35 and last fall to 40 and even 42c. a foot. This indicates the increase in concrete work on the bride.

$13540 was paid for the gravel pit lot, all of which should not be charged against the bridge proper, as the lot is still a valuable asset, Mr. Barber contended.

Wages, he continued, have increased by one-third, and they account for $25,000 in extras. Timber (nearly all bought) went away up over the peak, and had to be purchased at a figure out of all proportion.

Piers Cost $25,000 Extra.

Mr. Barber here went on to say that the 780 yards additional concrete work in the piers, broadened at their foundations from what was estimated to suit local conditions, ran up an extra $25,000. Then, he said, the centering of the long span, decided on by the contractors, cost an extra $9,000. He explained this thus: He had estimated that one half of that span should be completed first, and the timber forms then moved over for pouring the other half. But the contractors had planned for constructing the whole of that span at once, thus entailing more expense for carpentering and timber than he had allowed for.

Terra-Cotta Work.

Mr. Barber said that had the contractors purchased this material last fall as he ordered, they could have secured it for $4,011 as against the close on $7,000 it will cost now. He was inclined to think there had been

MEMORIAL TABLET AT LOCAL Y.M.C.A.

The Examiner was to-day shown a copy of the design for the memorial tablet to be unveiled in memory of the Y.M.C.A. boys who lost their lives in the war. It is a most artistic and impressive memorial and the relatives and friends of Y.M.C.A. members who made the supreme sacrifice should make sure that the names are sent in to the Y.M.C.A. so that they may be included in the list. The tablet will be unveiled early in September.

ANOTHER BUSINES TAKEN OVER.

Extra Work for the Plumbing Inspector

TAXES STILL ROLLING INTO THE TREASURY

More ratepayers paid both instalments of their taxes at one payment this year than last, Mr. W. J. Green, tax collector, declared to-day. He believed this was because only two months' interest on their money would be secured if one instalment was paid, and so the majority of ratepayers settled the whole amount and got the matter off their hands.

When Mr. Green was asked if he did not think the change in the dates of payment—from August to July and from November to September—did not place an undue burden on the working man, he said he believed not. He felt it was a good move, for money is generally more plentiful in the homes now when there is no fuel to buy and the ratepayers have their garden vegetables.

Many delinquent ones are still paying their bills, and each mail brings a deluge of payments from British Columbia, the Western Provinces, and the United States, and various other centres in Ontario and the East.

WILL COME UNDER THE JURISDICTION OF BOARD OF HEALTH —PROPERTY WANTED FOR MANUFACTURING PURPOSES.

The City Council last night passed a by law appointing Arthur G. Metheral Plumbing Inspector at a salary of $1,500 a year. His duties, however, are increased from those of his predecessor, the new official being under the jurisdiction of the local Board of Health and the Medical Health Officer.

In this connection medical officer Dr. McPherson pointed out that Metheral could be associated with sanitary plumbing in houses, sewage disposal from all premises have authority in regard to ventilation in homes, schools, factories; study up and advise in general conditions to make premises habitable, and give attention to sanitary measures in bake, butcher, fruit and other shops. In fact, said the doctor, such sanitary work is not too important for the best man to be had.

He suggested that Metheral's official rank be chief sanitary inspector.

Ald. Gordon did not think Metheral should rank above Mr. Stapleton "If there is any promotion going, seniority should be given the preference," he said.

Dr. McPherson—"The senior is not always the best man."

Ald. Hamilton—"There need be no question of seniority at all; both Stapleton and Metheral can work under the direction of the M. O. H. and Board of Health."

Ald. Whitehouse concurred in this view, and the matter rested at that.

Is Appointee Agreeable?

Before passing the by law Ald. Gainey said he was not sure Metheral would agree to the new duties added since he applied for the position.

Ald. Gordon replied that there would not be enough work to keep him employed as plumbing inspector and he could not conceive of his objecting to the added duties mentioned by Dr. McPherson.

Ald. Crowe—"Mr. Metheral told me he is quite willing to shoulder enough duties to keep him employed the whole time.'

For Factory Purposes.

The Canadian Woollens Limited wrote that they had bought all Mr. Hatton's land on the north side of McDonald street up to Monaghan Road, and also Mr. Green's property along the Monaghan Road to the Grand Trunk Railway track. The Company added that they wished to purchase from the city that property held for an extension of Cambridge to McDonald street north, and suggested $250 as a reasonable price, the land would be used for manufacturing purposes. Referred to the Board of Works.

Underground Conduits

The Bell Telephone Co., asked permission to lay underground conduits on Aylmer street, from Charlotte to Townsend street, and on George street from C.P.R. tracks south to Lansdowne street. This was also sent to the Board of Works.

Sunday Street Cars.

Chief Engineer Gaby of the Hydro Electric Commission of Ontario wrote that the Council's letter re Sunday street cars will be placed before the commission and a decision transmitted to the city as early as possible. —Received.

Landing Stage.

F. T. Tuggey wrote asking permission to construct a boat landing stage at the foot of Harvey street, off Dublin street. Tuggey promises that anyone with a boat wanting a landing place could use this stage.—This went to the Property Committee.

Safety Zones.

On motion of Ald Turner, the Police Commissioners will be asked to renew the safety zones painted last

BRITISH THREATEN TO BOMBARD TOWN

(Canadian Press.)

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 6. — Bombardment of the great mosque at Brussa and the destruction of the town by airplane attacks are threatened in an ultimatum received by the Brussa Governor from Vice Admiral De Robeck, British High Commissioner at Constantinople, who has been in charge of British landing parties along the sea of the Marmora coast.

Ultimatum states that action is to be taken because Nationalist forces violated peace treaty by attacking the British on sea at Marmora coast.

It is reported that Turkish Nationalists, believing that British have not sufficient troops available to support their marines, have been defying the navy all along the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus. Extensive fortifications have been made by the British on the mountain at Beicos, near the north entrance of the Bosphorus, where the dreadnought Iron Duke has been shelling Nationalist band in the surrounding mountains. Turks are holding forty Greek girls and men at Brussels as hostages and are threatening their execution.

PRINCE OF WALES EMERGED SMILING FROM WRECKAGE OVERTURNED CAR

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, July 6.—The Prince of Wales emerged unscathed and smiling through the window of an overturned car when his train was wrecked yesterday, says a despatch from Perth, Australia, to the London Times.

The accident occurred near Bridgetown, West Australia. The Prince's parlour car and the one adjoining, which were the last in in the train, were derailed, dragged for two hundred yards, and then overturned.

Soon after climbing from the wreck the Prince was joking and good naturedly chaffing with the Australian Premier. He was cheered by the crowd which witnessed his narrow escape from the wreck.

MESSAGE GIVEN OUT BY THE WAR OFFICE.

(Canadian Press)

LONDON, July 6.—British War Office today gave out a message, the source of which was withheld, saying General Wrangel's cavalry in South Russia had encircled Bolshevik cavalry corps consisting of eighteen regiments, on which Wrangel's forces concentrated fire from armoured trains and airplanes. Messages declares that only 150 escaped, a thousand prisoners being taken and battlefield covered with blood. Message adds that second Bolshevik cavalry corps with its staff also was captured by Wrangel's army.

FLATLY DENIES ALL CHARGES

UPHOLDS SPEEDWELL HOSPITAL ADMINISTRATION.

(Canadian Press)

OTTAWA, July 6.—Charge by Nurse Mary Pollock regarding conditions at Speedwell Military Hospital, Guelph, as contained in Press despatches from Toronto were categorically denied by Deputy Director of Medical Services Arnold this morning.

"Equipment in Speedwell Hospital is much better than that on any civilian institution," said Dr. Arnold. "It is no different from any other military hospital and is open to inspection by any one who desires to visit the place." Regarding complaint that there was no proper heating in the wards of tubercular patients, he pointed out that it was a well-known fact that tubercular patients do better in wards that are not heated. There was no pretense at heating the place, he said. Reply to the statement that there was vastly better accommodation five miles behind the front line, Dr. Arnold stated that this story was on par with one regarding ink in the fountain pen freezing. "It is absolutely untrue," he said. Concluding, Dr. Arnold said Speedwell Hospital was never discriminated against.

MR. HALL'S LETTER WAS DISCUSSED BY THE CITY COUNCIL

In open Council last night Ald. G. N. Gordon replied to Mr. R. R. Hall's letter in The Examiner yesterday evening to the effect that Council should give some statement as to the cost of the Hunter Street Bridge.

Ald. Gordon, in reply, said that two-thirds or three-fourths of the work is completed. The centre span must now be constructed in concrete to meet the pressure effect toward the river of the approach arches already finished.

There is no question of extravagance, but in regard to labour efficiency at a time when labour was scarce generally all over the country, and a desirable character of labour was hard to obtain. First-class work, however, in this respect is now being done.

Ald. Gordon urged that Ald. Hamilton, chairman of the special Bridge Committee, make public a summarised statement of the actual costs.

Ald. Hamilton though this would be done by the press.

SITUATION IS STILL IN MAZE

LITTLE LIGHT ON OTTAWA POLITICAL TREE.

(Canadian Press)

OTTAWA, July 6.—Political situation is still in maze of uncertainties. Within the last day or two the idea has gained currency that Sir Thomas White may be induced to accept an invitation to form a government in succession to Premier Borden. Sir Thomas, it is urged, should be likely to secure considerable amount of support in Quebec. Hon. N. W. Rowell will not be in the city to-morrow. While he has no definite announcement, is is doubtful if he will retain his portfolio.

CHILDREN'S CAMP OPENED TO-DAY JACKSON PARK

CHILDREN WILL BE TAKEN TO THE PARK EACH MORNING.

The annual midsummer camp of the Peterborough Health Association for the benefit of delicate children opened this morning in Jackson Park with the usual quota of boys and girls varying in age from five to twelve years, none of whom are rugged enough to enjoy the supervised playgrounds. The children are taken to the park each morning and returned to their homes in the late afternoon by motor jitney—spending eight to nine hours of each day amid the life-giving breezes and the sweet fragrance of the pines on the high grounds of this most delightful spot. An efficient trained nurse is in charge of the camp, together with the ladies of the Nurse's Supervision Committee and the secretary of the association, Dr. G. A. Cameron. Each child is under the direct scrutiny of the nurse and the weaker children are to have their regular time for sleep on the cots of the rest tent. No child with the smallest symptoms of any infections is allowed to remain in the camp. A general breakfast of bread and butter with plenty of new milk is served as soon as the children arrive in the morning, and for dinner a substantial meal, consisting of nourishing stew, vegetables, bread and butter, and pudding satisfies appetites which improve every day, while the late afternoon meal bread, butter, milk and some sweet-cake or fruit, eaten amid the cheerful surroundings of setting sun and sweet evening breezes, ensure for the most sickless little one healthier, happier sleep.

A large rest tent fitted with cot beds provides for the afternoon sleep of the tiny and weakly, under the strict supervision of the nurse, who also directs the play hours or amuses while she instructs by book or story.

A hearty invitation to visit the camp is extended to the friends who make this undertaking possible through their generous patronage of the annual motor show. Come and see how part of your money is expended.

If there should be a boy or girl who has grown tired of a good picture book and would like to pass it on to some child less favored, the children's camp furnishes the opportunity. Help make the children happy and so bring greater happiness to yourself.

EXTRAVAGANT

"Are they extravagant people?"

"Very. They have beefsteak and potatoes at the same meal."

FINAL BALLOT WAS ACCOUNTED FOR AT ONE-FORTY THIS MORNING—COX WILL ACCEPT.

(United Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, July 6.—Governor James M. Cox, of Ohio, was nominated Democratic candidate for president of the United States at 1.45 this morning.

The nomination came during the 44th roll call. Samuel B. Amidon, Kansas National committeeman, and a McAdoo leader, seeing the tide sweeping toward Cox, moved that 5 rules be suspended and he declared the unanimous choice of the party.

Amid scenes of tumultuous joy, with hundreds of delegates cheering and yelling, the meeting was carried with a thundering shout of ayes.

Will Accept.

(United Press)

DAYTON, Ohio, July 6.—Governor James M. Cox, who was nominated as candidate for president at the Democratic National conference today, said he would accept the honor. He was at the wires all yesterday and last night and said he was too tired to make a formal statement to-day.

The finish came after the convention had been in session, save a brief dinner recess, since shortly after 10 a.m. yesterday. The deadlock was broken after the thirty-eighth ballot, when Attorney-General A. M. Palmer withdrew and released his delegates. Cox got most of votes Palmer released and as balloting progressed he gained steadily.

On the 43rd ballot the McAdoo forces began to crumble. The 44th roll call was still in progress when the end came. The count stood 699 1-2 for Cox and McAdoo 270. From 728 to 730 votes, depending on the total cast, were required to nominate. Michigan had passed and was caucusing, evidently preparing to throw its whole vote to Cox. Colorado, through its chamber, was in the act of changing its vote and casting it solidly for Cox.

At this juncture Amidon made his announcement.

A Hard Struggle.

(Canadian Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, July 6.—James M. Cox, Governor of Ohio, was nominated as a candidate for the presidency of the United States in the Democratic National convention at one-forty o'clock this morning. Nomination came at the close of the forty-fourth ballot struggle, in which he had steadily beaten down forces of William G. McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury and son-in-law of President Wilson. When balloting had reached the point where Cox had seven hundred votes or nearly necessary two-thirds the vote, S. B. Amidon, fo Kansas, manager of the McAdoo party, took the platform and moved that Cox's nomination be made unanimous. A roar went up and a motion for acclamation went over with a rolling chorus of ayes and crashing of brass bands. In the confusion and excitement of the nomination the body forgot about the nomination for vice-president, but leaders were figuring on the list which prominently included Franklin D. Roosevelt(assistant secretary of the navy. An adjournment was made until noon today to canvass the question of second place in the meantime and meet again prepared to complete the ticket.

Started Yesterday.

Cox band wagon movement really started late yesterday afternoon before dinner recess. During the interval both sides of the fight made desperate appetals to tammany. On the third ballot of the evening session slide to Cox had started and before leaders of the opposition could realize it, votes were flopping over in twos and threes in the fashion that sent him over the majority mark and put him at a new level. Cox's manager stated after adjournment, "We did it without making a single promise, not even for postmastership.

McAdoo Pleased.

(Canadian Press)

HUNTINGDON, Long Island, July 6.—When William G. McAdoo was informed this morning that Governor Cox, of Ohio, had been nominated as Democrat candidate for the presidency his only comment was: "I am pleased and delighted that call did not come to me."

He showed every evidence that he was pleased.

WOULD STAGE A PUBLIC DEBATE

Ald. G. N. Gordon, in Council last night, protested vigorously against some C. G. E. official suggesting that the City Council's Conciliation Board's object in its efforts to effect a settlement of the strike was ulterior to saving the community loss of labour and money and preventing good ratepayers from leaving the town.

Ald. Gordon reiterated that the Council had acted in the city's best interests as a whole, behind which there was no ulterior purpose whatever. He strongly resented any C. G. E. official attributing such a motive to the Council's endeavours, and was ready at any time to debate the matter in public.

TURKISH NATIONALISTS OCCUPIED BEICOS

Enemy is Located about Ten Miles From the Capital.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, July 6. — The Turkish Nationalist troops on Monday occupied Beicos, on the Asiatic shore of the Bosphorus, about ten miles from Constantinople, and oposite the allied headquarters on the European side.

According to a Constantinople despatch fighting with the British and Greek troops followed.

The British fleet bombarded Turkish positions but the Turks continued to hold Beicos. Allied troops have been withdrawn.

The clergyman of a poor parish was showing a rich lady around, hoping to touch her heart and so receive a big cheque for his people.

"We are now passing through the poorest slums," he said, as the car turned into a side street. "These pople have little to brighten their lives."

"I must do somthing for them," sighed the lady, adding to the chauffeur: "James, drive th car slowly and turn on the big lamps."

The REVERE—No. 1962

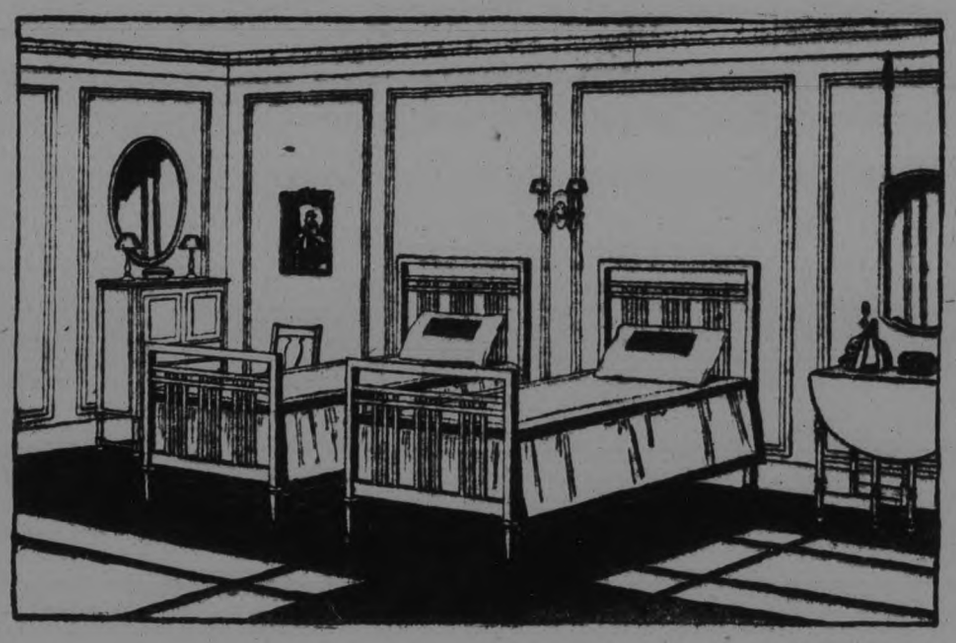
It is made of Simmons Seamless Square and Rectangular Tubing throughout. Easy running casters.

Your choice of Double Width and Twin Pairs—and especially pleasing in Twin Pair.

Has the Simmons Patented Pressed Steel Noiseless Corner Locks.

Enameled in Ivory, the Decorative Colors, and Mahogany, Oak and Circassian Walnut effects.



© Simmons Limited, 1920

In Color Harmony with Your Dresser and Chiffonier

Beautiful Hardwood Effects Enameled on Steel Beds—see the New Designs by Simmons Limited in the Leading Stores.

Sleep is a big subject! Write us for the booklet, "What Leading Medical Journals and Health Magazines Say About Separate Beds and Sound Sleep." Free of charge.

THIS will be a new thought to you—Hardwood Effects enameled on a steel bed.

The whole idea is new. Impossible heretofore, until Simmons Limited invented its new Seamless Steel Tubing, and opened the way to really good design in metal beds and a perfect finish that admits of exquisite enameling in Decorative Colors and Hardwood Effects.

Now you can go to any of the leading merchants here in the city—select from perhaps a dozen charming designs, enameled in Mahogany, Oak or Circassian Walnut—or if you prefer, in Ivory or Colors.

The range of patterns is so great that you will find beds to harmonize with antiques and "Period" pieces.

SIMMONS Limited has been working on the problem of good design in metal beds for years.

But old-style tubing has a seam running the full length of the tube. It cannot be worked into the shapes. It is apt to be rough—does not take the enamel smoothly.

All these new designs are made with the Simmons Seamless Steel Tubing—a new invention of the greatest practical importance.

Square and trim—free from joints, seam and roughness. Beautifully smooth, so that the enamel lies tight and evenly all over—does not scratch, check or chip.

YOU will find these fine new Simmons designs in Beds Built for Sleep in the leading stores. Quiet beds, with the Simmons Pressed Steel Corner Locks—free from squeak or rattle.

Your choice of many different patterns—and of Twin Pairs and Double Width in each pattern.

Simmons Springs, too—

"Waldorf" Box Spring—Composed of finest oil-tempered double-cone spirals, mounted on a frame of seasoned hardwood and upholstered with heavy layers of white cotton felt. Covered with attractive ticking. Finished with roll edge. A spring that really does give freely to all the contours of the body, yet supports the spine in any sleeping position.

And some very charming Brass Beds and Children's Cribs, together with Simmons Mattresses and Pillows—all built for sle by Simmons Limited.

SIMMONS Beds, Springs, Mattresses and Pillows cost little if any more than the ordinary merchandise of the average store.

A post card to us will bring you the names of Simmons merchants near your home.

No entrance fees were demanded and the best of track accommodations available. Not a complaint from either competitor or visitor and nothing but praises sounded over every corner, with everyone declaring that another meet will be looked forward to.

The summing up by the manager at the close of the day was this, that all expenses had been met, leaving $1000.00 of a surplus. The owner and manager of the track, Mr. Pyette, is to be congratulated on the able and business management of the meet.

Incidentally, I would say, should anyone visit Penetang for such gatherings it they would go to the Kenedy House every comfort and attention will be at his or her disposal.

You will pardon me for taking so much space in your valuable columns, but I like to be on appreciative of a good thing.

Respectively yours,
"A VISITOR."

Peterboro, July 4th, 1920.

Editor of The Examiner,

Mr. Burnham in his letters enlightening us on the big salary grab at Ottawa gives as one reason that all others were getting an increase to meet the H.C.L. and, of course, why not we? I wish Mr. Burnham would speak just one time more and say, "What has been done for the rural mail carriers in the Government employ?" This fellow on whom the cause of war and all its sorrowful effects has laid a very heavy hand. Taking oats at $1.60 a bushel and others things in proportion, surely something has been done. Just two things appears to have been done. He now gets his pay monthly instead of quarterly (very good) and is now given the privilege, if he does not like to finish the contract, he may resign. Now, this will be esteemed by many a grand privilege, yet after having come through for some years with the great expenses, his route is put up for dutch auction to go to the lowest bidder. Yet after all what encouragement has he got to deliver the mail anyhow. Listen to my tale of woe: I have a mail route out of Peterboro, being paid the highest salary, according to the number of miles travelled, I suppose, and oh, what a salary it is. I have a boarder, a laborer, who works only nine hours a day. Saturday afternoon off, a week's holidays coming soon, with no horse to feed, no expenses, yet he is paid $7.00 a week more than I can get delivering His Majesty's mail. In fact, he is home dressed up reading The Examiner long before I can get through. I wish Mr. Burnham would speak just one time more and tell us this: Can the Government not afford to pay mail carriers a few hundred dollars more and the members $1,400 at the same time, or must they adhere to a sort of a rob-Peter-to-pay-Paul policy? Just one time more, Mr. Burnham, just one time more!

WHY SHE WEPT.

"Was the wedding a success?" said Mrs. Brown.

"Yes in most particulars," replied Mrs. Gray, "but some of the guests thought the bride's mother did a lot more crying than was necessary. You see, the young couple are to make their home with her, so really, she is not losing her daughter."

"Maybe that was what she was crying about," murmured Mrs. Gray who had known the bride.

BIG FRUIT CROP IS ANTICIPATED

CROP IS LOOKING FINE ALONG THE LAKEFRONT.

An excellent crop of plums and apples is expected along the front, Mr. Walter Oke told The Examiner today. The new cherries from Niagara that are coming in he stated were the best of the crop and the prices were about the same as last year. They are retailing at about $1.00 an 11 quart basket, while the sweet black cherries are about twice the price. The strawberries, he said, would be over this week and raspberries would be on the market next week. A good crop is looked for in spite of the disastrous winter killing in many patches. Several days of warm sunshine, Mr. Oke stated, was all that was needed to ripen them. The huckleberries are ripening up the lakes and a bumper crop of the berries is looked for. Mr. Oke could not say when they would appear in the city.

Strawberries are cheaper in other Ontario cities than in Peterboro, he intimated, and some Niagara growers are quoting 28 and 29 cents wholesale.

ASPHODEL CATTLE BRING HIGH PRICES

VALUABLE SCOTCH SHORTHORNS OF J. ANDREW KNOX SOLD BY AUCTION.

The dispersion of the Mt. Pleasant Reg. Shorthorn herd of Mr. J. Andrew Knox proved one of the most successful stock sales ever held in the district. Nearly every section of the province was represented by buyers, most of the offering going outside the country. One of the heaviest buyers of the immediate vicinity was Mr. H. Coyle, Hastings, who secured "Princess Beauty 4th" and calf for $615, "Primrose Beauty 8th," 1 year old, at $530, and "Good Rose," 2 years, at $750, the top price of the sale, and "Lady Lyndhurst 6th," 3 years, at $500. Mr. C. W. Carney, of Thornbury, was also a good buyer, getting "Lady Lyndhurst 4th" at $600, and "Primrose Beauty 2nd" and calf at $605. Mr. John Miller, Claremont, a well-known breeder, paid $650 for "Primrose Beauty 3rd" and calf, others buyers being C. J. Beaty, Oakville; John Medland, Whitby, and Col. R. E. Birdsall, Birdsall. The herd bull, "Village Rosewood 20," went to the bid of Moses Suttan, Midbrook, and was a good buy at the price, $400.

Every animal catalogued was sold, an average of $411 being made on the entire offering. The arrangements for the sale were first class and well carried out and the cattle were brought out in exceptionally fine fit and effected great credit upon Mr. Knox as their owner and breeder. G. A. Brethen handled the sale and was assisted by Messrs. George and Ted Jackson, Port Perry, and William Foran, of Canadian Farm.

THE LOCAL REGATTA.

The regatta that is to be held on the Otonabee this month should receive the hearty support of citizens generauly, for it is a step towards placing Peterborough where it should be on the aquatic map. With a splendid river like the Otonabee available for boating, and in a city whose canoes are world famous, there should be scores of expert paddlers, men who would be capable of meeting the best in Canada in a canoe race. Peterborough is represented at every big paddling meet by the canoe which bears the same name as the city, but unfortunately there are no Peterborough paddlers to bring fresh fame by their prowess. Just why there are not any crack canoeists here is a mystery, but one reason undoubtedly is that there has never in recent years been any co-operative or community effort to develop this splendid sport. There should be a canoe club here with hundreds of members, for few cities have finer opportunities for such an institution. Perhaps this ideal will be realized some day, but at least in the establishment of an annual regatta day a good start has been made and some excellent material will doubtless be discovered as a result. It is to be hoped that support and assistance for the coming regatta will be readily forthcoming and that out of it may grow a movement to establish a proper canoeing and boating association here — an organization that would have a fine boathouse of its own, with a full equipment of racing craft, war canoes and every accessory of a modern canoe club. Surely the city that gave Canada the Peterborough canoe is big enough for a club of this kind.

WHERE LABOUR STANDS.

We are glad to see that the American Federation of Labour has placed itself squarely on record as favouring the League of Nations, and the president, Mr. Gompers, declares that if the matter could be placed fairly before the people of the United States, unencumbered by other issues, it would receive an overwhelming endorsement. This is as it should be, and it shows that labour's outlook upon international affairs is very much wider than some of its enemies would have the world believe. The truth is that labour favours peace and international goodwill, and its action in refusing to endorse the Soviet, which at present rules Russia so arbitrarily, argues well for the sanity of our labour leaders.

The convention in Montreal, however, held strongly to the workman's right to strike, and it was very zealous on any abridgement of that right. This is natural enough, for labour has had for years to fight for its life, and the strike has been its most effective weapon. But times are changing, and there is a very widespread conviction that this weapon should be no longer necessary. It is true that there are unprincipled men who would not hesitate for a moment to oppress labour if it were necessary to add to their wealth, and if they could do it without fear of a labour outbreak; and so long as such men exist, and our laws allow them to exploit labour without interference, so long the strike must remain labour's legal weapon of defence.

And yet, after all, it is a two-edged weapon, and it injures often the very ones who can least afford to be injured. If it struck only the man or the corporation whose greed or ignorance was responsible for the strike, it would not be so bad; but too often it hits hardest the poor and their families. And it does seem to us that the time has come when labour should not need to resort to a strike in order to secure justice. We believe in the fairness of the average man, whether he be rich or poor. We believe that the ordinary man has no desire to work injustice to any man, rich or poor. And we believe that the time has come when men should be able to get together and settle their differences without any threats whatever.

The average man is hard to drive, and when anyone comes at him with a club, there is usually little difficulty in starting a fight. But the employer is learning that he should treat his workmen with consideration, and the workman is learning that his employer is not usually his enemy; and there should be no difficulty in getting the two together, and in their dealing honestly and fairly with each other in securing a settlement of any dispute, whether concerning wages, hours, or conditions of labour. We are all agreed that the working man has a right, not only to a living wage, but to absolutely decent treatment. The days of slavery, whether black or white, are over, and the master must be prepared to discuss matters with his men on terms of absolute equality. And, on the other hand, the world and the nation have a right to demand a fair day's work for a fair day's pay. The idea that men can do $6.00 worth of work and get $10.00 for it is clearly impossible; it may be done for a while, but it certainly cannot last, and the average worker recognises this as clearly as anyone else.

WARNE DRUG CO., LTD.

And with the employer willing to treat his employees as brothers, and pay them the highest wages he can afford, and the workmen willing to do a fair day's work for a fair wage, neither one seeking to exploit the other, we ought surely to reach speedily the day when there shall be no need of either strike or lockout. Of course, some will tell us that the only remedy for the present evil is the absolute elimination of the master, and the control of everything by the workmen. But, so far as we can see, this remedy is not capable of present application, and until it is a practical issue there should be a getting together of masters and workmen, with a determination to settle all their differences without threats and without violence. Surely this ought to be possible in a Christian land to-day.

TASK CLEANING HOTEL SILVER

12,000 PIECES A DAY IS THE PENNSYLVANIA'S AVERAGE.

NEW YORK, July 6—The average New Yorker or American realizes that this city has by far the best equipped hotels in the world, that such comfort as they afford is supplied nowhere else in the world, but few stop to consider how this is brought about. They have come to regard such service as part of the necessities of every day life, never for a moment speculating on the army of helpers who keep things going like clock work, never for a moment allowing the machinery to stop.

Yet in the running of a modern hotel there are myriad duties never considered by the "layman," any one of which is most exacting and highly important in the process of making service what the modern hotel man considers it should be. A recent tour of inspection of the Hotel Pennsylvania disclosed the fact that twelve men are needed to keep the silver for the dining rooms polished. It is a department in itself and is presided over by Ernest Moeller, an expert in his line.

Moeller looks after the polishing each day of something over 12,000 pieces of silverware, worth something like a quarter of a million dollars, and he says it is the most interesting job he ever had. He can tell you at a moment's notice just what will be cleaned to-morrow, etc., for on the wall of his little private office is a chart of his own devising which shows just what is going on. Across the top it has the days of the month and down the left side are listed the various articles. The sheet is marked off in squares and each square is filled with red on the regulation date of cleaning. In addition to his chart which shows the regular routine cleaning, Mr. Moeller patrols the various pantries in the hotel, and every time the slightest discoloration appears on a piece of silver it is hurried downstairs.

The actual work in the department is done with eleven large silver polishing machines, which were installed at a cost of $33,000. These machines are half-filled with round and pointed steel shot, and the articles are firmly imbedded in the shot. They are then filled with water and sufficient soap is added to form a strong lather. The machine is put in motion and in five minutes the silver is like new. Articles with any tarnish or more serious discolorations are either dipped in a cleansing fluid or rubbed in hand, thoroughly rinsed and then placed in the revolving drums.

The large machines hold 1,000 pounds and the small ones from eight to ninety pounds. After the polishing process everything is rinsed, dipped in boiling water and then dried with soft cloths. About 5,000 pieces of flat ware go through this process daily, and Mr. Moeller says it is no more trouble to clean a remover than a teaspoon.

Down at one end of the long shop a man removes especially stubborn stains by hand, and although he works rapidly the amount he is able to accomplish in one day is convincing proof of the desirability of machine cleaning. Moeller runs his department in two shifts, with a foreman in each shift, seven men are on duty during the day and nine at night.

After a day's cleaning is finished magnets are used to pick up any stray steel shot that may have fallen to the floor. In this way a considerable saving is effected in the course of a year.

O, LORD—NEVER MIND.

Litle Harold, having climbed to the pinnacle of the roof of a very steep shed, lost his footing, and began to slide with terrifying swiftness toward the point where the roof swept gracefully off into space.

"O Lord, save me!" he prayed. "O Lord, save me! O Lord—never mind, I've caught on a nail."

VIRTUOUS WIVES

By OWEN JOHNSON

"But you must have a suspicion?"

"Of whom he is jealous? My dear mother, it might be any one of twenty men. No one could be more careful than I. Just look how people talk about Kitty and Gladys Challoner. But a lot of good it does me. If I gave him any reason—" She paused, and the need of preparing her attitude caused her to feel a little real indignation, as she continued: "Do you think my life is an easy one? Do you think it isn't humiliating to have your husband fuddled every night regularly at six o'clock. Do I reproach him? Do I make scenes when he sits at the dinner table staring at his place and has to be helped into the library?" She shrugged her shoulders, glanced at the mirror, rectified the line of her negligee and tripped down to the library.

"My dear Rudolph, we must come somewhere," she said quietly, "otherwise, I am determined to countermand the dinner and make my excuses to Kitty and the boys. What exactly and precisely do you reproach me with this time?"

Mr. Dellabarre came to a full stop opposite his wife. About her husband there seemed to be always an impassable iron grating which recalled to her that feeling of terror she had experienced when, in her days of poverty, she had faced the dread figure of the cashier.

"You know very well," he said suddenly.

"I know what you have been saying to me all morning and what you've been repeating to mother. Is that all?"

"All!" exclaimed Mr. Dellabarre, who, fired anew, repeated again his theories about the upbringing of the modern woman. Mrs. Dellabarre arranged herself patiently in an armchair and waited until the subject should have exhausted itself. At the end of ten minutes, she rose and rang for Miss Bane.

"Miss Bane, kindly call up Mrs. Challoner, the Brackens, and the Fonsivals. Inform them that I am obliged to countermand the dinner to-night. Say that we are afraid Doris has the measles. Mr. Dellabarre thinks it unwise to expose others That is all."

Miss Bane, who knew enough to wait further confirmation, withdrew.

"Now, my dear, every one will know that we have been quarreling" she said quietly. To her surprise, her husband did not flinch, despite the horror she knew he had of public gossip. She determined, therefore, to force the issue.

"My dear Rudolph, you may save yourself the pains. I know all this by memory. Your description of me is exact. I am a modern wife, if you will, the wife of a rich man. I don't cook; I don't darn the children's socks; I don't haggle over the butcher's bill or the price of eggs. All this is true. But why did you marry me?"

As she intended, this threw him into such a state of fury that he blurted out what most husbands suspect but which they do well not to reveal in the first years of matrimonial discussion.

"Marry you?" he cried. "You know very well I married you because you wanted me to."

She saw the sudden flare-up of jealousy in the strange shut-in nature of the man who still loved her. She had a moment of pity, for she had a kind heart and often returned to those good resolutions she had formed at the altar, when she had passed from the shadow of scheming and privation into the new world of gratification and power. But immediately angered by the justice of his remark, she rang imperiously and gave orders to pack her trunk on the instant.

"That is going too far," she said coldly. "You are quite sober, and you know what you are saying. I shall leave here at once, and shall stay away until you come to your senses. The situation is intolerable."

"It is intolerable," he said, and the hand which he held rigidly before him began to shake, as she had never seen it do before. "I quite agree with you—you had better go and come to your senses!"

"What! He is going to let me go without a word of protest," she thought, frightened for the first time in his presence. She had an uneasy feeling that what she was facing was not a spasmodic outburst but a definite rebellion. She turned and came back.

"I won't discuss your last insult. You are, at least, a gentleman, and you will realize yourself the indelicacy of such a remark. Now, my dear Rudolph, if you really wished the kind of fireside paragon that you describe, you could easily have had one. There are thousands of them. If you didn't, it is because you wanted just what you have got, a wife of whom you could be proud, a wife to give you a brilliant home, whom you would carry off from other men, a wife who would bring you youth and charm—a wife, in a word, to decorate your house. So much for that. Whatever else you can accuse me of, I have never compromised the dignity of your name. My name has never been handed about, as some other wives we know. I've taken the greatest care that if men paid me attention—and you'd be the first to regret it if they didn't—that no special one should ever be distinguished. This, however, you don't appreciate."

In hearing her speak thus, with all the charm and grace which she know how to convey to her words, it seemed to him that he was utterly wrong. He stammered out:

"What do I care about that? You can have a hundred men about you."

"Which means it's only one person you object to," said Irma instantly. "In other words, all these diatribes are just subterfuges. You are afraid to say what you think, because you know that it will sound ridiculous. You are jealous again of some one man." He looked at her and then down at the floor. "Well, who is it?" she asked triumphantly, feeling that she had regained her old supremacy.

"You know very well."

She knew, but to name him would give the appearance of confession. At the bottom, she knew what he himself did not realize—that the trouble lay deeper, in the impossibility of stimulating the love he craved.

"I have not the slightest idea," she said quietly, because in her certainty of victory she always felt a little compassion, and because she was impatient to end this scene which interfered with her projects of the evening. "Well, who is it this time? Is it Tody Dawson or Jap Laracy? Nothing would surprise me. It once was Mr. Challoner— Are you still jealous of him—or Dwight Harcourt or Steve Lewis?"

"No; it's not!" Suddenly he turned and, fixing her with his weak eyes that all at once gathered points of anger, he cried, "I won't have you talked about with Monte Bracken."

"Monte! My dear Rudy, you are insane!" she exclaimed, in excellent bewilderment. "A man I haven't seen for years until last month, whom I have met perhaps six times. No, that's too absurd!"

"Exactly, Monte Bracken!" he said, coming close to her, his face disfigured with jealousy. "The rest I don't care about. But Bracken I bar. The rest are nothing to you, but Bracken you cared for, and he cared for you." All at once his hand, which was trembling with emotion, closed over her arm, and she felt the sharp pinch of his fingers. "Do you understand now? —I forbid your coupling your name with Monte Bracken's. I forbid it!"

He had never before laid his hand on her. It was the first time she had seen him completely given over to his passion. Despite herself, she felt her face go red as though, before this revelation of her husband, she had experienced a sudden guilt.

A knock broke in on the tension of their attitudes. She drew away hastily.

"Well, who is it?" said Mr. Dellabarre, his voice still on the pitch of excitement.

"Miss Bane, sir."

He glanced at his wife nervously, fingered the buttons of his coat, drew a long breath, and said impatiently, "Well, why don't you come in, then?"

The door opened half-way.

"Please, Madame, Mr. and Mrs. Forrester have just arrived—what shall I do?"

Mr. Dellabarre scowled, hesitated and looked to his wife, in utter perplexity.

"There is only one thing to do," she said quietly, seizing the providential opportunity. "Mr. Dellabarre will go down and explain about Doris. You will have to send them away somehow."

"No, no—we can't do that," said Mr. Dellabarre hastily, shrinking at the thought, for once his anger had shot up, it quickly subsided. "Wait a moment, Miss Bane—wait a moment, wait a moment outside. It's annoying, very annoying, but we can't send them away."

He began to walk up and down the room in his stiff perpendicular way, while Irma watched him from the corner of her eye. To her, it was a revelation. What he had done in an access of jealousy she forgave, as all women forgive such tributes. In the emptiness of her own sentimental experience, it even gave her a thrill to realize that the man who disposed of her could love her to the point of doing her harm.

"All the same, he looked at me as though he wanted to kill me," she said, staring at him.

All at once he turned.

"Well, now what's to be done, Irma?" he said petulantly, looking to her for assistance. He hesitated a moment. "You know we can't send them away. That is not possible. That isn't done!"

"No; that isn't done, and other things aren't done, either," she said sternly.

He fidgeted back and forth, seeking some compromise, and finding it difficult.

"Aren't you ashamed of ourself?" she said, shaking her head and smiling.

"Please treat as serious what I've said," he said sullenly, his glance traveling along the carpet. "I know very well I can't make you love me. You never have. Put that aside—yes, put that aside. You can go your way—up to a certain point—but be careful, Irma, be very careful."

For a moment his eyes rose to hers, and the sudden leap of suffering and passion she saw there brought her for the first time in her easy, superficial existence, a real emotion—a fear—a genuine fear of her husband.

CALVARY

Go to Calvary, my brother,
Where for you the Saviour bled,
Where he fought earth's fiercest battle,
Where he bruised the Serpent's head,
And the great Goliath vanquished,
All the Philistines must flee.
If you want complete deliverance
Go to Calvary.

Dwell on Calvary, my brother,
Pitch on it your pilgrim's tent,
There's the new Chechinah glory,
With the veil assunder rent.
Crucified by faith with Jesus,
We are now forever free,
If you want to dwell in safety—
Dwell on Calvary.

Stay on Calvary, my brother,
While around storms never cease,
Hosts of darkness rule unhindered—
There alone is lasting peace.
With the Father, Son and Spirit,
Holy fellowship have we.
If you want joy that is perfect,
Stay on Calvary.

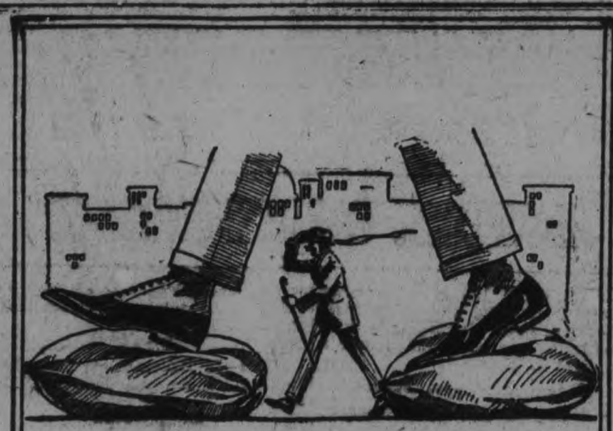
HARDEST TO LEARN

"My wife is learning to play the piano, my daughter is studying vocal music and my eldest boy is struggling with the violin."

"And what are you learning?"

"Oh, I'm learning to get used to it."



Like cushions on floors and pavements

Have you ever stopped to think why tiled floors tire your feet, or how easy it is to walk on linoleum-covered floors?

The principle of applying Cat's Paw Heels and Rinex Soles to your shoes is identical to the cushion provided by rubber matting, linoleum, and other heavy floor coverings.

Cat's Paw Heels and Rinex Soles not only cushion each step on hard pavements and wood floors, but they give to your step a springiness that seems to refresh, rather than tire, your feet.

If Cat's Paw and Rinex added only to your walking comfort, you would have excellent reason for wearing them constantly, but there is the satisfaction of their economy. They last twice as long as leather. They prevent slipping; are waterproof and noiseless.

When you buy new shoes insist on Cat's Paw and Rinex, for they need no "breaking in."

You can save many dollars by telling your cobbler to put Cat's Paw and Rinex on all shoes with good uppers.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

PETERBORO HOUSEHOLDERS USING WHITE MICE TO ELIMINATE THE COMMON ENEMY OF ALL WOMEN

A LARGE CONTINGENT OF WHITE MICE SOLD ON THE MARKET LAST SATURDAY—HOUSE TRAPS IN DEMAND.

An old saying, and one which has proven true on more than one occasion, tells us that it takes a thief to catch a thief, and since it has worked in the case of two-legged thieves, no apparent reason has been determined why it should not work in the case of the lower orders and so it is being tried out in the extermination of that old and ever numerous pantry robber—the mouse. The ones to do the massacering are the whites who, it is said, have been the bitter enemies of the grey-coated family since time immortal. History does not relate whether there were any mice on Noah's ark, but since the dark ages mice and their big brothers, the rats, have been the pest of households in all four corners of the earth. History does relate that the mice and rats frequented the holes of ships and reached the North American continent in this way. Inventions, both ingenious and numerous, have been made to destroy the race of house-breakers, but so multitudinous are their numbers that it has been as futile as trying to stop a forest fire with a garden hose.

At last though the long-suffering householders are assured of a permanent relief that, according to a little lad on last Saturday's market, has mouse traps, poison and all the popular means of destruction, beat a hundred ways. This lad sold white mice that he warranted to destroy the other mice as the Canadians cleaned up the Fritizies. To housekeepers almost frantic over the ravages of the little fellows the lad's descriptions of the prowess of his pets did not fall on deaf ears and like a drowning man clutching at a straw, they snapped up the unusual wares until lo' seventy-five pairs had passed over to the avowed pest eliminators.

Many of the purchasers tried to carry out the transfer as inconspicuously as possible and slunk away from the stand like they had been caught attempting to pass a lead quarter Others made the purchase with a haughty disregard of all conventionalities resolved to kill the mice by fair means or foul whether her friends looked at her askance or not To see some of the expressions of loathing at such a purchase one would verily think that the ladies were buying a burglar's kit or a suit of overalls.

House Traps Selling.

The sale of "Joker" variety mouse traps has been unusually brisk during the last while it was learned at the hardware shops. Hardware dealers are fed-up on listening to stories about the mice plague and people with such stories are for-warned not to try to load them on any clerks however susceptible they may appear. They are at the end of their patience and however open they may be to a good Mutt and Jeff story mice and rat tales are positively banned.

Traps with a capacity of more than one are waning in popularity for it is said they smell the former prisoners. The cry for greater sanitation has had much to do with the elimination of the "common of garden variety" of cat and its gradual replacement in polite society by the Persian. Baby's health is ever in jeopardy when there is a cat around and so the cat has gone into the discard. Persian cats are about as good mice hunters as the Board of Commerce are profiteer prosecutors and do not prove as satisfactory as old "Pussy." Poison is no longer consider a safe method when kiddies are around.

Mrs. Lilian Taylor Tells How Cuticura Healed Her Baby

"Our baby was two weeks old when his face became very red and terribly itchy, and he was fairly crazy rubbing and scratching till the skin broke and bled. He could not sleep, and did nothing but cry. His face looked as though he might be disfigured for life.

"I thought I would give Cuticura Soap and Ointment a trial. I found the free sample so good that I bought more and two cakes of Cuticura Soap and a fifty cent box of Cuticura Ointment healed him." (Signed) Mrs. Lilian M. Taylor, Box 99, Bracebridge, Muskoka, Ont., Dec. 30, '18.

Cuticura Soap to cleanse and purify, Cuticura Ointment to soften and soothe and Cuticura Talcum to powder and perfume are ideal for daily toilet purposes.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Sold throughout the Dominion. Canadian Depot: Lymans, Limited, St. Paul St., Montreal.

Y.W.C.A. IN BRAZIL.

(Canadian Press).

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 6.—The Young Women's Christian Association has opened a branch in this city and started its initial membership campaign.

The campaign is being conducted by a committee of ten women, mostly North Americans, who say they expect to enroll 500 Brazilian girls and women.

THIN, NERVOUS PEOPLE NEED BITRO-PHOSPHATE

Weak, thin people—men or women—are nearly always nervous wrecks; thus conclusively proving that thinness, weakness, debility and neurasthenia are almost invariably due to nerve starvation. Feed your nerves and all these symptoms due to nerve starvation will disappear.

Eminent specialists state that one of the best things for the nerves is an organic phosphate known among druggists as Bitro-Phosphate, a five-grain tablet of which should be taken with each meal. Being a genuine nerve builder and not a stimulant or habit-forming drug, Bitro-Phosphate can be safely taken by the weakest and most delicate sufferer, and the results following its use are often simply astonishing.

By strengthening the nerves, weak, tired people regain energy and vigor; thinness and angularity give way to plumpness and curves; sleep returns to the sleepless; confidence and cheerfulness replace debility and gloom; dull eyes become bright, and pale, sunken cheeks regain the pink glow of health.

CAUTION.— Bitro-Phosphate, the use of which is inexpensive, also wonderfully promotes the assimilation of food, so much so, that many people report marked gains of weight in a few weeks. Those taking it who do not desire to put on flesh, should use extra care in avoiding fat-producing foods.

BET ON PRINCE'S WEIGHT.

(Associated Press).

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, July 6.—When a train was about to carry the Prince of Wales from Auckland to New Plymouth, a man at the entrance to the Auckland station, which was crowded with sightseers, called out:

"Hi, Prince! Will you tell me what your weight is?"

"Oh, certainly," replied the Prince, it is 140 pounds. I suppose you have a bet on it."

The man replied, "Right you are."

"Well," said the Prince, "I hope you have won."

"No, I lost," the man shouted, "but you are a good sport, and I thank you."

HAVELOCK CORRESPONDENCE

HAVELOCK, July 6.—A Belmont resident was fined $5.00 and costs before Magistrate Mathison this week for running around town without a head-light burning.

Change in School Staff.

Miss Playfair and Miss Skuce of the school staff have resigned their positions here and will return to their homes at Carleton Place and Lindsay respectively. Miss Crow has engaged as teacher for fourth class at a salary of $1,000 per year and remaining teachers on the Public School staff have been offered salary of $800.00 a year.

Entrance Exams.

There are 42 candidates writing at Havelock High School. This year entrance class of 34 purpose entering the High School, if they pass. This is an increase from outside village schools, and indicates an extremely large attendance at High School next term.

Won Appeal.

Mr. Jas. Thompson, ex-M.P.P., has appealed the case of Armstrong vs. Thomoson, heard in Peterborough. Plaintiff was awarded judgment for $750.00.

Baseball.

Delora defeated Peterboro Central League team at Delora on Thursday last by the score of 8 to 6.

Belleville defeated Havelock by a score of 19 to 14 at Belleville on Friday. Some good paying.

Stole Motorcar?

Two local youths got into serious trouble on Monday night when they are alleged to have broken into Mr. Wm. Anderson's garage, Round Lake, and stole his car. Mr. Anderson found his car was missing, and through the local police and telephone, the machine was traced to Campbellford. The youth were lodged in the cells over night, and will come up before County Magistrate Langley, of Peterborough, on Tuesday afternoon.

Ex-Soldier Gets Route.

Mr. Gordon Young, of Rockdale, a returned soldier who lost his left arm overseas, has purchased the Cordova stage and mail route from Mr. Ira Outwater. Change taken effect today.

Frankford Incorporated.

Frankford was incorporated a village on July 1st. Its population is 800.

Personal Mention.

Mrs. Andrews, of Toronto, is the guest of her mother, Mrs. James Campbell.

Miss Vive Skuce is visiting Mrs. Beam Maversville.

Mrs. S. Irwin, of Toronto, is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. James Campbell.

Engagement.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Ford, of Asphodel, announce the engagement of their daughter, Ethel, to Mr. Stanley D. Johnston, eldest son of Col. and Mrs. T. Johnson, of Otonabee. The marriage takes place at the end of this month.

BED BUG POISON

There are a great many different preparations to kill bed bugs. Some people use turpentine or carbolic acid, but the best remedy is a solution of corrosive sublimate in wood alcohol. This is the formula of Post's Bed Bug Poison and it seldom fails to destroy the pest. It is very poisonous and should be kept out of the reach of children.

Post's Bed Bug Poison is sold in 25c. and 50c. bottles at Lynch's Drug Store, 168 Hunter street

NEWSPRINT SHORT IN BRAZIL.

(Canadian Press).

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 6.—What is said to be the first Finnish steamer to enter this port has arrived here, the "Garryvale," of the Finland Transoceanic Company.

Of more interest to newspaper owners, however, was the cargo, 1,000 tons of print paper from Scandinavia for local delivery. The shortage and consequent high price of print paper is the most important question confronting Brazilian newspapers.

LEAVE MOTORS ALONG THE CURB

POLICE EXPECTED TO START CAMPAIGN IN THIS DIRECTION.

Several complaints have been heard from citizens of the open flagrancy of the by-law respecting the leaving of cars along the curbs of the pavements, and a little activity by the police in this regard is expected. It is claimed that the cars are left for hours on some of the streets, while if pedestrians stop in front of a store window for a friendly chat they are soon hustled on.

Don't expect poor work now to lead to brillant work hereafter.

Thirteenth Annual Employees' Holiday

Store Closed All Day Thursday, July 8th

We Present An Unusual Array of Good Values for To-morrow's Annex

IT has been the custom of this Store for the last twelve years to make the first Thursday in July—"Employees' Day." On this date the store is closed for the entire day. To enable us to do two days' business in one it has also been the custom to fill the Bargain Annex with attractive Summer merchandise at prices that are even lower than the usual greatly reduced Annex quotations. To-morrow's list is no exception to the rule—in fact it establishes a record for "Employees' Holiday Annex" values.

LEADER

Millinery—Half Price and Less—Shapes and Ready-to-Wear Hats, Only 99c

Half price for some and less than half price for others. First buyers will find a good selection of styles and a colour range of navy, black, red and fawns. These are priced for a 9 o'clock rush sale.

Twenty Dozen 85c Corn Brooms, 59c

This is not the Annex broom that we usually sell at 49c. This lot is an over shipment that we have taken from the third floor. It is equal to any regular 85c broom. It is made of fine wisps of green corn and bound with four strings.

Ten Dozen Only—Ladies' Fine Nainsook and Lonsdale Nightgowns, $1.29

This is a manufacturer's clear-away lot of several styles in nainsook and longcloth night gowns. There is a great variety of lace and embroidery trimmed yokes and a complete range of sizes. There is not a gown in the lot that we regularly sell for less than $1.69 and they are mostly $1.75 to $2 values.

Twenty Dozen 55c and 59c Corset Covers 39c Each, 2 for 75c

Fine quality cambric corset covers with embroidery edging and beading trimming; wash ribbon draw strings in colors of white, sky or pink. First buyers will find a complete range of sizes.

400 Yards Only of Shantung Raw Silk, 59c Yard

NO LUXURY TAX

We sell hundreds upon hundreds of yards of raw silk each season. It is certainly one of the most economical materials to be had. The price we are asking for this cloth is certainly a moderate one. The width is between 33 and 34 inches.

—LEADER—

Six Hundred Yards of 65c to $1 Wash Goods, 49c Yard

They are all double fold wash materials in widths from 34 to 40 inches. There are suitings and skirtings in basket cloth, gabardines, cotton batiste and a splendid selection of dress voiles and muslins. A few pieces were formerly priced at 65c yard but nearly all are 75c, 90c and $1 values.

Sixty Dozen Boys' 65c Summer Jerseys, 39c Each

A Late Shipment That Should Have Been Received in May

Holiday time is jersey time for the boy. These jerseys are certainly priced at a remarkably low price for to-morrow. They can be had in light and dark plain colours and two-colour combinations. All sizes from 24 to 32 inclusive.

Buy "Miner" Brand Rubber Sole Outing Shoes To-morrow for Your Annual Vacation or for Sport Occasions

Youths' Blue Tennis Shoes, pair	$1.27
Boys' and Women's Blue Tennis Shoes, pair	$1.38
Boys' and Women's White Tennis Shoes, pair	$1.59

Complete Range of Sizes.

Twenty Dozen Ladies' Summer Knit Combinations, 89c Each

Fine qualities of lisle finish knit combinations. The drawers are in umbrella and tight knee styles and there is a selection with no sleeves, sleeveless and cupmfy cut patterns.

—LEADER—

The Last of the Awning Ducks at 59c Yd.

This remarkable price will clear the last of our awning ducks. They are Canadian made standard quality, and first buyers will have choice of colour combinations of green and white, blue and white and tan and black. If bought on to-day's market our lowest possible price would be 85c yard.

—LEADER—

800 Yards of White Flannelette, 29c Yd.

This is an early shipment of eight hundred yards of a splendid quality white flannelette that is 27 inches wide. If we purchased it to-day for fall delivery we could not possibly sell it for less than 40c yard. There is a positive limit of not more than 20 yards to one purchaser and no 'phone orders.

—LEADER—

Fifty Pairs Only—White Flannelette Blankets (Mill Seconds) $2.95 Pair

They are the regular double size blankets and can be had with pink or blue borders. This price is exceptionally low and the entire fifty pairs will hardly last the day. We advise early shopping—for this line.

80c Excellent Quality Pillow Cotton, 67c Yard

It is a fine quality circular cotton that is closely woven with a substantial round thread and is 40 inches wide. You could search far and near before you would find another pillow cotton value such as this one.

200 Yards of 45c Nainsook, 33c Yard

This is a particularly fine quality of pure bleach, lonsdale nainsook with a soft finish that makes it adaptable for ladies' and children's wear. The width is fully 38 inches.

Buy Laundry Soaps in the Annex To-morrow—Sunlight, Gold and P. & G. Naphtha — 8 Bars for 73c

When we tell to-day's actual wholesale price for these three brands of laundry soaps is ten dollars for a box of one hundred cakes, you will readily appreciate to-morrow's Annex Leader

They will be sold in eight bar lots only, and there will be a limit of four lots to one buyer. No 'phone orders will be accepted.

To-morrow's Mid-Day Lunch, 50c

11.30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Thirty-Five Dozen Children's Hose (Odd Lines) 23c Pr.

An Annex rush sale of "Little Tots" hose. They are mostly fine mercerised ribbed, but there are a few dozen plain lisles. The color range includes pink, tan, sky and black. The sizes are from 4 to 7 but their are not all sizes in each color. The former prices were from 35c to 40c pair.

Twelve Dozen Only Ladies' 75c White Balbriggan Vests, 54c Each

These are fine lisle finish "Zimmerknit" balbrigan vests. They come in white only and have button fronts and first buyers will have choice of long or short sleeves.

30 Dozen Ladies' 39c White Lisle Hose, 29c Pair

"London Knit" white hose, fashioned to form without seams. This is a thirty dozen lot that we have taken from our street floor stock. There is no other color so cool or cool looking in warm weather. Nine o'clock buyers will find all sizes.

LEADER

Men's $2, $2.25 and $2.50 Negligee Shirts, $1.59

You can have either soft or stiff cuffs. Some are small neat stripe effects and others are cluster stripe patterns. The grounds are white and the stripes are black, blue, mauve and tan. Sizes from 14 to 17.

Men's Balbriggan Drawers in Sizes 32, 34 and 40, at 49c Garment

This is the lowest price balbriggan underwear sale of the year. They are odd lines from our regular stocks and clearaway lots of mill seconds and overmakes. Unfortunately there are drawers only. Decidedly worth buying in half dozen lots if your size is here.

You Will Also Find Cotton Undershirts, at 49c

These are made of a full bleach cotton material and can be had in sizes 32, 34 and 36. This is a clearance price. Of course they are worth a great deal more.

The CRESSMAN Company Limited

IMPROVEMENTS TO BATHING BEACHES

DRESSING ROOMS WILL BE KEPT CLEAN.

City Council last night decided on certain improvements at Inverlea and Lake street bathing places. At Inverlea water is to be furnished to keep dressing rooms clear, a shelter provided for the caretaker, first-aid dressing furnished, the bottom on the west shore cleaned, and a punt kept ready at both places in case of a swimmer taking cramps. Ald. Gordon pointed out that soundings at the Lake street bathing spot show the bottom to be very uneven to the danger of little ones. This beach might be levelled with sand, he thought. This suggestion was acquiesced in.

LAKEFIELD NEWS

LAKEFIELD, July 6.—Mr. Guyllym Dunn, of Quebec, was visiting friends in the village last week

Mrs. Walter Blackburn, of Toronto, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Tate at "Bendunn's."

Among those who passed the entrance examinations for the Royal Military College, Kingston, was Vesey Court, Hope Hamilton, of Lakefield.

Mr. E. R. Tate was in New York last week.

Lawn Fete.

A successful lawn fete was held on Mrs. H. J. Stuart's lawn on Saturday afternoon and evening under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the G.W.V.A. The weather was unpleasant and prevented many from attending who would otherwise have done so, but the affair was a success in spite of the weather. The sum of $35 was netted for the relief work of the society which has been very urgent during this spring. This sum will no doubt be augmented by subscriptions from many who could not attend the festival but who are in sympathy with the cause.

Stoney Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Barnes and a party of friends are at the Rathbone cottage at Mount Julian.

Miss Clark, of Peterborough, is the guest of Miss Isabel Donnelly at Big Island.

The Coppings have opened their cottage on Big Island for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Jennings and Master Sam, of Toronto, are at "Viamede."

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Thompson and daughter, of Peterborough, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Thompson at Mount Julian.

Messrs. W. S. Schultz and W. Kline, of Cleveland, Ohio, were guests at "Viamede."

Mr. F. J. Lillicrap, of Lakefield, was at Mount Julian on business on Friday.

Just One Application and the Hairs Vanish

(Modes of Today)

A harmless, yet very effective, treatment is here given for the quick removal of hairy growths: Mix enough powdered delatone and water to cover the undesirable hairs, apply paste and after 2 or 3 minutes remove, wash the skin and the hairs have vanished. One application usually is sufficient, but to be certain of results, buy the delatone in an original package. Mix fresh as wanted.

CAILLAUX LAWYER IN DUEL.

Metro-Giafferi and His Antagonist Fire Twice Without Any Injury.

PARIS.—M. Mero-Giafferi, who was counsel for ex-Premier Caillaux in his recent trial, fought a duel this morning with another attorney, Henri Torres over a personal matter.

M. Mero-Giafferi is a member of the Chamber of Deputies from Corsica. Two shots were exchanged without either man being wounded.

GREEK FORCES DEFEAT TURKS

SEVERE LOSSES INFLICTED BY THE GREEKS.

(Canadian Press.)

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 6. — Greek troops have swept the country west of Baloukessar clear of Turks as far north as Adramit. They also have landed large forces at Chardek on Dardanelles. Consequently they expect to eliminate Turks from the Province of Bigha shortly. Greek advance was so rapid and unexpected that Turks were unable to destroy the railway which, with its rolling stock, was left intact. Dynamite had been placed under some bridges but Nationalists were in so great a panic that charges were not exploded. Their retreat was in such disorder that Greeks easily inflicted great losses on them and took many prisoners with few casualities among themselves. Turkish civil officers in the territory surrended have been continued in office.

GUM DROP REPLACES POTATO.

(Associated Press).

COLUMBUS, Ind., July 6.—The gum drop has replaced the potato as a stopper on the oil can in Columbus. Grocers no longer can afford to let even the smallest spud go for that use when they are selling for 12½ cents per pound.

A local grocer introduced the gum drop as a stopper here recently when he prevented a customer from helping himself to a potato for that purpose. The candy was much cheaper, he said.

POLISH FORCES WERE DEFEATED

THE REDS ARE ADVANCING, ACCORDING TO OFFICIAL STATEMENT.

(Canadian Press)

LONDON, July 6.—Polish forces between Beressina and Pripet Rivers have been defeated along the entire front by Russian Bolsheviki, according to official statements issued at Moscow yesterday.

North-east of Kovno Poles, statement says, have been flung back behind the line from Beradna to Kostopol. Further south, near Ostroga, Bolsheviki have driven Poles from their positions and have inflicted heavy losses. In direction of Proskirov, further south, Soviet forces are pursuing Poles, statement declares.

Aunt Ruth's Beauty Notes

COLGATE'S CHARMIS COLD CREAM

Is an exquisitely perfumed emollient and for cleansing, preserving and beautifying the skin it is exceedingly beneficial. For those who enjoy the season's sports, such as motoring, boating, etc., it might be interesting to know that this cold cream gives wonderful protection against the summer winds and sun that too often mar one's beauty with freckles and burns. In case one's face or arms have been sun burnt, it is very efficacious either as a direct application or in the form of a massage, which invigorates and soothes the skin, with absolute confidence that it will neither injure or destroy one's own natural beauty, nor will it cause growth of hair on the face, so often the cause of one's facial appearances being marred.

CO-ORDINATION OF CANADA'S RAILWAY SERVICES FORERUNNER MANY CHANGES

NEW FAST SERVICE OVER GRAND TRUNK LINES TO THE COAST—A TRIP ON THE INITIAL RUN OF THE "NATIONAL" IS FULL OF PLEASANT SURPRISES.

Of late years Canadians have watched with interest the development of Canada's railway interests. These have been ever changing in character until to-day the people of Canada find themselves in possession of one of the longest individual railway systems in the world. Some of this mileage is located in the United States. This heritage has been consolidated into one vast system now known as the Canadian National Railway. Included in this amalgamation is the Grand Trunk Railway and the Canadian Northern Railway. The service as a whole will be known as the Canadian National Railway. In districts served by single units of this consolidated system the original name of the railway serving that district will be retained. For instance in the Midland district which includes Peterboro the name of the Grand Trunk Railway will remain in use. Probably in time to come when the people of Canada become more familiar with the Canadian National railway the larger and more appropriate designation will be adopted.

A union of forces expresses strength. This is one of the outstanding results of the co-ordination of Canada's railway services. The divided efforts of several systems have been thrown into the melting pot and out of that pot is expected to come the united resources of the various railways included in the consolidation.

Transcontinental travel.

The first important step in the improvement of the combined services was the inauguration of a new transcontinental service running from coast to coast. On Sunday, June 27th the "National" left Toronto on her initial run to Winnipeg completing the trip in fast time. The train leaves Toronto each day at 11 p.m. and in the trip to Winnipeg utilizes the best and shortest routes available through the co-ordination of the various systems. A similar policy is carried out in the remaining portion of the trip from Winnipeg to the coast or to Prince Rupert as the case may be. The best portions of the combined roads are used and the time of the trip materially shortened. In addition to this some of the finest scenic routes in Canada have been opened up and the schedule makes it possible for the round trip traveller to see on the return trip, portions of the country whch could not be observed at night on the outgoing trip. In the trip from Toronto to Vancouver the "National" travels over the following consolidated lines. Toronto to North Bay, Grand Trunk; North Bay to Cochrane, Temiskaming and Northern Ontario; Cochrane to Winnipeg, Canadian National; Winnipeg to Edmonton, Grand Trunk Pacific, and Canadian National from Edmonton to Vancouver.

Another new train is the "Capital City,' which runs from Toronto to Napanee over the famous G. T. R. double track, and thence to Ottawa by Canadian National.

The Equipment

The finest equipment available has been secured for this and other services of the Canadan National Railways. They include standard steel cars, made in Canada and weighing eight-five tons each.

They have all modern conveniences and luxuries including electric lighting, etc. The cars are not excelled by any other sleeping car. In addition to these handsomely appointed sleepers, the "National" has tourists sleepers, dining cars, 1st class coach and colonist sleeping cars.

The schedule is so arranged that trains arriving late in the day from all parts of Ontario will connect with the "National" leaving Toronto at 11 p.m. each evening. These trains also give intermediate points a much improved train service. The new transcontinental service from Montreal to Vancouver runs via Ottawa, North Bay, Sudbury, Port Arthur and Winnipeg. In selecting the routes the Committee of Management has taken what it considers to be the best pieces of the consolidated systems and welded it into one new transcontinental road for the comfort and convenience of the travelling public. This has resulted in a shortening of the time schedules and the opening of scenic routes as well as routes of general interest through Muskoka, mining and pulp sections, the clay belt the prairie and the Rockies. The Canadian National line through the Rockies is at the lowest elevation of any transcontinental route. It runs around the base of Mount Robson for a distance of seven miles. From the railway bed to the peak of the mountain is a sheer rise of ten thousand feet.

Accompanying the "National' on its first trip was a special press party, the members of which were impressed with the features of the service and the scenic and general interest possessed by the route traversed. The party showed its appreciation of work accomplished by those in charge of the arrangements on the train by presenting silk umbrellas to W. S. Thomoson, Chief of Press Bureau, Grand Trunk System; C. E. Horning, District Passenger Agent, Grand Trunk, and R. A. McVean, Travelling Passenger Representative of the Canadian National Railways.

ENGINEER HURT.

Engineer Smith, Murray Street, Trenton, of 64 Canadian Northern express, had the misfortune last week to be struck on the head by the swinging pipe of the water tank at Frankford on his homeward trip. The swing ing pipe, which supplies the water into the tender had been left too low and close to the tracks by the train ahead, and when Engineer Smith put his head out of his cab he received the severe stroke just above the left eye, cutting clean to the bone.

Mr. Smith was bewildered by the blow for some time and fell back into his cab. The heavy flow of blood was sufficient to greatly weaken him: but he rallied sufficiently to proceed home with his train. On arrival in Trenton medical aid was summoned and the wound dressed.

some interferenc with the engineer and his duties in this regard.

Then one platform had been agreed on for the Quaker Oats Co. at a cost of $6,000, but they are now conceded two platforms which will entail an expenditure of $10,000. The platform he designed would carry 6,000 people an hour, which he thought ample provision. The foregoing items do not make an exhaustive list, but they account for $77,000, and should be deducted, so far as I am concerned, from the $393,000 present estimate for the bridge when completed.

Question of Labor.

Mr Barber contended that labor last winter and spring seemed to him inefficient and ran away with more wages than was expected. Such conditions, however, were fairly general, he expected.

Costing Clerk.

The Engineer here claimed that the work really needed a costing clerk to keep him in touch with the actual cost of the work as it proceeded. Such a man should be practically an engineer, who could keep him furnished with data, without which it is difficult to estimate closely the cost of mixing and placing concrete.

In this connection Mr. Barber said he had had nothing to say in the appointment of Accountant Elliott, who was not a costing clerk. Council's appointment relieved him of all responsibility as to a costing clerk. He had only been approached by one alderman on the question of a costing clerk, to whom he had replied it was not usual for a Council to appoint such a man, but far an engineer to do so and take charge of the costing himself.

Audit Accounts.

Regarding Accountant Elliott's appointment without consulting him, Mr. Barber seemed to take exception, and said while he (Mr. Barber) is O-K-ing the bills he is simply vouching for them as received. He had consulted his solicitor, and before O-K-ing the final estimates he will place his own auditor on the accounts.

Granite Finish.

As to this question, Mr. Barber felt that the Council and all in Peterborough will find that granite finish is cheaper in the end.

Slightly Mistaken.

Ald. Gordon drew Mr. Barber's attention to the fact that last February or March he had advised Council that the work was well within the estimates and could be finished for $315,000. Mr. Barber thought that was in January. However, he said, they had done the best they could, having no foundation to work on. "Since then," he added, "timber has gone up, the Council has raised wages, and the two river piers have gone down further than figured on."

Contractors Not To Blame

Ald. Hamilton found no blame attached to the contratcor. As to the centering of the long span, the contractors by their plan would save half the time than were Mr. Barber's system adopted, although it may cost a little more. Regarding a costing clerk, Mr. Barber never said he wanted control. Had he done so, Mr. Elliott, he thought, could have adopted a method by which Mr. Barber could have been kept advised of the cost of the work as it advanced.

Ald. Hamilton regretted that for a while the efficiency of labor had not been what was hoped for, although conditions in that respect are now quite satisfactory. The contractors, he asserted, were blameless for timber costing $10,000 extra, and not being ordered earlier, as plans for the main arch were undecided till a late date. Then, the Railway Board's engineer, Mr. Middlemist, had insisted on that additional excavation for piers, which increased costs by $25,000. The temporary bridge, Ald. Hamilton concluded, should not be included in the bride's ultimate cost.

Ald. Gordon—"There is no reason why it should not."

Ald. Hamilton—"Yes there is; it was never intended when the plans and estimates were prepared and accepted."

Rather Non-Committal.

Reverting to the question of a cost clerk, Ald. Whitehouse inquired of Mr. Barber: "Don't you think it was your duty to recommend to Council such an appointment if it would have saved the city money?"

Mr. Barber would not go so far as to admit that such an official would have effected a saving—he might and he might not. But Mr. Barber was emphatic that a costing clerk would have kept him supplied with cost data, without which it was difficult to make close estimates in February, for Council, of what the bridge would cost when finished. Mr. Barber reasserted that the non-appointment of a costing clerk relieved him of some responsibility in furnishing estimates of future costs from time to time.

Middlemist's Report.

Under date of June 26th, Mr. A. B. Ingram, the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board's vice-charman, re Hunter street brdge, submitted the report of the Board's Engineer, Mr. H. W. Middlemist, as follows:

"In company with Mr. Barber I inspected the west main abutment. This foundation is in the river, and consequently two rows of sheet piling were driven to retain the coffer dam, which delayed work somewhat. The excavation has been carried down through an upper layer of gravel and boulders resting on about 5 or 8 feet of hard blue clay, and through this clay to the solid limestone rock, and thence to about 5 ft. 6 inches below the top of the rock. The rock surface at the bottom of the excavation requires bevelling off yet, and the water which has been trickled down the side from above the clay, pumped out, and then the concrete can be placed.

The east abutment is continued up to the top of the bridge and connected with the approach also. The arches to the west approaches are well on to completion, except of course the end one next the west pier. The contractor is working on the the falsework for the main river span, which will probably take six weeks to complete ready for laying concrete.—Referred to the Special Bridge committee.

CONTRACT FOR DREDGING LET

KINGSTON, July 6.—The Frontenac Dredging Company has been given the contract of dredging the harbor at Kingston as well as the harbors at Port Hope and Cobourg.

The dredge St. Lawrence and the tug William Davis have already gone to Port Hope to commence the work there. The work on the harbors of Port Hope and Cobourg will be done first because the low water in those places, especially at Cobourg, is inconveniencing traffic very much. Kingston is not so seriously affected. The company expects to be able to start the work at Kingston two months from now and will spend the rest of the fall here.

Off to England.

Alderman Turned was given leave of absence till the first meeting in September, and Ald. Copping appointed chairman of the Finance Committee.

Ald. Turned leaves for England Thursday..

Ald. Gordon hoped the voyage would result in Ald. Turner returning with improved health and renewed vigor. Council, he said, appreciated Ald. Turner's cooperation at considerable value.

Ald. Whitehouse—"Ald. Turner is not only appreciated by the Council but by the city in general.

The Mayor most heartily voiced these sentiments and so did the Aldermen as a whole.

For Waterworks.

A by-law to authorize the issue of debentures to borrow $20,000 for water works purposes. This money is to pay for extension of mains and such like work already done. Under special act the measure does not have to go to the ratepayers.

To Renew Debentures.

In 1890 Council borrowed from the Nicholls Trust $37,000 on 30 years debentures at 5 per cent. interest, with power to renew at he same rate. Those debentures are now matured Ald. Terner pointed out last night, and on his motion a by-law to renew them for another 30 years at the same interest again without a retiring sinking fund, was decided on.

There were present Mayor A. A. McIntyre, Aldermen Gainey, Morrison, Crowe, Gordon, Hamilton, Whitehouse, Copping, J. J. Turner and Nagel Phelan.

This Makes the Curl Stay In Your Hair

The silmerine method is unusually popular just now, according to the druggists. This is largely due to the warm weather and because women are now spending so much of their time out of doors. The simple method not only produces the loveliest, natural looking curls and waves, but it keeps the hair in curl no matter how hard the wind blows.

All one need do is to wet a clean tooth brush with liquid silmerine, draw this through the hair before doing it up, and the hair will dry in just the sweetest waves and crinkles. This will also keep the hair beautifully soft, silky, and lustrous. A few ounces of liquid silmerine wil ast for months.

COUNCIL DISCUSSES QUESTION REPAIRS CANAL HIGHWAY

Ald. Whitehouse in the council last evening raised the question of repairs to the road east of the lift lock, between the C.P.R. and the Norwood road. He had he said drawn Superintendent A. L. Killaly's attention to this road, and he had in reply admitted it to be in so disreputable a condition as to convey a bad impression on tourists who drive over this government right of way to see the lift lock.

Mr. Killaly had assured him that this matter had been laid before the Department of Railways and Canals, whose chief engineer had inspected conditions last September, as a result of which a conclusion to give attention to this and other similar roads had been reached. Mr. Killaly had suggested that the road east of the lift lock specified be put into repair jointly by the city and his department pending a decision as to permanent maintenance.

Ald .Gordon pointed out that this course might establish a precedent resulting from the city having to continue expenditure on this road's maintenance.

The City Solicitor thought not.

Ald. Turner and Ald. Copping moved that the Chairman and the City Engineer be instructed to confer with Mr. Killaly, with a view to having this road put into temporary shape, the city to pay half the cost, pending a decision of the government as to permanent maintenance of this roadway.—Carried.

IN MEMORIAM

LANE.—In loving memory of Lena Lane, who died 26th February, 1920.

In a lone and silent graveyard
Where the trees their branches wave,
Rests dear Lena
In her cold and quiet grave.
She bid no one her last farewell,
She waved her hand to none;
Her spirit fled before we knew
That she from us was gone.

Now, mother and father, dry your weeping eyes,
Your dear Lena is now at rest;
She is safely housed in Paradise,
To dwell among the blest.
Sisters, grieve not as others grieve,
But in submission bow;
For if you God's word believe,
You know she is happy now.

Your living ones should have your prayers
To fit and qualify,
And commend to tender care
When God calls them to die.
Brother Russel, may you be ready to go,
And say to die is gain;
To bid farewell to all below,
And then with Jesus reign.

Dear brother and sisters, grieve no more—
Though death's a solemn thing—
But Jesus going on before
Extracted every sting;
And from death's cold embrace he rose
Triumphant o'er the grave,
And everything that might oppose
His chosen ones to save.

Dear friends, meet Lena on that bright shore,
Where she is now at rest,
Prepared to part with her no more,
But be for ever blest.
For soon, like her, you'll have to go,
That change to realise—
Free from all trials here below,
You will above them rise.

Dear loved ones, go to Jesus now,
Before Him plead your case;
In supplication you must bow
And plead for saving grace.
Then strive to meet your loved again,
When you will part no more.
Where there's no sorrow, pain, or death
On that immortal shore.

Beloved ones, be of good cheer,
Weep not that she is dead:
She is free from every pain and fear,
Then raise your drooping head.
Now strive to feel God's will be done,
His will is for the best:
And when the sands of life are run
You'll meet dear Lena among the blest.

Around that dazzling throne you'll be,
And bask for ever there;
Redeeming love you constant cry,
And all the blessing share.
May we all when the summer comes,
Like Paul, rejoice to hear
The call that takes our spirits home,
And nothing more to fear.

THE PLAYGROUNDS OPEN FOR SEASON

PLANS FOR THE SEASON—OFFICERS IN CHARGE.

The supervised playgrounds of the city, under the auspices of the Peterborough Playgrounds Association, opened yesterday at the following schools: King Edward, Queen Mary, Central and Queen Alexandra.

There were no attendant ceremonies as the comparatively small attendance and straggling arrivals which characterize opening days prohibits such. The attendance yesterday was quite large for an opening day.

The plans of the Playgrounds Association for this summer incorporate several ideas which will give a wider scope to the work. Among these are an inter-ground baseball league, inter-ground field days and regular swimming days at the inverlea and Lake street bathing beaches.

A new playground is that at Queen Alexandra School. The grounds are rather small for carrying out the work adequately but an attempt will be made to secure the use of the grounds of Grace Church which adjoin.

Harold Copp, former boys' secretary of the local Y.M.C.A. and now a student at the Y.M.C.A. College at Chicago, Ill., is general supervisor of the playgrounds and Miss Cook, of London, is in charge of the girls' work. Following is the staff:

King Edward—Mr. Harold Copp and Miss Price, physical director of the Y.W.C.A.

Queen Mary—Mr. Dyer, of Rochester, and Miss Chapman, of London.

Central—Mr. McKamah, of Toronto, and Miss Cook, of London.

Queen Alexandra—Miss Nelson.

TO-DAY'S POLICE COURT NEWS

"We wish to mke the Little Lake Cemetery a plce where mothers may allow their daughters to go to place flowers on the graves of relatives and friends with no fear for their safety," stated T. H. G. Denne, chairman of the Little Lake Cemetery Commission, in prosecuting three youths in this morning's Police Court for chasing and terrifying three girls in the cemetery on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Denne and E. A. Peck appeared on behalf of the Cemetery Commission and stated that such vandalism and rudeness had become too common at the cemetery among a class of youths who loitered there.

The three boys were severely reprimanded by the magistrate and fined $2 each and costs of $3.10, which was divided among them.

The commission wished to make an example of the three youths in order that in the future loitering might cease in the cemetery, the graves might be respected, and annoyance to girls might cease,

Two Years for Theft.

With a record of having been twice committed to St. John's Industrial School and having twice escaped, Everett Kelso was charged with having stolen a bicycle valued at $30 from Millard's Bicycle Shop on Hunter street.

Kelso, who claims to be under sixteen years of age, was arrested by Detectives Cookman and Newhall. It is alleged he stole the bicycle and then sold it for $15, which he spent.

The magistrate lectured him and sentenced him to the Ontario Jail Farm for an industrial period not to exceed two years.

A Douro man was convicted of having, using and giving away liquor in a place other than his private residence and was fined $100 and costs of $4.10, the penalty in default of payment to be three months in jail.

Two Years.

A local young man was convicted in this afternoon's police court of having stolen a watch from a girl and was sentenced to the Ontario Jail Farm for a term not to exceed two years, subject to the consideration of the Board of Parole.

He had appeared on a charge of theft before but had been allowed to go on suspended sentence.

A nominal charge of vagrancy against him was dismissed.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Peterborough, July 6th, 1920.

Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—In regard to the article in last night's paper, which refers to me as a cripple, I would like to say is is true I suffer at times from a slight paralysis of the left arm and leg, which prevents me from following my trade as roofer and compels me to seek other employment. I would like also to state on behalf on myself and daughters, that we are not quite depending on charity of our neighbors. We take this opportunity of thanking all those who were so kind on the night of the fire. While it is also true that we have lost almost everything in the fire, we are not quite destitute. It is to be regretted by the veterans of both wars that after fighting and winning their battles for the country, we are thrown on the world half crippled, with a pension barely sufficient to pay the rent, a burden to ourselves and everyone, to fight our own battles alone. Thanking you for space in your valuable paper, I remain,

Yours truly,
M. J. MURPHY,
84 1-2 Hunter street.

Sir: Of late I have received several letters asking me to explain my view of the "Thou shalt not" of the Bible. I can only explain it by saying that God nowhere so far as I am aware prohibits or forbids the use of anything. The prohibitionist flies in the face of God and says, "I don't care if God only prohibits or forbids the misuse. I say the proper way is to prohibit the use and then we will be sure there will be no misuse."

This conduct on the part of prohibitionists is to my mind pure atheism. It is beyond doubt the most appalling and horrible of all sins. Let us get back to that reliance upon God which alone is worth thinking of. The rest is foolishness.

HAY PRICES HOLDING UP

Hay still holds up around $27.00 and $28.00 a ton, but a tumble in the price is looked for when the new crop comes in soon. The farmers are cutting the clover hay now, but the timothy is not yet ready for cutting.

Reports would indicate that many of the farmers have their mows full of the last crop, held for a higher market, but the farmers themselves do not verify this.

COMB SAGE TEA IN FADED OR GRAY HAIR

If Mixed With Sulphur it Darkens so Naturally Nobody Can Tell.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural colour and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural colour and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.

DR. J. T. HALLIDAY

The late Dr. J. T. I. Halliday, who passed away on Sunday was the son of Dr. Thomas Halliday who came to Canada from Annan, Scotland and settled in Grafton, Ont., in the early forties, when he was for years the only physician available to the residents of Grafton and surrounding country.

The late Doctor J. T. I. Halliday was born in Grafton in 1844, graduated with honours in McGill University, Montreal, in 1864, at the early age of twenty, having to wait for a whole year, owing to his youth before being awarded his medical diploma. He then began practice in Vernonville, north of Grafton, after which he moved to Grafton, where he practiced for several years.

In Grafton he married Miss Amy Vernon of Vernonville by whom he is survived. Subsequently he came to Peterborough in May 1882, succeeding Dr. H. C. Burritt, a friend of his boyhood. Residing at first on George street north, the late Doctor Halliday, a year later, built the residence on Water street, in whch he continued to practice up to the time of his passing away.

Deceased gentleman worked in professional fellowship with other early doctors of the town, numbering among hs many friends the late Dr. R. P. Boucher, Dr. R. King, Dr. Geo. Burnham and Dr. R. W. Bell and others.

The late Dr. Halliday was present at the opening of Peterborough's first hospital, now the residence of Mr. T. E. Bradburn, also at the opening of Nicholls and St. Joseph's Hospitals, in which a large portion if his work was done, and with which he kept in close and valued association until the end. He rose rapidly in his profession, and gradually became known as one of the leading surgeons in Peterborough and surrounding district. Surgery was, perhaps, the side of his profession in which he chiefly excelled, beng called in consultation at critcal cases for miles around this city.

As a physician, deceased came into remarkably close relationship with his many patients, and ther families his presence in a sick room being accepted as a silent benediction. It is accordingly impossible to estimate the personal grief caused throughout the community by his passing.

Military Career.

A notable feature of deceased's life was also his military career. He was appointed medical officer of the 57th regiment in 1884, in which capacity he contributed twenty-five years of highly appreciated service. On his retirement in 1909 he was presented by the 57th's officers wth a solid silver tray, accompanied by warm expressions of esteem and respect. In the words of an officer returning to Peterborough yesterday, "Dr. Halliday always added dignity to the mess." He accompanied the regiment on all its trips and to various camps, and was for many years president of the officers' mess.

Deceased's eldest son, Dr. Vernon Halliday, after a brilliant career in McGill University, and great future promise, died suddenly in New York city in 1904 from diptheria, contracted from a patient whose life he was instrumental in saving. His second son, Mr. Charles Halliday, passed away in 1908. His daughters are Mrs. Ross, wife of Mr. Robert Ross, the well known consulting engineer, and now a member of one of Montreal's most important civc commissons; and Miss Amy Halliday, well known in town as first president of the King's Daughters, and an active member of patriotic and charitable societies.

The late Dr. J. T. I. Halliday had been in failing health for scme time but maintained his useful work up to almost the end, so that few were aware of his physical condition. Suddenly becoming unconscious Friday night, he passed peacefully away Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

It was quite appropriate that on Sunday morning the congregation should join in the commendatory prayer in St. John's Church, which deceased had been a most valued, generous and earnest member since coming to Peterborough.

To Have Perfect Skin Through the Summer

This is the season when she who would have a lily-white complexion should turn her thoughts to mercolized wax, the firm friend of the summer girl. Nothing so effectually overcomes the soiling effects of sun, wind, dust, and dirt. The wax literally absorbs the scorched, discoloured, withered or coarsened scarf skin, bringing forth a brand new skin, clear, soft, and girlishly beautiful. It also unclogs the pores, removing blackheads, and increasing the skin's breathing capacity.

An ounce of mercolized wax, obtainable at any drug store, applied nightly like cold cream, and washed off mornings, will gradually improve even the worst complexion. There is nothing better for the removal of tan, freckles, or blotches.

HAMILTON COMPANY BASEBALL GAME

(Contributed.)

The second baseball game between the married and single men of the William Hamilton Co., Ltd., was played last night at the Queen Mary School Grounds. The married men as in the previous game, easily demonstrated their superior knowledge of the game in a score of 12 runs to 8 in seven innings. The line-up was as follows:—

Single Men

"Cannonball" Thorndyke, p. "Flossie" Kennedy, c, "Lady" Loucks, 1st. "Dude" Quartermaine, 2nd. "Windy" Frost, 3rd., "Fishhook" Edgar, s.s., "Fat" Keeley, l.f., "Gluepot" Helson, c.f., "Mudpie" Hatcher, r.f.

Married Men.

"Potato" Murphy, p, "Yankee Doodle" Orr, c, "Shortcut" Gibbs, 1st "Lank" O'Heron, 2nd., "Chip" Moore 3rd., "Chuck" Callaghan, s.s., "Swede Donovan l.f., "Leghorn" Paxman, c.f., "Tanglefoot" Condon, r.f.

Official Scorer "Detroit" Sweet.

The position of umpire was ably held down by "Curly" Lebar. The result might have been much different if he had not forgotten his rule book and but for timely intervention of the police he might have experienced a bath n the icy waters of Lily Lake. If it had not been for Gibbs running from homeplate to second another home run would have been chalked up to the married men. The married men had great difficulty in passing 3rd on account of the heat wave existing there. Thorndyke and Kennedy played a banner game, but could not do it all themselves. "Dude" Quartermaine and "Lady" Loucks made a fine combination. As far as the play on the part of the married men was concerned, the score tells its own story. Among the many enthusiastic spectators were noticed N. C. Norley, the Superintendent, Fred Browne and "Lucky" Clark Leslie. Owing to the kindness of Mr. P. P. Westbye, the managing director, an added zest was given to the game at its close, by the presentation of a box of cigars to the winners, by whom this was greatly appreciated. In a short time the players withdrew enveloped in the delicate aroma of the cigars and reminiscences of the

DR. J. T. HALLIDAY

The late Dr. J. T. I. Halliday, who passed away on Sunday was the son of Dr. Thomas Halliday who came to Canada from Annan, Scotland and settled in Grafton, Ont., in the early forties, where he was for years the only physician available to the residents of Grafton and surrounding country.

The late Doctor J. T. I. Halliday was born in Grafton in 1844, graduated with honours in McGill University, Montreal, in 1864, at the early age of twenty, having to wait for a whole year, owing to his youth before being awarded his medical diploma. He then began practice in Vernonville, north of Grafton, after which he moved to Grafton, where he practiced for several years.

In Grafton he married Miss Amy Vernon of Vernonville by whom he is survived. Subsequently he came to Peterborough in May 1882, succeeding Dr. H. C. Burritt, a friend of his boyhood. Residing at first on George street north, the late Doctor Halliday, a year later, built the residence on Water street, in which he continued to practice up to the time of his passing away.

Deceased gentleman worked in professional fellowship with other early doctors of the town, numbering among his many friends the late Dr. R. P. Boucher, Dr. R. King, Dr. Geo. Burnham and Dr. R. W. Bell and others.

The late Dr. Halliday was present at the opening of Peterborough's first hospital, now the residence of Mr. T. E. Bradburn, also at the opening of Nicholls and St. Joseph's Hospitals, in which a large portion if his work was done, and with which he kept in close and valued association until the end. He rose rapidly in his profession, and gradually became known as one of the leading surgeons in Peterborough and surrounding district. Surgery was, perhaps, the side of his profession in which he chiefly excelled, beng called in consultation at critcal tases for miles around this city.

As a physician, deceased came into remarkably close relationship with his many patients, and ther families his presence in a sick room being accepted as a silent benediction. It is accordingly impossible to estimate the personal grief caused throughout the community by his passing.

Military Career.

A notable feature of deceased's life was also his military career. He was appointed medical officer of the 57th regiment in 1884, in which capacity he contributed twenty-five years of highly appreciated service. On his retirement in 1909 he was presented by the 57th's officers wth a solid silver tray, accompanied by warm expressions of esteem and respect. For Waterworks.

A by-law to authorize the issue of debentures to borrow $20,000 for water works purposes. This money is to pay for extension of mains and such like work already done. Under special act the measure does not have to go to the ratepayers.

To Renew Debentures.

In 1890 Council borrowed from the Nicholls Trust $37,000 on 30 years debentures at 5 per cent. interest, with power to renew at he same rate. Those debentures are now matured Ald. Terner pointed out last night, and on his motion a by-law to renew them for another 30 years at the same interest again without a retiring sinking fund, was decided on.

There were present Mayor A. A. McIntyre, Aldermen Gainey, Morrison, Crowe, Gordon, Hamilton, Whitehouse, Copping, J. J. Turner and Nagel Phelan.

This Makes the Curl Stay In Your Hair

The silmerine method is unusually popular just now, according to the druggists. This is largely due to the warm weather and because women are now spending so much of their time out of doors. The simple method not only produces the loveliest, natural looking curls and waves, but it keeps the hair in curl no matter how hard the wind blows.

All one need do is to wet a clean tooth brush with liquid silmerine, draw this through the hair before doing it up, and the hair will dry in fat the sweetest waves and crinkles. This will also keep the hair beautifully soft, silky, and lustrous. A few ounces of liquid silmerine wil ast for months.

COUNCIL DISCUSSES QUESTION REPAIRS CANAL HIGHWAY

Ald. Whitehouse in the council last evening raised the question of repairs to the road east of the lift lock, between the C.P.R. and the Norwood road. He had he said drawn Superintendent A. L. Killaly's attention to this road, and he had in reply admitted it to be in so disreputable a condition as to convey a bad impression on tourists who drive over this government right of way to see the lift lock.

Mr. Killaly had assured him that this matter had been laid before the Department of Railways and Canals, whose chief engineer had inspected conditions last September, as a result of which a conclusion to give attention to this and other similar roads had been reached. Mr. Killaly had suggested that the road east of the lift lock specified be put into repair jointly by the city and his department pending a decision as to permanent maintenance.

Ald Gordon pointed out that this course might establish a precedent resulting from the city having to continue expenditure on this road's maintenance.

The City Solicitor thought not.

Ald. Turner and Ald. Copping moved that the Chairman and the City Engineer be instructed to confer with Mr. Killaly, with a view to having this road put into temporary shape, the city to pay half the cost, pending a decision of the government as to permanent maintenance of this roadway.—Carried.

IN MEMORIAM

LANE.—In loving memory of Lena Lane, who died 26th February, 1920.

In a lone and silent graveyard
Where the trees their branches wave,
Rests dear Lena
In her cold and quiet grave.
She bid no one her last farewell,
She waved her hand to none;
Her spirit fled before we knew
That she from us was gone.

Now, mother and father, dry your weeping eyes,
Your dear Lena is now at rest;
She is safely housed in Paradise,
To dwell among the blest.
Sisters, grieve not as others grieve,
But in submission bow;
For if you God's word believe,
You know she is happy now.

Your living ones should have your prayers
To fit and qualify.
And commend to tender care
When God calls them to die.
Brother Russel, may you be ready to go,
And say to die is gain;
To bid farewell to all below,
And then with Jesus reign.

Dear brother and sisters, grieve no more—
Though death's a solemn thing—
But Jesus going on before
Extracted every sting;
And from death's cold embrace he rose
Triumphant o'er the grave,
And everything that might oppose
His chosen ones to save.

Dear friends, meet Lena on that bright shore,
Where she is now at rest,
Prepared to part with her no more,
But be for ever blest.
For soon, like her, you'll have to go,
That change to realise—
Free from all trials here below,
You will above them rise.

Dear loved ones, go to Jesus now,
Before Him plead your case;
In supplication you must bow
And plead for saving grace.
Then strive to meet your loved again,
When you will part no more.
Where there's no sorrow, pain, or death
On that immortal shore.

Beloved ones, be of good cheer,
Weep not that she is dead;
She is free from every pain and fear,
Then raise your drooping head.
Now strive to feel God's will be done,
His will is for the best;
And when the sands of life are run
You'll meet dear Lena among the blest.

Around that dazzling throne you'll be,
And bask for ever there;
Redeeming love you constant cry,
And all the blessing share.
May we all when the summer comes,
Like Paul, reioice to hear
The call that takes our spirits home,
And nothing more to fear.

ALL SIGNED UP.

All the bakers in the city have signed the new agreement with their employees.

THE PLAYGROUNDS OPEN FOR SEASON

PLANS FOR THE SEASON—OFFICERS IN CHARGE.

The supervised playgrounds of the city, under the auspices of the Peterborough Playgrounds Association, opened yesterday at the following schools: King Edward, Queen Mary, Central and Queen Alexandra.

There were no attendant ceremonies as the comparatively small attendance and straggling arrivals which characterize opening days prohibits such. The attendance yesterday was quite large for an opening day.

The plans of the Playgrounds Association for this summer incorporate several ideas which will give a wider scope to the work. Among these are an inter-ground baseball league, inter-ground field days and regular swimming days at the inverlea and Lake street bathing beaches.

A new playground is that at Queen Alexandra School. The grounds are rather small for carrying out the work adequately but an attempt will be made to secure the use of the grounds of Grace Church which adjoin.

Harold Copp, former boys' secretary of the local Y.M.C.A. and now a student at the Y.M.C.A. College at Chicago, Ill., is general supervisor of the playgrounds and Miss Cook, of London, is in charge of the girls' work. Following is the staff:

King Edward—Mr. Harold Copp and Miss Price, physical director of the Y.W.C.A.

Queen Mary—Mr. Drper, of Rochester, and Miss Chapman, of London.

Central—Mr. McKamah, of Toronto, and Miss Cook, of London.

Queen Alexandra—Miss Nelson.

TO-DAY'S POLICE COURT NEWS

"We wish to mke the Little Lake Cemetery a plce where mothers may allow their daughters to go to place flowers on the graves of relatives and friends with no fear for their safety," stated T. H. G. Denne, chairman of the Little Lake Cemetery Commission, in prosecuting three youths in this morning's Police Court for chasing and terrifying three girls in the cemetery on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Denne and E. A. Peck appeared on behalf of the Cemetery Commission and stated that such vandalism and rudeness had become too common at the cemetery among a class of youths who loitered there.

The three boys were severely reprimanded by the magistrate and fined $2 each and costs of $3.10, which was divided among them.

The commission wished to make an example of the three youths in order that in the future loitering might cease in the cemetery, the graves might be respected, and annoyance to girls might cease.

Two Years for Theft.

With a record of having been twice committed to St. John's Industrial School and having twice escaped, Everett Kelso was charged with having stolen a bicycle valued at $30 from Millard's Bicycle Shop on Hunter street.

Kelso, who claims to be under sixteen years of age, was arrested by Detectives Cookman and Newhall. It is alleged he stole the bicycle and then sold it for $15, which he spent.

The magistrate lectured him and sentenced him to the Ontario Jail Farm for an industrial period not to exceed two years.

A Douro man was convicted of having, using and giving away liquor in a place other than his private residence and was fined $100 and costs of $4.10, the penalty in default of payment to be three months in jail.

Two Years.

A local young man was convicted in this afternoon's police court of having stolen a watch from a girl and was sentenced to the Ontario Jail Farm for a term not to exceed two years, subject to the consideration of the Board of Parole.

He had appeared on a charge of theft before but had been allowed to go on suspended sentence.

A nominal charge of vagrancy against him was dismissed.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Peterborough, July 6th, 1920.

Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—In regard to the article in last night's paper, which refers to me as a cripple, I would like to say is is true I suffer at times from a slight paralysis of the left arm and leg, which prevents me from following my trade as roofer and compels me to seek other employment. I would like also to state on behalf on myself and daughters, that we are not quite depending on charity of our neighbors. We take this opportunity of thanking all those who were so kind on the night of the fire. While it is also true that we have lost almost everything in the fire, we are not quite destitute. It is to be regretted by the veterans of both wars that after fighting and winning their battles for the country, we are thrown on the world half crippled, with a pension barely sufficient to pay the rent, a burden to ourselves and everyone, to fight our own battles alone. Thanking you for space in your valuable paper, I remain,

Yours truly,
M. J. MURPHY,
84 1-2 Hunter street.

Sir: Of late I have received several letters asking me to explain my view of the "Thou shalt not" of the Bible. I can only explain it by saying that God nowhere so far as I am aware prohibits or forbids the use of anything. The prohibitionist flies in the face of God and says, "I don't care if God only prohibits or forbids the misuse. I say the proper way is to prohibit the use and then we will be sure there will be no misuse."

This conduct on the part of prohibitionists is to my mind pure atheism. It is beyond doubt the most appalling and horrible of all sins. Let us get back to that reliance upon God which alone is worth thinking of. The rest is foolishness.

HAY PRICES HOLDING UP

Hay still holds up around $27.00 and $28.00 a ton, but a tumble in the price is looked for when the new crop comes in soon. The farmers are cutting the clover hay now, but the timothy is not yet ready for cutting.

Reports would indicate that many of the farmers have their mows full of the last crop, held for a higher market, but the farmers themselves do not verify this.

COMB SAGE TEA IN FADED OR GRAY HAIR

If Mixed With Sulphur it Darkens so Naturally Nobody Can Tell.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural colour and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural colour and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.

The chief city of Nova Scotia was named Halifax, in honor of George Montague, Earl of Halifax, under whose immediate auspices the settlement was undertaken. The British Parliament voted £40,000a as first aid to the enterprise.

BUSINESS MEN FIGHT.

A former proprietor of a Kent Street (Lindsay) business and the present owner of the same met down town last evening to settle their deal and to clear up certain defects in the books. Failing to settle their differences amicably the pair retired to an adjacent alleyway where they engaged lustily in a battle. One of the combatants, perhaps in fear of losing out, produced a stupendous knife, which he earnestly endeavoured to insert in his opponent's anatomy. How this battle would have ended is not known for, luckily for both, a gigantic onlooker stepped in and broke the party up, sending the two scurrying on their various ways. The police were not given an opportunity to figure in the play at all.—Post.

FUNERAL HELD THIS AFTERNOON

IMPRESSIVE SERVICE IN ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

The remains of the late Doctor J. T. S. Halliday were laid at rest in Ltle Lake Cemetery this afternoon, at 3 o'clock followng a public service at St. John's Church at 2 o'clock and a private service held at his late residence at 1.30 o'clock.

The pallbearers were all fellow practitioners: Dr. G. S. Cameron, Dr. F. C. Neal, Dr. D .Carmichael, Dr. A. Moir, Dr. A. W. McPherson and Dr. N. D. Buchanan.

Representatives of all classes joined in paying their last tribute to one who was their healer, comforter and friend in the time of sickness, and sorrow. All of the medical fraternity were there and many business men, city officials and government officials. The church was filled with people but a strangely subdued silence hung over it. Down the aisle the cortege passed, the chief mourners, his son-in-law, Mr. George Ross of Montreal and Mr. George Burnham of Cobourg bringing up the rear.

The service by Archdeacon J. C. Davidson was poignant with emotion and deeply impressive. There is sorrow in the family of one of our community to-day and this sorrow is shared by us who meet in this house this afternoon. In this house we are not so much in the presence of death as of life.

Dr. Halliday has made an abundant blessing amongst others, Archdeacon Davidson said. "He had a tide of loving affection amongst thore he lived and cared for in his practice in which particular work he realized he served God. He has been God's instrument in bringing light and life to many people."

Now after a splendid life he has passed away from us with that peace that God exemplified n him.

"Peace, Perfect Peace", Bishop Bickersteth's noble hymn was sung by the assembled friends quietly sweetly and softly. With hearts filled with grief they lifted up their voices in this hymn of supplication for God's Peace.

RECORD-BREAKING BALLOTS IN FORMER CONVENTIONS

SAN FRANCISCO, July 6.—Record-breaking ballots have occurred at four political conventions in the United States, previous to the present one, where Presidential candidates were selected. They were as follows:

1852—Franklin Pierce, 49th ballot.
1856—James Buchanan, 17th ballot.
1880—James A. Garfield, 36th ballot.
1912—Woodrow Wilson, 46th ballot.
20—J. M. Cox, 44th ballot.

In other conventions the number of ballots did not go above 10. Senator Harding was nominated at Chicago, June 12th, on the 10th ballot.

In the 1880 convention Garfield started out with one vote on the second ballot, jumping from 50 to 399 votes on the final ballot.

OBITUARY

WILLIAM EDWARDS

The death occurred yesterday at 3 o'clock at the family residence, 472 Park street of William Edwards, in his 66th year. Mr. Edwards had been ailing for some time.

The deceased was a member of Trinty church. Besides his wife he leaves to mourn his loss, two daughters and one son, Mina and Perry of the city and Mrs. W. W. Leonard of Lakefield. His eldest son, Bruce, was killed in France, August 8th 1918. Also one sister and three brother survive.

The deceased was a member of L.O.L. No. 122, Lakefield and S.O. E. No 97, Lakefield.

The funeral will take place to-morrow Wednesday at 2.30 o'clock to the Little Lake Cemetery. Service at the house at 2.30 o'clock.

CORN AND PROVISIONS.

(Canadian Press)

CHICAGO, July 6.—Unusually sharp declines in values of corn and provisions took place today. Under heavy selling pressure September and December delivery of corn dropped respectively 5 cents and 8½ cents from Saturday's close. September touched 1.57¾ and December 1.43½. Big receipts and good crop conditions were chief reasons given.

Huge stocks of provisions brought about decline of about a dollar a barrel for pork and a dollar a hundred weight for lard.

Another Section of Trent Canal Opened

COUCHICHING LOCK COMPLETED AND BOATS PASS THROUGH—A TRIP PLANNED.

ORILLIA, July 7. — The Couchiching Lock, near Washago, on the Trent Valley Canal, was opened at 1.30 yesterday, completing another portion of the waterway, and giving direct water communication between Honey Harbor, on Georgian Bay, and Trenton, on Lake Ontario, a distance of 436 miles.

While a waterway will be of considerable commercial value to the section through which it passes, as a scenic route for motor boats it is unsurpassed in Canada. The trip from Lake Simcoe down the Severn River is a really magnificent one.

There was no formal ceremony in connection with the opening of the lock yesterday, the contractors and engineers having the honor of the first passage through in their boats.

On Sunday afternoon the Orillia Town Council and Water, Light & Power Commission will go by motor boat from Orillia to Swift Rapids, on the Severn River, where the town's electric power plant is located. This is the first time it has been possible to make the entire trip by water.

HON. MARTIN DOHERTY AT PETERBORO U.F.O. PICNIC MET A FAIR DAY THRONG

MINISTER OF AGRICULTURE DISCUSSED PROVINCIAL PROBLEMS AND REVIEWED SOME OF THE LEGISLATION OF THE FIRST SESSION—APPEALED FOR UNITY.

NORWOOD'S HOSPITALITY

Norwood set out its welcome mat and held open house yesterday for the hosts of the Peterborough County Association of the United Farmers of Ontario who crowded the Exhibition Grounds in their annual picnic until Jack Roxburgh might have fancied it Fair Day, were not the verdant woods across the fields a reminder that the harvest days are several moons distant, and that the crops which will develop prize-winners are all on equal terms of tender immaturity.

Flags and bunting were strung unsparingly across the main streets, splashing the village with more colour than it has seen in many a day. Bright new banners shouted a friendly welcome to the stream of automobiles that tossed up the dust, and the same hospitable spirit was reflected in the signs posted on spacious lawns inviting the picnic parties to eat their lunches there.

The new sociability and community of interests engendered by the Farmers' Club was manifested in the cordial intercourse and in the sports and games, but was no less impressive than the evidence of class pride and unity shown in the warm reception to the Hon. Manning Doherty, Minister of Agriculture in the Drury Government. Hundreds of men and women sat comfortably around the bandstand during the customary period devoted to speeches, listening attentively and with every indication of interest to a recital of the legislative accomplishments in the first session o the Provovincial Government dominated and inspired by the U.F.O.

Applause for Drury.

That these farmers are satisfied with the leadership of the Hon. E. C. Drury was evidenced by the round of applause that greeted his name, and it was likewise apparent that the Hon. Doherty made a decidedly favourable impression yesterday and won many friends in East Peterborough.

It may be incidentally remarked that these summer assemblies of the farmers throughout the Province, at which some member of the Government discusses the affairs of the Porvince and of the country at large, will have an effect especially upon the younger men and women that is entirely lacking in most urban centres, where the youth seems to take no sincere and intelligent interest in public questions.

Norwood Won Game.

The amusement feature of the early afternoon was a U.F.O. league baseball game between Norwood and Douro, in which the Norwood boys proved that the amenities of the occasion did not extend to permitting Reeve Coughlin's team mauling them, and won in seven innings by the score of 13 to 7.

The crowd hedged the playing field so closely that it is a marvel someone wasn't seriously hurt by foul tips, passed ball, and the other pyrotechnics that enliven sometimes even the best ball game.

Had they been asked to toe the base lines, they could scarcely have got closer, and they were hemmed around the catcher with never an intercepting wire, to say nothing of netting. Beyond first and third bases the fringe scalloped in and then bent outward to admit the fielders. Beyond that curving line was an extra row of cars, with more of the crowd sandwiched between them. Girls stopped to chat behind the catcher as unconcernedly as if they were at a tea party, and some of the rooters could have reached out and hit a waste ball with a bat. Foul tips banged against the back of chairs around the grand stand with a force that would surely have injured the women sitting there had the ball been a few inches higher. Others bounded into the ice-cream booth or clattered about the band stand. One actually hit Bob Brown on the head, but his service can lightened the blow. An elderly man stopped a tip with his jaw, but laughingly remarked that it didn't hurt much. Fortunately, the seven-innings barrage caused no serious hurt, but only the U.F.O. luck that survives the passing of the horse-shoe saved some of the people, who actually seemed to enjoy the danger zone.

The Great War Veterans' Band gave a concert during the afternoon and took part in the official programme. Their music delighted the crowd, hundreds of whom enjoyed the concert from the chairs that had been placed around the stand.

Appreciated the Reception.

Wallace Anderson was chairman of the formal proceedings of speeches and music. He commented upon the manner in which the Norwood people had assisted in preparing for the picnic, and especially referred to the decorations and the friendliness shown on every hand.

Reeve Squire, on behalf of the village, presented an address of welcome to the Hon. Mr. Doherty. He said in part:

"We, sir, are pleased to bear witness to the united effort of the Provincial Government in the manner in which all classes are considered, and sincerely trust that Norwood and the vicinity will be enthused to continue to work hand in hand, as I am proud to say they have done up to the present. I refer to the success of our Agricultural Exhibition, that has been brought about by the united efforts of all in Norwood and for many miles surrounding.

"I am pleased to say, and I say it advisedly ,that the Province of Ontario is congratulated from the Atlantic to the Pacific and beyond the borders of Canada for having a statesman in the person of the Hon. E. C. Drury as Premier, and also for a progressive Cabinet, with you, sir, holding the portfolio of the most important department, namely, Minister of Agriculture, or, in other words, the head of the basic industry of Ontario or Canada. We recognise that the chain is made so much stronger by having you the main link—a practical farmer possessing unlimited education, ability, and integrity that fortify you in performng the duties that devolve upon you. . . . . I take the opportunity of saying that your non-partisan Government in the initial session have demonstrated yourselves as standardbearers of Democracy, and I sincerely trust that nothing will appear during the balance of the term to neutralise the effect of the good work outlined."

Reeve Squire also welcomed the Farmers' Clubs, and said that the village was glad they were holding their picnic at the Exhibition Grounds.

Mr. G. A. Brethen also acknowledged the co-operation of Norwood in making the picnic a success, and also said that the choice of Hon. Mr. Doherty as Minister of Agriculture had been well made.

Mr. E. N. McDonald, M.L.A., said he had tried to show Mr. Doherty the need of a demonstration farm in this section of Ontario in order that greater facilities for agricultural education might be afforded not only for the children of the farms, but even for city hildren, too.

Mr .Doherty's Address.

For a number of reasons Hon. Mr. Doherty said he was glad to visit East Peterborough; one of them was to meet the constituents who had showed their wisdom by electing Mr. E. N. McDonald. At the outset, he appealed for unity of interests and effort. That which was in the interest of the farmers must be in the interest of the urban people. While farmers justly contended that agriculture had not been given its due place in this Province, they were wise enough to realise that the country must have industrial development.

"In the years ahead of us, I hope that we in Ontario shall develop a spirit of unity of purpose and toleration the better to deal with the im-

HEAVY CASTINGS MOUNTED ON FREIGHT CAR CAUSED WRECK ON THE G.T.R. NEAR KEENE

Two heavy castings, about 12 feet in height, mounted on a flat car, and swaying with the motion of the train, overturned two cars of a freight train on the Belleville line of the Grand Trunk Railway near Keene yesterday afternoon about 5.30 o'clock, and spilled a carload of cement over the track, blocking the right of way for about three hours. The track was cleared with difficulty in time to make way for the evening train from Belleville.

It is unusual for a freight cargo to cause such an accident. The castings were consigned from Montreal to Peterborough.

TWELFTH OF JULY

JOINT TAG DAG

The Brotherhood Federation of Canada is co-operating with the True Blue and Orange Order of Peterboro in a joint tag day on next Monday, July 12, 1920, on behalf of the True Blue Orange Orphanage in Ontario and our orphanage in Serbia.

This is a splendid piece of home and foreign missionary effort that will commend itself to all irrespective of denominational lines.

Indeed, it is an unusual opportunity for a display of loyalty and fidelity on behalf of our war orphans and others at home and abroad.

Many of the leading ladies of the city are already in line to help make the effort a success.

Will young ladies and gentlemen willing to assist in this worthy work kindly communicate at once with Miss Knox, 481 Gilmour, telephone 788w, or Rev. R. G. Campbell or Capt. Joe Lawson, 397 Maitland avenue, telephone 924j.

Your assistance spells success.
Your obedient servant.
THE BROTHERHOOD FEDERATION.

BACK PAY CHEQUES FOR CIVIL SERVICE

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, July 7.—Back pay cheques for fifteen months will be paid to civil servants in next two weeks. The total amount according to the House of Commons announcement will be about four millions, that being the estimated cost of ante-dating civil service classification. Individual amounts paid will be the difference between civil servants former salary and that awarded him by classification schedules.

CORONER'S JURY CLEARS MR. WORTH

WAS IMPOSSIBLE TO AVOID STRIKING LITTLE GIRL.

TORONTO, July 7. — A verdict stating that they were of the opinion that the accident was unavoidable, was returned by the Coroner's jury last evening at the inquest into the circumstances surrounding the death of six-year-old Alberta West on Dominion Day. The jury also added a rider to the effect that the speeed limit for motorists within the city limits should be reduced.

The accident occurred on Ossington avenue, near Bloor street, at 11.05 a.m., when the child was struck by an automobile driven by Walter Worth, of Peterborough, who was accompanied by R. J. Inman, of Bradford, England. The evidence submitted before Coroner Dr. C. W. Brand last evening showed that the little girl ran into the path of the auto from behind a wagon standing on the east side of Ossington Avenue, and, despite the endeavors of the driver to avoid her, she was struck and run over. Dr. Caroline Brown was called and had her removed to the Sick Children's Hospital, where she died an hour later. Dr. Brown stated the child suffered several injuries, any one of which would cause death.

Barney Rickman, an automobile expert, testified that the car was in good working order and that an examination of the scene of the accident convinced him that Worth had done everything to avoid hitting the little girl. Other witnesses were: Mrs. Elizabeth McMillan, Mrs. Lillian McMillan, F. B. Bowerman, Herbert Corbett, Detective Silverthorn and R. J. Inman. Mr. Worth also related his version of the accident.

The evidence showed that the automobile was not travelling at an excesive rate of speed when it struck the little girl, and that the brakes and other parts of the car were in good condition. The parents of the deceased were present at the inquest and were thankful for the verdict exonerating Mr. Worth.

Rev. J. R. Webb, Mr. W. R. Breyfogle and Mr. J. Hopwood, all of Peterborough, were also present at the inquest.

HAS TAKEN AGENCY FOR AUTOMOBILE CAR

I beg to announce that I have taken the Agency for the Oldsmobile Automobile for Peterborough City and District, and will gladly give Demonstrations on application, which will not place you under any obligation whatever to purchase. Persons interested kindly 'phone 383W, and we will call and see you.—Edgar Burnham. 3d-8-1461

POLES WILL HAVE TO SHORTEN THEIR LINES—MANY PRISONERS TAKEN.

ROVNO CAPTURED

(Canadian Press.)

WARSAW, July 7.—Along a front of approximately seven hundred miles the Russian Bolsheviki have hurled the greatest attack they have ever launched against the Polish lines.

On the the northern and southern flanks the Poles are retiring in face of superior enemy forces, the attack on the northern sector being the most severe of the struggle on this front.

Faced with the necessity of shortening their lines, the Poles have begun a withdrawal at all points.

The Bolsheviki offensive is the heaviest on the northern sector of the front, and it is not known here to what extent the Poles have been forced to retreat.

North-east of Rovno, the Bolsheviki have advanced, cutting the railroad to Kovel.

General Budensky continues hisn raids in this region.

Severe fighting is going on along the right flank of the Polish line and also on the Beresina front, where the Soviet Army has brought up large reinforcements.

ROVNO TAKEN BY THE BOLSHEVIKI.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, July 7.—The fortress of Rovno, in Volhynia, to the east of Dubno and Lutsk, has fallen into Bolsheviki hands, it is anounced in a Soviet communique received from Moscow to-day.

In capturing Rovno from the Poles the Bolsheviki took a thousand prisoners, two armoured trains, and considerable other equipment.

In the direction of Proskurov, south of Rovno, we broke through the fortified zone and are driving the enemy back along the railway in the direction of Tarnopol and Lemburg, the statement adds.

SWEAR BY BUDDHA INSTEAD OF BY GOD.

(Canadian Press).

BUENOS AIRES, July 6.—Permission to swear by Buddha instead of God and the Holy Apostles was granted by the Superior Court of Cordoba the other day to a young law student of agnostic belief when he took the oath of membership in the Argentine bar. He sought first to take the oath "by my country and my honour," but the court informed him that he would be obliged to take a "religious oath."

The student, it is related, thereupon went to a library and began a profound study of the world's religions, on which he spent several days. He then returned to the court and informed the learned judges he had found that the Buddhist religion was "the most moral and most complete," and asked permission to take oath upon it. The judged consulted musty tomes of Argentine law and decided there was nothing to exclude him from taking such an oath.

"FLU" MAKES THE HAIR COME OUT

SPECIALIST OFFERS SIMPLE HOME RECIPE TO STOP LOSS OF HAIR AND MAKE IT GROW AGAIN.

People who had the "Flu" this past Winter and who now find their hair coming out badly, will be interested in the suggestion of a well known Hair Specialist who says: "Anyone can easily and inexpensively make at home a recipe which, in my opinion, is unequalled for stopping loss of hair and making new hair grow out again thick, glossy and luxuriant.

You can get from any druggist 6 oz. of Bay Rum, 2 oz. of Lavona (de Composee) and one-half drachm of Menthol Crystals. Mix together and allow to stand over night before using. Rub thoroughly into the scalp with the finger tips or a stiff brush.

This prescription is perfectly harmless, acts quickly and neither dries out the hair nor makes it greasy. But ladies using it should be careful not to get it on the face or where hair is not desired.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Dr. Bruce E. Marshall has returned from attending the American Osteopathic Convention in Chicago.

Mr. D. J. McDonnell, proprietor of the Hotel Islington and Garage, Islington, Ont., together with his brother Charles, were week-end visitors in the city, and guests at the White House.

Mrs. E. A. Henley (nee Miss Hazel Richardson), of Oshawa, is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. John Hart, 470 Aylmer street, for a few days.

Miss Florence Dailey, of Toronto, is visiting the Misses Mowat, Homewood avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Heil and son, of Rosemont, Montreal, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Jos. Duranceau, 280 Simcoe street.

Mrs. C. Davidson, Mrs. E. E. Plummer and Misses Nellie, Irene and Georgia Davidson, motored up from Campbellford yesterday and were guests of Mrs. A. Pearse, Rogers street.

Miss Zetta Buck, Rochester, New York, is in the city the guest of Miss Carveth, Charlotte street.

Mr. Wm. Doris, of Rochester, New York, is visiting his old home, on Aylmer street.

LEMON JUICE FOR FRECKLES

Girls! Make beauty lotion for a few cents—Try It!

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle and tan lotion, and complexion beautifier, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of orchard white for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles and blemishes disappear and how clear, soft and rosy-white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless and never irritates.

THE STAGE IS ALL SET FOR CELEBRATION IN PETERBORO

ORANGEMEN HAVE MADE ELABORATE PREPARATIONS TO OBSERVE THE 12TH OF JULY.

Providing that next Monday is a fine day, Peterborough will see the biggest Orange celebration ever known in its history. The Battle of the Boyne has always been well observed in this city and whenever the lodges have met in this city the Orange Order and their families and friends have been accorded a royal welcome and a good time by the local lodges and the citizens as a whole.

Monday next, the 230th anniversary of King William's victory, will be celebrated here by lodges from a large district over Central and Eastern Ontario. Ten lodges from Toronto are coming for the first time in their history. From the Queen City to Sharbot Lake, from Lake Simcoe to Belleville Orangemen loaded with banners and heralded by the fife and drum, bugle and brass bands will reach the city. Some twenty thousand, perhaps twenty-five thousand people will congregate in the city on that day, and a programme worthy of any celebration has been prepared by the local lodges.

Train Service.

Special trains are chartered from advantageous points, but the Order found it impossible to secure any cheap rates. Many lodges will motor in and thousands of cars will be in the city.

Mounted marshalls will meet all trains and conduct the various lodges to their respective places in Central park, where they will afterwards fall in at 1 p.m. sharp. The marshalls are as follows:

Grand Marshall—H. Dodds, P.M.

Deputy Marshalls—W. J. Hancock, Dist. M., J. Spence, P.C.M., Robert Wilson, P.C.M., W. G. Morrow, P.C. M., H. Stintson, P.C.M.

A commitee of the L.O.B.A. will be the stations to welcome the visiting sisters and direct them to Central Park.

All lodges will fall in on their county grounds (boards marked) and the parade will begin at 1.15 from Central Park. The route is down Murray to Aylmer, Aylmer to London, London to George, George to the Exhibition grounds, around the course past the grand stand into the field and disperse for the programme. It is expected that this parade will take over 1 1-2 hours to pass any one point on the route.

The Grounds and Booth committee is presided over by E. F. Reid, P.C. M. and comprised of Charles McGee, W. J. Hancock, Dist. M., John Edgar, P.C.M., S. Anderson P.M., J. Sutherland.

The Programme.

The program in front of the Grand stand follows:—

"The King" 57th Regiment Band.

Introductory address — Chairman Brother John Edgar.

Address of Welcome—Mayor McIntyre.

Band Selection — 57th Regiment Band.

Song—Mr. Bert Caldwell of Toronto.

Address—(Capt.) Brother J. H. Burnham, M. P. West, Peterboro.

Vaudeville—Bondo Clown.

Address—(Lieut. Brother—M. J. O'Brien, Ottawa.

Presentation of prizes—W. J. Hancock, District M.

Band selection by the band winning first prize.

Song—Mr. Bert Caldwell.

A tug-of-war betwen two chosen teams will take place as the program on the opposite side of the course begins. A baseball game between Oshawa L.O.L. and Lindsay L. O. L. and a lacrosse match between Hastings and Peterboro will provide some lively excitement.

Dancing will commence on the platform as soon as the program is finished and continue until 10 p.m.

Prizes will be given for the following:—Largest lodge on parade—W. M. Collar; best equipped lodge(including band)—W. M. Collar; Best band, $10; Largest Orange family on grounds—$5; Tug-of-war (Any L. O. L.) —Box of cigars; Baseball match, —Winners $25; Losers, $15 (towards expenses); Best equipped L.O.B.A. lodge, $5.00; Best equipped Ladies T. B. Lodge, $5.00.

Judges.

Col. George Crawford P. C. M., Lindsay; Brother Davis, D.C.M., West Toronto, Brother A. G. Jinks, W. P. Oshawa.

Twenty-five cents admission will be charged at the Grounds owing to the extraordinarily high expenses Instead of the usual L.T.B. and Orange Orphanage Tag Day the committee have decided this year with the assistance of Capt. Joe Lawson and Rev. Mr. Campbell to run a joint Tag Day and give 50% of the net proceeds to the Serbian Relief Fund.

There will be ample accommodation for meals for the many thousands. Hot dinners will be served by the Ladies of St. Andrew's Church in the Curling Rink. There will be one or two tents at the Market Square serving dinner while the hotel are preparing to handle enormous crowds.

An information bureau with Brother G. Walton in charge will be located at the Grounds. Here inquiries as to trains or other matters will be gladly answered. This is a feature that will be welcomed by the visiting brethren.

BE CAUTIOUS

When you see a testimonial from someone in Texas whom you do not know, pay no attention to it.

When your neighbor tells you the great benefit he derived from Dr. Norvall's Stomach & Tonic Tablets and if you are still in doubt as to their merits ask your druggist and he will tell you that as a tonic and laxative and to relieve constipation, biliousness or a sick headache Norvall's Stomach & Tonic Tablets have no equal and they are in a class by themselves,

TO VISIT PENITENTIARY

(Canadian Press)

KINGSTON, July 7—Hon. C. J. Doherty, Minister of Justice, is expected in the city Wednesday or Thursday of this week, and while here will go thoroughly into Penitentiary matters. An Ottawa despatch says that he has asked for numerous reports on the matter from various officials. Mr. Doherty will be one of the speakers at Rev. Father Fleming's picnic at Wolfe Island on Thursday.

SIR THOMAS WHITE IS PARTY'S CHOICE

FRAMING UP THE NEW LINE-UP THIS MORNING.

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, July 7. — Clearing political skies are expected during the day. The morning has been one of conferences. Practically the whole of the forenoon Sir Thomas White was closeted with Sir Robert Borden, and the whole political situation was discussed.

Soon after the arrival of the former Minister of Finance, Hon. N. W. Rowell joined the conference.

Despite Sir Thomas White's repeated declarations that he has no desire to return to public life, the impression persits that he may yet be prevailed upon to form a new administration.

Sir Thomas felt impelled to relinquish his duties as Minister of Finance owing to the serious impairment of his health.

Failing Sir Thomas White, Hon. Arthur Meighen is generally regarded as the most likely to be called on.

During the day Mr. Rowell is expected to place his definite decision in the hands of the Prime Minister. When seen this morning he declined to add anything to his previous declaration, but his retirement to private practice would occasion no surprise.

The conference between the Premier and Sir Thomas White lasted almost until one o'clock. Shortly afterwards the Governor-General arrived at his office. Subsequently he was called upon by the former Minister of Finance.

THERE IS NO REAL UNION, SAYS SIR SAM

TORONTO CONSERVATIVES SERVE ULTIMATUM TO MEMBERS OF PARLIAMENT.

TORONTO, July 7.—Notice has been served on all Unionist M.P.'s in Toronto that they must return to the ranks of the Conservative Party if they hope to retain their seats at the next general election. This ultimatum was issued at a meeting of Ward Three Conservatives at St. George's Hall last night when some very severe criticism was directed against the policy of Sir Robert Borden and his colleagues. It was charged that Sir Robert, in conjunction with Sir Wm. Hearst, had shot the old Liberal-Conservative party to pieces, and as a result if an election were held to-morrow not twenty-five members on the Unionist side of the House of Commons would be able to secure re-election. The reorganization of the party under the new appellation of "The National Liberal and Conservative Party which recently took place at Ottawa, was repudiated. The call was sent out to all stalwarts to rally to the old standard so that arrangemens might be made for the holding of a party convention at an early date when the policy of the party should be enunciated and a new leader chosen to carry it out.

The chief speakers were Dr. Chas. Sheard, M.P., for South Toronto, General Sam Hughes, Mr. E. W. J. Owen, K. C., and Mr. Thomas Hook, president of Ward 3 Conservative Association.

Dr. Sheard strongly defended the Union Government, pointing out that changes since 1917 did not warrant the Government's defeat, and the forcing of a general election. He declared he would not serve under a Liberal of the type of John Calder. Rather than that he would resign, and he added there are many more in the House of Commons who held similar views. Dr. Sheard urged Toronto Conservatives to strengthen their organization in preparation for emergencies.

No Real Union.

Sir Sam Hughes was opposed to sending an ambassador to Washington and had opposed the passing of the enabling bill in the Commons, but when it was discovered that if the bill was killed the Government would have to resign; he thought it advisable to save the Government rather than to allow Mackenzie King to gain control. Declaring the present government was merely a machine body, Sir Sam contended that there was no real union.

WHEN the children romp in hungry as young bears, here are some wholesome, economical delights that will not only be received with glee, but will satisfy the most ravenous appetite in a most wholesome manner.

Cookies

½ cup shortening
2 cups sugar
½ cup milk
1 eggs
½ teaspoon grated nutmeg
1 teaspoon vanilla extract or grated rind of 1 lemon
4 cups flour
3 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder

Cream shortening and sugar together; add milk to beaten eggs and beat again; add slowly to creamed shortening and sugar; add nutmeg and flavoring; add 2 cups flour sifted with baking powder; add enough more flour to make stiff dough. Roll out very thin on floured board; cut with cookie cutter, sprinkle with sugar, or put a raisin or a piece of English walnut in the center of each. Bake about 12 minutes in hot oven.

Cocoa Drop Cakes

4 tablespoons shortening
1 cup sugar
1 egg
½ cup milk
1½ cups flour
3 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
½ cup cocoa
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

MADE IN CANADA

Cream shortening; add sugar and well-beaten egg; beat well and add milk slowly; sift flour, baking powder, salt and cocoa into mixture; stir until smooth, add vanilla. Put one tablespoon, of batter into each greased muffin tin and bake in moderate oven about 20 minutes. Cover with boiled icing.

Orange Cakes

4 tablespoons shortening
1 cup sugar
½ cup milk
1 egg
2 cups flour
3 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon orange extract
grated rind of 1 orange

Cream shortening; add sugar slowly, beating well; add milk a little at a time; then add well-beaten egg; sift flour, baking powder and salt together and add to mixture; add flavoring and grated orange rind; mix well. Bake in greased shallow tin, or individual cake tins, in hot oven 15 to 20 minutes. When cool cover with orange icing.

WINNIPEG LABOR TO CRUSH ONE UNION

Campaign Launched to Win Unrecognized Men Into International Camp.

(Canadian Press.)

WINNIPEG, July 7.—At a meeting of Winnipeg Trades and Labor Council last night it was decided to immediately launch a campaign with the object of crushing the one union movement. Challenges thrown out by the O. B. U. to open a debate will be accepted and every effort will be made towards winning unrecognized labor into the camp of the International.

PROMINENT BANK OFFICIAL VISITS PETERBORO DISTRICT

Mr. Angus A. Werlick, who is manager for Ontario of the Rural Service Department of the Merchants' Bank of Canada, was in the city on Monday and looked over crop and other conditions of the adjoining district. He was well impressed with the city and also at the prosperous appearance of the country. Crops here are quite as far ahead as in almost any part of the province, and the live-stock handled by the farmers of this district appeared to him to be a good average. Mr. Werlick endeavors to impress upon the farmers the advantages of using pure-bred stock, and to this end has compiled a Feeding and Breeding Chart, which contains invaluable information for the farmer. The information was gathered from the very best authorities and a chart can be obtained from any branch of the Merchants' Bank free.

During the time of the great scarcity of feed in Western Canada last spring, it is claimed that the Rural Service Department of this bank was successful in transporting more hay into the most needed districts than was effected through any other source. Every branch of the bank is a branch of the Rural Service Department and the managers are required to keep the department fully advised as to conditions of their respective districts. If a surplus of any particular farm product is available, or if a shortage is apparent, then the Rural Service Department of the bank is advised, and by service memorandums the information is immediately sent to every branch of the bank. A large bulletin board is placed in each branch and these memorandums placed thereon. Already several farmers near Peterborough have been making use of the bulletin board service here and seem well pleased with it.

These services, which are given free of charge, are but a small part of the useful work that is being carried on among the farmers of the province, and the maintaining of this department by the Merchants' Bank is an indication of the value placed upon the agricultural industry by this large institution.

The central office of the department for Ontario is at London and we understand there are one or two other central offices in connection with this work out west. Mr. Werlick left for Belleville on a tour of Eastern Ontario branches, and hopes to return again to this district a little later on.

IMPROVED STORE METHODS

Chain Stores of L. R. Steel Company, Limited, 5c., to $1.00, Will Reduce Cost of Living.

A new merchandising system, providing a modern and more economical method of getting daily necessities to the consumer, is being introduced into Canada by the L. R. Steel Company, Limited. This concern has 32 stores and leases now in the United States and Canada and is making such rapid headway that the L. R. Steel store will soon be one of the community necessities of every point of population in Canada of over 5,000 people. Not only does the L. R. Steel store give greater value of every cent spent on purchases of 5c to $1, but there is a sharing of the profits among those purchasers who are shareholders. The shareholders are the common people—the people who are for the most part patrons of the store, or prospective patrons. By the Steel method any customer may become a partner-patron who really is buying his goods from himself in his own store. The management is the best that brains and experience can provide for at the head of it is President L. R. Steel, a man who has earned the reputation of being the greatest merchandiser in America—and the friend of the working people. President Steel is a man who is a hard worker—who has a high admiration for those who toil.

The L. R. Steel Company, Limited, is making rapid headway on a store on St. Catherine street, Montreal, which, when equipped, will be the finest chain store in America. Two new stores are being built for the L. R. Steel Company, Limited, under lease, in Quebec City. A very fine store will be taken over in Sherbrooke in July. Stores will be opened in a short time in Oshawa, Goderich and Owen Sound, in Ontario.

Operations in Toronto will be very extensive. A large warehouse has been purchased on Mutual street, Toronto, to supply the Toronto stores. A valuable site has been purchased on Danforth avenue, Toronto, for the erection of one of the fine L. R. Steel stores that will operate in Toronto. Other sites will be announced from time to time in various portions of Canada and towns of 5,000 and over are planned to have stores in the vast chain of the L. R. Steel Company, Limited.

THE HUNTER STREET BRIDGE.

There is not much comfort for the ratepayers in the knowledge that they are to be asked to provide another $100,000 to complete the construction of the Hunter street bridge. Already the structure has cost $273,600.05, and Engineer Barber estimates that the total cost after deducting items that he does not believe should be charged to the bridge will be $393,000. The $100,000 now asked for is said to be ample to complete the work, although in view of the difference between the estimates and the actual cost of the bridge so far, citizens cannot be blamed if they evince a little scepticism as to the reliability of the latest estimaate of the cost. There are optimists who believe that the worst has been told and that the total cost will not exceed $400,000, and there are pessimists who believe that Peterborough will be lucky if the half million dollar mark is not reached before the bridge is open for traffic. The news of the new appeal for funds for this work has not been received with any visible outbursts of enthusiasm, but the by-law will undoubtedly be carried, because the ratepayers have no other choice than to see the bridge through to completion now that nearly $300,000 has already been spent in the work so far accomplished. It would be folly to abandon the enterprise now, and there is no alternative except to provide sufficient money to finish the structure. The ratepayers doubtless realize this fact and will vote accordingly, albeit reluctantly, and with a deep seated conviction that the building of such a bridge under the circumstances under which the Hunter street bridge was undertaken, was a piece of civic extravagance greater than any other public enterprise in the history of Peterborough.

THE ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION.

The announcement that the Board of Trade is inaugurating a movement for the formation of a Peterborough Athletic Association to supervise and control the various branches of amateur sport in this city will be received with a great deal of interest and all true friends of manly games and pastimes will hope that the effort will be a successful one. It can, however, only have this result if the enthusiasts in all the various lines of sport will agree to co-operate in the movement, and the preliminary meeting, which will be held this evening, should therefore be well attended. An organization of the kind planned cannot be perfected in a few days or even in a season, and it is important that the ground work should be thoroughly done so that from the start the Association will be representative and effective. Nothing can be accomplished by an effort that starts with a hip! hip! hurrah! and then peters out in a few months like so many movements of a similar kind have done in the past. The Board of Trade would be well advised to go somewhat slowly in the initial organizing work and to be sure that it secures the co-operation of men who are regarded as the leading spirits in the different sports that it is proposed to bring under the control of the Association. Without these leaders and their assistance it will be impossible to effect an organization that will function properly. Better a slow start followed by a sumulative movement that will carry through to success than a lot of noise at the commencement of the campaign succeeded by a steadily dwindling enthusiasm and finally flat failure. An Athletic Association can be made a great success in Peterborough if it is established on a proper basis and with men of the right calibre at its head.

THE SUMMER CAMP.

A visit to Jackson Park, where the Peterborough Health Association has established its midsummer camp for delicate children, furnishes convincing proof of the fact that the Association is implementing its pledges to the public and is giving splendid value for the financial support it has received. The children's camp at the park was abandoned during the war years, but is once more in full operation and promises to be a boon for the youngsters who are not strong enough to enjoy the sports of the supervised playgrounds, as well as a source of comfort to the mothers of these little folks who know that they are being carefully cared for under most delightful conditions and that they are daily gaining in health and strength as a result of their long day in the open air. No more suitable spot for such an institution could be imagined than Jackson Park, with its lofty location, its beautiful pines, filling the air with their strengthening fragrance, and the general sense of restful quiet that pervades its sylvan depths. Under such conditions, the delicate youngsters, watched over by an efficient trained nurse, have an excellent chance of being improved in health and strength. They are provided with plenty of substantial, wholesome food, the diet being chosen with a view to building up and strengthening the little ones. Facilities for sleeping are provided and for the weaker children, rest for a portion of the day is insisted upon.

The ideal behind the summer camp is to give the weaker children of the city, especially those of families who are unable to enjoy a vacation, at the summer resorts of the district, a fair chance to fight their way to health. Fresh air, sunshine, good food, exercise of the right kind, pleasant surroundings — these are the forces that the Health Association are employing in their battle to save the children and every citizen who visits Jackson Park and visualizes what is being done will resolve that the work is a magnificent one and that the next appeal of the Health Association will find a hearty response.

THINGS THAT COUNT.

The Examiner, which has in and out of season urged the City Council to pay more attention to the question of bathing facilities, is glad to be able to thank the city fathers, on behalf of the hundreds of citizens who visit Inverlea Park during the summer months, for the improvements that have been decided upon by the Council. These include the construction of a water service so that the dressing rooms can be kept clean, the erecting of a shelter for the caretaker, the cleaning up of the beach and the securing of a boat to be available in case of accidents. All of these improvements have been needed and will considerably improve the accommodation at the Park, and the Council can rest assured that the expenditure involved in the carrying out of the work will earn rich dividends in the pleasure and comfort they will give the many bathers who are daily visitors during the warm weather. It is in the attention to details of this kind that distinguishes a real city from a mere place in which to live. Bathing facilties, plenty of parks, playgrounds for the little folks, athletic grounds for the young people, municipal skating rinks, eventually a municipal swimming bath for the winter months, those are the things that make a community satisfied and proud of their home city and the progress that Peterborough is making along these lines is gratifying to those who realize that the extent to which the welfare and health of the citizens is looked after is the real measure of a city's success. In themselves the Inverlea Park improvements may not be important, except to those who bathe there, but viewed in the light of an awakening consciousness of the things that distinguish a live centre from the common herd of cities and towns, the programme outlined is a source of gratification and satisfaction.

AN EMIGRANT'S SUCCESS.

The following letter, dated 23rd May, 1920, was received by the Director of Colonisation of Ontario from a prosperous farmer in Carleton County, about twelve miles from Ottawa, and speaks eloquently for itself:

"Some seven years ago, namely, 5th June, 1913, I sailed for Canada from England and obtained employment on a farm at Navan, Ont., through the agency of your Department. To-day I have a farm of my own. I am in need of help, and it occurred to me that I could not do better than obtain from the Colonisation Department the services of an emigrant from England who may have arrived in Canada with a view to work on a farm.

"I was totally inexperienced when I arrived in Canada, and though I found the work very hard at first, yet to-day I am pleased to be able to say that I am working my own place now. I am willing to take either an experienced or inexperienced man. If a young man about 18 years or so is willing to learn farming I can guarantee any length of time in which he can work with me. I myself have found that to hire for a year is the best plan, and I hired myself for three years to the same farmer. The question of wages will, of course, depend upon the ability, etc., of the man himself, but I am willing to pay anything he may be worth up to the highest wage for farm help.

"In conclusion, allow me to state that I have been well satisfied with the country where your representative at Quebec sent me, and can say no other than this—that I have been well received, helped, and well trained by the farmers with whom I have worked."

This brief letter (one of many similar) portrays in a few strong strokes an attractive picture of achieved success, and the possibility of success, in Ontario. Seven short years ago this absolutely inexperienced Englishman came to Canada with no more capital than a clear head and a stout heart; to-day he is a prosperous farmer with a farm of his own and anxious to pay the highest wages for a helping hand!

The letter emphasises two facts: First, the extraordinary opportunities for success in farming offered by Ontario; second, the urgent demand for men on the farms of Ontario.

Probably the nearest approach to independence in this world is that secured by the Ontario farmer owning his own farm. With ordinary intelligence and industry he is at the least sure of a good living; and the Province abounds with instances of farmers who began with nothing but their own brains and energy and became wealthy at middle age. That public honours await them is also proved by the number of farmers who to-day occupy the highest posts in the legislative halls, both Federal and Provincial, of Canada.

In Ontario husbandry—the most ancient and honourable calling in the world—opens the way to prosperity and public distinction: Can the world offer anything better?—Public Service Bulletin.

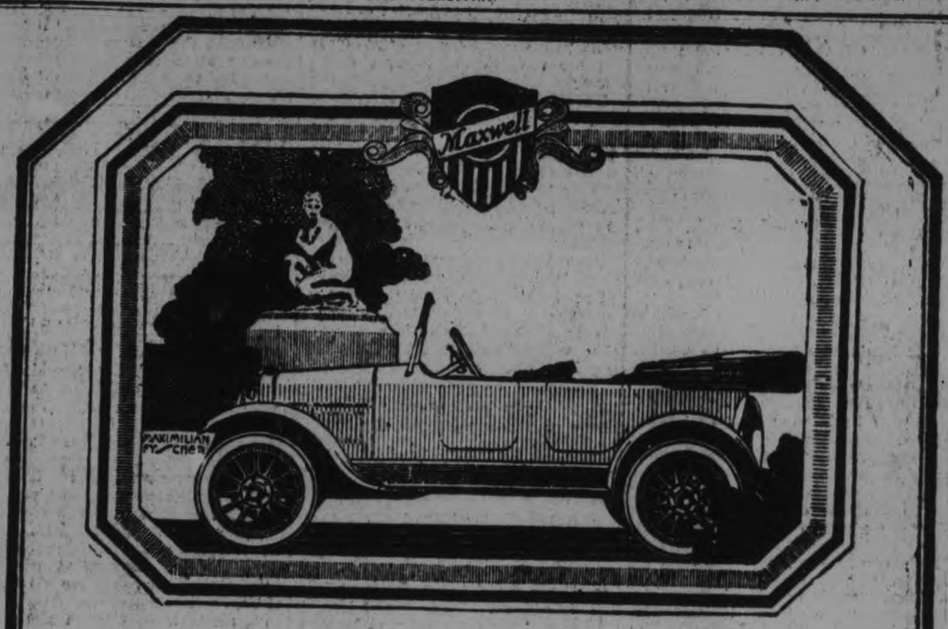
NEGRO POSTAL CLERK DIES FOR STABBING WHITE CLERK

ENTERPRISE, Miss., July 7. — James Spencer, a negro postal clerk, who seriously stabbed Otho Parker, a white postal clerk, on the New Orleans and Northeastern mail car Friday, was taken from the officers who were taking him to Quitman for trial to-day and lynched. The officers and their prisoner were met on their way to the trial and the negro was taken from them without difficulty and hanged to a tree.



Those Good Brakes
in a
MAXWELL
are aided by special steels

Brakes seem to be one of the overlooked features of a motor car. In a Maxwell they have had the extreme of attention.

For instance, a road engineer, in about 500,000 miles of experimental driving, has constantly tested and studied them.

That is why you can check the speed of a Maxwell in an instant and bring it to a standstill either by foot brake or hand brake.

Special steels in a Maxwell are largely responsible. They give it extra strength in wear and endurance, but they make the car light in weight.

Thus, when you call on it to halt, the brakes are not required to "wrestle" with superfluous weight, and the momentum of the car is easily stopped.

These are steels made to Maxwell's own formulae. They equal, pound for pound, the steels in any car built. But no car has steels just like them.

In a large measure they contribute to Maxwell's growing prestige, as expressed in figures like these: nearly 400,000 now in use; and 100,000 more for the year 1920.

VIRTUOUS WIVES

By OWEN JOHNSON

PART VI.

Meanwhile Mrs. Lightbody, with the boys, in company with the two Miss Teakes who had returned with them for tea, were amusing themselves in the great baronial sitting room during the continued absence of their hostess.

"What can we do?" said Mrs. Lightbody, a plump, rolling blond of resolute youthfulness, who was in constant state of anxiety before the pursuing problem of being amused. "Let's cut in for a hand of bridge."

"No, Kitty, dear," said Tody Dawson impertinently; "I will dance with you, I will amuse you in any other way, but I will not play bridge with you—you are entirely too expensive—and I need the money."

Laracy, who was at the piano, rattling up and down the keys, emerged from behind the keyboard: a podgy, placid, smiling, flat-faced figure, affecting tight check trousers, glowing socks, and fancy waistcoats.

"Did Kitty propose bridge again?" he said, with equal impertinence, referring to some disaster of the night before. "She should be stood in a corner."

"You funny, old boy! You know I don't play half badly now."

"Not half badly, entirely so," said Laracy. "Well, Tody, if we've got to amuse her, better to keep her dancing."

"Yes, that keeps her out of breath," said Dawson, getting up with the air of a martyr. He was a sky-scraping type of youth, with long face and rising yellow hair which, after four years of college education, flowed back without a flurry from the untroubled calm of his well-pleased expression—a beau ideal of that tailorable figure which advertising artists depict in heroic postures, resting on tennis rackets or golf sticks.

"How about thumb-wrestling?"

"Oh, I dote on that!" said Mrs. Lightbody, clapping her hands and, turning to the colorless and impassive Miss Teakes, she explained, in excited phrases, the principles of this latest parlor trick. "My dear, he's simply wonderful: he can wrestle you with one hand and me with another, blindfolded, and beat us both. It's excruciatingly funny."

"T. Y. K.," said Dawson, bowing, and meaning, in the abbreviating trick of the day, "Thanking you kindly."

"Saying which, Lord Ronald inclined his noble brow and suffered his beautiful violet eyes to be bandaged," said Laracy, drawing forth a red-and-yellow handkerchief amid the titters of an appreciative audience.

Dawson and Laracy belonged to that new variety of household pet which supplements the absence of hard-worked husbands in society. A woman of fashion counts from two to ten of the variety in her train, who fetch and carry, run small errands, adore her in a public, harmless way, accompany her to the theatre or opera, surround her at the dansants and invent a hundred amusing tricks to save her from the necessity of reading and other forms of boredom. Wise in their generation, they seldom make blunders, knowing that they are admitted to intimacy only on the basis of absolute docility, and acquiring the knowledge of worldly values, they wait patiently under such patronage the opportunities of what is called a successful marriage. Dawson and Laracy were unusually gifted. They played in masterly fashion all games of chance where a friendly dollar could be sought. They formed a team, which imitated the latest comic-opera favorites. They spoke a jargon of their own. They danced like professional dancers, with really the most remarkable agility, and, from morning to night, kept up a running patter of story, anecdote, repartee, and picturesque slang which made easy the task of the most desperate hostess.

About five o'clock, the older men began to return from polo practice. Tea at the Dellabarre's was an institution in Chilton society, which, like many similar societies, was formed on feudal lines, congregating around one or two established families, with their castles, their retainers, and their adherents who, by some mystery of hidden economy, attached themselves to the leaders, imitated their luxuries, and scrambled desperately to marry their children favorably before the impending bad accounting arrived.

By the time the Forresters had undressed and descended, the great dining room filled up with casual guests, a few of the men in riding breeches, the women in gaily colored sweaters and striped skirts. From the landing of the winding stair, they looked down on the glass vaulted room, paneled in brown, with pleasant regions of shadows and lights, and, at the end, a great fireplace with lighted logs. A group was gathered about a card table, another about the shiny decanters, while Tody Dawson, thin and active, was pirouetting, his arms lightly in the air, exaggerating the bend of his shoulders as he turned in saucers. A group watched this demonstration of the newest step with the solemnity of a religious contemplation. Somewhere in the obscurity of the deep baronial living room, Laracy was pounding out the rhythmic measure with youthful enthusiasm. The music ended with a crash, and at the charming appearance of Amy at the balustrade, there was a sudden hush of curiosity.

What the young d'Artagnan experienced at his first introduction into the brilliant court of the Hotel de Treville, Amy Forrester felt at this sudden silence which was like the rolling-up of a curtain. The new world to conquer, her world, lay below. She felt a quickening of all her instincts, transforming her into a different and public self. At the same moment, she realized that she was no longed alone but an integral part of the man who followed at her back. Andrew, too, was about to be judged, and by a judgment without the slightest mercy, that accepted only what it could not destroy. The thought of her husband threw her into a sudden timidity, and this involuntary modesty not only was becoming to her but conciliated the good will of her hostess.

In a group of men, who were gathered, glass in hand, at a serving table, Mrs. Dellabarre was standing with her hand drawn through her husband's arm, in that punctilious public advertisement of her marital felicity which she never neglected and which she used as a whip over the heads of her admirers, as a sort of warning of the limitations she imposed on their adoration. She had slipped into a dark skirt and purple sweater, drawn her hair tightly back, contriving to make herself both ugly and distinguished, despite the sudden looming prominence of her aquiline nose. Gladys Challoner, her dearest rival, had said of her:

"When Irma gets herself up like a fright before dinner, she is preparing to dazzle you after."

As she went to meet the Forresters, by the indefinable subtleites with which one woman rates another, Mrs. Dellabarre saw that Amy was of her world. She was attracted to her instantly, as one woman is attracted to another, with the pleasure of encountering an antagonist worthy to be destroyed.

"We have met before," she said smiling, with a little extra pressure of her hand, "but we are all anxious to meet the man who could carry off the favorite after her first season," she added, extending her hand to Mr. Forrester. "It's rare enough to make you quite a hero."

"How do you do, Mrs. Dellabarre," he said, in his strong, pleasant bass, stepping forward with eagerness in his eyes.

If she had been agreeably surprised with Amy, she was quite unprepared for the strong attractions which Andrew Forrester exercised over her from the moment of their first handclasp. Like all neurasthenic natures, she responded instantly to the buoyant health of a dominant vitality. So quick was this pleasant sense of well-being that the easy phrase of welcome passed completely out of her mind, and only the mechanical approach of her husband prevented her showing too plainly her perplexity.

Amy had a confused sense of catching names that meant nothing to her, of seeing so many human manikins grouped about her—Mrs. Lightbody's glance set in criticism, a glance that swept her from head to foot, seeking the weak point; an elderly beau offered a glib compliment, and she was conscious of murmuring something in answer. Mrs. Dellabarre, after a graceful introduction, returned to the men, abandoning Amy to the group whose conversation she had interrupted. One of the Miss Teakes, in brilliant sweater and striped skirt, took up in a loud voice, without further attention to the new arrival, a discussion of the polo match, seaming her comments with the slang of the stables. Three men, without addressing a word to her, finding Amy young and attractive, stared at her with open admiration. Fortunately, at this moment, from the piano a beaming waistcoat and glowing smile bore down on her.

"Welcome to our city!" exclaimed Laracy. "This is a surprise. Have I got to behave, Amy, and call you 'Mrs. Forrester'?"

"Get me away from her," she said, shaking hands and laughing.

"Freezing by the fireside, eh?" said Jap Laracy, with a glance at the group. "Pretty northwest, eh? Irma engages me to thaw them out, but it's tough—it's tough! My eyes and whiskers, Amy, I'm glad to see you! Have you seen Tody?"

"Not yet," she said, with a little confusion, for Tody Dawson had been her most devoted admirer and, in her youthful imagination, she reproached herself a little at the havoc she felt she had created.

"Oh, he's pining, pining away, cruel maiden!" said Laracy. "So are we all. How could you go and do it? Here's the wreck now."

Dawson, in perfect health, without a line on his face or a ripple on the perfect edge of his trousers, came on serene and unembarrassed.

"Well, Amy, no use in pretending. Every one knows you've blighted my young existence. My heart's shot to pieces, but I forgive you."

He rattled this off with light impertinence, jucking a lavender handkerchief up his sleeve—a new accomplishment. A year had transformed the young ub just out of college, who used to blush and stammer in the face of his youthful adoration. Amy looked up at him, marvelling at the change.

"I think you'll recover," she said, smiling.

In a moment, they were laughing over old escapades, unconscious as three children.

"What are you three having such a good time about?" said Mrs. Lightbody, approaching jealously. She laid a plump hand on Dawson's arm in an affectionate pressure. "Tody, darling, I must get that step before to-night. Jap, be a dear and play for us again."

"My dear Kitty," said Dawson coolly, "be calm—be calm—and haven't I told you never to show jealousy when I am paying attention to a pretty woman?"

Amy listened in astonishment while Mrs. Lightbody, vastly amused at this style of wit, laughed outright.

"You funny boy, Mrs.—" she hesitated, seeking the name.

"Mrs. Kezazzas," said Laracy solemnly.

Mrs. Lightbody bit her lip but, determined, she appealed to Amy.

"You don't mind, do you?"

"Say yes, do," said Dawson. "We are trying to bring Kitty up properly. She has the most shocking manners."

"Am I rude?" said Mrs. Lightbody, rolling her eyes.

"Oh, no—I am the intruder here," said Mrs. Forrester quietly.

Gifts for Women Who Use Jiffy-Jell

Jiffy-Jell users should write to the makers for a list of salad moulds. Moulds, spoons and measuring cups are supplied to users free.

Jiffy-Jell is the one dessert which has the fruit flavors in vials. A bottle of concentrated fruit-juice essence comes in the package. So a Jiffy-Jell dessert is a real fruit delicacy. The flavor is not artificial. The sweetening is sugar, not saccharine. Women who once try it will always get it. Your grocer has ten flavors. Try pineapple and lemon.

CANCER SUFFERER GREATLY IMPROVED

ABLE TO RETURN HOME AFTER NEW SERUM TREATMENT IN TORONTO.

TORONTO, July 7.—So marked had been her improvement since receiving Dr. Thomas J. Glover's new serum for the treatment of cancer, one woman was able to leave St. Michael's Hospital where she was a patient and return to her home on Saturday. This patient had suffered from the disease for a year and a half, and her cancer, being of an internal and very malignant type, had made it impossible for her to walk when she entered the hospital. Yesterday morning she walked into the hospital to receive her fifth inoculation of the serum, without the assistance of even a cane and apparently with no extra effort. She stated that Dr. Glover had made no claims to having effected a cure beyond assuring her that she need fear no additional growths.

The principal difficulty experienced by Dr. Glover and the St. Michael's Hospital authorities is due to the great flood of patients who are applying and for whom there is neither accommodation nor sufficient serum. Every bed in the hospital is filled, while the supply of serum has been so seriously depleted that there is scarcely enough for the cases which have been accepted already. Dr. Glover and the hospital authorities are doing everything in their power to take care of the patients who are presenting themselves, but at the present time it is a physical impossibility to handle any more.

Yesterday it was necessary to turn away many cases. One of these was a man who had come all the way from St. John's, Newfoundland, without making any reservations in advance. Another man was brought from Hamilton in an ambulance, while another sufferer had come all the way from Chicago. With not a bed vacant, the hospital staff were compelled to refuse these cases.

Scores of out-patients presented themselves at the out-patient department clinic yesterday, but the lack of serum made it impossible to give treatment to more than about five.

Letter to the Press.

The following letter has been addressed to the press by P. J. Bench, secretary of the Board of Governors, St. Michael's Hospital:

"Sir:—The premature notices in the press concerning the treatment of cancer, at present being investigated in St. Michael's Hospital, has caused both Dr. Glover and the hospital authorities considerable embarrassment.

"It is therefore requested that, until such time as an authentic statement can be issued, the press refrain from the publication of unduly optimistic forecasts.

"Dr. Glover and the hospital are overwhelmed by the number of patients seeking treatment, and no new cases can at present be accepted."

An epicure says six things are necessary in order to make a home happy. The first is a good cook, and the other five are money.

CHIEF THOMPSON FAVOURS PENSION FUND FOR POLICE

MOVED RESOLUTION TO THAT EFFECT AT CONVENTION.

At the convention of Canadian Police Chiefs at Moncton, N.B., Chief of Police Thompson, of Peterborough, was elected first vice-president of the Police Chiefs' Association.

Chief Thompson took an active part in the convention, and moved a resolution to the effect that municipalities be influenced to establish police pension funds with the object of making police work a profession rather than a job. As a result, a committee was appointed to wait upon the various Provincial Governments, though the general tencensus of opinion is that if municipalities first show a tendency toward adopting the system, Provincial Governments will follow suit.

Chief Thompson also brought up the question of standardising automobile tail lights, and advocated a form of light in which a glass with the licence number on it would be placed in front of the light, thus making identification of a car easy on a dark road.

Convention Helpful.

The Chief stated, when interviewed yesterday, that the convention had been a most helpful one. The people of Moncton were very hospitable, and trips were made to seaside resorts, the Provincial Penitentiary at Dorchester, and othre points of interest. Several helpful papers were read, notable among these being that of Chief Detective Le Page, of Montreal, on "Environment."

Copies of the amendments to the Narcotic Drugs Act were distributed. The importation of drugs into Canada has been decreased by 50 tons since the Government took action in the matter of narcotic drugs.

Next year the convention will be held in Montreal.

Officers Elected.

The officers elected were:

President—Chief Whatley, Hamilton.

1st Vice-president—Chief Thompson, Peterborough.

2nd Vice-president—Chief Bolenge, Montreal.

Secretary-treasurer—Chief Slemin, Brantford.

PORTSMOUTH YOUTH SHOOTS HIMSELF

GUN WENT OFF ACCIDENTALLY IN ATTEMPT TO REMOVE CARTRIDGE.

KINGSTON, July 5.— Ralph Forsythe, aged 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Forsythe, Main street, Portsmouth, accidentally shot himself in the stomach with a 22 calibre rifle at 10 o'clock this morning while out after groundhogs at Carruther's Farm, and now lies in a serious condition in the General Hospital as a result of the accident. Surgeons performed a serious operation on him this morning in an effort to remove the bullet.

In an effort to remove a cartridge, which was stuck in the breech of his gun and would not pull out or go off, Ralph set the muzzle of the gun against the pit of his stomach to hold it in position while he worked with both hands to pull the cartridge out. In some manner his hand slipped, the hammer fell upon the head of the cartridge and the gun went off, the bullet entering his stomach.

The lad's many friends are anxiously waiting for news concerning his condition.

A LIQUOR CLEAN-UP.

Canadian Express Office at Port Hope Was Robbed.

PORT HOPE, July 6.—The raiders were busy again here, and made a clean-up of all the liquid refreshments at the Canadian Express office. The large window in the rear door of the building was pryed off, but then the robbers were confronted with another heavy door with three bolts leading to the main office. In this door were two small panes of glass and one of these was removed. It was then an easy matter to remove the bolts and take possession of the office.

One barrel of whisky, of 25 gallons, valued at $160.00, two cases containing twenty-four quart bottles and several vendor bottles were stolen.

None of the other express parcels were molested. That the thieves were experts at the business is shown by the fact that in the removal of both windows not a pane of glass was even cracked.

The express company will use every means to locate the guilty ones.

SHE ONLY WEIGHED EIGHTY-FOUR POUNDS

TORONTO WOMAN WAS SO RUN DOWN SHE COULD NOT LOOK AFTER HER CHILDREN

"I was almost helpless at the time I began taking Tanlac and couldn't even take care of my two little children, but now I am in as good health as I ever was in my life and I have gained fifteen pounds in weight besides," said Mrs. J. Spring who resides at the Clyde Hotel, 158 King street, East., Toronto., Canada, while telling of her recovery recently.

"I just hate to think of the awful condition I was in only a few weeks ago for I had suffered so much I was almost ready to give up in despair. My appetite was so poor that everything I ate was forced down and I was slowly starving to death. My digestive organs were out of order and it seemed that every bite I ate fermented and caused me to bloat up with gas until it was difficult for me to get my breath. My stomach hurt me so bad that sometimes I could hardly straighten up. Nervous spells often came on me and they would so completely upset me I felt like I would break down. I was constipated all the time and every few days I had awful headaches and dizzy spells. At night it was hard for me to get asleep and I got so little rest that when morning came I felt completely worn out. I kept losing in weight until got down to eighty-four pounds and I was almost helpless.

"This was my condition when my mother, who lives in Barry, Ontario brought me some Tanlac. Before I finished the first bottle I was astonished to see how fast I had improved. My appetite returned and the indigestion began to lose its grip and I commenced to regain my lost weight and strength. I continued to take Tanlac until now it seems almost too good to be true, but I am fifteen pounds heavier and my health is better than it has been for seven years. I can eat just anything I want without suffering afterwards and my breathing is as free as ever. I am entirely relieved of constipation and the headaches and dizzy spells are a thing of the past My nerves are just as steady as man be and I sleep soundly every night It is indeed, a pleasure for me to give this statement for I can never repay the debt of gratitude I owe Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Wa ne Drug Co., Ltd.; in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield, by the Tanner Drug Co., Ltd., in Fowler's Corners, by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert by A. J. Scott; in Westwood, by G. Pringle and Son.

WAR TROPHIES ALLOTTED TO SUBURBAN COMMUNITIES

TORONTO, July 7.—Earlscourt, Fairbank, Todmorden, Woodbridge, and New Toronto have been allotted captured German seige guns while machine guns are to go to places like Richmond Hill, Markham, etc., according to word received by W. F. Maclean, M.P., for South York, from Dr. A. G. Doughty, Director of War Trophies. Dr. Doughty states that the trophies are to be forwarded as soon as possible.

Women of Canada Who Testify

Tillsonburg, Ont.:—"Ever since I can remember, Dr. Pierce's medicines were used in our family at home and they never failed to give good results. The 'Golden Medical Discovery' was used as a tonic and blood purifier and for bronchial trouble, and it proved excellent. I have personally taken 'Golden Medical Discovery' for bronchial trouble, and the 'Favorite Prescription' to build me up when I was run-down and they both were very beneficial. Mother always used Dr. Pierce's Compound Extract of Smart-Weed for pain; it also was very good. I feel safe in recommending all of Dr. Pierce's medicines knowing them to be good."—MRS. CLIFFORD MITCHELL.

Central Butte, Sask.:—"I have used Dr. Pierce's Medical Discovery for a number of years and am pleased to recommend it as a blood purifier. I know it has no equal, as I used it for my boy for tuberculosis of the knee joint. My neighbors and friends were surprised with the results; in fact, I do not think he would be alive today had it not been for the 'Medical Discovery.' I also keep it on hand for coughs as it differs so from other cough medicines, instead of upsetting the stomach as most cough syrups do it is good for the stomach. I only wish I had known about Dr. Pierce's medicines sooner."—MRS. PERCY WOOD.

When you take Golden Medical Discovery, you are getting the benefit of the experience of a doctor whose reputation goes all around the earth. Still more, you get a temperance medicine that contains not a drop of alcohol or narcotic of any kind. Long ago Dr. Pierce combined certain valuable vegetable ingredients—without the use of alcohol—so that his remedies always have been strictly temperance medicines.

Nervous-Trouble

Nervous troubles are, without a doubt the most discouraging form of sickness to the sufferer. You are tired and ill but cannot say what is wrong, no pain except frequent headaches, you are fretful, cross and irritable without a cause, no ambition or desire to continue your daily routine, your feel a picking or itching of the limbs, or body and feel that some terrible calamity is about to overcome you, cannot enter into your former pleasures and prefer solitude to the company of your friends. In such cases the whole nervous system is deranged and requires the most careful attention. STANDARD MEDICAL SURGICAL CLINIC IS PROGRESSING

MARKET FOR MATERIALS IS STILL UNCERTAIN.

"I am well satisfied with the way the work is going and the doctors are too;" replied T. Ephgrave when questioned by The Examiner today on the progress of the work on the Standard Medical and Surgical Clinic. The erection of the building has gone steadily forward with few interruptions of any account. The pressed brick was ordered from Milton as soon as the contract was signed and the lumber ordered also. Only by the early ordering has a tie-up been averted. Mr. Ephgrave said the market was very uncertain and it is very hard to secure materials. The delay in the delivery of the steel sashes from Wakerville has retarded the brick laying. These were to be delivered early in May—part of the order was, but the rest has not arrived yet, although it is expected soon.

No labour troubles have affected the work, he stated. At present 16 men are employed, but in the next week or so this number will be increased 50 per cent. "I haven't seen unskilled labour as plentiful in five years," he said, "and as for the skilled trades, carpenters and masons, they had experienced no trouble in getting men. Bricklayers on the job are getting $1 an hour."

The plumbing and heating is under contract by A. W. Archibald, and the basement plumbing has been completed. Miller, Powell and Watson are doing the wiring and electrical work.

The basement has been finished roughly and the brick work above the first story. The rough first floor has been laid, the window sashes set in the basement and the Indiana granite portico put in. The portico and the window cases of Indiana granite were cut by A. King, London street. The rough work on the entrance is finished but the marble steps have not yet been put in. The Vermont Marble Co. have this contract.

They expect to complete the contract by November, Mr. Ephgrave said.

Last week Ephgrave and Barrett completed the alterations to the Bell Apartments. The changing of the gable roof to a flat roof necessitated many changes in the apartments, but this has been done without detracting from their roominess or comfort.

The large additions to the Farmers' Dairy Co. at Indian River are being finished now. They were held up on account of the delay in shipping the machinery, Mr. Ephgrave said, or the job would have been finished long ago.

His firm have had the contract for the alterating of Dr. M. McCulloch's residence, Charlotte street, into an apartment house. Three large roomy, well finished apartments have been made, two downstairs and one up and already these apartments have been rented. The work on these is drawing to a close.

Besides their larger contracts they have so many smaller jobs for garages, back kitchens and repairs that they comfortably complete. He has recently completed a large solid brick $1,500 garage for R. W. Cormack, Park street.

THE WORLD'S LARGEST AND CANADA'S ONLY ONE PRICE TAILORS

TO OPEN IN PETERBORO SATURDAY NEXT.

Commencing next Saturday the men of Peterboro and vicinity will be able to enjoy the same clothing advantages as the men of the large cities in Canada now enjoy Tip Top Tailors the World's largest and Canada's only one price Tailors are opening here at 325 George street.

Tip Top Tailors make mens' clothes to measure at $27, and have one price only. In ten years they have grown from a single store in Toronto to a chain of stores from coast to coast backed by an enormous wholesale Woolen Warehouse and Tailoring plant, producing five thousand suits weekly. The secret of Tip Top Tailors ability to give a clothing value that cannot be equalled in Canada lies in specialization and tremendous output. Tip Top Tailors make nothing but clothes to measure at $27, no higher no lower, and through their immense chain of stores they sell and make thousands of suits while most tailors are selling and making one suit. All woolens are bought in huge quantities direct from the mills and all middlemen's and intervening profits are eliminated entirely. The saving goes into the pockets of Tip Top Customers.

In opening their branch in Peterboro on Saturday the management invites every man in the city and vicinity to pay them a visit Everyone will be welcome whether they wish to buy or merely look. A full page advertisement will appear in this newspaper on Friday giving more particulars.

KITCHENER OPPOSED TO RADIAL PURCHASE

WILL NOT SEND DELEGATE TO MEETING OF ONTARIO MUNICIPALITIES.

KITCHENER, Ont., July 7.—At Monday night's meeting of the City Council a motion to send a delegate to the meeting of the Ontario municipalities in the Niagara power zone, to be held in Toronto on Thursday for the purpose of urging the Ontadio Government to authorize [illegible] Commission to take over various radial systems was almost unanimously defeated. A resolution was subsequently submitte d and carried by unanimous vote, instructing the city clerk to notify the Ontario Government that they should not allow the Hydro Commission to buy the radials mentioned in the telegram sent out by President J. W. Lyon, of the Ontario Hydro Muncipalities Association, until the Hydro Commission can furnish enough power for the city's industries and private use. Mayor Eden informed the Council that unless the various industries in Kitchener make arrangements to reduce the power load during the next few months thousands of working men would be out of employment during next winter.

CONDITIONS AT SPEEDWELL HOSPITAL SATISFACTORY TO DEPARTMENT.

(Canadian Press)

OTTAWA, July 7.—There will be no investigation into charges made by Nursing Sister Mary E. Pollock to the effect that conditions at the Speedwell Military Hospital at Guelph were deplorable.

Assistant Deputy Minister E. W. Scammell, of the Department of Soldiers Civil Re-Establishment, last evening stated that the department was fully acquainted with conditions at Speedwell Hospital, and that there was no justification for charges made by the nursing sister. Her statements are misleading and absurd, he declared.

Mr. Scammell explained that the building was formerly used as a reformatory, and that private wards still retained the name of cells.

ST. LUKE'S WENT TO SOUTH BEACH

The Sunday School of St. Luke's Church journeyed to South Beach yesterday. The weather was fine and a very enjoyable day was spent by the excursionists. The party included about thirty returned soldiers who were guests of the school. The programme included an attractive list of sports and an hour's dancing in the pavillion at South Beach. The success of the trip was largely due to Mr. Harold Adams, who was in charge of the arrangements.

LAWN SOCIAL WAS SUCCESS.

Good Programme Provided by G.W.V.A. Band.

The strawberry social held on the lawn of the G.W.V.A. on Murray street last evening by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the G.W.V.A., was a most successful affair. The attendance was large as were also the receipts.

Strawberries, ice cream and cake were served at tables on the large lawn, there was dancing in the hall, the G.W.V.A. band was in attendance, and Miss Minnie Allen sang.

The musical programme given by the G.W.V.A. band was much enjoyed and added materially to the success of the affair. The drawing for the quilt made by the ladies and for which tickets have been sold, took place, Mr. Edwards, ticket No. 94, 502 Park street having the lucky number.

Be Careful What You Wash Your Hair With

Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else, that contains too much alkali, for this is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle

The best thing to use is just plain mulsified cocoanut oil, for it is pure and entirely greaseless It's very cheap, and beats anything else all to pieces You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the while family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and candruff.

A VISITOR FROM NEW ZEALAND WAS IN PETERBORO YESTERDAY

AN INTERESTING VIEW OF CONDITIONS IN NEW ZEALAND—FORMING TRADE RELATIONS.

Peterboro had a business visitor from New Zealand yesterday in the person of F. C. Wooller, of Christ Church, South Island, representing the Reynolds Windig Company, Limited, of that country, warehousemen and manufacturers' agents. Mr. Woolter was in the city calling on the Canadian Woollens Co., with a view of securing the agency for their goods. A most interesting talker and well versed in political, industrial and business conditions pertaining to the Southern Pacific Colony, he gave some information on our southern cousins that was of interest to Canadians. Mr. Wooller has been five weeks on the road covering the United States and Canada, forming business conections with prominent Canadian firms to handle their goods in New Zealand. He has spent only a few days in Canada but he states that the few days here have been far more pleasant for him than the weeks spent across the border.

A Similarity.

Canadians, he said, were much the same as New Zealanders and the courteousness and cordiality shown him here made him feel right at home. The tongue carries much the same accent and the climates being similar have had a tendency to make the people alike in their pursuits and desires.

Speaking of business in New Zealand he said that it had never been better and his country was now enjoying a prosperity that was never known before the war. The farmers were prosperous. Money was plentiful and all lines of trade were benefitting from this desirable condition. Labor is scarce; wages are high, and although prices are high compared with the pre-war standard they have not advanced to such a degree as in other countries. "If a man in New Zealand is not satisfied now he neveh will be," declared Mr. Wooller. The unrest in the Islands is nothing like that prevailing in other countries, he asserted. The reason for this he credits to the excellent class of workmen.

Price Comparisons.

Early in May when he left New Zealand, butter was selling around 60c, eggs at 80c were at the peak. Wheat was about $1.50 a bushel. Winter was just coming on which accounted for the high prices, Mr. Wooller said, but taken all in all prices in everything except manufactured goods that were imported, were lower than in Canada. A fine quality of Indigo blue serge suit tailor made would cost about $60. Boots and shoes and leather goods are about half and a pair of shoes that he was wearing costing $7 at home, were retailing in New York at $16.

The government operates the railways and one or two of the coal mines but the larger part of the mining is under private control. Coal has gone away up. A quality that formerly sold at $10 now hovers around $20 a ton. The scarcity of coal, he says, at times has been acute, and the railways have cut their traffic to the bone.

The hotel rates and meal prices on this continent are higher in comparison. Down there board and lodging at a hotel that compares favorably with our hostelries, may be had for 5 a day and a meal that here runs to $1 or $1.50 just costs the English equivalent to half a dollar.

Automobiles are greatly in demand there. The dealers are booked for months ahead with orders and it is partly with the object of securing agencies for American cars in New Zealand that Mr. Wooller is on this side of the Pacific. Just as in Canada people with newly acquired wealth have turned to automobiling to get rid of some of it, while the number of cars of professional men and farmers have increased. Motor trucks are coming into general use and with all this the supply of cars has been exceeded by the demand. No motor vehicles are manufactured there, England and the United States having the monopoly of the trade.

Soil Fertile.

There are very few foreigners in the islands, except Japanese and Chinese and the intlux of neither is encouraged by the government. The soil is fertile and adapted to fruit farming in man ylocalities so that this impirtant branch of farming is receiving more attention. Apples, plums, peaches and apricots are the staple crop but some oranges and sub-tropical fruits can be grown in the warmer sections. Sheep farming is a leading industry.

New Zealand is not without its housing problems too, he informed the writer and values are high. The houses are mostly of frame lined with plaster. Around each domicile, according to the custom of England, each owner considers it his duty to erect a high picket fence, and if this is not sufficient protection from a neighbor's prying eyes a trellis on top is added. It certainly seemed good, Mr. Woolter stated, to see the smooth green stretches of grass between each house here, serving as the only division. It is a nonsenical custom in New Zealand, he admitted, but it is still adhered to in spite of the fact that it shades and spoils any grass that may thrive.

Golfing is very popular, and they have some of the very finest links in the world he claims.

His study of the Americans has shown him their aggressive business qualities and their policy of never doing anything by halves. While prohibition has not become universal in New Zealand yet he believed that in the next few years it would. Intemperance to any great degree was not noticeable and was not undermining the national life, but that a nation like the United States should adopt it he took as a sufficient guarantee of its beneficial results.

Like Canada New Zealand is fast becoming a nation and having a voice in its national relations; it is taking its place in the world markets and by leaps and bounds its prosperity is increasing and its people becoming happier and prouder of their island home.

Mr. Wooller is working his way slowly westward. He will sail from Vancouver, touching at Honolulu, and when he recahes home he will have completed a 25,000 mile trip on land and water.

NORWOOD DEFEATED DOURO BY 13 TO 7

BIG U.F.O. PICNIC CROWD SAW THE GAME.

A big crowd of festive farmers witnessed Norwood's 13 to 7 victory over Martin Coughlin's Douro team at the annual picnic of the county U.F.O. in Norwood yesterday afternoon. The Hon Manning Doherty opened the game with Reeves Squire, Scott, Griffith and Eason of the County Council filling the bakground. The Minister of Agriculture wasn't strong on control and Reeve Coughlin waited him out, took a base out of the formality and improved it into a run.

Norwood got three in their first session, but the third innings was a field day in itself. The team batted around once and three more took their second swats before the side was retired, after counting eight runs. The U.F.O. committee with a programme of sports and speeches still untouched, began to get uneasy, fearing that the game might stretch out into a two-day affair like the best form of cricket.

"We had to put out five men that time," said Reeve Coughlin, referring to two decisions that were at least mighty close.

Douro got three in the fourth innings and two in the fifth but couldn't stretch either attack into a real big enough to overcome the fatal third. Norwood tacked on two more in their innings and Douro ended the game with three men, Walsh's being a grounder to second.

Walter Cranley pitched a fair game for Douro, and with better support would have turned in a closer score. Wild base running also cut off several scores. Martin Coughlin, for instance, led off the sixth with a long fly over the centre fielder's head. It was good for two bases, but he kept on going and was caught at third on a relay by the shortstop. Sullivan, the young second baseman, hit a three-bagger into left and was caught cold at the plate. Douro then sent a coach out to the third base line.

The Norwood team gave Heffernan better support and the team was fairly fast on the bases. They overlooked none of Douro's misplays. The batteries were:

Norwood—Heffernan and Andrews; Douro—Cranley and Coughlin.

The score by innings:

THE COMMERCIAL LEAGUE IS NOW BARNSTORMING AROUND COUNTRY

THE CHAMPIONS WILL MEET ALL COMERS IN THEIR CLASS—LOCAL BASEBALL COMMENT.

The curtain has ben rung down on the Commercial Baseball League with first honors going to Cressmans, the big store team having won four games and lost one. Lock Works was the only team to register a defeat against the new champions, the game between the two nines constituting a record for the league. It was the best-pjlayed contest of the schedule and only forty-five minutes was required to play it.

Westclox played only four games out of which they emerged with two wins, and this team won second place.

Lock Works won two and lost three and Barrie's got two wins out of six games played.

The Commercial League produced some high class baseball, and should show greater strength next season. Each of the four teams was strong in the battery department, the work of the pitchers and catchers showing up well in every game. Connors the youthful hurler for the Lock Works team has all the earmarks of a comer.

The champions, with Bartley on the firing line and Cobb behind the bat had the edge on the other teams. Besides showing strength against the batters, their hitting was usually reliable and timely.

But the teams were not so strong on infield playing. Individually, the majority of the players were easily good enough for City League battles but the teams were not there in the big pinch. This was particularly true of Barrie's and as a result Al. Doughty's good pitching was wasted in several games.

The League was a big success, and now that the schedule is through, the teams are "barnstorming", taking on teams throughout the district.

Cressmans played in Lakefield last evening and play at Campbellford on Thursday afternoon.

The Standing.

Following is the standing in the Commercial League:—

	Won	Lost	P.C.
Cressmans	4	1	.800
Westclox	2	2	.500
Lock Works	2	3	.400
Barries	2	4	.334

LAKEFIELD NINE WEAKENED IN LAST STAGES GAME WITH THE CHAMPIONS

CRESSMANS GRABBED THE BIG END OF AN 18 TO 4 SCORE—THE GRUESOME DETAILS.

Cressman's ball team, champions of the Commercial League, motored to Lakefield last evening, and defeated the Lakefield nine of the East Peterboro Ball League, scoring 18 runs to 4, getting nine runs in the sixth.

Lakefield did not take their half of this frame, the game being called on account of darkness, so that according to Hoyle, the game reverts back to the fifth innings, and the correct score is 9 to 4.

The Northerners, minus several of their regulars, put up a good game in the field in the early stages of the game, and put over two double plays. In the fourth Cressmans pounded Nelson's offerings hard. DeGraw, Cobb and Rutherford getting doubles Manning, who took a turn on the hurling heap in the fifth, held the visitors safe, but they fell on him in the sixth, everybody going to the plate, and four of them for the second helping.

Both crowds had plenty of rooters, but Cressmans' crowd, led by Chief Rooter Rattenbury, with his pet megaphone, made most of the noise.

First Innings.

DeGraw leading off for Cressmans, let loose with a one base clout; the pitcher threw out Cobb, and when Bartley flew out to J. Hull, DeGraw was doubled at second.

Lakefield retired in order, J. Hull going out on a fly to Rutherford, Erskine on a foul fly that McGraw nabbed, and Fitzgerald on strikes.

Second Inings.

Hunter, opened the second with a single, made second and then third on the catcher's wide heave, and came home when the ball was returned badly. Rutherford fanned, but Graham hit. Rayner lined one down third to Manning, who got Graham at second, and Hull threw to first, getting Rayner.

For Lakefield Adams struck out; Manning doubled but he was an easy out when he tore for third on Nelson's fly, which Bartley grabbed, and then threw to Sage.

Third Innings.

Cressmans got three in the third. Long got on when J. Hull mussed up his grounder, and Sage hit safely. DeGraw was thrown out at first. Cobb hit for two bags, scoring Long and Sage. Bartley was out on a clout to the pitcher, but Fitzgerald in trying to get Cobb going into third, threw wild and the latter also scored. Hunter was thrown out by B. Hull.

DeGraw fanned Northey and Langley and then passed B. Hull. J. Hull singled, and an error by Sage put the former on third. Cressmans' middle sacker made amends by spearing Erskine's fly.

Fourth Innings.

Rutherford started trouble for Nelson in the fourth by leaning on the ball for two bases. Graham died on a bounder to the pitcher. Fitzgerald again threw badly to third and Rutherford crossed the plate. Singles by Rayner and Long and doubles by DeGraw, Cobb and Bartley, and a wild pitch were converted into four more runs. Bartley ended it by going out at third.

Lakefield got two in their half. Fitzgerald was passed and Adams singled. Manning hit both runners home. Manning went out at second, after a hair-raising dive into the bag. Nelson flew out to Bartley. Northey singled and Langley walked but no more runs developed, as B. Hull struck out.

Fifth Innings.

Manning relieved Nelson in the fifth and promptly fanned Hunter. Rutherford flew out and Fitzgerald took Graham's grounder and beat him to the bag.

Lakefield got two more, J. Hull starting with a single and Erskine dropping a double in the hay in right field. Cobb's error allowed Hull to score and after Fitzgerald had fanned Adams drew a single that sent Erskine home. Manning struck out and Cobb doubled Manning at second.

Sixth Innings.

The sixth brought a swatfest to Cressman's and nine runs. The homesters mixed four errors with four hits, a hit by the pitcher, a balk and a base on ball, and after it was all over the game was called.

CANADIAN GENERAL VS. THE WOOLENS

The Canadian General and Canadian Woollen teams will meet in the City League series to-morrow night at 6.15 o'clock. The Woollens team has been a jinx to the Electricians this season but they are out to reverse things to-morrow night. The Woollens will have something to say about that, however, and the game should be a fight all the way.

THISTLES ARE LEADING IN SECOND SECTION OF CITY LEAGUE RACE

WITH KIRN PITCHING THE YEOTES CREW BEAT THE G.W.V.A. TEAM BY 8 RUNS TO 2, GETTING FIVE COUNTERS IN FIFTH INNINGS.

Until the fifth innings, last night's City League fixture, in which the Thistles beat the G.W.V.A. team 8 to 2 and thereby took the lead in the second section of the race, was a close battle as far as scoring went, for at the end of the fourth the teams were tied with two runs each. The Thistles broke loose in the fifth, however, and five hits, assisted by a couple of errors and a base on balls, gave them five runs and an easy win.

Outside of the fourth innings, when they bunched three hits for their pair of counters, the Vets could do little with Kirn, who was on the rubber for the Yeotes' gang. A single in the second and another in the fifth represented their total hitting outside of the run-producing cluster already mentioned. On the other hand the Thistles found Wade's slants for twelve hits, while the Veteran pitcher gave four bases on balls and was poorly supported as well.

Neither team scored in the first, but the Thistles pushed a run over in the second innings. Swanston opened with a double to right centre which Campbell nearly got after a nice try. Harrison sacrificed him to third on a bunt in front of the plate, and when Kirn hit to Carroll, Swanston beat the throw home. Holyman singled to left, but Wilgar flied to Campbell and Turner fanned.

The Thistles filled the bases with one out in the third, but did not score, Harrison fouling out to Morse and Sheehy, who tried to score on the play, being run down between third and home.

The winners got a counter in the fourth, however. Kirn walked to start with, and when Holyman bunted, Wade threw to second too late to get the pitcher. Wilgar flied to centre, but Turner singled through the box filling the bases. Sheehy's fly to left, which Foley dropped, scored Kirn, but Holyman was caught at third on the play and Coursey fouled to Morse.

The Veterans tied it up in their half. Murphy was safe on Kirn's fumble. Head flied to Sheehy. Carroll singled over Kirn's head and Murphy was out at third on Coursey's throw to Murray. Carroll took second on the peg to the difficult corner. Pearson singled down the first base line, scoring Carroll and taking second on the throw in. Wade singled to centre, scoring Pearson. Campbell flied to Wilgar.

The Thistles broke up the game in the fifth. Murray opened with a single to right and stole second, going to third while Murphy was throwing out Swanston. Harrison singled to left centre, scoring Murray. Kirn doubled over Campbell's head in centre, Harrison who had stole second a moment before, coming home. Holyman hit a fly to Foley, who dropped it. Kirn should have been out at third on Foley's throw, but Pearson dropped the ball. Wilgar walked, filling the bases. Turner hit to Carroll, who tried for Wilgar on the line, Kirn socring, but Carroll threw home in time to nip Holyman at the plate. Wilgar was called safe at second. Sheehy singled to short. Coursey's safety scored Wilgar and Turner, but Sheehy was caught between second and third for the final out.

The Yeotes crew got a totally unnecessary run in the sixth. With one out, Swanston singled to left and Harrison to right. Kirn hit one to Pearson, who threw high to first, Swanston scoring and Harrison going to third and Kirn to second. Scates, replacing Wilgar, walked, filling the bases, but Harrison was caught off third.

The Vets went out in order in their half and the game was then called on account of darkness.

FOOTBALL LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP GAME TO-MORROW EVENING

MR. ALEX. M'KINLEY IS OFFICIAL REFEREE—MR. COOK AND MR. DICK RESPECTIVE LINESMEN—GOAL NETS WILL BE USED—THE SELECTED TEAMS.

A record crowd is expected to-morrow evening at the Exhibition grounds to witness the final game for the League championship of the Peterborough Football League between the Canadain General and the Great War Veterans.

The official referee will be Mr. Alex. McKinley, who was the unanimous choice of the executive. He will also have two fair-play linesmen on the touch in the persons of Mr. Alex. Dick and Mr. Cook, to aid him in any doubtful decisions.

Many football enthusiasts will be glad to learn that goal nets will be used for this game. They will be a great benefit to the players and officials in many ways, but more particularly the goalkeeper, who will be given his liberty in goal instead of having a crowd up against him.

It is the desire of the football executive that the public will stand back from the touch line—two feet, so as to give the linesmen a chance to award proper decisions.

Throughout the season the Vets have stuck to the same team as will do duty on Thursday evening, and have won seven games, drawn none, scored eighteen goals, and thirteen goals against and tied up with the C.G.E. with 14 points.

Unfortunately for the C.G.E. team the strike did not help them in the least, because many of their players moved to new quarters that necessitated new players to be requisitioned to fill up the ranks; also injuries were aplenty. The C.G.E. lost two valuable points when the Machine Gunners won their protest. They have won seven games with the total of 14 points, scored twenty-seven goals and eleven goals against.

The two captains (Gamble, Vets, and Mason, C.G.E.) will be called together at 6.25 for choice of ends, and immediately at 6.30 the referee will start the game.

The Vets will play the same team as played in the last four games:—C. Griffine goal, H. Gamble (capt.) and A. Bishop backs, A. Burrow, P. D. Ryan and J. Peel half-backs, S. Curtiss, T. Monks, H. Norman, A. Edwards and J. Sharman forwards. Reserves, N. Jones and J. Williams.

At a special meeting of the C.G.E. executive last evening the following team was selected: J. Naples goal, B. Mason (capt.) and J. McDonald backs, A. Parkins, H. Turner and J. Mann half-backs, A. Manders, C. Hotston, A. Gash, T. Bartley, T. Hoston forwards, Reserves, H. Flanders and R. Leach.

The winings team gets goal medals, also the losing team medals.

A good number of tickets have been sold and can be had from any football player for thirty cents (including war tax.) The ladies will be admitted free of charge.

A FEW WORDS FOR LOCAL LACROSSE

Sporting Editor,
Examiner.

Dear Sir,—A few words in regards to Lacrosse Canada's National Game, having watched several practices and also the game played here, I venture to say much praise is due to Manager Sutherland and his team in the way they are making progress towards the championship and if they keep up the good work they have begun, Peterboro boys will have no fear of not landing the trophy. But more encouragement is needed from the citizens as I understand the club has spared no expenses in fitting up the boys with sticks and uniforms which are very expensive. Now although I don't like to say but the attendance at both matches was very poor. Now at ball games the attendance is splendid and that is why it is so encouraging to the players. Now, why not take the same interest in lacrosse like every citizen turn out and. Watch Canada's National game Lacrosse is the best and most speedy of games. What is nicer to watch than the action of the player, the quickness of his tricky pass, his speed in running and the shot on the goal. Now let every gentleman young and old get their shoulder to the wheel and bring Canada's game into Peterboro. Much thanks to Dr. N. H. Sutton and John Sutherland and the players and wishing them the brightest success in landing the championship.

HORSE RACES CAMPBELLFORD

ONE OF THE BEST DAY'S RACING IN TEN YEARS.

On Friday last, the 25th of June, there was a large attendance on the Agricultural grounds at Campbellford, when fifteen horses were raced under splendid weather conditions. There were twenty hroses altogether on the grounds from the places: Frankford 2, Trenton 2, Colborne 3, Havelock 3, Marmora 2, and eight local horses, five of these being unable to be started owing to lack of time.

The judges were Dr. Johnson of Port Hope and Mr. James C. Anderson of Campbellford; while Mr. Charles Armstrong of Havelock, was the starter.

The success of the races was greatly due to the efforts of Mr. C. H. Coveney and Mr. F. S. Keller, who worked hard in the interests of the sporting public of the district. All who gave their support both by their presence and also by their donations are heartily thanked, and it is very gratifying to know that after paying all expenses, there is a nice balance in the bank of ninety dollars ($90.00) which will be a great start for another day's racing in the near future. This was certainly one of the best day's racing seen in Campbellford for years, and will do a great deal to foster a lively interest in good clean sport, and be greatly appreciated by all sections of the community.

Codfish Croquettes

The EASIFIRST way

A DAINTY, satisfying and economical dish—when properly cooked! Use the recipe given here—just a wee bit of skill—and EASIFIRST. Your Codfish Croquettes will be light and delicious indeed.

Why? Because in deep frying EASIFIRST may be brought to an intense heat without burning. This means that foods fried in it have a quickly-formed, protecting crust which prevents the fat from soaking in. The interior cooking is done by heat alone, as it should be.

The EASIFIRST left over may be used again. It will not carry any flavor.

Here is a Good Recipe —Try It!

1 cup boiled codfish
2 cups mashed potatoes
1 cup thick white sauce
½ teaspoon pepper
Salt to taste
1 tablespoon chopped parsley

Shred the codfish, add potatoes, pepper and parsley, then add the cream sauce. Shape, roll in crumbs and egg, then again in crumbs, and fry in a deep kettle of EASIFIRST.

For Cream Sauce, 1 level tablespoon EASIFIRST, 2 level tablespoons flour, 1 cup hot milk, ½ teaspoon salt.

Every package of EASIFIRST bears the Government's stamp of approval. Your grocer will supply you. Sold in cartons and tins.

REJUVENATED BY "VITAL" TABLETS

People are to-day trying every means to keep young. Some are being fed on monkey glands, and others are having glands of other people injected into their system. We claim the method of injecting glands into the system is unnecessary. The revival of youth can be brought about by taking the French rejuvenator, VITAL Tablets. A person of sixty can feel like a person of twenty. We do not claim VITAL Tablets will do all this instantly, but by taking them regularly for a time, and the time will depend upon the person, but one will gradually feel younger, and eventually you will come back to the land of youth and pep. Diseases of every description will gradually disappear, men and women will be healthy and strong, doctors' bills will be reduced to a minimum. If you are not feeling yourself, go to your drug store and procure a box of these celebrated French Tablets, and you will experience such a change for the good, that you will forever bless the inventor of this wonderful rejuvenating tonic. VITAL Tablets are sold at all good drug stores, at Fifty cents per box. Start taking them today. To-morrow you will feel better.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

THE HUNTER STREET BRIDGE

To the Editor:
Sir,—

May I ask the favor of a small space in your valuable journal on the subject of the Hunter Street Bridge?

It will be within the memory of the public that before the contract was let I voiced through your columns a protest against letting it in the blind manner proposed.

I was not alone in foreseeing the very trouble that now confronts the Citizens—the voted money gone and no bridge! and there is no knowing even now what the ultimate cost will be.

My objection to an all concrete structure was clearly explained by me, and the events have justified my prognostications. The expense of the piling now being driven would go a long way towards the cost of a steel cantilever span.

My objections were laid aside on the understanding that if necessary a steel span could be substituted for the proposed concrete arch at a later date if thought expedient.

I pointe dout the wasteful feature of this plan at the time, showing that the footings for a buttress to support the steel span would cost much less than those for a concrete arch—and it ought to have been decided before these were in—but wiser(?) counsels prevailed and it was left open to adopt the alternative later. I don't like this method of designing ambulando—it is always wasteful.

Is it not time now, Sir, to have this matter impartially investigated? I have not the figures I then had, but I estimated the cost very carefully and told the public that an all concrete bridge would likely run into $400,000.00. I still think so. And I am still of opinion that a steel span would be equally sufficient, equally ornamental and thousands of dollars cheaper.

People are frightened at the bugbear of expense of occasional painting and forget that they have the problem of the effect of expansion and contraction to face and the (to some extent) experimental lead expansion joint, and in place of the painting bugbear they have the unknown quantity of a repair bill if your experimental expansion joint fails of its purpose.

The citizens have already a case of the extent of the reliability of their present advisers, in the position into which the city is now landed; and I say the time has come to call a halt, and openly and fairly have this question discussed and settled before any more blind work is entered on.

Mr. W. J. Kearns had the courage and public spirit to institute an action for an injunction last year, and if the citizens had had the wisdom to have backed him up when security was called for, all this trouble might have been avoided.

Yours, etc.,
JAS. G. GUISE-BAGLEY,
M.I., M.E.

Making Milk Absolutely Safe

To-day, on most farms, real care is being taken in producing and marketing milk. But it is absolutely impossible to make raw milk SAFE without Pasteurizing and Clarifying—as done in our Creamery.

That is the only one method by which the dangers of the various communicable diseases of cows can be eliminated from raw milk.

A milk pasteurized at thirteen cents a quart has the highest possible public value, because of its Safety, Decency and Price.

TO ANNOUNCE NEW PREMIER AT 4 O'CLOCK

SIR THOMAS WHITE SEEMS CHOICE OF BORDEN'S CABINET.

OTTAWA, July 7.—At four o'clock this afternoon Sir Robert Borden will have anannouncement for the public. That announcement will no doubt be as to his choice of a successor. This morning the Premier had a consultation with the "inner Cabinet," Hon. Messrs. Ballantyne, Reid and Calder. These are the men with whom he has conferred almost exclusively since he was called upon to perform the task of choosing a new leader. They are not Meighen men and their conference with the Premier to-day may be significant.

Will Not Take Refusal.

In spite of the declaration of Sir Thomas White last night that he would not accept the position, some members, and even ministers, do not take the refusal as definite, and predict that he will succumb to pressure and crane his mind. The great majority of the Cabinet is for him, and the significance of this morning's conference in the Premier's office cannot be overlooked.

HON. MARTIN DOHERTY AT PETERBORO U.F.O. PICNIC MET FAIR DAY

mense problems that face the people of this country. We should tolerate the other fellow whatever his views may be, providing he is a law-abiding citizen. With that spirit of unity, I feel confident that our problmse will be successfully solved, and that Canada will weather any storms that may be ahead."

Mr. Doherty alluded to the interest shown by the women in public affairs discussed at the summer meetings of the United Farmers, and stated that if the U.F.O. never accomplished any other thing, their existence was justified alone by the bringing together of so many of the rural people of this Province to these picnics.

"Community life was keener forty or fifty years ago than it has been in the last ten years," he continued. Public questions were more carefully considered by the public, and yet at no time in our history has there been a greater need for discussing and understanding the questions that are agitating the public mind. You are aware that this country stands under a debt of two billions of dollars. We have come through a period of five years of war. We are not criticising how the money was spent or whether it was wasted. It was all for the one great purpose—the war was won, and that was the purpose for which the money was spent. Our Canadian people will not repudiate the debt, but it is well to remember that we have to pay $400,000,000 for interest and running expenses annually. For eight million people that means $50.00 on every man, woman, and child. When we meet the obligation we are not paying off any of the debt at all. However, the Canadian people will face it. He who says we will fall under the load fails to consider the stamina of the Canadian people and our great resources. But the greatest part of the debt must come out of the top six inches of the soil. Our industries will pay a part, but it will be a small part. Ontario's agricultural production yields $500,000,000 a year, and think of the thousands of acres yet untilled.

Rural Depopulation.

"Unfortunately the rural population has declined. That makes the load all the heavier. In 1870, 70 per cent. of our population were on the farms and 30 per cent. in the towns. The positions are now practically reversed, and 70 per cent. of the people live in the cities. Our 30 per cent. has to feed the other 70 per cent., and at the same time pay off most of the war debt."

Emigration Policy.

Hon. Mr. Doherty spoke of the emigration scheme he had planned and would introduce as a Bill at the next session. Mr. George Creelman, of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, had been sent to London to prepare during next winter and spring for emigration from the British Isles, Belgium, Norway and Sweden. These people would be carefully chosen. In this way it was hoped to bring in good farm labourers and farmers. "We realise that if we are to carry the load, the first thing to do is to bring in more farmers, to increase agricultural production. We shall insist upon sifting them down so that only the best shall come and only those who can make good. While this seems desirable and perhaps necessary, none can be brought here who will be as great an asset to this country than our own boys. If we can hold our boys on the farms, it will be a big thing for our rural population."

Rural Credits.

One proposed measure of help for farm boys was a system of farm credits which, Mr. Doherty said, he had give notice to investigate. It has too often been the experience that a farmer with a number of boys was unable to help them all when they were arriving at young manhood. Usually only one remained on the farm, while the others drifted into the cities, entering professions or taking up trades.

"I have no quarrel with the present banking system," said Mr. Doherty, "but I believe it is not adapted to conditions in Ontario, especially in Northern Ontario. All these boys brought up o the farms would be the best farmers we could get. If we had a system of rural credits we could help them get a start. We will lend them money to buy stock and implements, and tell them to go farming. It is necessary for the banks usually to make loans and give credit only where there are tangible assets. Otherwise they would soon go bankrupt. But they do not take into consideration the greatest asset a man has, his character. We have rural credit systems in Quebec, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, and Alberta, and they are working admirably.

Friendly to Hydro.

Mr. Doherty related some of the difficulties under which the Government was organised and established. If Premier Drury was spared, he said, he would be one of the greatest men Ontario ever produced.

"That was the wisest choice you ever made," said an old man in the audience, when Mr. Doherty told how the Premier was called in to lead the Government.

"He may not have made a wise choice in picking his Minister of Agriculture," Mr. Doherty remarked, laughing, "but a man can't be right every time."

Mr. Doherty denounced as unmitigated lies the reports to the effect that the Government was not friendly to the Hydro-Electric and to public ownership.

"So friendly are we to Hydro that it has been on our platform ever since our inception. We are unanimous about it, and so fully behind it and so anxious for its success that we will not allow it to run wild, or permit enthusiastic followers of Hydro to shove it along lines that would ultimately cause its ruin."

He recalled the failures and ineptitudes of former Governments in dealing with the Toronto-Niagara Power Company, and how the Drury Government had summarily threatened the company with the cancellation of its charter if it persisted in taking more power than the 125,000 h.p. to which it was entitled.

Then there was lobbying, Mr. Doherty said, when a rumour of this measure got around. Representatives of the interests came back to the House, but they were lost. They didn't know whom to talk to; the measure passed without opposition.

Before building Hydro radials which had been so loudly advocated, the Government intend to investigate the cost of them and to lay any scheme before the people for their approval, Mr. Doherty continued. In the meantime there was need of electric power in the rural districts. Because of the consumption of power in the manufacture of munitions during the war, the claims of the rural section in this regard had been set to one side. It was now the farmers' turn to receive some attention.

New Cream Weights Bill.

Mr. Doherty outlined a new piece of legislation devised to protect the farmers against unjust weights in the sale of cream to factories. It provided authority for a complete examination of the books of these records. Honest men would not be interfered with and need not worry, but the Minister declared that he proposed to prosecute any and every offender. This practice of short weighting on cream shipments had cost the farmers thousands of dollars, he said.

Faith in Ferguson.

Mr. Doherty touched upon the exposure of the timber steals, and said he couldn't believe that the late Minister of Lands and Forests, Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, was in any way implicated. The people of this country had heard for years of the great wealth of Ontario's natural resources, but heretofore the timber sales have produced but little more than enough to pay for the fire ranging and expenses of the Department. If the natural resources could be secured for the people, Mr. Doherty believed they would provide enough to pay the running expenses of this Province.

MARK ST. CHURCH PASTOR HONOURED

CIRCUIT BOARD GRANTS SIX WEEKS VACATION AND INCREASES SALARY.

The Board also recognized his efficient Church and, about last Monday evening, and honored their pastor, Rev. G. H. Rose by greeting him six weeks leave of absence to visit Winnipeg and other western localities. The Board also recognized his efficient and acceptable work in the pastorate by increasing his stipend to $1,500. The meeting was most satisfactory and pleasant in every way.

During the pastor's absence Rev. P. H. Neville of this city, a fully ordained and exceedingly successful minister, will be in charge of Mark Street Circuit.

Rev. and Mrs. Rose left for Winnipeg this afternoon at 3.30.

Voice Of The People

TRUTH SPICED WITH HUMOR.

A striking answer to the question, What is a dried soul? Num. 11:56.

The word "soul" is mentioned 700 times in the Old Testament, and is from the Hebrew word "Nephesh." It is also translated life and living 150 times, soul 471 times. It is also translated me, him, anyone, heart, breath, appetite body (dead or alive), lust, creature, beasts and creatures, 28 times, such as souls of asses, beeves and sheep. See Num. 31:28.

The Bible also speaks of souls that work, souls that sin, souls that die, souls destroyed, souls that touch, souls that eat, souls that steal, souls that swear, souls that trespass, souls torn (by lions), souls rent, blood of souls (when you cut your finger), souls that weep (with tears trickling down the cheek), souls afflicted, souls melted, souls poured out (as in Isa. 53:12, "Jesus poured out His soul unto death), souls bound in iron; "Joseph's soul came into iron," Psa. 105:18, margin; and dried souls in Num. 11:6.

A certain bishop has said that the soul is so small that you can put a million in a nutshell and still have room. This would be a very small soul indeed; and yet not a dried one. Theosophists claim that a soul weighs seven sixteenths of an ounce! If this be true, what would a dried soul weigh?

When Moses delivered the nation of Israel from Egypt they murmured bitterly and said, "Why did you bring us out of Egypt to die in the wilderness? We would rather be slaves in Egypt than to die here: there we had fish to eat, cucumbers, melons, leeks, onions and garlic; now our souls are all dried away," Num. 11:56.

Possibly some had weighed 200 pounds, and lost half a pound. This would be a dried soul! Now a lion would make a great feast if he should tear one weighing 7-16 of an ounce or one as small as the bishop would have us believe. Stop and think! The "being" is the soul!

UNCLE DANIEL'S BIBLE CLASS
Peterborough.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—Your courteous editorial on Monday contained two or three statements that I consider not quite in accord with the purpose of my recent letter nor with public opinion. I intended to convey the impression that I, for one, did not favor having those guns consigned to the scrap heap or to the river. Whether they are kept in Central Park or elsewhere is another matter. If they are to be kept in Central Park, it is my opinion that the two outside guns should be placed farther back. Retaining them right at the corners is not in accordance with good landscape effect. But keep them where they are rather than do away with them altogether. My suggestion is that they be removed to Victoria Park where they would have a real park as a setting. Central Park is a disgrace to the city; more about this later.

If German guns should be thrown in the river, as you seem to advocate—because they offend relatives of men who fell in the war—what should we do with our Heinie helmets uniforms, revolvers, etc.? It never occurred to me that my Heinie helmet might have adorned the squarehead that fired the shot that killed my good brother. Has any person objected to the countless German revolvers that have been displayed to public view in shop windows and elsewhere? Those revolvers might have been "the very ones that blew our boys to pieces!"

Your contention that the stand I take in this matter is not representative of the Veterans may be true. I am writing merely as one veteran who objects to objections to the guns. You are mistaken, however, if you think that there are not many others who think likewise. If the Veterans are against those guns being retained in Central Park, or anywhere, why were they silent on this question last night (Monday) at their monthly meeting?

Yours,
"OLD SARGE."

What "luscious" means

The Standard Dictionary says:
"(Lus'shus, lush'us). Very grateful to the sense of taste; rich, sweet and delicious; hence, delightful . . . . . to any extent, or in the mind; as, luscious fruit, luscious odors, etc."

The Century Dictionary says:
"Very sweet, succulent or delicious; delicious; very pleasant to taste; hence, extremely pleasing to any of the senses or to the mind; ordinarily delightful, etc."

Webster's Dictionary says:
"Sweet; delicious; very grateful to the tastey toothsome, etc."

The Encyclopedia Dictionary says:
"(Lus'shus, lus'shus). Very sweet; sweet to a great degree; delightful to the taste, etc."

But LANTIC says
"Luscious sweetness
Brown Sugar".

folks delight in Brown Sugar goodies

At the fragrant memory of old-time dishes, what eager lips are smacked! It is taste that lingers longest in the mind.

Sweet and luscious to the palate, is the appeal of LANTIC Brown Sugar. Sweet from the actual amount of pure sugar it contains—luscious from other constituents of the cane juice left in it, bodies which represent the "bouquet" of the cane juice.

For tea and coffee and ordinary preserving purposes, where a conflict of flavors is to be avoided—LANTIC Fine Granulated, of course. But where rich flavor is desirable, LANTIC Brown gives to baking and desserts the characteristic molasses taste which is a big improvement. It makes good dishes great!

Spices and LANTIC Brown are on the friendliest terms. Spiced cookies, and cup cakes, and all sweet pickles or spiced fruits are better when made with Brown Sugar. All dishes containing raisins, dates, figs or currants develop a new deliciousness from the use of LANTIC Brown.

Be a little different. Add LANTIC lusciousness to your baking!

LANTIC Brown Sugar should really cost more than white—if deliciousness is the true test of value—BUT YOU GET IT FOR LESS. Your grocer has luscious LANTIC brown sugar only in 100-lb. sacks, but he will give you any quantity you ask for.

SUCCESS IN A SMALL GARDEN

By Stella G. Temple in "The Canadian Horticulturist."

When I look back on the experiences I have had in growing flowers in what is termed a city garden, I am convinced that an abundance of bloom can be had during the summer months, June, July, August and September, if a certain amount of work regarding soil conditions is intelligently done, and if the exposure admits of some hours of sunshine.

The first question is, How get the soil into condition? The answer is—work it. An autumn over-turning one foot, preferably two feet deep, is essential when the earth is heavy, sour, damp and long neglected, while to lighten it add fine coal ashes, or sand, with a sprinkling of slaked lime. If this is followed by exposure to a winter's frosts, and if old manure is liberally mixed in, in the early spring, you will have the beginning, at least, of a fertile soil.

Dry Soil.

Where, on the contrary, the condition of the soil is dry, sandy and over-porous, the addition of heavy loam and a greater quantity of manure is required, although manure is becoming difficult to obtain, particularly in urban centres. I have found, however, that it is indispensable in keeping the soil in good condition; but if only obtainable once a year, work it in in the spring. It is understood that any cultivating should be done when the earth is dry; if it sticks to the spade, forbear.

With the soil lightened and fertilized, plant nasturtiums, for bloom that will delight your heart the season through. There is no climber more graceful. If you take a little trouble helping them along here and there, I stake mine on slender branches, and then up on the fences and trellises they run. Your reward is flowers from early July to late October. We all know their lovely fragrance and the exquisite shading of the blossoms.

The Graceful Nasturtium.

I put my seeds in early, the first week in May, and I put them in deep. True, on seed packages you read: "Cover the seeds lightly," but I have found it a fallacy for nasturtiums. I plant mine two inches deep, and so, if we have a snow flurry after they are in, I do not worry, and I never look to see the little squarish leaf pushing up till on or about May 24. I know that by then they have made good root growth, and that in July, if a drought sets it, their stems will stay fresh and green, while those with only a surface growth will be dying out and fading. The plants are thinned out from nine to twelve inches apart.

I usually pick my first nasturtiums the first week in July, and after that I pick them daily. I have had bowlfuls 20 inches in diameter five and six times in a week. Some people think nasturtiums only do well in a sunny spot. Of course, nearly all flowers love the sun, but one side of my garden only gets but little and ye I have many flowers there.

No girl can successfully chew pea-nut brittle and nurse a case of disappointed love at the same time.

GERMANY'S PLAN FOR DISARMAMENT

TO BE PRESENTED ALLIED CONFERENCE AT SPA THIS AFTERNOON.

(Canadian Press)

SPA, Belgium, July 7.—A decision was reached by members of the German Ministry and military officers attached to the German delegation here this morning to recommend to Konstantin Fehrenbach, head of the German delegation, that the plan of disarmament for Germany be presented Allied representatives this afternoon. The conference, therefore, will continue.

Will Not Revise Clauses.

Important clauses of the Peace Treaty with Turkey will remain as they are, it has been decided by the Supreme Council in session here. At this morning's meeting with Premier Venizelos of Greece present, Council decided it would be impossible to grant the Turkish request for a revision of these clauses. A commission of experts will be appointed, however, to study minor clauses with reference to a partial revision of documents of areas concerned.

HALIBURTON BY-LAW CARRIED.
With practically no effort at making the matter public, the by-law to authorise issuing debentures for $10,000 to install an electric light plant was put to a vote in Haliburton on Saturday last and carried by a slim majority of 29. Considering how little was known of the affair, the vote in the village turned out strong, but the outside polls were small. Harcourt, which has least benefit to expect from it, gave a clear vote for the by-law, and Donald, which has a plant of its own, turned it down cold.

DOES NOT BLAME THE HOUSEKEEPER
Mr. Charles Matthews, who was burnt out last Wednesday evening, states he has no reason to blame his housekeeper, who left his employ on the day of the fire. The housekeeper left a few hours befor the fire broke out, but nothing has developed that would warrant the suggestion that she was in any way responsible. Mr. Matthews has also received several offers of assistance which he has declined as he is able to provide for the needs of himself and family.

WEDDING BELLS

HORWOOD—DICKSON.
On Wednesday, June 30th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Dickson, Westwood, was the scene of a beautiful wedding when their daughter, Ada Ellen, was united in marriage to Rev. T. J. Horwood, A.T.C.M., of Cameron, at 3.30 p.m. The bride entered the verandah on the arm of her father to the strains of Mendelsonn's wedding march, played by the bride's sister, Lena. Under a beautiful arch of evergreens, ferns and white roses the ceremony was performed by Rev. F. Howard, S.T.L., of Stirling, assisted by Rev. Capt. H. B. Kenny, of Campbellford. The bride looked beautiful in a gown of ivory crepe meteor with bodice of duchess satin and pearl trimmings. She wore the customary bridal veil and orange blossoms. The only ornament worn was a sunburst set with pearls, the gift from the groom. She carried a sheaf of ophelia roses and fern. The two little flower girls, Lillian, the bride's sister, dressed in blue silk, and also her little niece, Byrel Hewie, gowned in shell pink satin, both carrying a beautiful basket of white and pink roses. After the ceremony and the signing of the register the bride lead the way to the dining room, which was so beautifully decorated for the occasion. The guests, numbering to about sixty, partook of a sumptious wedding dinner. The wedding cake, which was four storey, was very attractive. The toasts having been proposed and drank, speeches made, after which the bridal party motored to Hastings amid showers of confetti and good wishes, and took the evening train for Niagara and Hamilton, the bride travelling in navy blue taffeta with navy blue georgette hat to match. The young couple was the recipient of a large sum of money also many valuable presents. The groom's gift to the pianist was a ring set with pearls and to each of the flower girls a pin set with amethysts. This was not only a wedding day, but also the 45th anniversary of the bride's eldest uncle, Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Elmhurst, which made the event more pleasing. The toasts being proposed and drank, all wishing Mr. and Mrs. Elmhurst many more years of a happy wedded life.

On their return Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Horwood will reside at Norham where Rev. F. J. Horwood has charge of that circuit.

Some of the friends from a distance was: Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Scott, Syracuse, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. William Elmhurst, Syracuse, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. F. Elmhurst and Miss Bessie, of New Haven, N.Y.; Mrs. B. Vorce, Miss Hazel and Doris Vorce, Mexico; Mr. and Mrs. J. Sugeitt, of Cameron; Mr. and Mrs. A. Anderson, of Cameron; Mr. and Mrs. R. Hewie, Lindsay; Mrs. Wm. English, Moose Jaw, Sask.; Mrs. Wm. ALLEGES C.P.R. IS BEHIND DRURY'S RADIAL DECISION

CONTROLLER MAGUIRE OF TORONTO SAYS C.P.R. DIDN'T WANT RADIALS BUILT.

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, July 7. — That the Canadian Pacific Railway Company is behind the decision of the Provincial U.F.O.-Labor Government of Hon. H. C. Drury, to delay for the present the acquisition and extension of hydro-radial railways in Ontario, is the assertion of Alfred J. Maguire, Member of Toronto's Board of Control and the Vice-President of the Hydro-Radial Association of Ontario.

Controller Maguire declared that the C.P.R. did not want radials built, and that, innocently or not, the Drury Government was in line with the C.P.R.

There will be an emergency meeting of the Ontario Hydro-Radial Association in Toronto to-morrow to deal with the situation.

FAVOUR PUBLIC OWNERSHIP HON. MR. DOHERTY DECLARED

Speaking to the Peterborough County farmers at Norwood yesterday Hon. Manning Doherty anticipated the announcement made by the Government as to its radial railway policy and although only touching upon this subject in the course of his address, he prepared his audience for the reflections which had been made long before yesterday.

"There are certain periodicals and papers and persons in Ontario who will attempt to show that the Drury government is not friendly to public ownership and to the Hydro-Electric," said Mr. Doherty. "A more unmitigated lie never appeared within the covers of the press. We are so friendly to the Hydro and public ownership that they have been on our platform since our inception. We are unanimous for them. We are so fully behind public ownership and the Hydro and so anxious for its success that we will not allow it to run wild, nor permit enthusiastic supporters of Hydro to shove it along lines that will ultimately cause its ruin.

We are criticized because we haven't extended radial railway systems all over the province. We know that parts of the province haven't yet got power and light, to say nothing of radials. We want light and power on the concession lines of this province. If we can put in radial railways afterward all well and good, but before the government embarks on any scheme of building and acquiring radial railways which may cost one hundred million dollars, the project will be fully investigated. The people will know what the cost is going to be before one dollar is spent. That is the government's intention. We intend to investigate and get estimates, place these before the people and await their approval, for it is their money we are sending.

WILL APPOINT COMMISSION.

TORONTO, July 7.—After several days' consideraion of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission's radial scheme, the Ontario Government has caled for a delay in the whole project—including Sir Adam Beck's proposal for the immediate purchase of the Toronto Eastern Railway, the Toronto Suburban Railway, and the Niagara, St. Catharines & Toronto Railway from the Federal Government at a cost of $6,873,374—and the question of any possible development of Hydro Electric radials in Ontario must wait until after the findings of a special Government Commission which is yet to be appointed, and which will be requested to proceed immediately with its work, to hold public inquiries, and to report without unnecessary delay. In the meantime, to quote the statement issued yesterday by the Ontario Government, "all action in the direction of further outlays or the assumption of further responsibilities in radial matters by the Hydro-Electric Commission will be stayed."

A Question of Cost.

In their official statement issued last night, the Government pointed out that they were guided by many considerations in arriving at their decision. There was the matter of the provincial debt and the extent to which the Hydro projects have already involved the province. To date, it is pointed out, the province has advanced approximately $56,750,000 to the Hydro-Electric Commission, and in connection with the Central Ontario System. In addition the province has guaranteed bonds, bringing its obligations to practically $65,000,000, or 52 per cent. of Ontario's present debt. In addition, the Government points out, the province will, in the near future, have to supply over $32,000,000 in cash to complete the Chippawa, Nepigon and other power works now in process of construction. In other ways the province is already committed to Hydro expenditures totaling nearly $40,000,000, which, it is pointed out, may run still higher if the Chippawa costs should exceed its present estimate. Lumping them all, the Government has estimated the Hydro expenditures at $103,000,000 or $104,000,000.

Want Stronger Evidence.

Apart from the question of expenditure and provincial debt, there was the question of the soundness of the radial scheme. In this connection, the Government statement points out that, "so far, no information has been put before the Government which is at all sufficient to permit it to form any reasonable opinion as to the correctness of the estimates put before the municipalities or the probability that the projected railways will have earnings sufficient to make them self-supporting."

MORE GERMAN GUNS FOR LONDON, ONTARIO

LONDON, Ont., July 7.—London is to have still more war trophies in the form of German artillery. Mayor Little received word from Ottawa that two more field guns and a howitzer had been awarded to the "town of London," and were on their way here. Four guns were received last week for the "city of London."

With these additional mementoes of the great war there will be no difficulty in giving all parts of the city a fair share of the spoils. It is likely that when the guns are received they will be parked on the Federal Square property, with the four which arrived last week, until some other plans are made for permanent locations for them in other parts of the city.

NEW REVOLUTION IN MEXICO RUMOURED.

(Canadian Press.)

EAGLE PASS, Texas, July 7.—Reports that twelve bridges have been burned in Mexico south of Monclova, gave rise here to-day to rumours that a new revolution had broken out in the Southern Republic. Adolfo Gonzales was said to head the new movement.

STREET RAILWAYMEN ARE SURE OF INCREASES.

TORONTO, July 7. — Rumors in circulation yesterday that further trouble was brewing in the street railway circles, have fortunately proved to be baseless.

At a meeting of the men in the Labor Temple last night there was some little discussion regarding the date from which the recent wage increases should be paid. The men consider the increase should date from June 16th, the date following the expiration of the old agreement. The Toronto railway Company on the other hand, holds the view that they should date from the time the men resumed work after the strike.

Secretary W. D. Robins stated at the close of last night's meeting that everything would be arranged satisfactorily and there was no danger of further trouble.

SOLDIERS' MEETING.

There will be a very special Soldiers' meeting to-night at the Temple at eight o'clock, when Lieut. Ina Currie, formerly of this city, will be present and will assist at the meeting. Lieut. Currie is staying over on her way to her new appointment at Perth and her many friends will be glad to see her after her absence. All soldiers and converts, also ex soldiers, are invited to come to-night at 8 o'clock.

Another Section of Trent Canal Opened

COUCHICHING LOCK COMPLETED AND BOATS PASS THROUGH—A TRIP PLANNED.

ORILLIA, July 7. — The Couchiching Lock, near Washago, on the Trent Valley Canal, was opened at 1.30 yesterday, completing another portion of the waterway, and giving direct water communication between Honey Harbor, on Georgian Bay, and Trenton, on Lake Ontario, a distance of 436 miles.

While a waterway will be of considerable commercial value to the section through which it passes, as a scenic route for motor boats it is unsurpassed in Canada. The trip from Lake Simcoe down the Severn River is a really magnificent one.

There was no formal ceremony in connection with the opening of the lock yesterday, the contractors and engineers having the honor of the first passage through in their boats.

On Sunday afternoon the Orillia Town Council and Water, Light & Power Commission will go by motor boat from Orillia to Swift Rapids, on the Severn River, where the town's electric power plant is located. This is the first time it has been possible to make the entire trip by water.

HON. MARTIN DOHERTY AT PETERBORO U.F.O. PICNIC MET A FAIR DAY THRONG

MINISTER OF AGRICULTURE DISCUSSED PROVINCIAL PROBLEMS AND REVIEWED SOME OF THE LEGISLATION OF THE FIRST SESSION—APPEALED FOR UNITY.

NORWOOD'S HOSPITALITY

Norwood set out its welcome mat and held open house yesterday for the hosts of the Peterborough County Association of the United Farmers of Ontario who crowded the Exhibition Grounds in their annual picnic until Jack Roxburgh might have fancied it Fair Day, were not the verdant woods across the fields a reminder that the harvest days are several moons distant, and that the crops which will develop prize-winners are on equal terms of tender immaturity.

Flags and bunting were strung unsparingly across the main streets, splashing the village with more colour than it has seen in many a day. Bright new banners shouted a friendly welcome to the stream of automobiles that tossed up the dust, and the same hospitable spirit was reflected in the signs posted on spacious lawns inviting the picnic parties to eat their lunches there.

The new sociability and community of interests engendered by the Farmers' Club was manifested in the cordial intercourse and in the sports and games, but was no less impressive than the evidence of class pride and unity shown in the warm reception to the Hon. Manning Doherty, Minister of Agriculture in the Drury Government. Hundreds of men and women sat comfortably around the bandstand during the customary period devoted to speeches, listening attentively and with every indication of interest to a recital of the legislative accomplishments in the first session o the Provincial Government dominated and inspired by the U.F.O.

Applause for Drury.

That these farmers are satisfied with the leadership of the Hon. E. C. Drury was evidenced by the round of applause that greeted his name, and it was likewise apparent that the Hon. Doherty made a decidedly favourable impression yesterday and won many friends in East Peterborough.

It may be incidentally remarked that these summer assemblies of the farmers throughout the Province, at which some member of the Government discusses the affairs of the Province and of the country at large, will have an effect especially upon the younger men and women that is entirely lacking in most urban centres, where the youth seems to take no sincere and intelligent interest in public questions.

Norwood Won Game.

The amusement feature of the early afternoon was a U.F.O. league baseball game between Norwood and Douro, in which the Norwood boys proved that the amenities of the occasion did not extend to permitting Reeve Coughlin's team mauling them, and won in seven innings by the score of 13 to 7.

The crowd hedged the playing field so closely that it is a marvel someone wasn't seriously hurt by foul tips, passed ball, and the other pyrotechnics that enliven sometimes even the best ball game.

Had they been asked to toe the base lines, they could scarcely have got closer, and they were hemmed around the catcher with never an intercepting wire, to say nothing of netting. Beyond first and third bases the fringe scalloped in and then bent outward to admit the fielders. Beyond that curving line was an extra row of cars, with more of the crowd sandwiched between them. Girls stopped to chat behind the catcher as unconcernedly as if they were at a tea party, and some of the rooters could have reached out and hit a waste ball with a bat. Foul tips banged against the back of chairs around the grand stand with a force that would surely have injured the women sitting there had the hall been a few inches higher. Others bounded into the ice-cream booth or clattered about the band stand. One actually hit Bob Brown on the head, but his service can lightened the blow. An elderly man stopped a tip with his jaw, but laughingly remarked that it didn't hurt much. Fortunately, the seven-innings barrage caused no serious hurt, but only the U.F.O. luck that survives the passing of the horse-shoe saved some of the people, who actually seemed to enjoy the danger zone.

The Great War Veterans' Band gave a concert during the afternoon and took part in the official programme. Their music delighted the crowd, hundreds of whom enjoyed the concert from the chairs that had been placed around the stand.

Appreciated the Reception.

Wallace Anderson was chairman of the formal proceedings of speeches and music. He commented upon the manner in which the Norwood people had assisted in preparing for the picnic, and especially referred to the decorations and the friendliness shown on every hand.

Reeve Squire, on behalf of the village, presented an address of welcome to the Hon. Mr. Doherty. He said in part:

"We, sir, are pleased to bear witness to the united effort of the Provincial Government in the manner in which all classes are considered, and sincerely trust that Norwood and the vicinity will be enthused to continue to work hand in hand, as I am proud to say they have done up to the present. I refer to the success of our Agricultural Exhibition, that has been brought about by the united efforts of all in Norwood and for many miles surrounding.

"I am pleased to say, and I say it advisedly ,that the Province of Ontario is congratulated from the Atlantic to the Pacific and beyond the borders of Canada for having a statesman in the person of the Hon. E. C. Drury as Premier, and also for a progressive Cabinet, with you, sir, holding the portfolio of the most important department, namely, Minister of Agriculture, or, in other words, the head of the basic industry of Ontario or Canada. We recognise that the chain is made so much stronger by having you the main link—a practical farmer, possessing unlimited education, ability, and integrity that fortify you in performng the duties that devolve upon you. . . . I take the opportunity of saying that your non-partisan Government in the initial session have demonstrated yourselves as standardbearers of Democracy, and I sincerely trust that nothing will appear during the balance of the term to neutralise the effect of the good work outlined."

Reeve Squire also welcomed the Farmers' Clubs, and said that the village was glad they were holding their picnic at the Exhibition Grounds.

Mr. G. A. Brethen also acknowledged the co-operation of Norwood in making the picnic a success, and also said that the choice of Hon. Mr. Doherty as Minister of Agriculture had been well made.

Mr. E. N. McDonald, M.L.A., said he had tried to show Mr. Doherty the need of a demonstration farm in this section of Ontario in order that greater facilities for agricultural education might be afforded not only for the children of the farms, but even for city hildren, too.

Mr .Doherty's Address.

For a number of reasons Hon. Mr. Doherty said he was glad to visit East Peterborough; one of them was to meet the constituents who had showed their wisdom by electing Mr. E. N. McDonald. At the outset, he appealed for unity of interests and effort. That which was in the interest of the farmers must be in the interest of the urban people. While farmers justly contended that agriculture had not been given its due place in this Province, they were wise enough to realise that the country must have industrial development.

"In the years ahead of us, I hope that we in Ontario shall develop a spirit of unity of purpose and toleration the better to deal with the im-

HEAVY CASTINGS MOUNTED ON FREIGHT CAR CAUSED WRECK ON THE G.T.R. NEAR KEENE

Two heavy castings, about 12 feet in height, mounted on a flat car, and swaying with the motion of the train, overturned two cars of a freight train on the Belleville line of the Grand Trunk Railway near Keene yesterday afternoon about 5.30 o'clock, and spilled a carload of cement over the track, blocking the right of way for about three hours. The track was cleared with difficulty in time to make way for the evening train from Belleville.

It is unusual for a freight cargo to cause such an accident. The castings were consigned from Montreal to Peterborough.

TWELFTH OF JULY

JOINT TAG DAG

The Brotherhood Federation of Canada is co-operating with the True Blue and Orange Order of Peterboro in a joint tag day on next Monday, July 12, 1920, on behalf of the True Blue Orange Orphanage in Ontario and our orphanage in Serbia.

This is a splendid piece of home and foreign missionary effort that will commend itself to all irrespective of denominational lines.

Indeed, it is an unusual opportunity for a display of loyalty and fidelity on behalf of our war orphans and others at home and abroad.

Many of the leading ladies of the city are already in line to help make the effort a success.

Will young ladies and gentlemen willing to assist in this worthy work kindly communicate at once with Miss Knox, 481 Gilmour, telephone 785w, or Rev. R. G. Campbell or Capt. Joe Lawson, 397 Maitland avenue, telephone 924J.

Your assistance spells success.

Your obedient servant,
THE BROTHERHOOD FEDERATION.

BACK PAY CHEQUES FOR CIVIL SERVICE

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, July 7.—Back pay cheques for fifteen months will be paid to civil servants in next two weeks. The total amount according to the House of Commons announcement will be about four millions, that being the estimated cost of ante-dating civil service classification. Individual amounts paid will be the difference between civil servants former salary and that awarded him by classification schedules.

CORONER'S JURY CLEARS MR. WORTH

WAS IMPOSSIBLE TO AVOID STRIKING LITTLE GIRL.

TORONTO, July 7. — A verdict stating that they were of the opinion that the accident was unavoidable, was returned by the Coroner's jury last evening at the inquest into the circumstances surrounding the death of six-year-old Alberta West on Dominion Day. The jury also added a rider to the effect that the speeed limit for motorists within the city limits should be reduced.

The accident occurred on Ossington avenue, near Bloor street, at 11.05 a.m., when the child was struck by an automobile driven by Walter Worth, of Peterborough, who was accompanied by R. J. Inman, of Bradford, England. The evidence submitted before Coroner Dr. C. W. Brand last evening showed that the little girl ran into the path of the auto from behind a wagon standing on the east side of Ossington Avenue, and despite the endeavors of the driver to avoid her, she was struck and run over. Dr. Caroline Brown was called and had her removed to the Sick Children's Hospital, where she died an hour later. Dr. Brown stated the child suffered several injuries, any one of which would cause death.

Barney Rickman, an automobile expert, testified that the car was in good working order and that an examination of the scene of the accident convinced him that Worth had done everything to avoid hitting the little girl. Other witnesses were: Mrs. Elizabeth McMillan, Mrs. Lillian McMillan, F. B. Bowerman, Herbert Corbett, Detective Silverthorn and R. J. Inman. Mr. Worth also related his version of the accident.

The evidence showed that the automobile was not travelling at an excesive rate of speed when it struck the little girl, and that the brakes and other parts of the car were in good condition. The parents of the deceased were present at the inquest and were thankful for the verdict exonerating Mr. Worth.

Rev. J. R. Webb, Mr. W. R. Breyfogle and Mr. J. Hopwood, all of Peterborough, were also present at the inquest.

HAS TAKEN AGENCY FOR AUTOMOBILE CAR

I beg to announce that I have taken the Agency for the Oldsmobile Automobile for Peterborough City and District, and will gladly give Demonstrations on application, which will not place you under any obligation whatever to purchase. Persons interested kindly 'phone 383W, and we will call and see you.—Edgar Burnham. 3d-8-1461

FOR NATIONALISATION OF BRITISH RAILWAYS.

(Canadian Press.)

BELFAST, July 7. — The annual congress of the National Union of Railwaymen of Great Britain, in session here to-day, passed unanimously a resolution affirming its previous pronouncements in favour of the nationalisation of railways.

POLES WILL HAVE TO SHORTEN THEIR LINES—MANY PRISONERS TAKEN.

ROVNO CAPTURED

(Canadian Press.)

WARSAW, July 7.—Along a front of approximately seven hundred miles the Russian Bolsheviki have hurled the greatest attack they have ever launched against the Polish lines.

On the the northern and southern flanks the Poles are retiring in face of superior enemy forces, the attack on the northern sector being the most severe of the struggle on this front.

Faced with the necessity of shortening their lines, the Poles have begun a withdrawal at all points.

The Bolsheviki offensive is the heaviest on the northern sector of the front, and it is not known here to what extent the Poles have been forced to retreat.

North-east of Rovno, the Bolsheviki have advanced, cutting the railroad to Kovel.

General Budensky continues hisn raids in this region.

Severe fighting is going on along the right flank of the Polish line and also on the Beresina front, where the Soviet Army has brought up large reinforcements.

ROVNO TAKEN BY THE BOLSHEVIKI.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, July 7.—The fortress of Rovno, in Volhynia, to the east of Dubno and Lutsk, has fallen into Bolsheviki hands, it is announced in a Soviet communique received from Moscow to-day.

In capturing Rovno from the Poles the Bolsheviki took a thousand prisoners, two armoured trains, and considerable other equipment.

In the direction of Proskurov, south of Rovno, we broke through the fortified zone and are driving the enemy back along the railway in the direction of Tarnopol and Lemburg, the Convention in Chicago Saturday to Organize and Select Official Candidates.

(Canadian Press.)

SAN FRANCICO, July 7.— Third party proponents see in the results of the Democratic National Convention the certainty of a new political party, according to a statement issued by Howard Williams, Vice-chairman of the committee, which has called a convention in Chicago, July 10 to 14, for organization of a new party and the selection of candidates for President and Vice-President.

CLAIM FOR WAGES IN POLICE COURT

The Claimant Was Allowed Portion of Claim and Must Pay the Costs.

In this morning's police court James O'Leary claimed the sum of $30.00, wages from June 9th to June 28th, from his employer, W. E. Murphy, a farmer. The Magistrate allowed him only $10.00, and the costs, $3.10, were paid by him, leaving him only $6.90 of the amount claimed, out of which the lawyer's fees have still to be paid.

SWEAR BY BUDDHA INSTEAD OF BY GOD.

(Canadian Press)

BUENOS AIRES, July 6.—Permission to swear by Buddha instead of God and the Holy Apostles was granted by the Superior Court of Cordoba the other day to a young law student of agnostic belief when he took the oath of membership in the Argentine bar. He sought first to take the oath "by my country and my honour," but the court informed him that he would be obliged to take a "religious oath."

The student, it is related, thereupon went to a library and began a profound study of the world's religions, on which he spent several days. He then returned to the court and informed the learned judges he had found that the Buddhist religion was "the most moral and most complete," and asked permission to take oath upon it. The judged consulted musty tomes of Argentine law and decided there was nothing to exclude him from taking such an oath.

"FLU" MAKES THE HAIR COME OUT

SPECIALIST OFFERS SIMPLE HOME RECIPE TO STOP LOSS OF HAIR AND MAKE IT GROW AGAIN.

People who had the "Flu" this past Winter and who now find their hair coming out badly, will be interested in the suggestion of a well known Hair Specialist who says: "Anyone can easily and inexpensively make at home a recipe which, in my opinion, is unequalled for stopping loss of hair and making new hair grow out again thick, glossy and luxuriant.

You can get from any druggist 6 oz. of Bay Rum, 2 oz. of Lavona (de Composee) and one-half drachm of Menthol Crystals. Mix together and allow to stand over night before using. Rub thoroughly into the scalp with the finger tips or a stiff brush.

This prescription is perfectly harmless, acts quickly and neither dries out the hair nor makes it greasy. But ladies using it should be careful not to get it on the face or where hair is not desired.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Dr. Bruce E. Marshall has returned from attending the American Osteopathic Convention in Chicago.

Mr. D. J. McDonnell, proprietor of the Hotel Islington and Garage, Islington, Ont., together with his brother Charles, were week-end visitors in the city, and guests at the White House.

Mrs. E. A. Henley (nee Miss Hazel Richardson), of Oshawa, is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. John Hart, 470 Aylmer street, for a few days.

Miss Florence Dailey, of Toronto, is visiting the Misses Mowat, Homewood avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Heil and son, of Rosemont, Montreal, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Jos. Duranceau, 280 Simcoe street.

Mrs. C. Davidson, Mrs. E. E. Plummer, and Misses Nellie, Irene and Georgia Davidson, motored up from Campbellford yesterday and were guests of Mrs. A. Pearse, Rogers street.

Miss Zetta Buck, Rochester, New York, is in the city, the guest of Miss Carveth, Charlotte street.

Mr. Wm. Doris, of Rochester, New York, is visiting his old home, on Aylmer street.

LEMON JUICE FOR FRECKLES

Girls! Make beauty lotion for a few cents—Try it!

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle and tan lotion, and complexion beautifier, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of orchard white for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles and blemishes disappear and how clear, soft and rosy-white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless and never irritates.

THE STAGE IS ALL SET FOR CELEBRATION IN PETERBORO

ORANGEMEN HAVE MADE ELABORATE PREPARATIONS TO OBSERVE THE 12TH OF JULY.

Providing that next Monday is a fine day, Peterborough will see the biggest Orange celebration ever known in its history. The Battle of the Boyne has always been well observed in this city and whenever the lodges have met in this city the Orange Order and their families and friends have been accorded a royal welcome and a good time by the local lodges and the citizens as a whole.

Monday next, the 230th anniversary of King William's victory, will be celebrated here by lodges from a large district over Central and Eastern Ontario. Ten lodges from Toronto are coming for the first time in their history. From the Queen City to Sharbot Lake, from Lake Simcoe to Belleville Orangemen loaded with banners and heralded by the fife and drum, bugle and brass bands will reach the city. Some twenty thousand, perhaps twenty-five thousand people will congregate in the city on that day, and a programme worthy of any celebration has been prepared by the local lodges.

Train Service.

Special trains are chartered from advantageous points, but the Order found it impossible to secure any cheap rates. Many lodges will motor in and thousands of cars will be in the city.

Mounted marshalls will meet all trains and conduct the various lodges to their respective places in Central park, where they will afterwards fall in at 1 p.m. sharp. The marshalls are as follows:

Grand Marshall—H. Dodds, P.M.
Deputy Marshalls—W. J. Hancock, Dist. M., J. Spence, P.C.M., Robert Wilson, P.C.M., W. G. Morrow, P.C. M., H. Stintson, P.C.M.

A commitee of the L.O.B.A. will be the stations to welcome the visiting sisters and direct them to Central Park.

All lodges will fall in on their county grounds (boards marked) and the parade will begin at 1.15 from Central Park. The route is down Murray to Aylmer, Aylmer to London, London to George, George to the Exhibition grounds, around the course past the grand stand into the field and disperse for the programme. It is expected that this parade will take over 1 1-2 hours to pass any one point on the route.

The Grounds and Booth committee is presided over by E. F. Reid, P.C. M. and comprised of Charles McGee, W. J. Hancock, Dist. M., John Edgar, P.C.M., S. Anderson P.M., J. Sutherland.

The Programme.

The program in front of the Grand stand follows:—

"The King" 57th Regiment Band.
Introductory address —Chairman Brother John Edgar.
Address of Welcome—Mayor McIntyre.
Band Selection — 57th Regiment Band.
Song—Mr. Bert Caldwell of Toronto.
Address—(Capt.) Brother J. H. Burnham, M. P. West, Peterboro.
Vaudeville—Bondo Clown.
Address—(Lieut. Brother—M. J. O'Brien, Ottawa.
Presentation of prizes—W. J. Hancock, District M.
Band selection by the band winning first prize.
Song—Mr. Bert Caldwell.

A tug-of-war betwen two chosen teams will take place as the program on the opposite side of the course begins. A baseball game between Oshawa L.O.L. and Lindsay L. O. L. and a lacrosse match between Hastings and Peterboro will provide some lively excitement.

Dancing will commence on the platform as soon as the program is finished and continue until 10 p.m.

Prizes will be given for the following:—Largest lodge on parade—W. M. Collar; best equipped lodge(including band)—W. M. Collar; Best band, $10; Largest Orange family on grounds—$5; Tug-of-war (Any L. O. L.) —Box of cigars; Baseball match, —Winners $25; Losers, $15 (towards expenses); Best equipped L.O.B.A. lodge, $5.00; Best equipped Ladies T. B. Lodge, $5.00.

Judges.

Col. George Crawford P. C. M., Lindsay; Brother Davis, D.C.M., West Toronto, Brother A. G. Jinks, W. P. Oshawa.

Twenty-five cents admission will be charged at the Grounds owing to the extraordinarily high expenses Instead of the usual L.T.B. and Orange Orphanage Tag Day the committee have decided this year with the assistance of Capt. Joe Lawson and Rev. Mr. Campbell to run a joint Tag Day and give 50% of the net proceeds to the Serbian Relief Fund.

There will be ample accommodation for meals for the many thousands. Hot dinners will be served by the Ladies of St. Andrew's Church in the Curling Rink. There will be one or two tents at the Market Square serving dinner while the hotel are preparing to handle enormous crowds.

An information bureau with Brother G. Walton in charge will be located at the Grounds. Here inquiries as to trains or other matters will be gladly answered. This is a feature that will be welcomed by the visiting brethren.

BE CAUTIOUS

When you see a testimonial from someone in Texas whom you do not know, pay no attention to it.

When your neighbor tells you the great benefit he derived from Dr. Norvall's Stomach & Tonic Tablets and if you are still in doubt as to their merits ask your druggist and he will tell you that as a tonic and laxative and to relieve constipation, biliousness or a sick headache Norvall's Stomach & Tonic Tablets have no equal and they are in a class by themselves.

TO VISIT PENITENTIARY

(Canadian Press)

KINGSTON, July 7—Hon. C. J. Doherty, Minister of Justice, is expected in the city Wednesday or Thursday of this week, and while here will go thoroughly into Penitentiary matters. An Ottawa despatch says that he has asked for numerous reports on the matter from various officials. Mr. Doherty will be one of the speakers at Rev. Father Fleming's picnic at Wolfe Island on Thursday.

SIR THOMAS WHITE IS PARTY'S CHOICE

FRAMING UP THE NEW LINE-UP THIS MORNING.

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, July 7. — Clearing political skies are expected during the day. The morning has been one of conferences. Practically the whole of the forenoon Sir Thomas White was closeted with Sir Robert Borden, and the whole political situation was discussed.

Soon after the arrival of the former Minister of Finance, Hon. N. W. Rowell joined the conference.

Despite Sir Thomas White's repeated declarations that he has no desire to return to public life, the impression persits that he may yet be prevailed upon to form a new administration.

Sir Thomas felt impelled to relinquish his duties as Minister of Finance owing to the serious impairment of his health.

Failing Sir Thomas White, Hon. Arthur Meighen is generally regarded as the most likely to be called on.

During the day Mr. Rowell is expected to place his definite decision in the hands of the Prime Minister. When seen this morning he declined to add anything to his previous declaration, but his retirement to private practice would occasion no surprise.

The conference between the Premier and Sir Thomas White lasted almost until one o'clock. Shortly afterwards the Governor-General arrived at his office. Subsequently he was called upon by the former Minister of Finance.

THERE IS NO REAL UNION, SAYS SIR SAM

TORONTO CONSERVATIVES SERVE ULTIMATUM TO MEMBERS OF PARLIAMENT.

TORONTO, July 7.—Notice has been served on all Unionist M.P.'s in Toronto that they must return to the ranks of the Conservative Party if they hope to retain their seats at the next general election. This ultimatum was issued at a meeting of Ward Three Conservatives at St. George's Hall last night when some very severe criticism was directed against the policy of Sir Robert Borden and his colleagues. It was charged that Sir Robert in conjunction with Sir Wm. Hearst, had shot the old Liberal-Conservative party to pieces, and as a result if an election were held to-morrow not twenty-five members on the Unionist side of the House of Commons would be able to secure re-election. The reorganization of the party under the new appellation of "The National Liberal and Conservative Party which recently took place at Ottawa, was repudiated. The call was sent out to all stalwarts to rally to the old standard so that arrangemens might be made for the holding of a party convention at an early date when the policy of the party should be enunciated and a new leader chosen to carry it out.

The chief speakers were Dr. Chas. Sheard, M.P., for South Toronto, General Sam Hughes, Mr. E. W. J. Owen, K. C., and Mr. Thomas Hook, president of Ward 3 Conservative Association.

Dr. Sheard strongly defended the Union Government, pointing out that changes since 1917 did not warrant the Governmet's defeat, and the forcing of a general election. He declared he would not serve under a Liberal of the type of John Calder. Rather than that he would resign, and he added there are many more in the House of Commons who held similar views. Dr. Sheard urged Toronto Conservatives to strengthen their organization in preparation for emergencies.

No Real Union.

Sir Sam Hughes was opposed to sending an ambassador to Washington and had opposed the passing of the enabling bill in the Commons, but when it was discovered that if the bill was killed the Government would have to resign, he thought it advisable to save the Government rather than to allow Mackenzie King to gain control. Declaring the present government was merely a machine body, Sir Sam contended that there was no real union.

WINNIPEG LABOR TO CRUSH ONE UNION

Campaign Launched to Win Unrecognized Men Into International Camp.

(Canadian Press.)

WINNIPEG, July 7.—At a meeting of Winnipeg Trades and Labor Council last night it was decided to immediately launch a campaign with the object of crushing the one union movement. Challenges thrown out by the O. B. U. to open a debate will be accepted and every effort will be made towards winning unrecognized labor into the camp of the International.

COOKIES and SMALL CAKES

From the NEW ROYAL COOK BOOK

WHEN the children romp in hungry as young bears, here are some wholesome, economical delights that will not only be received with glee, but will satisfy the most ravenous appetite in a most wholesome manner.

Cookies

½ cup shortening
2 cups sugar
½ cup milk
3 eggs
½ teaspoon grated nutmeg
1 teaspoon vanilla extract or grated rind of 1 lemon
4 cups flour
3 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder

Cream shortening and sugar together; add milk to beaten eggs and beat again; add slowly to creamed shortening and sugar; add nutmeg and flavoring; add 2 cups flour sifted with baking powder; add enough more flour to make stiff dough. Roll out very thin on floured board; cut with cookie cutter, sprinkle with sugar, or put a raisin or a piece of English walnut in the center of each. Bake about 12 minutes in hot oven.

Cocoa Drop Cakes

4 tablespoons shortening
1 cup sugar
1 egg
½ cup milk
1½ cups flour
3 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
½ cup cocoa
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Cream shortening; add sugar and well-beaten egg; beat well and add milk slowly; sift flour, baking powder, salt and cocoa into mixture; stir until smooth, add vanilla. Put one tablespoon of batter into each greased muffin tin and bake in moderate oven about 20 minutes. Cover with boiled icing.

Orange Cakes

4 tablespoons shortening
1 cup sugar
½ cup milk
1 egg
2 cups flour
3 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon orange extract
grated rind of 1 orange

Cream shortening; add sugar slowly, beating well; add milk a little at a time; then add well-beaten egg; sift flour, baking powder and salt together and add to mixture; add flavoring and grated orange rind; mix well. Bake in greased shallow tin, or individual cake tins, in hot oven 15 to 20 minutes. When cool cover with orange icing.

PROMINENT BANK OFFICIAL VISITS PETERBORO DISTRICT

Mr. Angus A. Werlick, who is manager for Ontario of the Rural Service Department of the Merchants' Bank of Canada, was in the city on Monday and looked over crop and other conditions of the adjoining district. He was well impressed with the city and also at the prosperous appearance of the country. Crops here are quite as far ahead as in almost any part of the province, and the live-stock handled by the farmers of this district appeared to him to be a good average. Mr. Werlick endeavors to impress upon the farmers the advantages of raising pure-bred stock, and to this end has compiled a Feeding and Breeding Chart, which contains invaluable information for the farmer. The information was gathered from the very best authorities and a chart can be obtained from any branch of the Merchants' Bank free.

During the time of the great scarcity of feed in Western Canada last spring, it is claimed that the Rural Service Department of this bank was successful in transporting more hay into the most needed districts than was effected through any other source. Every branch of the bank is a branch of the Rural Service Department and the managers are required to keep the department fully advised as to conditions of their respective districts. If a surplus of any particular farm product is available, or if a shortage is apparent, then the Rural Service Department of the bank is advised, and by service memorandums the information is immediately sent to every branch of the bank. A large bulletin board is placed in each branch and, these memorandums placed thereon. Already several farmers near Peterborough have been making use of the bulletin board service here and seem well pleased with it.

These services, which are given free of charge, are but a small part of the useful work that is being carried on among the farmers of the province, and the maintaining of this department by the Merchants' Bank is an indication of the value placed upon the agricultural industry by this large institution.

The central office of the department for Ontario is at London and we understand there are one or two other central offices in connection with this work out west. Mr. Werlick left for Belleville on a tour of Eastern Ontario branches, and hopes to return again to this district a little later on.

IMPROVED STORE METHODS

Chain Stores of L. R. Steel Company, Limited, 5c., to $1.00, Will Reduce Cost of Living.

A new merchandising system, providing a modern and more economical method of getting daily necessities to the consumer, is being introduced into Canada by the L. R. Steel Company, Limited. This concern has 32 stores and leases now in the United States and Canada and is making such rapid headway that the L. R. Steel store will soon be one of the community necessities of every point of population in Canada of over 5,000 people. Not only does the L. R. Steel store give greater value of every cent spent on purchases of 5c to $1, but there is a sharing of the profits among those purchasers who are shareholders. The shareholders are the common people—the people who are for the most part patrons of the store, or prespective patrons. By the Steel method any customer may become a partner-patron who really is buying his goods from himself in his own store. The management is the best that brains and experience can provide for at the head of it is President L. R. Steel, a man who has earned the reputation of being the greatest merchandiser in America—and the friend of the working people. President Steel is a man who is a hard worker—who has a high admiration for those who toil.

The L. R. Steel Company, Limited, is making rapid headway on a store on St. Catherine street, Montreal, which, when equipped, will be the finest chain store in America. Two new stores are being built for the L. R. Steel Company, Limited, under lease, in Quebec City. A very fine store will be taken over in Sherbrooke in July. Stores will be opened in a short time in Oshawa, Goderich and Owen Sound, in Ontario.

Operations in Toronto will be very extensive. A large warehouse has been purchased on Mutual street, Toronto, to supply the Toronto stores. A valuable site has been purchased on Danforth avenue, Toronto, for the erection of one of the fine L. R. Steel stores that will operate in Toronto. Other sites will be announced from time to time in various portions of Canada and towns of 5,000 and over are planned to have stores in the vast chain of the L. R. Steel Company, Limited.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 7TTH, 1920.

THE HUNTER STREET BRIDGE.

There is not much comfort for the ratepayers in the knowledge that they are to be asked to provide another $100,000 to complete the construction of the Hunter street bridge. Already the structure has cost $273,600.05, and Engineer Barber estimates that the total cost after deducting items that he does not believe should be charged to the bridge will be $393,000. The $100,000 now asked for is said to be ample to complete the work, although in view of the difference between the estimates and the actual cost of the bridge so far, citizens cannot be blamed if they evince a little scepticism as to the reliability of the latest estimaate of the cost. There are optimists who believe that the worst has been told and that the total cost will not exceed $400,000, and there are pessimists who believe that Peterborough will be lucky if the half million dollar mark is not reached before the bridge is open for traffic. The news of the new appeal for funds for this work has not been received with any visible outbursts of enthusiasm, but the by-law will undoubtedly be carried, because the ratepayers have no other choice than to see the bridge through to completion now that nearly $300,000 has already been spent in the work so far accomplished. It would be folly to abandon the enterprise now, and there is no alternative except to provide sufficient money to finish the structure. The ratepayers doubtless realize this fact and will vote accordingly, albeit reluctantly, and with a deep seated conviction that the building of such a bridge under the circumstances under which the Hunter street bridge was undertaken, was a piece of civic extravagance greater than any other public enterprise in the history of Peterborough.

THE ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION.

The announcement that the Board of Trade is inaugurating a movement for the formation of a Peterborough Athletic Association to supervise and control the various branches of amateur sport in this city will be received with a great deal of interest and all true friends of manly games and pastimes will hope that the effort will be a successful one. It can, however, only have this result if the enthusiasts in all the various lines of sport will agree to co-operate in the movement, and the preliminary meeting, which will be held this evening, should therefore be well attended. An organization of the kind planned cannot be perfected in a few days or even in a season, and it is important that the ground work should be thoroughly done so that from the start the Association will be representative and effective. Nothing can be accomplished by an effort that starts with a hip! hip! hurrah! and then peters out in a few months like so many movements of a similar kind have done in the past. The Board of Trade would be well advised to go somewhat slowly in the initial organizing work and to be sure that it secures the co-operation of men who are regarded as the leading spirits in the different sports that it is proposed to bring under the control of the Association. Without these leaders and their assistance it will be impossible to effect an organization that will function properly. Better a slow start followed by a sumulative movement that will carry through to success than a lot of noise at the commencement of the campaign succeeded by a steadily dwindling enthusiasm and finally flat failure. An Athletic Association can be made a great success in Peterborough if it is established on a proper basis and with men of the right calibre at its head.

THE SUMMER CAMP.

A visit to Jackson Park, where the Peterborough Health Association has established its midsummer camp for delicate children, furnishes convincing proof of the fact that the Association is implementing its pledges to the public and is giving splendid value for the financial support it has received. The children's camp at the park was abandoned during the war years, but is once more in full operation and promises to be a boon for the youngsters who are not strong enough to enjoy the sports of the supervised playgrounds, as well as a source of comfort to the mothers of these little folks who know that they are being carefully cared for under most delightful conditions and that they are daily gaining in health and strength as a result of their long day in the open air. No more suitable spot for such an institution could be imagined than Jackson Park, with its lofty location, its beautiful pines, filling the air with their strengthening fragrance, and the general sense of restful quiet that pervades its sylvan depths. Under such conditions, the delicate youngsters, watched over by an efficient trained nurse, have an excelltnt chance of being improved in health and strength. They are provided with plenty of substantial, wholesome food, the diet being chosen with a view to building up and strengthening the little ones. Facilities for sleeping are provided and for the weaker children, rest for a portion of the day is insisted upon.

The ideal behind the summer camp is to give the weaker children of the city, especially those of families who are unable to enjoy a vacation, at the summer resorts of the district, a fair chance to fight their way to health. Fresh air, sunshine, good food, exercise of the right kind, pleasant surroundings — these are the forces that the Health Association are employing in their battle to save the children and every citizen who visits Jackson Park and visualizes what is being done will resolve that the work is a magnificent one and that the next appeal of the Health Association will find a hearty response.

THINGS THAT COUNT.

The Examiner, which has in and out of season urged the City Council to pay more attention to the question of bathing facilities, is glad to be able to thank the city fathers, on behalf of the hundreds of citizens who visit Inverlea Park during the summer months, for the improvements that have been decided upon by the Council. These include the construction of a water service so that the dressing rooms can be kept clean, the erecting of a shelter for the caretaker, the cleaning up of the beach and the securing of a boat to be available in case of accidents. All of these improvements have been needed and will considerably improve the accommodation at the Park, and the Council can rest assured that the expenditure involved in the carrying out of the work will earn rich dividends in the pleasure and comfort they will give the many bathers who are daily visitors during the warm weather. It is in the attention to details of this kind that distinguishes a real city from a mere place in which to live. Bathing facilties, plenty of parks, playgrounds for the little folks, athletic grounds for the young people, municipal skating rinks, eventually a municipal swimming bath for the winter months, those are the things that make a community satisfied and proud of their home city and the progress that Peterborough is making along these lines is gratifying to those who realize that the extent to which the welfare and health of the citizens is looked after is the real measure of a city's success. In themselves the Inverlea Park improvements may not be important, except to those who bathe there, but viewed in the light of an awakening consciousness of the things that distinguish a live centre from the common herd of cities and towns, the programme outlined is a source of gratiheation and satisfaction.

AN EMIGRANT'S SUCCESS.

The following letter, dated 23rd May, 1920, was received by the Director of Colonisation of Ontario from a prosperous farmer in Carleton County, about twelve miles from Ottawa, and speaks eloquently for itself:

"Some seven years ago, namely, 5th June, 1913, I sailed for Canada from England and obtained employment on a farm at Navan, Ont., through the agency of your Department. To-day I have a farm of my own. I am in need of help, and it occurred to me that I could not do better than obtain from the Colonisation Department the services of an emigrant from England who may have arrived in Canada with a view to work on a farm.

"I was totally inexperienced when I arrived in Canada, and though I found the work very hard at first, yet to-day I am pleased to be able to say that I am working my own place now. I am willing to take either an experienced or inexperienced man. If a young man about 18 years or so is willing to learn farming I can guarantee any length of time in which he can work with me. I myself have found that to hire for a year is the best plan, and I hired myself for three years to the same farmer. The question of wages will, of course, depend upon the ability, etc., of the man himself, but I am willing to pay anything he may be worth up to the highest wage for farm help.

"In conclusion, allow me to state that I have been well satisfied with the country where your representative at Quebec sent me, and can say no other than this—that I have been well received, helped, and well trained by the farmers with whom I have worked."

This brief letter (one of many similar) portrays in a few strong strokes an attractive picture of achieved success, and the possibility of success, in Ontario. Seven short years ago this absolutely inexperienced Englishman came to Canada with no more capital than a clear head and a stout heart; to-day he is a prosperous farmer with a farm of his own and anxious to pay the highest wages for a helping hand!

The letter emphasises two facts: First, the extraordinary opportunities for success in farming offered by Ontario; second, the urgent demand for men on the farms of Ontario.

Probably the nearest approach to independence in this world is that secured by the Ontario farmer owning his own farm. With ordinary intelligence and industry he is at the least sure of a good living; and the Province abounds with instances of farmers who began with nothing but their own brains and energy and became wealthy at middle age. That public honours await them is also proved by the number of farmers who to-day occupy the highest posts in the legislative halls, both Federal and Provincial, of Canada.

In Ontario husbandry—the most ancient and honourable calling in the world—opens the way to prosperity and public distinction: Can the world offer anything better?—Public Service Bulletin.

The DeaconSHIRT

For Your Husband

"My wife always buys me Deacon Shirts," said a farmer the other day. They are both well satisfied. The farmer is sure of a good fit, with plenty of room for arm freedom. The wife is proud of the neat appearance and the freedom from mending and patching, and the eternal sewing on of buttons. The wear is there.

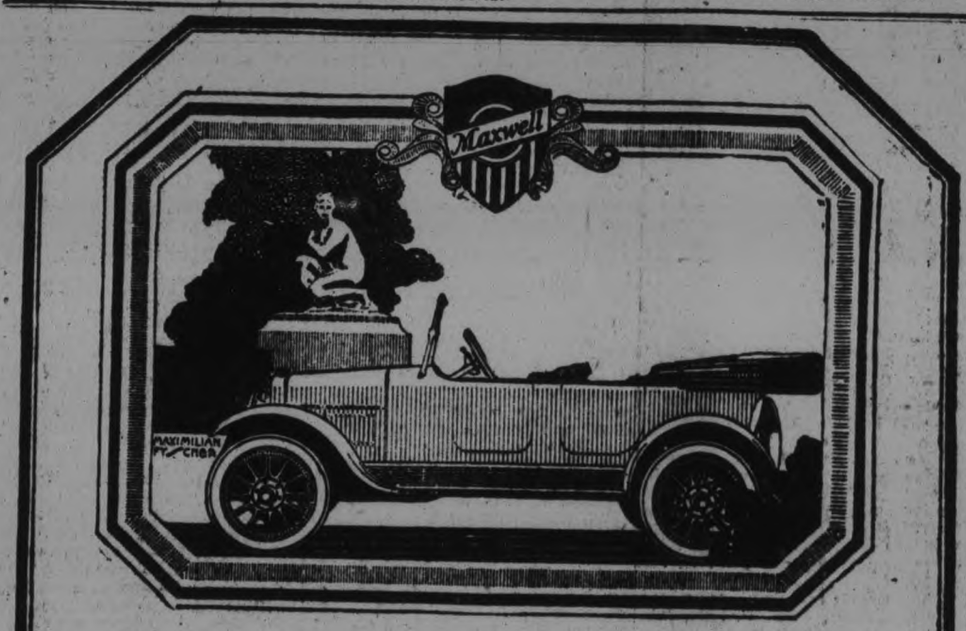
NEGRO POSTAL CLERK DIES FOR STABBING WHITE CLERK

ENTERPRISE, Miss., July 7. — James Spencer, a negro postal clerk, who seriously stabbed Otho Parker, a white postal clerk, on the New Orleans and Northeastern mail car Friday, was taken from the officers who were taking him to Quitman for trial to-day and lynched. The officers and their prisoner were met on their way to the trial and the negro was taken from them without difficulty and hanged to a tree.



Those Good Brakes
in a
MAXWELL
are aided by special steels

Brakes seem to be one of the overlooked features of a motor car. In a Maxwell they have had the extreme of attention.

For instance, a road engineer, in about 500,000 miles of experimental driving, has constantly tested and studied them.

That is why you can check the speed of a Maxwell in an instant and bring it to a standstill either by foot brake or hand brake.

Special steels in a Maxwell are largely responsible. They give it extra strength in wear and endurance, but they make the car light in weight.

Thus, when you call on it to halt, the brakes are not required to "wrestle" with superfluous weight, and the momentum of the car is easily stopped.

These are steels made to Maxwell's own formulae. They equal, pound for pound, the steels in any car built. But no car has steels just like them.

In a large measure they contribute to Maxwell's growing prestige, as expressed in figures like these: nearly 400,000 now in use; and 100,000 more for the year 1920.

VIRTUOUS WIVES

By OWEN JOHNSON

PART VI.

Meanwhile Mrs. Lightbody with the boys, in company with the two Miss Teakes who had returned with them for tea, were amusing themselves in the great baronial sitting room during the continued absence of their hostess.

"What can we do?" said Mrs. Lightbody, a plump, rolling blond of resolute youthfulness, who was in constant state of anxiety before the pursuing problem of being amused. "Let's cut in for a hand of bridge."

"No, Kitty, dear," said Tody Dawson impertinently; "I will dance with you, I will amuse you in any other way, but I will not play bridge with you—you are entirely too expensive—and I need the money."

Laracy, who was at the piano, rattling up and down the keys, emerged from behind the keyboard: a podgy, placid, smiling, flat-faced figure, affecting tight check trousers, glowing socks, and fancy waistcoats.

"Did Kitty propose bridge again?" he said, with equal impertinence, referring to some disaster of the night before. "She should be stood in a corner."

"You funny, old boy! You know I don't play half badly now."

"Not half badly, entirely so," said Laracy. "Well, Tody, if we've got to amuse her, better to keep her dancing."

"Yes, that keeps her out of breath," said Dawson, getting up with the air of a martyr. He was a sky-scraping type of youth, with long face and rising yellow hair which, after four years of college education, flowed back without a flurry from the untroubled calm of his well-pleased expression—a beau ideal of that tailorable figure which advertising artists depict in heroic postures, resting on tennis rackets or golf sticks.

"How about thumb-wrestling?"

"Oh, I dote on that!" said Mrs. Lightbody, clapping her hands and, turning to the colorless and impassive Miss Teakes, she explained, in excited phrases, the principles of this latest parlor trick. "My dear, he's simply wonderful: he can wrestle you with one hand and me with another, blindfolded, and beat us both. It's excruciatingly funny."

"T. Y. K.," said Dawson, bowing, and meaning, in the abbreviating trick of the day, "Thanking you kindly."

"Saying which, Lord Ronald inclined his noble brow and suffered his beautiful violet eyes to be bandaged," said Laracy, drawing forth a red-and-yellow handkerchief amid the titters of an appreciative audience.

Dawson and Laracy belonged to that new variety of household pet which supplements the absence of hard-worked husbands in society. A woman of fashion counts from two to ten of the variety in her train, who fetch and carry, run small errands, adore her in a public, harmless way, accompany her to the theatre or opera, surround her at the dansants and invent a hundred amusing tricks to save her from the necessity of reading and other forms of boredom. Wise in their generation, they seldom make blunders, knowing that they are admitted to intimacy only on the basis of absolute docility, and acquiring the knowledge of worldly values, they wait patiently under such patronage the opportunities of what is called a successful marriage. Dawson and Laracy were unusually gifted. They played in masterly fashion all games of chance where a friendly dollar could be sought. They formed a team, which imitated the latest comic-opera favorites. They spoke a jargon of their own. They danced like professional dancers, with really the most remarkable agility, and, from morning to night, kept up a running patter of story, anecdote, repartee, and picturesque slang which made easy the task of the most desperate hostess.

About five o'clock, the older men began to return from polo practice. Tea at the Dellabarre's was an institution in Chilton society, which, like many similar societies, was formed on feudal lines, congregating around one or two established families, with their castles, their retainers, and their adherents who, by some mystery of hidden economy, attached themselves to the leaders, imitated their luxuries, and scrambled desperately to marry their children advantageously before the [illegible] accounting arrived.

By the time the Forresters had appeased [illegible] descendes, the great [illegible] room filled up with [illegible] a few of the men in riding breeches, the women in gaily-coloured sweaters and striped skirts. From the landing of the winding stair, Amy looked down on the great vaulted room, paneled in brown, with pleasant ruddiness of shadows and lights, and, at the end, a great fireplace with lighted logs. A group was gathered about a card table, another about the shiny decanters, while Tody Dawson, thin and active, was pirouetting, his arms lightly in the air, exaggerating the bend of his shoulders as he turned in saucers. A group watched this demonstration of the newest step with the solemnity of a religious contemplation. Somewhere in the obscurity of the deep baronial living room, Laracy was pounding out the rhythmic measure with youthful enthusiasm. The music ended with a crash, and at the charming appearance of Amy at the balustrade, there was a sudden hush of curiosity.

What the young d'Artagnan experienced at his first introduction into the brilliant court of the Hotel de Treville, Amy Forrester felt at this sudden silence which was like the rolling-up of a curtain. The new world to conquer, her world, lay below. She felt a quickening of all her instincts, transforming her into a different and public self. At the same moment, she realized that she was no longed alone but an integral part of the man who followed at her back. Andrew, too, was about to be judged, and by a judgment without the slightest mercy, that accepted only what it could not destroy. The thought of her husband threw her into a sudden timidity, and this involuntary modesty not only was becoming to her but conciliated the good will of her hostess.

In a group of men, who were gathered, glass in hand, at a serving table, Mrs. Dellabarre was standing with her hand drawn through her husband's arm, in that punctilious public advertisement of her martial felicity which she never neglected and which she used as a whip over the heads of her admirers, as a sort of warning of the limitations she imposed on their adoration. She had slipped into a dark skirt and purple sweater, drawn her hair tightly back, contriving to make herself both ugly and distinguished, despite the sudden looming prominence of her aquiline nose. Gladys Challoner, her dearest rival, had said of her:

"When Irma gets herself up like a fright before dinner, she is preparing to dazzle you after."

As she went to meet the Forresters, by the indefinable subtleites with which one woman rates another, Mrs. Dellabarre saw that Amy was of her world. She was attracted to her instantly, as one woman is attracted to another, with the pleasure of encountering an antagonist worthy to be destroyed.

"We have met before," she said smiling, with a little extra pressure of her hand, "but we are all anxious to meet the man who could carry off the favorite after her first season," she added, extending her hand to Mr. Forrester. "It's rare enough to make you quite a hero."

"How do you do, Mrs. Dellabarre," he said, in his strong, pleasant bass, stepping forward with eagerness in his eyes.

If she had been agreeably surprised with Amy, she was quite unprepared for the strong attractions which Andrew Forrester exercised over her from the moment of their first handclasp. Like all neurasthenic natures, she responded instantly to the buoyant health of a dominant vitality. So quick was this pleasant sense of well-being that the easy phrase of welcome passed completely out of her mind, and only the mechanical approach of her husband prevented her showing too plainly her perplexity.

Amy had a confused sense of catching names that meant nothing to her, of seeing so many human manikins grouped about her—Mrs. Lightbody's glance set in criticism, a glance that swept her from head to foot, seeking the weak point; an elderly beau offered a glib compliment, and she was conscious of murmuring something in answer. Mrs. Dellabarre, after a graceful introduction, returned to the men, abandoning Amy to the group whose conversation she had interrupted. One of the Miss Teakes, in brilliant sweater and striped skirt, took up in a loud voice, without further attention to the new arrival, a discussion of the polo match, seaming her comments with the slang of the stables. Three men, without addressing a word to her, finding Amy young and attractive, stared at her with open admiration. Fortunately, at this moment, from the piano a beaming waistcoat and glowing smile bore down on her.

"Welcome to our city!" exclaimed Laracy. "This is a surprise. Have I got to behave, Amy, and call you 'Mrs. Forrester'?"

"Get me away from her," she said, shaking hands and laughing.

"Freezing by the fireside, eh?" said Jap Laracy, with a glance at the group. "Pretty northwest, eh? Irma engages me to thaw them out, but it's tough—it's tough! My eyes and whiskers, Amy, I'm glad to see you! Have you seen Tody?"

"Not yet," she said, with a little confusion, for Tody Dawson had been her most devoted admirer and, in her youthful imagination, she reproached herself a little at the havoc she felt she had created.

"Oh, he's pining, pining away, cruel maiden!" said Laracy. "So are we all. How could you go and do it? Here's the wreck now."

Dawson, in perfect health, without a line on his face or a ripple on the perfect edge of his trousers, came up serene and unembarrassed.

"Well, Amy, no use in pretending. Every one knows you've blighted my young existence. My heart's shot to pieces, but I forgive you."

He rattled this off with light impertinence, tucking a lavender handkerchief up his sleeve—a new accomplishment. A year had transformed the young uh just out of college, who used to blush and stammer in the face of his youthful adoration. Amy looked up at him, marvelling at the change.

"I think you'll recover," she said, smiling.

In a moment, they were laughing over old escapades, unconscious as three children.

"What are you three having such a good time about?" said Mrs. Lightbody, approaching jealously. She laid a plump hand on Dawson's arm in an affectionate pressure. "Tody, darling, I must get that step before to-night. Jap, be a dear and play for us again."

"My dear Kitty," said Dawson coolly, "be calm—be calm—and haven't I told you never to show jealousy when I am paying attention to a pretty woman?"

Amy listened in astonishment while Mrs. Lightbody, vastly amused at this style of wit, laughed outright.

"You funny boy, Mrs.—" she hesitated, seeking the name.

"Mrs. Kerrigan," said Laracy solemnly.

Mrs. Lightbody bit her lip but, determined, she appealed to Amy.

"You don't mind, do you?"

"Say you do," said Dawson. "We are trying to bring Kitty up properly. She has the most shocking manners."

"Am I rude?" said Mrs. Lightbody, rolling her eyes.

"Oh, no—I am the intruder here," said Mrs. Forrester quietly.

CANCER SUFFERER GREATLY IMPROVED

ABLE TO RETURN HOME AFTER NEW SERUM TREATMENT IN TORONTO.

TORONTO, July 7.—So marked had been her improvement since receiving Dr. Thomas J. Glover's new serum for the treatment of cancer, one woman was able to leave St. Michael's Hospital where she was a patient and return to her home on Saturday. This patient had suffered from the disease for a year and a half, and her cancer, being of an internal and very malignant type, had made it impossible for her to walk when she entered the hospital. Yesterday morning she walked into the hospital to receive her fifth inoculation of the serum, without the assistance of even a cane and apparently with no extra effort. She stated that Dr. Glover had made no claims to having effected a cure beyond assuring her that she need fear no additional growths.

The principal difficulty experienced by Dr. Glover and the St. Michael's Hospital authorities is due to the great flood of patients who are applying and for whom there is neither accommodation nor sufficient serum. Every bed in the hospital is filled, while the supply of serum has been so seriously depleted that there is scarcely enough for the cases which have been accepted already. Dr. Glover and the hospital authorities are doing everything in their power to take care of the patients who are presenting themselves, but at the present time it is a physical impossibility to handle any more.

Yesterday it was necessary to turn away many cases. One of these was a man who had come all the way from St. John's, Newfoundland, without making any reservations in advance. Another man was brought from Hamilton in an ambulance, while another sufferer had come all the way from Chicago. With not a bed vacant, the hospital staff were compelled to refuse these cases.

Scores of out-patients presented themselves at the out-patient department clinic yesterday, but the lack of serum made it impossible to give treatment to more than about five.

Letter to the Press.

The following letter has been addressed to the press by P. J. Bench, secretary of the Board of Governors, St. Michael's Hospital:

"Sir—The premature notices in the press concerning the treatment of cancer, at present being investigated in St. Michael's Hospital, has caused both Dr. Glover and the hospital authorities considerable embarrassment.

"It is therefore requested that, until such time as an authentic statement can be issued, the press refrain from the publication of unduly optimistic forecasts.

"Dr. Glover and the hospital are overwhelmed by the number of patients seeking treatment, and no new cases can at present be accepted."

An epicure says six things are necessary in order to make a home happy. The first is a good cook, and the other five are money.

CHIEF THOMPSON FAVOURS PENSION FUND FOR POLICE

MOVED RESOLUTION TO THAT EFFECT AT CONVENTION.

At the convention of Canadian Police Chiefs at Moncton, N.B., Chief of Police Thompson, of Peterborough, was elected first vice-president of the Police Chiefs' Association.

Chief Thompson took an active part in the convention, and moved a resolution to the effect that municipalities be influenced to establish police pension funds with the object of making police work a profession rather than a job. As a result, a committee was appointed to wait upon the various Provincial Governments, though the general cencensus of opinion is that if municipalities first shew a tendency toward adopting the system, Provincial Governments will follow suit.

Chief Thompson also brought up the question of standardising automobile tail lights, and advocated a form of light in which a glass with the licence number on it would be placed in front of the light, thus making identification of a car easy on a dark road.

Convention Helpful.

The Chief stated, when interviewed yesterday, that the convention had been a most helpful one. The people of Moncton were very hospitable, and trips were made to seaside resorts, the Provincial Penitentiary at Dorchester, and othre points of interest. Several helpful papers were read, notable among these being that of Chief Detective Le Page, of Montreal, on "Environment."

Copies of the amendments to the Narcotic Drugs Act were distributed. The importation of drugs into Canada has been decreased by 50 tons since the Government took action in the matter of narcotic drugs.

Next year the convention will be held in Montreal.

Officers Elected.

The officers elected were:

President—Chief Whatley, Hamilton.

1st Vice-president—Chief Thompson, Peterborough.

2nd Vice-president—Chief Boleuge, Montreal.

Secretary-treasurer—Chief Slemin, Brantford.

PORTSMOUTH YOUTH SHOOTS HIMSELF

GUN WENT OFF ACCIDENTALLY IN ATTEMPT TO REMOVE CARTRIDGE.

KINGSTON, July 5.—Ralph Forsythe, aged 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Forsythe, Main street, Portsmouth, accidentally shot himself in the stomach with a 22 calibre rifle at 10 o'clock this morning while out after groundhogs at Carruther's Farm, and now lies in a serious condition in the General Hospital as a result of the accident. Surgeons performed a serious operation on him this morning in an effort to remove the bullet.

In an effort to remove a cartridge, which was stuck in the breech of his gun and would not pull out or go off, Ralph set the muzzle of the gun against the pit of his stomach to hold it in position while he worked with both hands to pull the cartridge out. In some manner his hand slipped, the hammer fell upon the head of the cartridge and the gun went off, the bullet entering his stomach.

The lad's many friends are anxiously waiting for news concerning his condition.

A LIQUOR CLEAN-UP.

Canadian Express Office at Port Hope Was Robbed.

PORT HOPE, July 6.—The raiders were busy again here, and made a clean-up of all the liquid refreshments at the Canadian Express office. The large window in the rear door of the building was pryed off, but then the robbers were confronted with another heavy door with three bolts leading to the main office. In this door were two small panes of glass and one of these was removed. It was then an easy matter to remove the bolts and take possession of the office.

One barrel of whisky, of 25 gallons, valued at $160.00, two cases containing twenty-four quart bottles and several vendor bottles were stolen.

None of the other express parcels were molested. That the thieves were experts at the business is shown by the fact that in the removal of both windows not a pane of glass was even cracked.

The express company will use every means to locate the guilty ones.

SHE ONLY WEIGHED EIGHTY-FOUR POUNDS

TORONTO WOMAN WAS SO RUN DOWN SHE COULD NOT LOOK AFTER HER CHILDREN

"I was almost helpless at the time I began taking Tanlac and couldn't even take care of my two little children, but now I am in as good health as I ever was in my life and I have gained fifteen pounds in weight besides," said Mrs. J. Spring who resides at the Clyde Hotel, 158 King street, East, Toronto, Canada, while telling of her recovery recently.

"I just hate to think of the awful condition I was in only a few weeks ago for I had suffered so much I was almost ready to give up in despair. My appetite was so poor that everything I ate was forced down and I was slowly starving to death. My digestive organs were sour and it seemed that every bite I ate fermented and caused me to bloat up with gas until it was difficult for me to get my breath. My stomach hurt me so bad that sometimes I could hardly straighten up. Nervous spells often came on me and they would so completely upset me I felt like I would break down. I was constipated all the time and every few days I had awful headaches and dizzy spells. At night it was hard for me to get asleep and I got so little rest that when morning came I felt completely worn out. I kept losing in weight until got down to eighty-four pounds and I was almost helpless.

"This was my condition when my mother, who lives in Barry, Ontario brought me some Tanlac. Before I finished the first bottle I was astonished to see how fast I had improved. My appetite returned and the indigestion began to lose its grip and I commenced to regain my lost weight and strength. I continued to take Tanlac until now it seems almost too good to be true, but I am fifteen pounds heavier and my health is better than it has been for seven years. I can eat just anything I want without suffering afterwards and my breathing is as free as ever. I am entirely relieved of constipation and the headaches and dizzy spells are a thing of the past My nerves are just as steady as man he and I sleep soundly every night It is indeed a pleasure for me to give this statement for I can never repay the debt of gratitude I owe Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Wayne Drug Co., Ltd.; in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield, by the Tanner Drug Co., Ltd., in Fowler's Corners, by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert by A. J. Scott; in Westwood, by G. Pringle and Son.

WAR TROPHIES ALLOTTED TO SUBURBAN COMMUNITIES

TORONTO, July 7.—Earlscourt, Fairbank, Todmorden, Woodbridge, and New Toronto have been allotted captured German seige guns while machine guns are to go to places like Richmond Hill, Markham, etc., according to word received by W. F. Maclean, M.P., for South York, from Dr. A. G. Doughty, Director of War Trophies. Dr. Doughty states that the trophies are to be forwarded as soon as possible.

Women of Canada Who Testify

Tillsonburg, Ont.:—"Ever since I can remember, Dr. Pierce's medicines were used in our family at home and they never failed to give good results. The 'Golden Medical Discovery' was used as a tonic and blood purifier and for bronchial trouble, and it proved excellent. I have personally taken 'Golden Medical Discovery' for bronchial trouble, and the 'Favorite Prescription' to build me up when I was run-down and they both were very beneficial. Mother always used Dr. Pierce's Compound Extract of Smart-Weed for pain; it also was very good. I feel safe in recommending all of Dr. Pierce's medicines knowing them to be good."—MRS. CLIFFORD MITCHELL.

Central Butte, Sask.:—"I have used Dr. Pierce's Medical Discovery for a number of years and am pleased to recommend it as a blood purifier. I know it has no equal, as I used it for my boy for tuberculosis of the knee joint. My neighbors and friends were surprised with the results; in fact, I do not think he would be alive today had it not been for the 'Medical Discovery.' I also keep it on hand for coughs as it differs so from other cough medicines, instead of upsetting the stomach as most cough syrups do it is good for the stomach. I only wish I had known about Dr. Pierce's medicines sooner."—MRS. PERCY WOOD.

When you take Golden Medical Discovery, you are getting the benefit of the experiences of a doctor whose reputation goes all around the earth. Still more, you get a temperance medicine that contains not a drop of alcohol or narcotic of any kind. Long ago Dr. Pierce combined certain valuable vegetable ingredients—without the use of alcohol—so that his remedies always have been strictly temperance medicines.

Nervous-Trouble

Nervous troubles are, without a doubt the most discouraging form of sickness to the sufferer. You are tired and ill but cannot say what is wrong, no pain except frequent headaches, you are fretful, cross and irritable without a cause, no ambition or desire to continue your daily routine, you feel a picking or itching of the limbs or body and feel that some terrible calamity is about to overcome you, cannot enter into your former pleasures and prefer solitude to the company of your friends. In such cases the whole nervous system is deranged and requires the most careful attention. Take one of Dr. Henderson's Herb Tablets every night or every second night and if there is any tendency to Stomach trouble take one Special Stomach Tablet three times a day before meals.

THE WORLD'S LARGEST AND CANADA'S ONLY ONE PRICE TAILORS

TO OPEN IN PETERBORO SATURDAY NEXT.

Commencing next Saturday the men of Peterboro and vicinity will be able to enjoy the same clothing advantages as the men of the large cities in Canada now enjoy Tip Top Tailors the World's largest and Canada's only one price Tailors are opening here at 325 George street.

Tip Top Tailors make mens' clothes to measure at $27, and have one price only. In ten years they have grown from a single store in Toronto to a chain of stores from coast to coast backed by an enormous wholesale Woolen Warehouse and Tailoring plant, producing five thousand suits weekly. The secret of Tip Top Tailors ability to give a clothing value that cannot be equalled in Canada lies in specialization and tremendous output. Tip Top Tailors make nothing but clothes to measure at $27, no higher no lower, and through their immense chain of stores they sell and make thousands of suits while most tailors are selling and making one suit. All woolens are bought in huge quantities direct from the mills and all middlemen's and intervening profits are eliminated entirely. The saving goes into the pockets of Tip Top Customers.

In opening their branch in Peterboro on Saturday the management invites every man in the city and vicinity to pay them a visit Everyone will be welcome whether they wish to buy or merely look. A full page advertisement will appear in this newspaper on Friday giving more particulars.

KITCHENER OPPOSED TO RADIAL PURCHASE

WILL NOT SEND DELEGATE TO MEETING OF ONTARIO MUNICIPALITIES.

KITCHENER, Ont., July 7.—At Monday night's meeting of the City Council a motion to send a delegate to the meeting of the Ontario municipalities in the Niagara power zone, to be held in Toronto on Thursday for the purpose of urging the Ontadio Government to authorize [illegible] Commission to take over various radial systems was almost unanimously defeated. A resolution was subsequently submitte d and carried by unanimous vote, instructing the city clerk to notify the Ontario Government that they should not allow the Hydro Commission to buy the radials mentioned in the telegram sent out by President J. W. Lyon, of the Ontario Hydro Municipalities Association, until the Hydro Commission can furnish enough power for the city's industries and private use. Mayor Eden informed the Council that unless the various industries in Kitchener make arrangements to reduce the power load during the next few months thousands of working men would be out of employment during next winter.

MAYOR HAVING U. S. LOYAL MEMBER OF LEAGUE

(Canadian Press)

BOSTON, July 7.—The American delegates to the International Conversational Council, which is holding its fourth Decennial meeting here, adopted a resolution to-night favoring the entrance of the United States into the League of Nations with if necessary, interpretative reservations "That do not nullify loyal adherence to the objective of the League."

STANDARD MEDICAL SURGICAL CLINIC IS PROGRESSING

MARKET FOR MATERIALS IS STILL UNCERTAIN.

"I am well satisfied with the way the work is going and the doctors are too," replied T. Ephgrave when questioned by The Examiner today on the progress of the work on the Standard Medical and Surgical Clinic. The erection of the building has gone steadily forward with few interruptions of any account. The pressed brick was ordered from Milton as soon as the contract was signed and the lumber ordered also. Only by the early ordering has a tie-up been averted. Mr. Ephgrave said the market was very uncertain and it is very hard to secure materials. The delay in the delivery of the steel sashes from Wakerville has retarded the brick laying. These were to be delivered early in May—part of the order was, but the rest has not arrived yet, although it is expected soon.

No labour troubles have affected the work, he stated. At present 16 men are employed, but in the next week or so this number will be increased 50 per cent. "I haven't seen unskilled labour as plentiful in five years," he said, "and as for the skilled trades, carpenters and masons, they had experienced no trouble in getting men. Bricklayers on the job are getting $1 an hour."

The plumbing and heating is under contract by A. W. Archibald, and the basement plumbing has been completed. Miller, Powell and Watson are doing the wiring and electrical work.

The basement has been finished roughly and the brick work above the first story. The rough first floor has been laid, the window sashes set in the basement and the Indiana granite portico put in. The portico and the window cases of Indiana granite were cut by A. King, London street. The rough work on the entrance is finished but the marble steps have not yet been put in. The Vermont Marble Co. have this contract.

They expect to complete the contract by November, Mr. Ephgrave said.

Last week Ephgrave and Barrett completed the alterations to the Bell Apartments. The changing of the gable roof to a flat roof necessitated many changes in the apartments, but this has been done without detracting from their roominess or comfort.

The large additions to the Farmers' Dairy Co. at Indian River are being finished now. They were held up on account of the delay in shipping the machinery, Mr. Ephgrave said, or the job would have been finished long ago.

His firm have had the contract for the alterating of Dr. M. McCulloch's residence, Charlotte street, into an apartment house. Three large roomy, well finished apartments have been made, two downstairs and one up and already these anartments have been rented. The work on these is drawing to a close.

Besides their larger contracts they have so many smaller jobs for garages, back kitchens and repairs that they comfortably complete. He has recently completed a large solid brick $1,500 garage for R. W. Cormack, Park street.

ADDRESS AND PURSE FOR PASTOR AND WIFE

REV. J. H. AND MRS. BECK LEAVE APSLEY CHARGE.

APSLEY, July 7.—About one hundred citizens in and around the village met on Monday evening last at the home of Rev. J. H. and Mrs. Beck to bid them farewell previous to their departure for Belleville. When all were assembled the chorus, "Auld Lang Syne," was sang, after which Mrs. W. Staples read the following address and at the proper time Mrs. W. Hales presented them with a well filled purse:

"Apsley, June 28, 1920.

"Rev. J. H. Beck and Mrs. Beck.

"Dear Friends,—This sad necessity of saying good-bye to you is now before us. We feel that we could not let this opportunity pass without giving expression to some of the regrets we feel at losing you from our midst. We have regarded you both as the kindest of friends. During your stay with us we have always found you arraying yourselves on the right side; you have stood for all that is worthy in life and both have given generously of your time and talents to help on every good cause; and everything that tends to the uplift of the life of the community and to the advancement of the kingdom of God. There are no means of measuring how much the church and neighborhood really owe to you for the examples of true Christian character and sterling integity you have at all times set.

"While we deeply regret your departure, we feel that our loss is others' gain, and while you may feel that your work here is finished, yet it is not, as your influence will live on in the lives of those around you; and though absent in body, your examples will still be a benediction and a blessing.

"In times such as these words fail us, and what we would say we cannot. So we feel that we want you to have some tangible evidence of our esteem and friendship, and ask you to accept this purse.

"May this serve to remind you of the many friends you have at Apsley and while separated as pastor and congregation there will be no separation in friendship, and we trust that in future we may again have the glad opportunity of a friendly word and familiar smile of our one-time pastor.

"Signed on behalf of the congregation."

Mr. Beck replied very suitably on behalf of himself and his wife.

Refreshments Served.

During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Beck entertained the people with a number of vocal selections sang to the accompaniment of the mandolin. The vocal selections were interspersed with selections from the Victrola. Lunch and ice cream was then served by the ladies.

CONDITIONS AT SPEEDWELL HOSPITAL SATISFACTORY TO DEPARTMENT.

(Canadian Press)

OTTAWA, July 7.—There will be no investigation into charges made by Nursing Sister Mary E. Pollock to the effect that conditions at the Speedwell Military Hospital at Guelph were deplorable.

Assistant Deputy Minister E. W. Scammell, of the Department of Soldiers Civil Re-Establishment, last evening stated that the department was fully acquainted with conditions at Speedwell Hospital, and that there was no justification for charges made by the nursing sister. Her statements are misleading and absurd, he declared.

Mr. Scammell explained that the building was formerly used as a reformatory, and that private wards still retained the name of cells.

ST. LUKE'S WENT TO SOUTH BEACH

The Sunday School of St. Luke's Church journeyed to South Beach yesterday. The weather was fine and a very enjoyable day was spent by the excursionists. The party included about thirty returned soldiers who were guests of the school. The programme included an attractive list of sports and an hour's dancing in the pavilion at South Beach. The success of the trip was largely due to Mr. Harold Adams, who was in charge of the arrangements.

LAWN SOCIAL WAS SUCCESS.

Good Programme Provided by G.W.V.A. Band.

The strawberry social held on the lawn of the G.W.V.A. on Murray street last evening by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the G.W.V.A., was a most successful affair. The attendance was large as were also the receipts.

Strawberries, ice cream and cake were served at tables on the large lawn, there was dancing in the hall, the G.W.V.A. band was in attendance, and Miss Minnie Allen sang.

The musical programme given by the G.W.V.A. band was much enjoyed and added materially to the success of the affair. The drawing for the quilt made by the ladies and for which tickets have been sold, took place, Mr. Edwards, ticket No. 94, 302 Park street having the lucky number.

Be Careful What You Wash Your Hair With

Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else, that contains too much alkali, for this is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle

The best thing to use is just plain mulsified cocoanut oil, for it is pure and entirely greaseless It's very cheap, and beats anything else all to pieces You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the while family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and candruff.

A VISITOR FROM NEW ZEALAND WAS IN PETERBORO YESTERDAY

AN INTERESTING VIEW OF CONDITIONS IN NEW ZEALAND— FORMING TRADE RELATIONS.

Peterboro had a business visitor from New Zealand yesterday in the person of F. C. Wooller, of Christ Church, South Island, representing the Reynolds Windig Company, Limited, of that country, warehousemen and manufacturers' agents. Mr. Wooller was in the city calling on the Canadian Woollens Co., with a view of securing the agency for their goods. A most interesting talker and well versed in political, industrial and business conditions pertaining to the Southern Pacific Colony, he gave some information on our southern cousins that was of interest to Canadians. Mr. Wooller has been five weeks on the road covering the United States and Canada, forming business conections with prominent Canadian firms to handle their goods in New Zealand. He has spent only a few days in Canada but he states that the few days here have been far more pleasant for him than the weeks spent across the border.

A Similarity.

Canadians, he said, were much the same as New Zealanders and the courteousness and cordiality shown him here made him feel right at home. The tongue carries much the same accent and the climates being similar have had a tendency to make the people alike in their pursuits and desires.

Speaking of business in New Zealand he said that it had never been better and his country was now enjoying a prosperity that was never known before the war. The farmers were prosperous. Money was plentiful and all lines of trade were benefitting from this desirable condition. Labor is scarce; wages are high, and although prices are high compared with the pre-war standard they have not advanced to such a degree as in other countries. "If a man in New Zealand is not satisfied now he neveh will be," declared Mr. Wooller. The unrest in the Islands is nothing like that prevailing in other countries, he asserted. The reason for this he credits to the excellent class of workmen.

Price Comparisons.

Early in May when he left New Zealand, butter was selling around 60c, eggs at 80c were at the peak, Wheat was about $1.50 a bushel. Winter was just coming on which accounted for the high prices, Mr. Wooller said, but taken all in all prices in everything except manufactured goods that were imported, were lower than in Canada. A fine quality of Indigo blue serge suit tailor made would cost about $60. Boots and shoes and leather goods are about half and a pair of shoes that he was wearing costing $7 at home, were retailing in New York at $16.

The government operates the railways and one or two of the coal mines but the larger part of the mining is under private control. Coal has gone away up. A quality that formerly sold at $10 now hovers around $20 a ton. The scarcity of coal, he says, at times has been acute, and the railways have cut their traffic to the bone.

The hotel rates and meal prices on this continent are higher in comparison. Down there board and lodging at a hotel that compares favorably with our hostelries, may be had for 5 a day and a meal that here runs to $1 or $1.50 just costs the English equivalent to half a dollar.

Automobiles are greatly in demand there. The dealers are booked for months ahead with orders and it is partly with the object of securing agencies for American cars in New Zealand that Mr. Wooller is on this side of the Pacific. Just as in Canada people with newly acquired wealth have turned to automobiling to get rid of some of it, while the number of cars of professional men and farmers have increased. Motor trucks are coming into general use and with all this the supply of cars has been exceeded by the demand. No motor vehicles are manufactured there, England and the United States having the monopoly of the trade.

Soil Fertile.

There are very few foreigners in the islands, except Japanese and Chinese and the intlux of neither is encouraged by the government. The soil is fertile and adapted to fruit farming in man ylocalities so that this impirtant branch of farming is receiving more attention. Apples, plums, peaches and apricots are the staple crop but some oranges and sub-tropical fruits can be grown in the warmer sections. Sheep farming is a leading industry.

New Zealand is not without its housing problems too, he informed the writer and values are high. The houses are mostly of frame lined with plaster. Around each domicile, according to the custom of England, each owner considers it his duty to erect a high picket fence, and if this is not sufficient protection from a neighbor's prying eyes a trellis on top is added. It certainly seemed good, Mr. Wooller stated, to see the smooth green stretches of grass between each house here, serving as the only division. It is a nonsenical custom in New Zealand, he admitted, but it is still adhered to in spite of the fact that it shades and spoils any grass that may thrive.

Golfing is very popular, and they have some of the very finest links in the world he claims.

His study of the Americans has shown him their aggressive business qualities and their policy of never doing anything by halves. While prohibition has not become universal in New Zealand yet he believed that in the next few years it would. Intemperance to any great degree was not noticeable and was not undermining the national life, but that a nation like the United States should adopt it he took as a sufficient guarantee of its beneficial results.

Like Canada New Zealand is fast becoming a nation and having a voice in its national relations; it is taking its place in the world markets, and by leaps and bounds its prosperity is increasing and its people becoming happier and prouder of their island home.

Mr. Wooller is working his way slowly westward. He will sail from Vancouver, touching at Honolulu, and when he recahes home he will have completed a 25,000 mile trip on land and water.

NORWOOD DEFEATED DOURO BY 13 TO 7

BIG U.F.O. PICNIC CROWD SAW THE GAME.

A big crowd of festive farmers witnessed Norwood's 13 to 7 victory over Martin Coughlin's Douro team at the annual picnic of the county U.F.O. in Norwood yesterday afternoon. The Hon Manning Doherty opened the game with Reeves Squire, Scott, Griffith and Eason of the County Council filling the bakground. The Minister of Agriculture wasn't strong on control and Reeve Coughlin waited him out, took a base out of the formality and improved it into a run.

Norwood got three in their first session, but the third innings was a field day in itself. The team batted around once and three more took their second swats before the side was retired, after counting eight runs. The U.F.O. committee with a programme of sports and speeches still untouched, began to get uneasy, fearing that the game might stretch out into a two-day affair like the best form of cricket.

"We had to put out five men that time," said Reeve Coughlin, referring to two decisions that were at least mighty close.

Douro got three in the fourth innings and two in the fifth but couldn't stretch either attack into a real big enough to overcome the fatal third. Norwood tacked on two more in their innings and Douro ended the game with three men, Walsh's being a grounder to second.

Walter Cranley pitched a fair game for Douro, and with better support would have turned in a closer score. Wild base running also cut off several scores. Martin Coughlin, for instance, led off the sixth with a long fly over the centre fielder's head. It was good for two bases, but he kept on going and was caught at third on a relay by the shortstop. Sullivan, the young second baseman, hit a three-bagger into left and was caught cold at the plate. Douro then sent a coach out to the third base line.

The Norwood team gave Heffernan better support and the team was fairly fast on the bases. They overlooked none of Douro's misplays. The batteries were:

Norwood—Heffernan and Andrews; Douro—Cranley and Coughlin.

The score by innings:

THE COMMERCIAL LEAGUE IS NOW BARNSTORMING AROUND COUNTRY

THE CHAMPIONS WILL MEET ALL COMERS IN THEIR CLASS—LOCAL BASEBALL COMMENT.

The curtain has ben rung down on the Commercial Baseball League with first honors going to Cressmans, the big store team having won four games and lost one. Lock Works was the only team to register a defeat against the new champions, the game between the two nines constituting a record for the league. It was the best played contest of the schedule and only forty-five minutes was required to play it.

Westclox played only four games out of which they emerged with two wins, and this team won second place.

Lock Works won two and lost three and Barrie's got two wins out of six games played.

The Commercial League produced some high class baseball, and should show greater strength next season. Each of the four teams was strong in the battery department, the work of the pitchers and catchers showing up well in every game. Connors the youthful hurler for the Lock Works team has all the earmarks of a comer.

The champions, with Bartley on the firing line and Cobb behind the bat had the edge on the other teams. Besides showing strength against the batters, their hitting was usually reliable and timely.

But the teams were not so strong on infield playing. Individually, the majority of the players were easily good enough for City League battles but the teams were not there in the big pinch. This was particularly true of Barrie's and as a result Al. Doughty's good pitching was wasted in several games.

The League was a big success, and now that the schedule is through, the teams are "barnstorming", taking on teams throughout the district.

Cressmans played in Lakefield last evening and play at Campbellford on Thursday afternoon.

The Standing.

Following is the standing in the Commercial League:—

	Won	Lost	P.C.
Cressmans	4	1	.800
Westclox	2	2	.500
Lock Works	2	3	.400
Barries	2	4	.334

LAKEFIELD NINE WEAKENED IN LAST STAGES GAME WITH THE CHAMPIONS

CRESSMANS GRABBED THE BIG END OF AN 18 TO 4 SCORE—THE GRUESOME DETAILS.

Cressman's ball team, champions of the Commercial League, motored to Lakefield last evening, and defeated the Lakefield nine of the East Peterboro Ball League, scoring 18 runs to 4, getting nine runs in the sixth.

Lakefield did not take their half of this frame, the game being called on account of darkness, so that according to Hoyle, the game reverts back to the fifth innings, and the correct score is 9 to 4.

The Northerners, minus several of their regulars, put up a good game in the field in the early stages of the game, and put over two double plays. In the fourth Cressmans pounded Nelson's offerings hard. DeGraw, Cobb and Rutherford getting doubles Manning, who took a turn on the hurling heap in the fifth, held the visitors safe, but they fell on him in the sixth, everybody going to the plate, and four of them for the second helping.

Both crowds had plenty of rooters, but Cressmans' crowd, led by Chief Rooter Rattenbury, with his pet megaphone, made most of the noise.

First Innings.

DeGraw leading off for Cressmans, let loose with a one base clout; the pitcher threw out Cobb, and when Bartley flew out to J. Hull, DeGraw was doubled at second.

Lakefield retired in order, J. Hull going out on a fly to Rutherford, Erskine on a foul fly that McGraw nabbed, and Fitzgerald on strikes.

Second Inings.

Hunter opened the second with a single, made second and then third on the catcher's wide heave, and came home when the ball was returned badly. Rutherford fanned, but Graham hit. Rayner lined one down third to Manning, who got Graham at second, and Hull threw to first, getting Rayner.

For Lakefield Adams struck out; Manning doubled but he was an easy out when he tore for third on Nelson's fly, which Bartley grabbed, and then threw to Sage.

Third Innings.

Cressmans got three in the third. Long got on when J. Hull mussed up his grounder, and Sage hit safely. DeGraw was thrown out at first. Cobb hit for two bags scoring Long and Sage. Bartley was out on a clout to the pitcher, but Fitzgerald in trying to get Cobb going into third, threw wild and the latter also scored. Hunter was thrown out by B. Hull.

DeGraw fanned Northey and Langley and then passed B. Hull. J. Hull singled, and an error by Sage put the former on third. Cressmans' middle sacker made amends by spearing Erskine's fly.

Fourth Innings.

Rutherford started trouble for Nelson in the fourth by leaning on the ball for two bases. Graham died on a bounder to the pitcher. Fitzgerald again threw badly to third and Rutherford crossed the plate. Singles by Rayner and Long and doubles by DeGraw, Cobb and Bartley, and a wild pitch were converted into four more runs. Bartley ended it by going out at third.

Lakefield got two in their half. Fitzgerald was passed and Adams singled. Manning hit both runners home. Manning went out at second, after a hair-raising dive into the bag. Nelson flew out to Bartley. Northey singled and Langley walked but no more runs developed, as B. Hull struck out.

Fifth Innings.

Manning relieved Nelson in the fifth and promptly fanned Hunter. Rutherford flew out and Fitzgerald took Graham's grounder and beat him to the bag.

Lakefield got two more. J. Hull starting with a single and Erskine dropping a double in the hay in right field. Cobb's error allowed Hull to score and after Fitzgerald had fanned Adams drew a single that sent Erskine home. Manning struck out and Cobb doubled Manning at second.

Sixth Innings.

The sixth brought a swatfest to Cressman's and nine runs. The homesters mixed four errors with four hits, a hit by the pitcher, a balk and a base on ball, and after it was all over the game was called.

THISTLES ARE LEADING IN SECOND SECTION OF CITY LEAGUE RACE

WITH KIRN PITCHING THE YEOTES CREW BEAT THE G.W.V.A. TEAM BY 8 RUNS TO 2, GETTING FIVE COUNTERS IN FIFTH INNINGS.

Until the fifth innings, last night's City League fixture, in which the Thistles beat the G.W.V.A. team 8 to 2 and thereby took the lead in the second section of the race, was a close battle as far as scoring went, for at the end of the fourth the teams were tied with two runs each. The Thistles broke loose in the fifth, however, and five hits, assisted by a couple of errors and a base on balls, gave them five runs and an easy win.

Outside of the fourth innings, when they bunched three hits for their pair of counters, the Vets could do litle with Kirn, who was on the rubber for the Yeotes' gang. A single in the second and another in the fifth represented their total hitting outside of the run-producing cluster already mentioned. On the other hand the Thistles found Wade's slants for twelve hits, while the Veteran pitcher gave four bases on balls and was poorly supported as well.

Neither team scored in the first, but the Thistles pushed a run over in the second innings. Swanston opened with a double to right centre which Campbell nearly got after a nice try. Harrison sacrificed him to third on a bunt in front of the plate, and when Kirn hit to Carroll, Swanston beat the throw home. Holyman singled to left; but Wilgar flied to Campbell and Turner fanned.

The Thistles filled the bases with one out in the third, but did not score, Harrison fouling out to Morse and Sheehy, who tried to score on the play, being run down between third and home.

The winners got a counter in the fourth, however. Kirn walked to start with, and when Holyman bunted, Wade threw to second too late to get the pitcher. Wilgar flied to centre, but Turner singled through the box filling the bases. Sheehy's fly to left, which Foley dropped, scored Kirn, but Holyman was caught at third on the play and Coursey fouled to Morse.

The Veterans tied it up in their half. Murphy was safe on Kirn's fumble. Head flied to Sheehy. Carroll singled over Kirn's head and Murphy was out at third on Coursey's throw to Murray. Carroll took second on the peg to the difficult corner. Pearson singled down the first base line, scoring Carroll and taking second on the throw in. Wade singled to centre, scoring Pearson. Campbell flied to Wilgar.

The Thistles broke up the game in the fifth. Murray opened with a single to right and stole second, going to third while Murphy was throwing out Swanston. Harrison singled to left centre, scoring Murray. Kirn doubled over Campbell's head in centre, Harrison who had stole second a moment before, coming home. Holyman hit a fly to Foley, who dropped it. Kirn should have been out at third on Foney's throw, but Pearson dropped the ball. Wilgar walked, filling the bases. Turner hit to Carroll, who tried for Wilgar on the line, Kirn scoring, but Carroll threw home in time to nip Holyman at the plate. Wilgar was called safe at second. Sheehy singled to short. Coursey's safety scored Wilgar and Turner, but Sheehy was caught between second and third for the final out.

The Yeotes crew got a totally unnecessary run in the sixth. With one out, Swanston singled to left and Harrison to right. Kirn hit one to Pearson, who threw high to first, Swanston scoring and Harrison going to third and Kirn to second. Scates, replacing Wilgar, walked, filling the bases, but Harrison was caught off third.

The Vets went out in order in their half and the game was then called on account of darkness.

MR. ALEX. M'KINLEY IS OFFICIAL REFEREE—MR. COOK AND MR. DICK RESPECTIVE LINESMEN—GOAL NETS WILL BE USED—THE SELECTED TEAMS.

A record crowd is expected to-morrow evening at the Exhibition grounds to witness the final game for the League championship of the Peterborough Football League between the Canadain General and the Great War Veterans.

The official referee will be Mr. Alex. McKinley, who was the unanimous choice of the executive. He will also have two fair-play linesmen on the touch in the persons of Mr. Alex. Dick and Mr. Cook, to aid him in any doubtful decisions.

Many football enthusiasts will be glad to learn that goal nets will be used for this game. They will be a great benefit to the players and officials in many ways, but more particularly the goalkeeper, who will be given his liberty in goal instead of having a crowd up against him.

It is the desire of the football executive that the public will stand back from the touch line—two feet, so as to give the linesmen a chance to award proper decisions.

Throughout the season the Vets have stuck to the same team as will do duty on Thursday evening, and have won seven games, drawn none, scored eighteen goals, and thirteen goals against and tied up with the C.G.E. with 14 points.

Unfortunately for the C.G.E. team the strike did not help them in the least, because many of their players moved to new quarters that necessitated new players to be requisitioned to fill up the ranks; also injuries were aplenty. The C.G.E. lost two valuable points when the Machine Gunners won their protest. They have won seven games with the total of 14 points, scored twenty-seven goals and eleven goals against.

The two captains (Gamble, Vets, and Mason, C.G.E.) will be called together at 6.25 for choice of ends, and immediately at 6.30 the referee will start the game.

The Vets will play the same team as played in the last four games:—C. Griffine goal, H. Gamble (capt.) and A. Bishop backs, A. Burrow, P. D. Ryan and J. Peel half-backs, S. Curtiss, T. Monks, H. Norman, A. Edwards and J. Sharman forwards. Reserves, N. Jones and J. Williams.

At a special meeting of the C.G.E. executive last evening the following team was selected: J. Naples goal, B. Mason (capt.) and J. McDonald backs, A. Parkins, H. Turner and J. Mann half-backs, A. Manders, C. Hotston, A. Gash, T. Bartley, T. Hoston forwards, Reserves, H. Flanders and R. Leach.

The winings team gets goal medals, also the losing team medals.

A good number of tickets have been sold and can be had from any football player for thirty cents (including war tax.) The ladies will be admitted free of charge.

A FEW WORDS FOR LOCAL LACROSSE

Sporting Editor,
Examiner.

Dear Sir,—A few words in regards to Lacrosse Canada's National Game, having watched several practices and also the games played here, I venture to say much praise is due to Manager Sutherland and his team in the way they are making progress towards the championship and if they keep up the good work they have begun, Peterboro boys will have no fear of not landing the trophy. But more encouragement is needed from the citizens as I understand the club has spared no expenses in fitting up the boys with sticks and uniforms which are very expensive. Now although I don't like to say but the attendance at both matches was very poor. Now at ball games the attendance is splendid and that is why it is so encouraging to the players. Now, why not take the same interest in lacrosse like every citizen turn out and Watch Canada's National game Lacrosse is the best and most speedy of games. What is nicer to watch than the action of the player, the quickness of his tricky pass, his speed in running and the shot on the goal. Now let every gentleman young and old get their shoulder to the wheel and bring Canada's game into Peterboro. Much thanks to Dr. N. H. Sutton and John Sutherland and the players and wishing them the brightest success in landing the championship.

HORSE RACES CAMPBELLFORD

ONE OF THE BEST DAY'S RACING IN TEN YEARS.

On Friday last, the 25th of June, there was a large attendance on the Agricultural grounds at Campbellford, when fifteen horses were raced under splendid weather conditions. There were twenty hroses altogether on the grounds from the places: Frankford 2, Trenton 2, Colborne 3, Havelock 3, Marmora 2, and eight local horses, five of these being unable to be started owing to lack of time.

The judges were Dr. Johnson of Port Hope and Mr. James C. Anderson of Campbellford; while Mr. Charles Armstrong of Havelock, was the starter.

The success of the races was greatly due to the efforts of Mr. C. H. Coveney and Mr. F. S. Keller, who worked hard in the interests of the sporting public of the district. All who gave their support both by their presence and also by their donations are heartily thanked, and it is very gratifying to know that after paying all expenses, there is a nice balance in the bank of ninety dollars ($90.00) which will be a great start for another day's racing in the near future. This was certainly one of the best day's racing seen in Campbellford for years, and will do a great deal to foster a lively interest in good clean sport, and be greatly appreciated by all sections of the community.

Codfish Croquettes

The EASIFIRST way

A DAINTY, satisfying and economical dish—when properly cooked! Use the recipe given here—just a wee bit of skill—and EASIFIRST. Your Codfish Croquettes will be light and delicious indeed.

Why? Because in deep frying EASIFIRST may be brought to an intense heat without burning. This means that foods fried in it have a quickly-formed, protecting crust which prevents the fat from soaking in. The interior cooking is done by heat alone, as it should be.

The EASIFIRST left over may be used again. It will not carry any flavor.

Here is a Good Recipe —Try It!

1 cup boiled codfish
2 cups mashed potatoes
1 cup thick white sauce
½ teaspoon pepper
Salt to taste
1 tablespoon chopped parsley

Shred the codfish, add potatoes, pepper, and parsley, then add the cream sauce. Shape, roll in crumbs and egg, then again in crumbs, and fry in a deep kettle of EASIFIRST.

For Cream Sauce, 1 level tablespoon EASIFIRST, 2 level tablespoons flour, 1 cup hot milk, ½ teaspoon salt.

Every package of EASIFIRST bears the Government's stamp of approval. Your grocer will supply you. Sold in cartons and tins.

HON. MARTIN DOHERTY AT PETERBORO U.F.O. PICNIC MET FAIR DAY

mense problems that face the people of this country. We should tolerate the other fellow whatever his views may be, providing he is a law-abiding citizen. With that spirit of unity, I feel confident that our problmse will be successfully solved, and that Canada will weather any storms that may be, ahead."

Mr. Doherty alluded to the interest shown by the women in public affairs discussed at the summer meetings of the United Farmers, and stated that if the U.F.O. never accomplished any other thing, their existence was justified alone by the bringing together of so many of the rural people of this Province to these picnics.

"Community life was keener forty or fifty years ago than it has been in the last ten years," he continued. Public questions were more carefully considered by the public, and yet at no time in our history has there been a greater need for discussing and understanding the questions that are agitating the public mind. You are aware that this country stands under a debt of two billions of dollars. We have come through a period of five years of war. We are not criticising how the money was spent or whether it was wasted. It was all for the one great purpose—the war was won, and that was the purpose for which the money was spent. Our Canadian people will not repudiate the debt, but it is well to remember that we have to pay $400,000,000 for interest and running expenses annually. For eight million people that means $50.00 on every man, woman, and child. When we meet the obligation we are not paying off any of the debt at all. However, the Canadian people will face it. He who says we will fall under the load fails to consider the stamina of the Canadian people and our great resources. But the greatest part of the debt must come out of the top six inches of the soil. Our industries will pay a part, but it will be a small part. Ontario's agricultural production yields $500,000,000 a year, and think of the thousands of acres yet untilled.

Rural Depopulation.

"Unfortunately the rural population has declined. That makes the load all the heavier. In 1870, 70 per cent. of our population were on the farms and 30 per cent. in the towns. The positions are now practically reversed, and 70 per cent. of the people live in the cities. Our 30 per cent. has to feed the other 70 per cent., and at the same time pay off most of the war debt."

Emigration Policy.

Hon. Mr. Doherty spoke of the emigration scheme he had planned and would introduce as a Bill at the next session. Mr. George Creelman, of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, had been sent to London to prepare during next winter and spring for emigration from the British Isles, Belgium, Norway and Sweden. These people would be carefully chosen. In this way it was hoped to bring in good farm labourers and farmers. "We realise that if we are to carry the load, the first thing to do is to bring in more farmers, to increase agricultural production. We shall insist upon sifting them down so that only the best shall come and only those who can make good. While this seems desirable and perhaps necessary, none can be brought here who will be as great an asset to this country than our own boys. If we can hold our boys on the farms, it will be a big thing for our rural population."

Rural Credits.

One proposed measure of help for farm boys was a system of farm credits which, Mr. Doherty said, he had give notice to investigate. It has too often been the experience that a farmer with a number of boys was unable to help them all when they were arriving at young manhood. Usually only one remained on the farm, while the others drifted into the cities, entering professons or taking up trades.

"I have no quarrel with the present bankng system," said Mr. Doherty, "but I believe it is not adapted to conditions in Ontario, especially in Northern Ontario. All these boys brought up o the farms would be the best farmers we could get. If we had a system of rural credits we could help them get a start. We will lend them money to buy stock and impiements, and tell them to go farming. It is necessary for the banks usually to make loans and give credit only where there are tangible assets. Otherwise they would soon go bankrupt. But they do not take into consideration the greatest asset a man has, his character. We have rural credit systems in Quebec, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, and Alberta, and they are working admirably."

Friendly to Hydro.

Mr. Doherty related some of the difficulties under which the Government was organised and established. If Premier Drury was spared, he said, he would be one of the greatest men Ontario ever produced.

"That was the wisest choice you ever made," said an old man in the audience, when Mr. Doherty told how the Premier was called in to lead the Government.

"He may not have made a wise choice in picking his Minister of Agriculture," Mr. Doherty remarked, laughing, "but a man can't be right every time."

Mr. Doherty denounced as unmitigated lies the reports to the effect that the Government was not friendly to the Hydro-Electric and to public ownership.

"So friendly are we to Hydro that it has been on our platform ever since our inception. We are unanimous about it, and so fully behind it and so anxious for its success that we will not allow it to run wild, or permit enthusiastic followers of Hydro to shove it along lines that would ultimately cause its ruin."

He recalled the failures and ineptitudes of former Governments in dealing with the Toronto-Niagara Power Company, and how the Drury Government had summarily threatened the company with the cancellation of its charter if it persisted in taking more power than the 125,000 h.p. to which it was entitled.

Then there was lobbying, Mr. Doherty said, when a rumour of this measure got around. Representatives of the interests came back to the House, but they were lost. They didn't know whom to talk to; the measure passed without opposition.

Before building Hydro radials which had been so loudly advocated, the Government intend to investigate the cost of them and to lay any scheme before the people for their approval, Mr. Doherty continued. In the meantime there was need of electric power in the rural districts. Because of the consumption of power in the manufacture of munitions during the war, the claims of the rural section in this regard had been set to one side. It was now the farmers' turn to receive some attention.

New Cream Weights Bill.

Mr. Doherty outlined a new piece of legislation devised to protect the farmers against unjust weights in the sale of cream to factories. It provided authority for a complete examination of the books of these records. Honest men would not be interfered with and need not worry, but the Minister declared that he proposed to prosecute any and every offender. This practice of short weighting on cream shipments had cost the farmers thousands of dollars, he said.

Faith in Ferguson.

Mr. Doherty touched upon the exposure of the timber steals, and said he couldn't believe that the late Minister of Lands and Forests, Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, was in any way implicated. The people of this country had heard for years of the great wealth of Ontario's natural resources, but heretofore the timber sales have produced but little more than enough to pay for the fire ranging and expenses of the Department. If the natural resources could be secured for the people, Mr. Doherty believed they would provide enough to pay the running expenses of this Province.

REJUVENATED BY "VITAL" TABLETS

People are to-day trying every means to keep young. Some are being fed on monkey glands, and others are having glands of other people injected into their system. We claim the method of injecting glands into the system is unnecessary. The revival of youth can be brought about by taking the French rejuvenator, VITAL Tablets. A person of sixty can feel like a person of twenty. We do not claim VITAL Tablets will do all this instantly, but by taking them regularly for a time, and the time will depend upon the person, but one will gradually feel younger, and eventually you will come back to the land of youth and pep. Diseases of every description will gradually disappear, men and women will be healthy and strong, doctors' bills will be reduced to a minimum. If you are not feeling yourself, go to your drug store and procure a box of these celebrated French Tablets, and you will experience such a change for the good, that you will forever bless the inventor of this wonderful rejuvenating tonic. VITAL Tablets are sold at all good drug stores, at Fifty cents per box. Start taking them today. To-morrow you will feel better.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

THE HUNTER STREET BRIDGE

To the Editor:
Sir,—

May I ask the favor of a small space in your valuable journal on the subject of the Hunter Street Bridge?

It will be within the memory of the public that before the contrfct was let I voiced through your columns a protest against letting it in the blind manner proposed.

I was not alone in foreseeing the very trouble that now confronts the Citizens—the voted money gone and no bridge! and there is no knowing even now what the ultimate cost will be.

My objection to an all concrete structure was clearly explained by me, and the events have justified my prognostications. The expense of the piling now being driven would go a long way towarads the cost of a steel cantilever span.

My objections were laid aside on the understanding that if necessary a steel span could be substituted for the proposed concrete arch at a later date if thought expedient.

I pointe dout the wasteful feature of this plan at the time, showing that the footings for a buttress to support the steel span would cost much less than those for a concrete arch—and it ought to have been decided, before these were in—but wiser(?) counsels prevailed and it was left open to adopt the alternative later. I don't like this method of designing ambulando—it is always wasteful.

Is it not time now, Sir, to have this matter impartially investigated? I have not the figures I then had, but I estimated the cost very carefully and told the public that an all concrete bridge would likely run into $400,000.00. I still think so. And I am still of opinion that a steel span would be equally sufficient, equally ornamental and thousands of dollars cheaper.

People are frightened at the bugbear of expense of occasional painting and forget that they have the problem of the effect of expansion and contraction to face and the (to some extent) experimental lead expansion joint, and in place of the painting bugbear they have the unknown quantity of a repair bill if your experimental expansion joint fails of its purpose.

The citizens have already a taste of the extent of the reliability of their present advisers, in the position into which the city is now landed; and I say the time has come to call a halt, and openly and fairly have this question, discussed and settled before any more blind work is entered on.

Mr. W. J. Kearns had the courage and public spirit to institute an action for an injunction last year, and if the citizens had had the wisdom to have backed him up when security was called for, all this trouble might have been avoided.

Yours, etc.,
JAS. G. GUISE-BAGLEY,

TO ANNOUNCE NEW PREMIER AT 4 O'CLOCK

SIR THOMAS WHITE SEEMS CHOICE OF BORDEN'S CABINET.

OTTAWA, July 7.—At four o'clock this afternoon Sir Robert Borden will have anannouncement for the public. That announcement will no doubt be as to his choice of a successor. This morning the Premier had a consultation with the "inner Cabinet," Hon. Messrs. Ballantyne, Reid and Calder. These are the men with whom he has conferred almost exclusively since he was called upon to perform the task of choosing a new leader. They are not Meighen men and their conference with the Premier to-day may be significant.

Will Not Take Refusal.

In spite of the declaration of Sir Thomas White last night that he would not accept the position, some members, and even ministers, do not take the refusal as definite, and predict that he will succumb to pressure and crane his mind. The great majority of the Cabinet is for him, and the significance of this morning's conference in the Premier's office cannot be overlooked.

MARK ST. CHURCH PASTOR HONOURED

CIRCUIT BOARD GRANTS SIX WEEKS VACATION AND INCREASES SALARY.

The Board also recognized his official Church and circuit Monday evening, and honored their pastor, Rev. G. H. Rose by granting him six weeks leave of absence to visit Winnipeg and other western localities. The Board also recognized his efficient and acceptable work in the past year by increasing his stipend to $1,500. The meeting was most satisfactory and pleasant in every way.

During the pastor's absence Rev. P. H. Neville of this city, a fully ordained and exceedingly successful minister, will be in charge of Mark Street Circuit.

Rev. and Mrs. Rose left for Winnipeg this afternoon at 3.30.

Voice Of The People

TRUTH SPICED WITH HUMOR.

A striking answer to the question, What is a dried soul? Num. 11:56.

The word "soul" is mentioned 700 times in the Old Testament, and is from the Hebrew word "Nephesh." It is also translated life and living 150 times, soul 471 times. It is also translated me, him, anyone, heart, breath, appetite body (dead or alive), lust, creature, beasts and creatures, 28 times, such as souls of asses, beeves and sheep. See Num. 31:28.

The Bible also speaks of souls that work, souls that sin, souls that die, souls destroyed, souls that touch, souls that eat, souls that steal, souls that swear, souls that trespass, souls torn (by lions), souls rent, blood of souls (when you cut your finger), souls that weep (with tears trickling down the cheek), souls afflicted, souls melter, souls poured out (as in Isa. 53:12, "Jesus poured out His soul unto death), souls bound (in iron; "Joseph's soul came into iron," Psa. 105:18, margin; and dried souls in Num. 11:6.

A certain bishop has said that the soul is so small that you can put a million in a nutshell and still have room. This would be a very small soul indeed; and yet not a dried one. Theosophists claim that a soul weighs seven sixteenths of an ounce! If this be true, what would a dried soul weigh?

When Moses delivered the nation of Israel from Egypt they murmured bitterly and said, "Why did you bring us out of Egypt to die in the wilderness? We would rather be slaves in Egypt than to die here: there we had fish to eat, cucumbers, melons, leeks, onions and garlic; now our souls are all dried away," Num. 11:56.

Possibly some had weighed 200 pounds, and lost half a pound. This would be a dried soul! Now a lion would make a great feast if he should tear one weighing 7-16 of an ounce or one as small as the bishop would have us believe. Stop and think! The "being" is the soul!

UNCLE DANIEL'S BIBLE CLASS.
Peterborough.

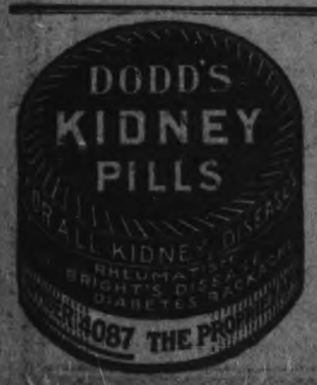
To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—Your courteous editorial on Monday contained two or three statements that I consider not quite in accord with the purpose of my recent letter nor with public opinion. I intended to convey the impression that I, for one, did not favor having those guns consigned to the scrap heap or to the river. Whether they are kept in Central Park or elsewhere is another matter. If they are to be kept in Central Park, it is my opinion that the two outside guns should be placed farther back. Retaining them right at the corners is not in accordance with good landscape effect. But keep them where they are rather than do away with them altogether. My suggestion is that they be removed to Victoria Park where they would have a real park as a setting. Central Park is a disgrace to the city; more about this later.

If German guns should be thrown in the river, as you seem to advocate—because they offend relatives of men who fell in the war—what should we do with our Heinie helmets uniforms, revolvers, etc.? It never occurred to me that my Heinie helmet might have adorned the squarehead that fired the shot that killed my good brother. Has any person objected to the countless German revolvers that have been displayed to public view in shop windows and elsewhere? Those revolvers might have been "the very ones that blew our boys to pieces!"

Your contention that the stand I take in this matter is not representative of the Veterans may be true. I am writing merely as one veteran who objects to objections to the guns. You are mistaken, however, if you think that there are not many others who think likewise. If the Veterans are against those guns being retained in Central Park, or anywhere, why were they silent on this question last night (Monday) at their monthly meeting?

Yours,
"OLD SARGE."



What "luscious" means

The Standard Dictionary says:
"(Lus'shus; lush'us), very grateful to the sense of taste; rich, sweet and delicious; honey-like; as, ... to any sense, or to the mind; as, luscious fruit, luscious odors, etc."

The Century Dictionary says:
"Very sweet, somewhat cloying; delicious; very pleasant to taste; hence, excessively pleasing to any of the senses or to the mind, with usually disagreeable, etc."

Webster's Dictionary says:
"Sweet; delicious; very grateful to the taste; toothsome, etc."

The Encyclopedia Dictionary says:
"(Lus'shus, lusshus), Voluptuous; sweet to a great degree; delightful to the taste, etc."

But LANTIC leaves out "Luscious sugar" Brown Sugar.

folks delight in Brown Sugar goodies

At the fragrant memory of old-time dishes, what eager lips are smacked! It is taste that lingers longest in the mind.

Sweet and luscious to the palate, is the appeal of LANTIC Brown Sugar. Sweet from the actual amount of pure sugar it contains—luscious from other constituents of the cane juice left in it, bodies which represent the "bouquet" of the cane juice.

For tea and coffee and ordinary preserving purposes, where a conflict of flavors is to be avoided—LANTIC Fine Granulated, of course. But where rich flavor is desirable, LANTIC Brown gives to baking and desserts the characteristic molasses taste which is a big improvement. It makes good dishes great!

Spices and LANTIC Brown are on the friendliest terms. Spiced cookies, and cup cakes, and all sweet pickles or spiced fruits are better when made with Brown Sugar. All dishes containing raisins, dates, figs or currants develop a new deliciousness from the use of LANTIC Brown.

Be a little different. Add LANTIC lusciousness to your baking!

LANTIC Brown Sugar should really cost more than white—if deliciousness is the true test of value—BUT YOU GET IT FOR LESS. Your grocer has luscious LANTIC brown sugar only in 10-lb. sacks; but he will give you any quantity you ask for.

SUCCESS IN A SMALL GARDEN

By Stella G. Temple in "The Canadian Horticulturist."

When I look back on the experiences I have had in growing flowers in what is termed a city garden, I am convinced that an abundance of bloom can be had during the summer months, June, July, August and September, if a certain amount of work regarding soil conditions is intelligently done, and if the exposure admits of some hours of sunlight.

The first question is, How get the soil into condition? The answer is—work it. An autumn over-turning one foot, preferably two feet deep, is essential when the earth is heavy, sour, damp and long neglected, while to lighten it add fine coal ashes, or sand, with a sprinkling of slaked lime. If this is followed by exposure to a winter's frosts, and if old manure is liberally mixed in, in the early spring, you will have the beginning, at least, of a fertile soil.

Dry Soil.

Where, on the contrary, the condition of the soil is dry, sandy and over-porous, the addition of heavy loam and a greater quantity of manure is required, although manure is becoming difficult to obtain, particularly in urban centres. I have found, however, that it is indispensable in keeping the soil in good condition; but if only obtainable once a year, work it in in the spring. It is understood that any cultivating should be done when the earth is dry; if it sticks to the spade, forbear.

With the soil lightened and fertilized, plant masturtiums, for bloom that will delight your heart the season through. There is no climber more graceful. If you take a little trouble helping them along here and there. I stake mine on slender branches, and then up on the fences and trellises they run. Your reward is flowers from early July to late October. We all know their lovely fragrance and the exquisite shading of the blossoms.

The Graceful Nasturtium.

I put my seeds in early, the first week in May, and I put them in deep. True, on seed packages you read: "Cover the seeds lightly," but I have found it a fallacy for nasturtiums. I plant mine two inches deep, and so, if we have a snow flurry after they are in, I do not worry, and I never look to see the little squarish leaf pushing up till on or about May 24. I know that by then they have made good root growth, and that in July, if a drought sets it, their stems will stay fresh and green, while those with only a surface growth will be dying out and fading. The plants are thinned out from nine to twelve inches apart.

I usually pick my first nasturtiums the first week in July, and after that I pick them daily. I have had bowlfuls to inches in diameter five and six times in a week. Some people think nasturtiums only do well in a sunny spot. Of course, nearly all flowers love the sun, but one side of my garden only gets but little and ve I have many flowers there.

GERMANY'S PLAN FOR DISARMAMENT

TO BE PRESENTED ALLIED CONFERENCE AT SPA THIS AFTERNOON.

(Canadian Press)

SPA, Belgium, July 7.—A decision was reached by members of the German Ministry and military officers attached to the German delegation here this morning to recommend to Konstantin Fehrenbach, head of the German delegation, that the plan of disarmament for Germany be presented Allied representatives this afternoon. The conference, therefore, will continue.

Will Not Revise Clauses.

Important clauses of the Peace Treaty with Turkey will remain as they are, it has been decided by the Supreme Council in session here. At this morning's meeting with Premier Venizelos of Greece present, Council decided it would be impossible to grant the Turkish request for a revision of these clauses. A commission of experts will be appointed, however, to study minor clauses with reference to a partial revision of documents of areas concerned.

HALIBURTON BY-LAW CARRIED.
With practically no effort at making the matter public, the by-law to authorise issuing debentures for $10,000 to install an electric light plant was put to a vote in Haliburton on Saturday last and carried by a slim majority of 20. Considering how little was known of the affair, the vote in the village turned out strong, but the outside polls were small. Harcourt, which has least benefit to expect from it, gave a clear vote for the by-law, and Donald, which has a plant of its own, turned it down cold.

DOES NOT BLAME THE HOUSEKEEPER
Mr. Charles Matthews, who was burnt out last Wednesday evening, states he has no reason to blame his housekeeper, who left his employ on the day of the fire. The housekeeper left a few hours befor the fire broke out, but nothing has developed that would warrant the suggestion that she was in any way responsible. Mr. Matthews has also received several offers of assistance which he has declined as he is able to provide for the needs of himself and family.

WEDDING BELLS

HORWOOD—DICKSON.
On Wednesday, June 30th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Dickson, Westwood, was the scene of a beautiful wedding when their daughter, Ada Ellen, was united in marriage to Rev. T. J. Horwood, A.T.C.M., of Cameron, at 3.30 p.m. The bride entered the verandan on the arm of her father to the strains of Mendelsonn's wedding march, played by the bride's sister, Lena. Under a beautiful arch of evergreens, ferns and white roses the ceremony was performed by Rev. F. Howard, S.T.L., of Stirling, assisted by Rev. Capt. H. B. Kenny, of Campbellford. The bride looked beautiful in a gown of ivory crepe meteor with bodice of duchess satin and pearl trimming. She wore the customary bridal veil and orange blossoms. The only ornament worn was a sunburst set with pearls, the gift from the groom. She carried a sheaf of ophelia roses and fern. The two little flower girls, Lillian, the bride's sister, dressed in blue silk, and also her little niece, Byrel Hewie, gowned in shell pink satin, both carrying a beautiful basket of white and pink roses. After the ceremony and the signing of the register the bride lead the way to the dining room, which was so beautifully decorated for the occasion. The guests, numbering to about sixty, partook of a sumptious wedding dinner. The wedding cake, which was four storey, was very attractive. The toasts having been proposed and drank, speeches made, after which the bridal party motored to Hastings amid showers of confetti and good wishes, and took the evening train for Niagara and Hamilton, the bride travelling in navy blue taffeta with navy blue georgette hat to match. The young couple was the recipient of a large sum of money also many valuable presents. The groom's gift to the pianist was a ring set with pearls and to each of the flower girls a pin set with amethysts. This was not only a wedding day, but also the 45th anniversary of the bride's eldest uncle, Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Elmhurst, which made the event more pleasing. The toasts being proposed and drank, all wishing Mr. and Mrs. Elmhurst many more years of a happy wedded life.

On their return Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Horwood will reside at Norham where Rev. F. J. Horwood has charge of that circuit.

Some of the friends from a distance was: Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Scott, Syracuse, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. William Elmhurst, Syracuse, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. F. Elmhurst and Miss Bessie, of New Haven, N.Y.; Mrs. B. ALLEGES C.P.R. IS BEHIND DRURY'S RADIAL DECISION

CONTROLLER MAGUIRE OF TORONTO SAYS C.P.R. DIDN'T WANT RADIALS BUILT.

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, July 7. — That the Canadian Pacific Railway Company is behind the decision of the Provincial U.F.O.-Labor Government of Hon. H. C. Drury to delay for the present the acquisition and extension of hydro-radial railways in Ontario, is the assertion of Alfred J. Maguire, Member of Toronto's Board of Control and the Vice-President of the Hydro-Radial Association of Ontario.

Controller Maguire declared that the C.P.R. did not want radials built, and that, innocently or not, the Drury Government was in line with the C.P.R.

There will be an emergency meeting of the Ontario Hydro-Radial Association in Toronto to-morrow to deal with the situation.

FAVOUR PUBLIC OWNERSHIP HON. MR. DOHERTY DECLARED

Speaking to the Peterborough County farmers at Norwood yesterday Hon. Manning Doherty anticipated the announcement made by the Government as to its radial railway policy ,and although only touching upon this subject in the course of his address, he prepared his audience for the reflections which had been made long before yesterday.

"There are certain periodicals and papers and persons in Ontario who will attempt to show that the Drury government is not friendly to public ownership and to the Hydro-Electric," said Mr. Doherty. "A more unmitigated lie never appeared within the covers of the press. We are so friendly to the Hydro and public ownership that they have been on our platform since our inception. We are unanimous for them. We are so fully behind public ownership and the Hydro and so anxious for its success that we will not allow it to run wild, nor permit enthusiastic supporters of Hydro to shove it along lines that will ultimately cause its ruin.

We are criticized because we haven't extended radial railway systems all over the province. We know that parts of the province haven't yet got power and light, to say nothing of radials. We want light and power on the concession lines of this province. If we can put in radial railways afterward ,all well and good, but before the government embarks on any scheme of building and acquiring radial railways which may cost one hundred million dollars, the project will be fully investigated. The people will know what the cost is going to be before one dollar is spent. That is the government's intention. We intend to investigate and get estimates, place these before the people and await their approval, for it is their money we are sending.

WILL APPOINT COMMISSION.

TORONTO, July 7—After several days' consideraion of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission's radial scheme, the Ontario Government has caled for a delay in the whole project—iticluding Sir Adam Beck's proposal for the immediate purchase of the Toronto Eastern Railway, the Toronto Suburban Railway, and the Niagara, St. Catharines & Toronto Railway from the Federal Government at a cost of $6,873,374—and the question of any possible development of Hydro Electric radials in Ontario must wait until after the findings of a special Government Commission which is yet to be appointed, and which will be requested to proceed immediately with its work, to hold public inquiries, and to report without unnecessary delay. In the meantime, to quote the statement issued yesterday by the Ontario Government, "all action in the direction of further outlays or the assumption of further responsibilities in radial matters by the Hydro-Electric Commission will be stayed."

A Question of Cost.

In their official statement issued last night, the Government pointed out that they were guided by many considerations in arriving at their decision. There was the matter of the provincial debt and the extent to which the Hydro projects have already involved the province. To date, it is pointed out, the province has advanced approximately $56,750,000 to the Hydro-Electric Commission, and in connection with the Central Ontario System. In addition the province has guaranteed bonds, bringing its obligations to practically $65,000,000, or 52 per cent. of Ontario's present debt. In addition ,the Government points out, the province will, in the near future, have to supply over $32,000,000 in cash to complete the Chippawa, Nepigon and other power works now in process of construction. In other ways the province is already committed to Hydro expenditures totaling nearly $40,000,000, which, it is pointed out, may run still higher if the Chippawa costs should exceed its present estimate. Lumping them all, the Government has estimated the Hydro expenditures at $103,000,000 or $104,000,000.

Want Stronger Evidence.

Apart from the question of expenditure and provincial debt, there was the question of the soundness of the radial scheme. In this connection, the Government statement points out that, "so far, no information has been put before the Government which is at all sufficient to permit it to form any reasonable opinion as to the correctness of the estimates put before the municipalities or the probability that the projected railways will have earnings sufficient to make them self-supporting."

MORE GERMAN GUNS FOR LONDON, ONTARIO

LONDON, Ont., July 7.—London is to have still more war trophies in the form of German artillery. Mayor Little received word from Ottawa that two more field guns and a howitzer had been awarded to the "town of London," and were on their way here. Four guns were received last week for the "city of London."

With these additional mementoes of the great war there will be no difficulty in giving all parts of the city a fair share of the spoils. It is likely that when the guns are received they will be parked on the Federal Square property, with the four which arrived last week, until some other plans are made for permanent locations for them in other parts of the city.

NEW REVOLUTION IN MEXICO RUMOURED.

(Canadian Press.)

EAGLE PASS, Texas, July 7.—Reports that twelve bridges have been burned in Mexico south of Monclova, gave rise here to-day to rumours that a new revolution had broken out in the Southern Republic. Adolfo Gonzales was said to head the new movement.

STREET RAILWAYMEN ARE SURE OF INCREASES.

TORONTO, July 7. — Rumors in circulation yesterday that further trouble was brewing in the street railway circles, have fortunately proved to be baseless.

At a meeting of the men in the Labor Temple last night there was some little discussion regarding the date from which the recent wage increases should be paid. The men consider the increase should date from June 16th, the date following the expiration of the old agreement. The Toronto railway Company on the other hand, holds the view that they should date from the time the men resumed work after the strike.

Secretary W. D. Robins stated at the close of last night's meeting that everything would be arranged satisfactorily and there was no danger of further trouble.

SOLDIERS' MEETING.

There will be a very special Soldiers' meeting to-night at the Temple at eight o'clock, when Lieut. Ina Currie, formerly of this city, will be present and will assist at the meeting. Lieut. Currie is staying over on her way to her new appointment in Perth and her many friends will be glad to see her after her absence. All soldiers and converts, also ex soldiers, are invited to come to-night at 8 o'clock.

Meighen Succeeds Sir Robert Borden

PREMIER'S RESIGNATION TAKES EFFECT ON SATURDAY—NEW ADMINISTRATION ENTRUSTED BY GOVERNOR-GENERAL TO MR. MEIGHEN.

CABINET BY SATURDAY

Canadian Press.

OTTAWA, July 8. — Hon. Arthur Meighen, now Minister of the Interior, and Member of the House of Commons for the constituency of Portage La Prairie, Manitoba, will be the next Prime Minister of Canada, and leader of the recently formed National Liberal and Conservative Party.

Sir Robert Borden will be relieved of the premiership on Saturday next, and Mr. Meighen will succeed him in office and will form a ministry.

An announcement was made on behalf of the Governor-General, as follows:

"The formal resignation of Sir Robert Borden will be tendered to His Excellency the Governor-General on Saturday next, the 10th inst., and will be accepted by His Excellency with great regret. His Excellency has entrusted to the Honorable Arthur Meighen, Minister of the Interior, the formation of a new administration, and Mr. Meighen has undertaken that duty."

Of the Premier's former colleagues in the Cabinet two have announced their intention to retire; others have accepted office in his administration.

The retiring Prime Minister, Sir Robert Borden, saw the Governor-General at Rideau Hall last night.

After the conference it was officially announced that Mr. Meighen would succeed to the high position of Prime Minister of the Dominion. Hon. N. W. Rowell, President of the Privy Council and Hon. Martin Burrell, Minister of Customs and Inland Revenue, will retire.

The former's resignation will take effect at the same time as that of Sir Robert Borden.

Hon. Martin Burrell has for some time been prepared to retire from the Cabinet. He has now done so and has been appointed one of the Librarians of Parliament.

MAY COMPLETE CABINET BY SATURDAY NEXT.

OTTAWA, July 8. — It is thought that the new Prime Minister may be in a position to announce the complete list of the new Cabinet by Saturday. Several meetings are being held by the various ministers concerned this morning. There are now five vacancies in the Cabinet: that of external affairs, by Hon. Mr. Meighen's promotion; Public Works, and Presidency of the Privy Council, now vacant by the resignation of Mr. Rowell, and Customs Department, by the outgoing of Hon. Martin Burrell.

If Mr. Rowell's portfolio is to be filled, Hume Cronyn, London, is regarded as the likely successor.

For New Brunswick representation S. E. Elkin and R. W. Wigmore are mentioned and for Nova Scotia, F. D. McCurdy, Colchester.

The British Columbia successor will likely be H. H. Stevens or R. F. Green. In any event three bye-elections will be necessary and possibly four.

BONANZA FOR BUYERS AT BOTNIK BROS.

WAR ON HIGH PRICES AT THE BIG BARGAIN HOUSE, NO. 432 GEORGE STREET.

Prudent householders and economical shoppers all over the city and county of Peterborough will welcome the announcement made in this issue by Messrs. Botnick Bros. 432 George Street. This firm has started a war on high prices for the month of July, the particulars of which will be found in the large advertisement on another page. It is full of good reading for all who have clothing, millinery, boots and shoes, and general dry goods to buy. This advertisement tells the truth about lowered prices convincingly, and must result in bringing crowds of buyers. Botnick Bros. find their stock twice too large at this season and they prefer the cash without profits rather than the goods. It will pay to keep in close touch with this July sale, and watch the bargains as they crop up. 1d-tw

FORMER GERMANS LIKE NEW RULERS

Only 200 Protests From 68,000 People Now Under Belgium.

BRUSSELS, July 8.—The referendum at Eupen and in Malmedy, formerly German but now Belgian, thus far shows 200 registered protests against Belgian occupation out of a total population of 68,000.

(The Versailles Treaty provided that for six months after the Treaty went into effect the people of Eupen and Malmedy should be permitted to record in writing a desire to see the whole or part of Eupen and Malbedy remain under German sovereignty.)

The opportunity to record protests ends on Saturday.

SAY RADIAL SCHEME IS NOT UNDERSTOOD

BRANTFORD'S MAYOR NOT SURPRISED AT DELAY

TORONTO, July 7.—Hon. Walter Rollo, Minister of Labor, endorses the Provincial government's decision to suspend radial railway projects until they are fully investigated.

"When there is any doubt or difference of opinion as to the feasibility of the thing and its exact cost, I can see no serious objections to a thorough investigation.

"If the proposition is as good as is represented, they have nothing to fear from inquiry."

Mayor Church.

"The municipalities won't stand for it," declared Mayor Church. "I am not surprised at the action of the Government. They have done nothing for Hydro, but raise doubts and fears. If Sir James Whitney had the same doubts and fears there never would have been any Hydro-Electric system. The Cabinet has no right to take this action without the authority of the Legislature. What they have done is illegal. The Government doesn't stand to lose one dollar on Hydro radials. If there is any loss the municipalities stand that. But there will not be a loss."

Mayor McBride, M.L.A.

Mayor McBride, Labor member for Brantford, stated to-day: "In my opinion the advocates of public ownership in the Province of Ontario will have to accept the pronouncement of the Government as a direct challenge.

'I think it is an outrage and that the Government doesn't understand the question. The Government evidently hasn't the knowledge or the capacity for getting at the true facts."

"I am not surprised, because during last session there was evidence of an underground propaganda against the Hydro radials."

LONDON TO PARIS BY AIRPLANE FOR $52.50

PARIS, July 7.—Early announcement is expected of the reduction of passenger rates for air travel between London and Paris, and many are wondering if the day is far distant when it may be cheaper to travel by air than by land and sea. At the beginning of the London-Paris air service last year the price for one-way ticket on small, fast machines was 20 guineas and 15 guineas on the larger passenger ships. It is now reported that fares will soon be reduced to £10 10 shillings.

In one recent week's flying more than 100 passengers were carried in the London-Paris air service, and it is hoped that a reduction in price will increase the number of passengers. There have been an ever-increasing number of inquiries for the service, but the price has discouraged many prospective passengers.

POLES ARE RETIRING

THE BOLSHEVIST FORCES CLAIM SERIES OF SUCCESSES ON LONG BATTLE FRONT—CROSS THE BERESINA.

VOLUNTEERS CALLED

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, July 8.—The Russian Bolshevik forces have smashed their way forward on the southern flank of the Polish front, and the Soviet military authorities claim success in a series of battles near Staro Konstantinov, towards which town they are driving the Poles, according to a Bolsheviki official statement received here by wireless.

Heavy fighting is going on between the Bolsheviki and the forces commanded by General Wrangel on the southern front, the struggle being particularly intense in the region of Orientov, the statement says.

Bolsheviki troops have succeeded in effecting a crossing of the Beresina in strong force near Navolialki, southeast of Borisov, it was announced in to-day's Polish communique.

A smaller detachment forced the Beresina south of Beresina village, further to the south-east.

POLES CALL VOLUNTEERS.

(Canadian Press)

WARSAW, July 8.—Volunteers for immediate service against the advancing Bolshevik forces are called by the Polish National Council of Defence in a manifesto just issued.

Besides calling able bodied men to arms, the manifesto urges men unfit for active service to register in order to release office men for duty at the front.

The document, bearing signature of President Pilsudski, declares "the struggle is a fight against Bolshevism rather than against Russia."

POLAND'S FATEFUL HOUR.

(Canadian Press)

Another proclamation address to the soldiers says "the decisive moment has arrived in which Poland's fate is to be decided." It assures the soldiers that in case they are wounded their income will be continued by the Government and that provision will be made by the Government for the families of those killed in battle.

Citizens having in their possession swords, rifles and ammunition are urged to turn them over to the Government for use in the army.

SCHOOL PRINCIPAL ONLY $200 IN HOLE

ST. CATHARINES TEACHER AFTER BITTER EXPERIENCE RESIGNS POSITION.

ST. CATHARINES, July 7.—Geo. R. Coombs, who has resigned from the principalship of Alexandra public school here, has informed the Board of Education that his experience in coming to St. Catharines has been "bitter." The salary is too small to be any inducement to him to remain, according to Mr. Coombs; it cost him $300 to move to this city; he has been unable to live on his salary, and "with great economy" he has managed to come out $200 in the hole. The board has accepted his resignation.

$500,000 OUTLAY FOR BLACK BAY CANNERY

BIG MODERN FISHING FLEET ALSO TO BE MAINTAINED.

(Canadian Press.)

EDMONTON, Alta., July 8.—Extensive operations involving the outlay of nearly $500,000, and the maintenance of a big fishing fleet are planned by the Mackenzie Basin Fisheries, who are establishing a cannery at Black Bay, Athabasca, equipped with modern machinery that will employ over one hundred helpers, according to Captain Les Baxter, of Canning, Nova Scotia.

The captain is on his way to Peace River to take charge of a river steamer loaded with supplies that will be used in the construction of the factory.

$10 ROYALTY PAID ON EACH SILVER FOX

(Canadian Press.)

VICTORIA, B.C., July 8.—Regulations have just been issued by the Provincial Government providing for the payment of royalties by fur traders on pelts and skins of fur-bearing animals. The amount varies from fifty cents on each bear to ten dollars on silver fox. The figure is based on five percentum of the commercial value. A fee of $25 will be charged to fur traders for permits to buy furs at wholesale from licensed fur traders or at sales of furs at public auction.

AFTER 50 YEARS

HENRY MORRIS FINDS FEW OF HIS OLD COMPANIONS LEFT.

After fifty years' absence from Peterborough, Henry Morris naturally expected to find many changes in the old town of his youth, but the scenes of those days were still so fresh in his memory that he set out this morning to visit what he knew as the old burying grounds, but which has been Central Park to the present generation. His vision of gravestones and little mounds quickly vanished before the actuality of the array of big buildings spreading across the backgrounds from Murray street to McDonnel street. The level grass and trimmed trees stood out vividly and the picture he had vaguely looked forward to remained only as a dream.

Mr. Morris used to live in a house where now stands Coleman's north store. His father made and sold medicines. Few of the citizens of those early days and not many of their youth have survived the intervals of fifty years, but there are a few to share recollections and the realization that the old days were best. Mr. Morris is now with the Western Weighing and Inspection Bureau at Davenport, Iowa.

FARMERS ARE SELLING SURPLUS HAY STOCKS

CROP REPORTS ARE DECIDEDLY FAVOURABLE IN THIS DISTRICT.

There was hay aplenty on the market to-day. This is said to be due to the rain yesterday. While it did much good it transferred farm operations, and so some farmers decided to clear their mows of some of the surplus sweet scented crop at a comfortable figure ranging from $25 to $28 a ton.

Some eight or nine loads were on the market at once.

The clover and mixed hay crop is being cut and generally it is reported that the crop is fine, and no complaints are made.

The farmers are all optimistic these days for the grain crops look better than in years and the fields of heavy, full headed waving grain augurs a bountiful harvest and rich returns for the farmers' efforts to feed starving and struggling humanity. Especially are they pleased that Fortune has smiled upon them thus far for they have worked under many handicaps, of which the labor shortage of farm hands or willing workers, has been, and is, perhaps, the most acute.

The ensilage crop is excellent, they report, and the rainfall has helped it along. The garden stuff has never been better. New potatoes have been used in some localities, while in others ten days will see them on the table. The orchards are laden with fruit, and the sun is shining.

"God's in His heaven, all's right with the world,' sums up the farmers' philosophy this season.

TRACE UP CLUES IN ANCONA RIOTS

Disguised Anarchists Among Troops —Sought to Rob Barracks Safe.

ROME, July 7.—Investigations of the recent troubles at Ancona has developed that the insurrection among regular troops there developed following an attempt by anarchists to rob the barracks safe, according to semi-official despatches yesterday.

The theft was prevented by a half dozen loyal soldiers, it was stated, but when the anarchists escaped some of their confederates entered the barracks in disguise and, mingling among the soldiers, spread unrest. Several officials of the War Ministry will hold a court martial to try officers of the garrison suspected of being implicated in the plot.

GALT KNITTING COMAPNY BRINGS OVER IRISH GIRLS

GALT, July 7.—Because of great scarcity of labor, especially of female help the C. Turnbull Knitting Co. sent a representative to Ireland who today returned bringing with him 47 charming Irish colleens. The company had previously to their arrival made all arrangements for their accommodation and on leaving their train they were taken in autos to various boarding houses.

SIX MONTHS TO DISARM

PROBABLE TIME LIMIT TO BE FIXED FOR GERMANY'S COMPLIANCE WITH ALLIED TERMS.

NO OFFICIAL STATEMENT

(Canadian Press.)

SPA, Belgium, July 8.—A compromise with Germany on the time to be allowed her for disarmament, fixing the period at six months, looked to be the probable outcome to-day of the conferences among the Allied delegates here. The Germans had asked for fifteen months in which to disarm.

The Allied representatives met this morning, and for two and a half hours discussed the German plan presented yesterday. It resulted in an agreement being reached upon the attitude that should be taken on the disarmament question.

No official statement was made.

Dr. Simons, the German Foreign Minister, gave it as his opinion that the crisis had not yet passed. The only moment when there was any bitterness shown at this afternoon's session was when Premier Lloyd-George said rather impatiently:

"You have only to make a law to reduce your army, and execute it."

To this Simons replied:

"I wish to remind the honourable gentleman that there are parts of the British Empire in which there are laws concerning the keeping of arms by subjects, which the British Empire is unable to enforce."

Extent of Allied Demand.

The Allied demand is for immediate destruction of 12,00 cannon, which the Allied commissioners in Germany have under guard, together with 50,000 machine guns. Germany desires to destroy the guns at the rate of 1,000 a month. The Allies hold that this is not sufficiently rapid, and express the fear that the machine guns will fall into the hands of insurrectionists.

BAKERS SAY BREAD SHOULD BE 15 CTS.

OTTAWA ANNOUNCES SLIGHT DECLINE—COSTS INCREASED HERE.

When asked if they anticipated any reduction in the price of bread, from 14c to 13c a 1½ lb. loaf, such as had been made by leading bakeries in Hull and Ottawa, Peterboro bakers stated that they could not see how it was possible to reduce it. The price had been reduced by the Eastern bakers as a contribution toward the movement to bring down the high cost of living, it is claimed.

"A movement like that has no warrant," said Mr. H. W. Stock, of Stock & Son Ltd. "I don't know what the conditions are there. They may be different and warrant a lower price. Now in Montreal, they get French labour 40% lower than we do here."

"So there is nothing to warrant any reduction here?"

"Oh, my no."

Another baker expressed the same opinion as Mr. Stock. Flour was high and the price could not be reduced until there was a decline in the flour prices.

"I don't see how they can reduce it," said Mr. J. H. Gilgour. "Flour is going higher. Wages went up recently."

"How is it you did not raise the price then?"

"We took the loss ourselves. Bread should be 15c. In the United States it is 18c."

"Will there be an increase if flour goes any higher?"

"Yes."

FIRE SWEEPS OKHOTSK.

$4,000,000 Damage in Siberian Fishing District Controlled by Japan.

TOKIO, July 8.—Fire has swept the entire fishing district on the western shore of the Sea of Okhotsk, which was leased to Japan under the Treaty of Portsmouth. The area burned over includes the City of Okhotsk, according to a wireless report received by the Hokkaido Fisheries Company from the steamer Kamchatka.

The financial loss is estimated at $4,000,000, and so far the fate of the fishermen along the coast is unknown.

The company has asked the Government to despatch warships to the scene to investigate the origin of the fire, which is believed to have been set by Bolsheviki.

DIETITIAN LEAVES ESTATE TO HARVARD.

NEW YORK, July 8.—Dr. Horace Fletcher, renowned dietitian, who preached the doctrine of thorough mastication of one's food, left the residue of an estate of $126,573 to Harvard University for the "purpose of fostering the knowledge of healthful nutrition," according to an appraisal filed in the Surrogate Court here by the Deputy State Collector.

Dr. Fletcher died in Copenhagen on 12th January. His widow, Grace, a resident of New York, receives an annuity of $3,600.

Criminal Neglect Charge in Court

WALTER KERR COMMITTED FOR TRIAL BY MAGISTRATE DUMBLE—RAN INTO BICYCLIST ON GEORGE STREET—EVIDENCE HEARD.

A TRAFFIC QUESTION

Walter Kerr, the Myrtle farmer, who ran down and injured George Hawke with an automobile near the corner of Simcoe and George streets on June 23rd, appeared before Magistrate Dumble in this morning's police court on a charge of criminal negligence. G. N. Gordon, appearing on Kerr's behalf, refused to plead or elect, and so Kerr was given a preliminary hearing, which resulted in his being committed for trial at the next General Sessions Court. Bail was fixed at $500, which Kerr supplied.

George Hawke.

George Hawke, the plaintiff, was the first witness called. Cross-examined by Crown Attorney Hatton he stated that he was a lock-fitter employed by the Peterborough Lock Company and resided at 216 Woodbine avenue. At noon on June 23rd he rode his bicycle east on Simcoe street to George street and proceeded up George street toward his home as usual. As he started to go up George street, having turned the corner at Simcoe, he saw the automobile driven by Kerr approaching on the west side of George and beginning to cut across the street toward him. He shouted a warning, but was unable to avoid the oncoming car, which hit his bicycle almost squarely with both wheels, throwing him to the pavement and pinning him there. His wheel was smashed and his arm and leg injured. Since he had been attended daily by Dr. D. C. King and was incapacitated for work.

Cross-examined by G. N. Gordon, counsel for the defence, the witness stated that he did not see the manhole practically in the centre of the intersection of the streets, but from his general direction he was sure that he had passed south of it in turning the corner. He had seen another car some distance below Simcoe proceeding north on George, but it was far enough distant that he turned the corner well ahead of it. Kerr's car was on the west side of George street when he first saw it, but crossed over to cut the corner. He had already crossed George when he first saw it. He did not see Kerr give any warning. There were three or four men in the car with Kerr. He had no chance to avoid being struck. He noticed no obstruction which would cause the car to turn toward him. He was riding at the rate of about six miles an hour. The car was perhaps going twice as fast. He was pitched about four feet by the impact.

Patrick O'Toole.

Patrick O'Toole, a foreman at the Lock Works, was the next witness called. He had known Hawke for several months, and on the noon of the accident while riding his bicycle home from work east on Simcoe street, Hawke passed him. He saw Hawke turn the corner at George and head for the north-east corner at Payne's drug store. At that time the witness was at the south-west corner by Kingan's hardware store and saw Kerr's car approaching on the west side of George. Almost opposite the centre of Turnbull's store it turned and began to cut toward the corner. Hawke was close to the car track turning to go up George. Witness watched closely as he expected to see Hawke struck. At the time of the accident Hawke was on the right side of George going north.

SHERIFF SEIZES SIMPSON'S GOODS

COLLECTING DAMAGES FROM PROMINENT LABOUR MAN.

TORONTO, July 8.—There is great perturbation in Labor circles over the latest developments in the O'Leary-Hevey-Simpson libel actions. Messrs. O'Leary and Hevey having obtained judgment against Mr. Simpson for libel, are now endeavoring to collect the damages awarded them by the juries. A writ of execution having been placed in the hands of the sheriff, that official has made an effort to seize all available assets of Mr. Simpson. He has obtained possession of twenty-four shares of the Labor Temple Company and one hundred shares of the Labor Educational Publishers, Ltd., owned by Mr. Simpson. What can be realized on this stock is not known, but the shares of the Labor Temple Company are valuable. The real point, however, is that the seizure of the scrip seriously jeopardizes the position of Mr. Simpson in the trade union movement. For many years he has held the position of secretary-treasurer of the Temple Company, which he will have to relinquish if he loses his qualification — the holding of the necessary amount of stock in the company. Similar conditions apply to the publishing company which publishes the Industrial Banner, of which Mr. Simpson is managing editor and director. It is also stated the sheriff's officer was placed in Mr. Simpson's residence, but was withdrawn when security was given, to allow time for Mrs. Simpson to prove she is the actual owner of the property. The taking of these drastic measures is strongly resented by many of the labor men, and particulary by the machinists. They express surprise that any attempt should have been made to collect the damages awarded. It is reported that a number of the unions are preparing to render financial assistance to Mr. Simpson, but they want to confine the assistance to the paying of the costs involved in the actions. Having vindicated their honor, Messrs. O'Leary and Hevey should be content, if their out of pocket expenses are paid say the friends of Mr. Simpson, because they must know that the latter is unable to liquidate the damages, and the costs, if paid, must be provided by other labor men.

STOLE TIRES FROM CAR ON THE MARKET

DARING THIEVES OPERATE CLOSE TO POLICE STATION.

Added to the list of robberies of recent date another must be registered. Three weeks ago Saturday night the Market Square was the scene of a theft unprecedented for daring when two new tires valued at $80 each with rims were taken off a farmer's car and two old ones substituted. The plot was cleverly connived and carried out and when the farmer stepped into his automobile he never noticed the old shoes on the rear. When he got home he saw the exchange that had been made but the thief is still at large.

LINDSAY'S EARLY CLOSING BYLAW HAS BEEN REPEALED

The grocers' early closing bylaw in Lindsay after a brief existence is no longer in force. This was brought about by a repeal petition presented to the town council, Tuesday night.

Ald. Adams in supporting the petition for repeal, said the early closing bylaw was all right as far as seven o'clock was concerned, but on Saturday some merchants sit around until 11.30 o'clock waiting for the farmers to call for their baskets. The members of Adams Bros.' store are not in favour of 10.30 o'clock on Saturday nights. It was too early. In some instances farmers came in at 9.30 o'clock with baskets. Some merchants who signed the repeal petition, also signed the early closing petition.

ENGLISH STYLES FOR THE SUMMER

DOMINATING U.S. CLOTHIERS NOW, SAYS NEW YORK NEWS.

RIOTOUS COLOURS

NEW YORK.—While the mere bridegroom is usually considered a secondary figure in the matrimonial ceremony the question of his clothes and his appearance gets perhaps just as much thought from him as the question of her clothes receives from her. The cutaway is, of course, the garment par excellence for the bridegroom. It maintains its unchallenged sway as it has since the days when no man who thought anything of his dress dreamed of going to the altar in anything but a frock coat.

The cutaways which are favored at fashionable weddings and other formal social functions of today have, however, a decided individuality. The type which seems to hold first place is a two-button garment with silk facings on the lapels. The edges are plain, unbraided, and the skirts have a decded flare. A smart touch is afforded by the rounding of the tails at the lower edge. The conventional gray stripe still holds its own in the matter of trousers, which are being cut pretty full in width in order to conform with the flare of the coat-skirts.

Single button cutaways, with lapels of the same material as the coat, are also seen in considerable numbers. Many have the edges bound with wide silk braid and are almost entirely innocent of any flare, being cut away sharply in front and hanging close to the sides but also showing rounded tails.

Changes in Evening Dress.

In the matter of evening dress Fashion has made a determined bid to inject some novelty into male attire. Coats are being worn with full, rolling lapels faced with satin. This roll is dupicated in the vest, where the most marked change is shown. The popular vest among stylishly garbed men is double-breasted and cut so high as to reveal only one stud. On the extremity it is cut correspondingly low so as to display the fullness of the trousers, which is more than normal. The whole effect is a decided reminder of the days of our grandfathers and is a genuine relief from the severely cut clothes which have held sway for many years.

Effect of English Styles.

Hot weather clothes show a marked tendency to be dominated by English style ideas and the demand for fabrics and designs from across the sea appears to be steadily growing. One very distinct effect of this tendency has been in the matter of trousers, which are taking on more ample proportions than they have for several seasons. Double breasted sacks are seen in considerable number wherever well-dressed men gather and the dominant note is gray, with some sort of stripe, usually of dark blue. Lapels of the soft, rolled variety are much in evidence and the importance laid on this detail is emphasized n the advertisements of many of the leading men's furnishers. At the same time the single-breasted, three-button sack which won such a lead in favor through the visit of the Prince of Wales shows no sign of vanishing, although apparently it is not in such a great demand as in the months immediately following the arrival of the young British heir.

Novelties in Accessories.

Among the little points of men's accessories the one which stands out with unquestioned emphasis is the favor with which clocks on hosiery are regarded. French lisly hosiery, ornamented with an amazing variety of clocks appears to be taking the place of silk. Most of the socks are hand-embroidered in vari-colored effects, no two pairs being alike.

Another effect of the English influence on men's styles is shown in the battle which checks are giving stripes in the region of lounge suits. With the opening of the season, stripes overshadowed the American trade to such an extent that there seemed to be hardly anything else in sight. With rapidly increasing importations from Great Brtan and a marked trend in the fashionable world to accept the dictates of the English style leaders, checks began to appear in growing numbers and they are almost as popular as stripes in well-dressed circles today. Grey and black, black and white and rown and white are easily the leaders and small patterns are the order of the day. Where stripes are shown in the English designs they are of the large variety. In addition to the checks mentioned there is a very fair sprinkling of the well known Glen Urquhardt design.

Riotous Colors in Skirts.

Earlier predictions that the more or less sombre styles in men's clothing would be offset this summer by a riotous display of colors in the direction of shirts are more than borne out by the windows of leading haberdashers and by personal observation among good dressers. The plain white shirt will always have its place, of course, and can never be anything but good taste, but there is a widespread inclination among men to let their fancy run free just for once in the direction of color in their shirts.

The display in these opening days of the vestless season runs all the way from oriental patterns, which one has never seen before outside the pajama or women's negligee field, to broad stripes in every hue of the rainbow. Very broad stripes are very much in evidence, and there seems to be a definite leaning toward designs which contain little or no white. The leader seems to be broad stripes in two colors or one color and black. These rather extravagant designs have given rather a setback to the earlier tendency to have the collar match the skirt in design, as elbaorate patterns are rarely suitable for neckwear. Soft collars in white or cream are steadily gaining in prestige, and it is not an uncommon thing nowadays to find a large gathering of men where not a single stiff collar is worn. The only marked exceptions to the white or cream collar are blue or heliotrope, which are commonly seen when shirts of those hues are favored.

About Sport Shirts.

There seems little double that the open or Byron collar on sport shirts is here to stay. For vacation or any outing wear these collars and shirts are undoubtedly the most comfortable garment possible. The collar has a deep turn-down and is cut in such a way that the top shirt button can be unfastened, the collar rolled back, leaving the neck as free as possible and yet avoiding an undressed appearance. This collar first came into prominence several years ago as an English importation and has made rapid gains in popularity.

FLEET FOOT

For Summer Holidays

ON the beaches and the lake shore—on the hotel porches and in the ball rooms—wherever well dressed men and women gather—you will see Fleet Foot Shoes.

They are the most popular of summer styles, just as they are the most attractive in appearance and the most restful on the feet.

The fact that you can have several pairs of Fleet Foot for the price of one pair of leather shoes is an additional reason for wearing Fleet Foot all summer.

There are styles for business and holiday wear, for every sport and recreation, for men, women and children.

COUNTY COUNCILLORS INDULGE IN YOUTHFUL FROLICS AT APSLEY

REEVE BULLIED WON WHEELBARROW RACE—OTHER MEMBERS OF COUNCIL TOOK PART IN FOOTBALL RACE.

A picnic under the auspices of St. George's church, was held in Mr. Grant's grounds, Apsley, on July 1st, and was a success in every way. Fine weather prevailed throughout the day. A long list of sports was run off and a good baseball match played between the married and the single men, which resulted in a win for the latter with a big margin.

The chief attraction of the day was an exhibition of physical drill, and semaphor signalling by a troop of the Wolf Cubs from Lakefield under the direction of Sergt. Stenner, which was much enjoyed. Rev. Dr. Archbold acompanied the troop and made a short address relative to the Boy Scout movement, in reply to a call for three cheers for the Cubs from the Rev. C. A. G. Spence.

Members of the County Council, including the Warden and County Treasurer Eliott, were present for dinner, and forgetting the cares of office for a time indulged in an impromptu game of football.

A silk patchwork quilt donated by Mrs. H. Everett was drawn for, the winner being Mr. Melville Tucker, with ticket number four.

The total proceeds amounted to $128, $52 of which was taken at the ice cream booth which was in the care of Mrs. McIlmoyle and Miss Doris Spence.

The profits came to $77 which will be devoted to the parsonage building fund. The Rev. C. A. G. Spence wishes to convey to all those who so kindly assisted by baking and giving their time and labor his sincere thanks and apreciation for their cooperation, which was the main factor in making the event such a success.

Some of the main events of the sports resulted as follows:

Mile race, 1 Vernal Windsor, 2 Stanley Windsor, 3 Rex Spence.

100 yards—1 Lloyd George, 2 Vernal Windsor.

Sack race—1 Lloyd Young, 2 Vernal Windsor.

High jump—1 Vernal Windsor, 2 Lloyd Young.

Three-legged race—1 Philip and Charles Tanner.

Wheelbarrow race—1 Reeve Bullied.

In the junior events the Wolf Cubs took most of the prizes, except the 100 yards, the first place in this race going to Wilbert Johnson.

WEDDED AT FOURTEEN AND DESERTED TWICE

SEPARATED FROM HUSBAND TWENTY YEARS, WIFE NOW SEEKS HIS SUPPORT.

OTTAWA, July 7.—After being separated for 20 years from her husband, during which time she was again married, Mrs. Damithildo Chartrand, St. Patrick street, appeared in Police Court before Magistrate Askwith, charging her first husband, Evariste Chartrand, 82 Pine street, with nonsupport.

According to the story told by Mrs. Chartrand she married Chartrand when she was 14 years old, and he was 33 years old. He left her 20 years ago, and for five years she heard nothing of him. She married again, thinking her first husband dead, and has a boy who is now 15 years old, by her second husband. Husband No. 2 left her and she met her first husband and again wants him to support her, claiming that he spoiled her life, as she was too young for marriage when they were united.

Magistrate Askwith dismissed the case on account of the evidence given.

Why don't you send away that little gift that you've been planning to send? Mere kind intentions never accomplish any good.

NO SUPPORT FROM HUSBAND TWO YEARS

WOMAN TELLS PATHETIC STORY ABOUT BEING SHORT OF FOOD.

LONDON, July 7.—Charged with non-support by his wife, John J. Werner, of 33 Blackfriars Place, appeared before Magistrate Graydon in police court and was ordered to pay her $6 weekly. The case was heard in camera, and the complainant testified that she left her husband a week ago because he ordered her to do so. Continuing, she stated that she married Werner 23 years ago, and that there were eight children, four under age, the youngest being about two years old. She alleged that Werner had not given her a cent for two years, had refused her fuel, and that she worked to clothe herself.

Mrs. Werner further claimed that accused would not allow her to have her bedroom door open in winter to get warm, and that she had to steal gas for cooking purposes during his absence from the house. He broke an agreement regarding supplying the family with food made in police court two years ago, she alleged.

Had Little to Eat.

"I lived on half nothing," she told the court in tears, "and sent out to the neighbors often for a bite to eat."

Werner, in his defence, denied his wife's allegations. "I have always supported the children, and am willin to support them now," he claimed.

"If you can't get on together, it is much better to separate," said the court, remarking that Mrs. Werner should have custody of the children, unless proven unfit for the task by a higher court.

"Let me see the children," pleaded the defendant, "give me something to live for, and I will sacrifice everything." When asked if she would live with her spouse again, Mrs. Werner replied in the negative. He stated that he earned $20.10 weekly, and was paying for a home. When asked if he could give his wife $7 weekly, Werner stated that it was impossible.

A Mere Pittance.

"I couldn't give her any more than $3 a week," he declared.

"How could she keep herself and four children on that?" asked the magistrate.

Prisoner claimed that she could not, but that he would keep her if she would live with him. He claimed that the other children could contribute to her support.

"You cannot shift your responsibility as a husband onto your children," said the court. "This woman has been working and slaving for these children, and you have utterly failed to fulfill your duties as a father. You must pay her $6 weekly. I think that is an extremely small order to make, and it must be paid to police court clerk starting next Saturday."

REGAINS HIS VOICE IN BOWLING GAME

At the Niagara bowling tournament yesterday Trooper W. Hart of the Davisville Hospital was cured of a very pronounced stammer he has had for two years on account of shell shock, by the excitement of the game and when he returned to Toronto this afternoon he could speak very fluently and his praise for bowling through which he regained his speech is boundless.

TRADES AND LABOUR COUNCIL DISCUSS MANY SUBJECTS AT MEETING

The meeting of the Trades and Labour Council last night was not largely attended, and not a great deal of business was done. Nevertheless, there was plenty of discussion on the side tracks that kept the interest running and lengthened the meeting.

From the City Clerk came a communication stating that their request to have the garbage collection time changed from 7 to 8 o'clock had been discussed by both the Property Committee and the City Council, but since the contract was sealed and signed it could not be changed. The original mover said that it was remarkable that about five weeks before the request was sent the hour for garbage collection was changed from 8 to 7. It was held over for discussion.

The United Women's Education Federation's request, that the secretary forward them the names of the secretaries of all women's organisations will be complied with. The per capita tax to the Trades Congress, Ottawa, will be paid. This latter business caused no little argument before it was decided to pay it.

The report of the opening meeting on 25th June was given by two of the delegates, who both expressed disappointment in the small numbers who heard the labour leaders, but eulogised their addresses highly. If the speakers ever came here again they warned every labour man to make a special effort to be on hand.

Several delegates were added to the committee in charge of the arrangements for Labour Day. All negotiations so far entered into had been most satisfactory, and the offer of the Exhibition Board for the grounds they considered fair. Next Wednesday night at 7.30 this special committee will meet, and again on Monday.

One of the delegates had a plan for the day that he would not reveal last night, but will lay before the committee next week.

William Stevens, recording secretary, handed in his resignation, due to the pressure of other work. "That's final," he remarked, as he handed it to Prehident T. Lane.

Expressions of regret at the secretary's action were made, but it could only be accepted in the best grace possible. It was an unkind cut to the Council, and no volunteers came forward to fill the vacancy. Several names were mentioned, but all appeared to bear an aversion to the office, and so the appointment of his successor was left till the next meeting Meanwhile, Delegate Stevens promised to carry on.

From Amreican Federation of Labour headquarters, Washington, a communication was read urging that they select an energetic member as a volunteer organiser, who is to report monthly to them on local labour conditions, work amongst the men, and while the work carries no remuneration, a fee for any organising of unions will be paid and for any special work done.

One of the delegates said that the matter had often been discussed, and now was a good time to take action. He was in favour of such an officer, and nominated the President, who was unanimously elected.

Mr. Lane said he had been doing this work on the side, but would now do it officially. The secretary will notify the A. F. of L. of this.

After lengthy and serious consideration of the action of the local Musicians' Union in exonerating a prominent musician on the charge of strike-breaking, a motion was brought in and carried that the American Federation of Musicians be apprised of the finding of the local union.

The case was explained by musician and electrical worker delegates. The almost unanimous opinion of the delegates was that the case warranted an opposite verdict altogether, and the action of the Musicians' Union was contrary to the principles of unionism.

The Musicians' Union, through the delegate, brought the Council's attention to the employment of the Salvation Army band on Decoration Day by the Oddfellows, alleging that there were many union men amongst their ranks who should have seen that there was a union band employed. While the Salvation Army were not paid a stated amount, they received remuneration in the form of a donation. Besides, he said, this band was seriously affecting the work of the other bands in work in this neighbourhood, and they did not consider it right.

A delegate, a prominent labour man and an Oddfellow, took offence at the delegate's reference to the Oddfellow union men's duty. He couldn't see what band they employed had to do with the Trades and Labour Council. The Salvation Army came forward and offered their services gratis, and he said they were deeply indebted to them. He felt the Trades and Labour Council were going too far in considering th matter.

"We have a right to criticise any organisation as long as they have union men in their ranks," said one delegate. "We are certainly justified in criticising union men in any organisation who do not uphold labour principles."

Feeling that slurs were being heaped on him, the delegate heatedly declared: "I am living up to the letter of our constitution. I have never violated the rules of our organisation. I stand for right. I want a square deal."

"We are not trying to find fault with the Oddfellows as a fraternal association, but in the union men not insisting on a union band being used."

The matter was dropped.

Ald. Gainty reported on behalf of the hall trustees. The report was received and referred to the auditors.

Alderman Gainey addressed himself to the delegate who had first moved the motion requesting the Council to change the time for garbage collection. It could not be changed, he claimed.

One delegate contended that the collection should be made at night, but Ald. Gainey pointed out that this would not be possible unless the city did the work itself.

The mover said the city should take it over and put it under the Board of Health. One of the members felt the Board was not capable of handling it, and told of his grievances against the Board and what he thought of it bluntly enough.

One of the C.G.E. strikers summed up the strike situation. The men had had considerable financial difficulty and sincerely wanted to get back to work. The company was seen today, and were asked on what terms they would be taken back. They were told to go to the gate, but were informed that there were a number of men who had been the alleged instigators of the strike who need not come back, for there was no job for them in the C.G.E. About 150 men are still out, he estimated, while some one hundred had left the city. He was proud, he said, to say that none of the other men were going back, but were going to stick with the men who had been discriminated against. He did not appeal for financial aid, but the delegates promised every possible aid to the men to carry on the fight, and financial assistance will be forthcoming.

TRIPLE FARM PAY IN SPAIN.

Fair is Held at Salamanca for Hiring of Workers.

SALAMANCA, Spain, July 8. — In view of the great shortage of agricultural labor in this district, a fair is being held, at which a large number of contracts are being signed by farm owners and workmen. From 700 to 1,000 pesetas has been fixed for the yearly wage of an agricultural laborer and from 300 to 400 pesetas for the harvest period.

These wages, which are low in comparison to those paid in Ameri ca, are three times higher than the wages paid during the last two years in Spain, taking into account that the employer provides food for his laborers.

LETTER FROM "Y" CAMP GIRLS

Y. W. C. A. Camp,
Burleigh Falls.

Dear Girls:

We know you would be disappointed if you did not hear from us every week, and we are sure that while you are working down in the hot city and we are enjoying the cool breezes of the lakes, it is only fair that we should send you a breath of our happiness by mail.

You just should be here. Fun? The days are crammed full of it. It greets us every morning when we get up, and sometimes it doesn't want to go to bed at night, but prefers a pillow fight instead!

The girls last week walked down to Kawarta and had a gorgeous time—first a swim, and then dinner in true gypsy fashion with pork and beans, and bacon that they cooked themselves on a fire they made themselves down on the shore. And after dinner they had another swim, for who could resist the beautiful sandy beach of Kawartha? But just wait until the next "Y" letter, and you will hear about the still more wonderful times that we have had.

There are nine of us here this week: Grace Allen, Helen and Margaret Bulmer, Dorothy Clark, Effie Dick, Mrs. Mayer, Christina Pappas, Freda Shurett and Isobel Tremaine. Miss Brownscombe is in charge and Mrs. Cruikshank is camp mother. There is another friend up here who wasn't mentioned in our last letter. He is very quiet during the day, but at night—well, sometimes he seems to talk all night long. Can't you guess who he is? Why, Mr. Bull-Frog, of course. And some nights we can hear a sound off in the woods as if someone were getting a whipping, and then right away, before we can get our breath, a voice calls, "Whip poor will. Whip poor will." It seems cruel, doesn't it?

Oh, we could write and write about all the flowers we are finding, and the trees and ferns, but we will save that for another time.

Yours joyously,
THE "Y" CAMPERS.

CRUSHED TO DEATH UNDER LOAD OF HAY

CHATHAM, July 7. — Harold Mann, the fourteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Mann, Colbourne street, was almost instantly killed about three o'clock yesterday afternoon when he was run over by a wagon loaded with hay.

The young boy was employed temporarily on the farm of Mr. Pugh, of the 14th Concession, Chatham Township, earning enough money to spend a holiday at Erieau. He and Mr. Pugh were drawing in a load of hay from the field, when Mann, who was near the front of the load, fell to the ground, landing under the horses' feet. The wagon passed over his body causing internal injuries from which he died before a doctor could be summoned. Mr. Pugh was riding at the rear of the load and did not know of the accident until he saw the boy's body lying in the wagon trackh. The body was brought to Jahukes Morgue. Coroner Dr. R. V. Bray considered an inquest unnecessary. Death was caused by internal hemorrhage.

The boy is survived by his parents and a number of brothers and sisters.

ACTED AS POST-OFFICE FOR THE SINN FEINERS

LONDON, July 7.—William Barry, described as a fireman on the steamer New York, was arraigned in police court here to-day charged, under the Defense of the Realm Act, with bringing letters from Sinn Feiners in the United States to members of the organization in Ireland. It was stated that one of the letters was from Professor Eamonn de Valera so-called "President of the Irish Republic," to Arthur Griffith, founder of the Sinn Fein organization.

Barry also had two pistols with nearly three hundred rounds of ammunition. He was remanded for a week.

HYDRO RADIALS.

The Hydro-Electric Radial scheme has undoubtedly been dealt a severe blow by the announcement of the Drury government that "all action in the direction of further outlays or the assumption of further responsibilities in radial matters by the Hydro-Electric Commission will be stayed" until the whole question has been investigated from every angle by a commission that is to be appointed for this purpose. Ultra enthusiastic supporters of Hydro radials declare that this decision of the Ontario government is proof positive that the Farmer administration is at heart hostile to the public ownership of radial lines, but many other people will see wisdom in delaying further commitments on the part of the province until the scheme has been thoroughly and carefully gone into and examined. The time devoted to the purpose will be well spent, for if the inquiry is sincere, honest and exhaustive it will either save the province from embarking upon a scheme that is not sound, or it will show that the proposed undertakings are reasonable and fairly sure of success and the plans of the Hydro Commission in that event can be carried out with more confidence than would exist had not an investigation been held.

MONDAY'S JOINT TAG DAY.

A tag day campaign is an unusual feature in connection with the celebration of the 12th of July, but undoubtedly the experiment which will be tried here on Monday next will be a success in view of the two splendid causes for which the collection will be taken. The Brotherhood Federation of Canada, which is conducting a national campaign on behalf of the war sufferers of Serbia are co-operating with the True Blue and Orange Order of Peterborough in a joint effort to raise funds for the True Blue orphanage in Ontario and for the orphanage which the Federation has established in Serbia. The proceeds are to be divided equally between these two worthy institutions, both of which are deserving of the support and assistance of the people generally, regardless of differences in creed and religion, and it is expected thta there will a hearty response to Monday's appeal. There is an opportunity for great service for those who are in a position to offer their assistance in the campaign. Volunteers for the work are still required as it will take an unusually large staff in view of the thousands of visitors and the crowded condition of the streets. Peterborough has already done well for the Serbian Relief Fund and a substantial collection on Monday will bring the total up to a very creditable amount, while the True Blue orphanage is an institution that deserves well of the public.

DR. SHEARD'S FRANKNESS.

Dr. Sheard, Unionist member for South Toronto, in a speech the other night, gave an unusually candid resume of the political situation in the Federal House. Most people have realized for some time that the most prominent plank in the policy of the government is the ambition to remain in office as long as possible, but the members of the government have not been as frank in publicly admitting this fact as was Dr. Sheard, who declared that the Government must be kept in power until the census is taken next year and the redistribution bill passed. And he followed up this statement with the admission that it would be bad tactics to face an election now and take the risk of placing a farmer-labour government in power. Undoubtedly the Government need have no illusions as to what would happen to its membership in the event of an election. One Unionist supporter declares that not twenty-five Unionist members could be re-elected and he might have reduced the number and still have had a good working margin. The simple fact is that the country feels that the present administration has outlived its usefulness, if it ever had any, that it is utterly out of touch with public opinion, and that it has no mandate to continue in office. And to complete the utter lack of faith in the Government that exists among the people, the action of grabbing substantial increases in sessional indemnities in the face of the strong disapproval of the whole country was the last straw. A general election would cause so many casualties in the ranks of the government that fighting over the question of leadership seems a waste of time. There will be no party to lead when the people get a chance to pass their verdict.

"HALF-BAKED REPORTERS" AND M.P.'s.

The Montreal Gazette and the Ottawa Journal evidently resent the reference to "half-baked reporters," which was made by Dr. J. W. Edwards, M.P., of Frontenac, and have come back at the Frontenac member by challenging him to state how much income tax he paid for the last year.

Whether they will get an answer will depend upon the doctor himself, for clearly this is a purely personal matter and no citizen, whether he be a member of Parliament or not, is obliged to answer any such challenge by a newspaper or, for that mtter, by any one else. He need answer only to the Government, and the answer is of course absolutely secret.

Nevertheless, while this is so, we think Dr. Edwards was unfortunate in his reference to the reporters and had better have refrained from this by no means flattering and uncalled for remark. The truth is, reporters for the most part are men of intelligence and judgment—many of them, by the way, muh more intelligent and sensible than some of the members of Parliament whose inane and windy speeches they are not only obliged to report but, worse still, to listen to. Indeed were it not for these "half-baked" gentlemen even a man of Dr. Edwards' recognized oratorical ability and intellectual attainments would be "as a voice calling in the wilderness," and neither his own constituents nor the people generally would have an opportunity to read some of his really interesting and enlightened opinions on live subjects of the day.

Probably, however, we shall find that the Doctor intended rather to be humorous than serious in his remarks about the reporters; and certainly we hope that this is so, for it would be a pity if the reporters were to take Dr. Edwards' remarks as serious and to decide that, as "half-baked" specimens of humanity they were not fit or intelligent enough to report him, and therefore were hereafter content merely to dismiss him with the abbreviated report: "Dr. J. W. Edwards also spoke."

Quite seriously there is too much disposition on the part of some men in public life—Dr. Edwards, we are glad to say, has heretofore not been among his number— to "slam" reporters unduly and to expect not only these reporters but the newspapers which they represent to "take it lying down." Our own observation is that sooner or later such men wake up suddenly to discover that they are much in the position of the man who has been monkeying carelessly with a buzz saw.—Kingston Standard.

FAREWELL BOOTY.

Our Ottawa legislators have taken their passes home with $1500 each added to the session's pay, says the London Advertiser. A good French member announces his intention of giving away his share of the loot, particularly providing "two masses for the sins of this parliament." But the gang appreciates free passes more than free masses. They are, many of them, not directly interested in "the glory of God."

In olden times guests departing were loaded with "hospitable presents." Homer tells of Ulysses leaving a place whose king presented him with a whole wagon load of gifts, "having made a collection among the people." Many of our parliamentary members must have felt, with a general election closely impending that they were leaving the grand, new, costly halls with a final farewell, and not waiting for presents to be proffered, they simply helped themselves. It was something like the guests who carry off "souvenirs" of spoons and knives and what not. And the getaway was perfect. They know well what is coming. The general election will be a general deluge for the old hacks, as the Ontario and Manitoba voting shows.

After all, what's a little $1,500 compared to the hauls of profiteering dealers and speculators whom the government members have been faithfully serving? It's a funny thing if the agent shouldn't have a share, even so modest, of the grand larceny. Let Mr. Murdock and others of that "suspicious" ilk go hang. The laborer is worthy of his hire. The loyal Unionist member who has worked day by day, night in and night out, for his big profiteering employer, shall have his little stick of candy out of it, so he shall, and his fat king gives it to him, "having made a collection among his people."

NEW PARTY NAME A TEMPORARY ONE

DEFINITE DECISION AS TO PERMANENCY WILL BE REACHED IN SEPTEMBER.

OTTAWA, July 7.—The Unionist Association of Ottawa will adopt temporarily the party name that was decided upon by the Dominion Day caucus — the National Liberal and Conservative party. Such was the decision last evening. A general meeting of the association will be called some time in September to decide whether the name will be accepted permanently or not. The resignation of Mr. William Burns from the secretaryship of the association was also regretfully accepted, Mr. Burns explaining that he had accepted an important position that will necessitate his leaving the city immediately.

The meeting of the executive of the Unionist Association was called in conformity with a resolution passed by the general body at the annual meeting in May. A resolution was brought before the general meeting to re-adopt the old name — The Liberal-Conservative Association of Ottawa. An amendment to the resolution was passed to the effect that the name be left till the party leaders had decided upon a name, and that the executive take action following such decision.

Last evening's executive meeting resulted in the following resolution being passed:

"Resolved that the executive of this association adopt temporarily the official name of the party as adopted by the caucus, until a general meeting of this association can be called to ratify or amend the said name, as shall be decided. This meeting shall be called after the holidays early in September."

The executive expressed their regret at losing the services of Mr. Burns, who has served as secretary for a number of years in a very capable manner. The matter of appointing a new secretary will be taken up at a later meeting.

Mr. Fred. D. Hogg presided over the executive meeting.

MOUNTED POLICE FOR FAR NORTH

OTTAWA, July 7.—Three parties of Royal Canadian Mounted policemen leave Ottawa shortly for the northern section of Hudson's Bay to carry the law of the white man into the home of the Eskimo. The three parties leave via steamer at Montreal for their long journey into northern waters. One party will act as a court and is in charge of Inspector Thomas, with Sergeant Douglas as assistant.

Some time ago a native was arrested by Sergt. Douglas for having murdered a comrade in order to gain possession of the latter's wife. After a journey of some thousand miles the murderer was brought to the Winnipeg prison, and is there at present. It has now been found impossible to try him in Winnipeg on account of the distance witnesses would have to come, so the court will go north with the prisoner to take evidence.

Another party consisting of Inspector Phillips and Sergt. Joy, will journey on the same steamer to Belcher Island, a remote place on the south side of Hudson Bay where there is an isolated Eskimo settlement, and where a murder has been reported. They will investigate the rumors when they arrive there some months hence.

The third party is for the purpose of establishing a branch of the Department of Customs at Port Burwell, on the Quebec shore of Hudson Bay straits. This will be in charge of Sergeant Wight and one trooper. They will be stationed at this extremely northern post to collect all necessary customs duties from United States and foreign ships who arrive off the coast and wish to trade with the natives.

"OFF TO LONDON"

THIEVES STEAL CAR BY INGENIOUS PLAN

LONDON, July 7.—Orrin S. Holmes, insurance broker, residing at 435 Piccadilly street, had an unpleasant experience when he motored to Detroit for Dominion Day and fell a victim to clever auto thieves in that city. Holmes visited a friend who owned a private garage, but as this building was occupied by the friend's car, the Londoner parked his new sedan in the yard beside the garage, taking the precaution of locking it.

Next morning his car was missing, and upon instituting a search, the machine was located on a street seven blocks away. It was jacked up, with tires and rims removed. In addition everything which could be removed was taken including a set of tools, and expensive fishing poles and equipment.

The removal of the auto from the Detroit yard was accomplished by a very ingenious method. The thieves ripped off the instrument board, and made a connection between the starter and the batteries with wires, and the car proceeded seven blocks on its own power. That the auto was taken from the yard and connections made so boldly is regarded by the Detroit police, who are working on the case as one of the most audacious of auto thefts committed in that city. The occupants of the house nearby heard no noise made by the miscreants at their work.

Holmes lost his tire and equipment, but is the gainer of two jacks, three being found under the car, although there was only one left by the owner on retiring. The booty removed is valued at about $200, which was covered by theft insurance.

TRIES TO MURDER W'FE THEN STABS HIMSELF

OTTAWA, July 7.—According to telegraphed information to Sheriff Wright, John F. Cummings, a farmer from Burrbridge, Que., near Blue Sea Lake, attempted to murder his wife, and when he did not succeed stabbed himself. The latest information is to the effect that Cummings will not live.

The reason for Cummings' assault on his wife is not known, but, according to Joseph Powan who telegraphed to Sheriff Wright, Cummings cut his wife's head when he struck her with a bottle. She ran outside and he followed, but failed to capture her.

It is stated that the farmer then returned to the house, went to a bedroom and stabbed himself in the body with a butcher knife. He is not expected to live, but apparently the injuries of Mrs. Cummings are not serious.

MINERALS HELP TO MAKE BONE IN GROWING SWINE

The grain we commonly feed hogs contains such a small proportion of the needed mineral elements that additional mineral feed must be supplied by some means in order to properly nourish the bones. Oftentimes conditions are such that the hog picks up the minerals himself. Hogs having access to lots where ashes and limestone are dumped may supply themselves in liberal quantity of the calciums. Hogs running in the woods or wood lot or on pastures of most kinds commonly grown, supply their bodies with mineral nutrients.

If hogs are confined it is essential that they be supplied with mineral feeds; especially is this true of hogs kept for breeding purposes. Hogs that are finished for killing at 100 pounds or so will need little mineral feed after put in the feed lot besides what they get in milk and pankage.

Wood ashes and cinders are eaten by hogs to satisfy a craving for mineral food. Corncobs are suitable in some respects if they are charred; they can be charred by putting them in a metal drum that is closed at the top, or the pile of cobs may be covered with dirt and charred in the old-fashioned way. Charcoal can be purchased for the purpose. Charcoals are beneficial to the digestive tract. Besides these, bone flour is valuable to furnish phosphorus and lime. Growing pigs require a small proportion of salt in their ration; it is an aid to digestion.

A good mixture which can be fed to pigs confined in small lots or that may be given to pigs on range, is made up of the following ingredients: 100 pounds of wood ashes, 30 pounds of salt, 40 pounds of slaked lime, 4 pounds of copperas, 30 pounds of charcoal; mix well and feed three or four times a week.

A good mixture to keep before hogs in a self-feeder is made up of three parts of air slaked lime, three parts of wood ashes or charcoal, and one part of salt.

VIRTUOUS WIVES

By OWEN JOHNSON

Mrs. Lightbody, having contrived to isolate her (though without malice, for her bad manners were natural), carried Dawson off in triumph. Amy remained with her back to the group by the fireplace, uncomfortable and angry, somewhat consoled by the spectacle of Mrs. Lightbody's floundering efforts. She took a cup of tea from the butler who came up, and stood watching the swaying figures. A group formed about the surface of light, the men curious, the women solemn, confronted with a new responsibility, while those whose figures inclined to plumpness studied the effect of Mrs. Lightbody's movements with personal solicitude.

"So that's what they've made of the tango!" said a voice at her shoulder—a modulated voice, curiously flexible and soft. "What contortions!"

'Why, I think he dances very well."

"Dawson? Of course. His trained legs are irreproachable. But it's not the tango. I've danced it in the Argentine and in Spain, and I know. It isn't the movement at all. The real tango is stately—danced with dignity."

"But that's the way we were taught." She turned and all at once perceived that she had been talking to a stranger. At the same moment, he perceived his mistake.

"I beg your pardon, I thought—"

"So did I," she said, smiling. Then perceiving how intimate had been their comprehension of the unfinished thought, she blushed.

"After all," he said easily, "there is no great harm done. If you are a very punctilious person, I'll have Mrs. Dellabarre present me."

Instinctively she divined who he was, by the ease of his manner and the foreign deference of his attitude. He was still in riding clothes of brown, wheich harmonized with the rather Spansh tan of his face and set off the slight but alert figure, a man well groomed, well ordered, assured and natural, pleasing to the eye and ear.

"You are not Montgomery Bracken by any chance?" she said impulsively.

"Yes. How did you—"

"I don't know. I guessed it." Then realizing how stranke this must sound, she blushed again. To cover her embarrassment, she said rapidly, "My cousin, Miss Nordstrum, has described you to me." Then remembering Fifi's declared intention, she laughed.

He read the amusement in her eyes rightly.

"Is my scalp in danger?" he said. "Fifi is a very determined young lady. Then you are Mrs. Forrester, of course. Is your husband here? Won't you present me?"

Before she could act on the tactful suggestion which relieved the embarrassment of the situation, Dawson was back at her side, begging her to dance with him.

"Come on, Amy, now. Let's give them a professional exhibition. Kitty is gasping for breath. Hello, Monte!"

"How are you, Dawson?"

She hesitated, watching Bracken with a little amused malice, divining his impatence at the assurance of the new generaton. Tody had him by the hand, dragging her toward the open floor, with that muscular enthusiasm which has replaced man's deference to woman in modern ballrooms. To refuse was awkward, and, besides, she had a score to settle with Mrs. Lightbody.

"Here's how it's done!" announced Dawson, with the disdain of a virtuoso.

She danced instinctively, pliant to her partner, so light that her flitting steps seemed noiseless, with a harmony of poise and movement that charmed the eye, the delight a beautiful child awakens in its graceful passing. The tango at that time was still a curiosity, and the deft exhibition they gave was watched by every one. She saw the crowding curiosity through half-closed eyes, from Mrs. Lightbody's staring tribute to the spreading pride of her husband's face. Bracken was by his side, studying her with a grateful smile. She knew that she pleased him and was pleased herself at the thought. They ended amid a clapping of hands and, flushed with pleasure and excitement, she hastened to present Tody to her husband.

"How do, Mr. Forrester," said that self-sufficient youngster. "I shake hands, but I really ought to knife you for carrying off Amy."

"Ah—were you interested?" said Forrester, surveying him.

"I?" said Dawson, flusring. "Wyy, didn't you know I organized the society of the mitten?"

"Indeed?" said Forrester, in his deep bass, looking at the product of the modern generation as a mastiff endures the antics of a lap dog.

Dawson's soda-water wit bubbled out completely. He stood shifting from foot to foot, seeking a chance to escape. Bracken took pity on him.

"I acknowledge the superiority of your legs, Dawson," he said, with a shade of sarcasm, "but dance the tango as it really is danced."

"I say, do you know it?" said Dawson eagerly, as though before a great discovery. "By George, I wish you'd show us."

"Very glad to, if Mrs. Forrester will give me her assistance." He turned to Andrew. "That won't be asking too much of your wife, will it?"

Forrester gave the implied permission with a nod of his head. Bracken passed to the piano, where he indicated a slower rhythm and certain definite accents, and returning, bowed to his partner.

"Will you do me the honor to dance it with me, Mrs. Forrester? There are certain steps you'll pick up at once. We'll dance it with very little movement of the body, slow, rather languid, quite stately."

He waited until she gave her hand, before offering his arm, with a deference that gave it the value of a rare favor, and in this tactful attitude, so different from the catch-as-catch-can license of the American ballroom, he made her feel a new preciousness of herself. In a few moments, they were dancing in unison, in graceful, undulating rhythm. He held her well apart from him, guiding her only with a slight pressure of the left hand, yet she was aware of his nearness. And, as she danced, she felt gloriously, triumphantly young. The brown vaulted hall and the staring strangers swam away. She was floating somewhere between earth and sky, content to surrender all her will to the touch that led her through dreamy regions of melodious rhythms, fairy lights and perfumed flowers.

"What is so dangerous about him?" she thought, wondering why Fifi had seen fit to warn her.

He paid her no compliment, except for an occasional no wof satisfaction, but in the gentleness of his voice, in the slight smile with which he watched her moving rhythmically about him, she knew he, too, had the same sense of spontaneous congeniality.

"I am sorry we have to stop," he said at last, with a sigh of regret.

"I, too," she answered, in the same tone.

They loooked at each other a short moment and smiled with pleasure. Then they returned to the others and the general conversation. She knew that she would see him again soon. She looked forward eagerly to the moment when he would really talk to her, sure that they would find instant sympathy. Yet the agreeable impression he had thrown about her was so impersonal that, in their rooms, dressing for dinner, she said to Andrew:

"Oh, I like Mr. Bracken. He seems really worth while."

"Bracken is a real man," said Andrew heartily.

"Which means that some of the others aren't," she said, laughing. "Poor Tody and Jap!"

"I don't think I understand that specimen," he said gruffly. "Why don't they put them in ruffles?"

She came up to him vastly amused, twitching his ear.

"Gracious, you mustn't be so fierce! They're harmless."

"Perhaps."

"Are you bored?"

"I? No."

"Truthfully?"

"Of course."

But he did not voice his real sentiments. It had been a great readjustment, and his pride had suffered. For the first time he had felt lost, dwarfed and inconsequential. The shock had awakened all his ambition, setting in train dangerous desires for power and prestige, to force the recognition he craved—to be somebody in this society where he was rated lower than the youngest club with his bag of tricks to amuse. And this awakening appetite was destined to change the whole course of his life.

QUIT MEAT IF YOUR KIDNEYS ACT BADLY

Take tablespoonful of Salts if Back hurts or Bladder bothers.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. his famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.

FIRST AUTO MADE

Is the Property of the Marquis de Broc of France.

The world's first automobile is not yet half a century old. It is the property of the Marquis de Broc, of France. The authentic record of this self-propelled road car is that it was built (at enormous expense) in 1873. It was used on long road trips, and had a speed of about twenty-eight miles an hour. But the marquis stopped using it, as it frightened the neighbors' horses! It somewhat resembles a stagecoach in design, having a powerful engine in the front and a chimney in the rear. It was propelled by steam, much as our steam rollers are to-day. The small wire railing at the top was intended to hold baggage while travelling, and it is evident that the car was fitted up with every convenience which could be contrived at the time. The car is now stored in the marquis's garage.

PRESENTATION TO OMEMEE COUPLE

OMEMEE NEWS OF INTEREST—VISITORS TO THE VILLAGE.

OMEMEE, July 7.—A very pleasant surprise was given Mr. and Mrs. Melville Earl on Friday evening last when a number of their friends gathered at their home and presented them with the following address and reading lamp:

Dear Melville:

We are assembled here this evening to celebrate the important event of your joining the great army of benedicts, and we—as only a few of your friends—because they are legion, desire and convey to you our heartiest congratulations and extend to the young lady whom you have asked to share your heart and home, a warm welcome, and best wishes for a realy happy life among us.

By your marriage you have added another link to the chain that binds us as Cnadians and our American cousins and which we hope will never be severed.

As a citizen, who has always kept the best interests of the town in view, you have won the esteem and those brought into immediate contact with you both in business and social life.

Since we could not all be present to throw our confetti and hang the progerbial old shoe beneath your car, we would like now to show our appreciation of your friendship in years that are past and ask your acceptance of this lamp as a slight token of your regard, and couple with it, the wish that your lives may be full of health, happiness and prosperity and that your's and your wife's pathway may be as bright and unclouded as that of the light which we now offer you.

Signed,
ASSEMBLED HERE

"PERKING UP" IN THE WEST.

Beauty Parlors Numerous and Popular, Says Buyer.

NEW YORK.—Beauty shops are becoming more numerous and popular in the Middle West, according to Miss Josephine Webb, a department store buyer from Detroit, Mich., who is at the Claridge Hotel. Miss Webb says there is a constantly growing interest in beauty articles and treatment for beautifying the skin and women everywhere are taking greater interest in their personal appearance.

"It is not that women are becoming more vain, but they are coming to realize the importance of giving more care to their personal appearance," said Miss Webb. "More attention is being given to the details that go to make up the well-dressed woman and the result is that there is an increased demand for articles rarely supplied by the shops in the small towns.

"The hairdressing and manicuring parlors are crowded these days and one must make an appointment for hair-dressing and eyebrow penciling just as for the dentist's attention. Women are now taking the attitude that they owe it to themselves to be as attractive as possible.

"Nowadays the style books and magazines get to every nook and corner of the country and the tendency for better clothes is the result. The women who carries herself well can put on a $27.50 suit and look as though dressed in a much more expensive garment, but the whole effect is lost if she does not give equal thought and attention to her hair, nails and complexion.

"I see little chance for any reduction in women's clothing this year as we are now buying for fall and winter trade at the prevailing high prices. With materials and workmanship at such a premium there can be little reduction until [illegible] There are always cheap goods in the stores, but the tendency is always for the best. There is a difference, however, between being well-dressed and being extravagant, and I could point out many young women and matrons in Detroit, and you would be surprised at the low-priced clothes they wear.

"It is because of their carriage and taste and the little details of personal appearance which are within the reach of every woman. It is this care, I believe, that will help solve the high cost of living and bring wearing apparel down to one's own level."

YOUTH BUILDS A CYCLE CAR

MACHINE IS THE WORK OF ALFRED PARKINS OF THIS CITY

A novelty in cycle cars has just been completed by 19-year-old Alfred Parkins, of 148 Park street. The little machine, which has been seen about the streets frequently of late, is all Parkins' work and was built by him in the woodshed of his home.

The wheels, which are 28 inches by 3 inches with deferential gear were taken from a Maxwell car. The chassis was constructed from 3 inches by 1½ inches by ¼ inch. channel iron. The steering gear was taken from a bicycle. The engine and clutch are from a 1913 Indian twin motorcycle and developed 7 h.p. The machine has a wheel base of 80 inches and a speed range of from 10 to 30 miles an hour.

This cycle car has been brought to the attention of the makers of the Indian motorcycle and the company will run a picture and description of the machine in their American journal.

Parkins is willing to show the machine to anyone interested, especially to anyone desirous of building such a car.

TIME TO CUT CLOVER FOR BEST QUALITY

GGREATEST AMOUNT OF FEEDIN VALUE EXISTS IN THE LEAVES.

In many parts of Ontario the farmers who are firm believers in the value of the leaf on clover hay have started cutting, and next week will see the first major crop harvest of this season in full swing. In meadows where the catch has held farmers have found the swath heavier than they anticipated, and they are looking for their clover crop to make up for the almost certain short yield on old timothy meadows.

On very few farms is the labor supply sufficient to battle with untoward weather conditions during the hay harvest, and though up-to-date machinery is more than ever in evidence, its use to good advantage is only possible when the weather is favorable for at least a day or two at a time. With a wide-cut mover, side-delivery rake and hay loader, a few men can account for ten acres of hay in a couple of days, provided there is no rain, but a shower plays havoc with a light windrow, making tedding necessary, and giving the new method little advantage, if any, over the old practice of cocking up.

One of the best power combinations we have seen in a hayfield is that of a smart team of horses and a tractor. The horses to keep on cutting and raking, and the tractor to handle the hay rack and loader. The tractor doing its share of the work is shown in the accompanying illustration. This, by the way, is an instance of how the tractor helps in the farm work without entirely displacing the horse. As well as on the mower and rake, there is another place better filled by the horse than any mechanical tractor yet suggested, and that is on the hay fork.

Farmers who are now at work on their clover for hay, are most of them greatly interested in the prospect for clover seed at the second cutting. The season is by no means early, but chances for a good yield are fair, provided the first cutting is cleaned up quickly. In view of the livestock boom and the need for improving soil conditions on so many farms of the country, which have gone back under the extensive wheat growing made necessary by war conditions, a big supply of clover seed for next spring is about as important a matter as any to the farmers this year.

If you train servants in the way they should go, the first thing you know they are gone.

Pretty June Wedding.

At high noon on Wednesday, 30th June, St. Thomas' Church, Millbrook, was the scene of a very pretty wedding, when Nettie, youngest daughter of Mrs. M. E. Handley, became the bride of E. Harold Ingram, only son of Capt. and Mrs. Ingram, Belleville. Rev. Canon Allen officiated, assisted by Rev. (Capt.) Spencer, and the wedding music was rendered by the choir. The church was very prettily decorated with marguerites, ferns and orange blossoms. The bride, who was given away by her brother, looked charming in her travelling suit of white rajah silk and white Milan hat, her bouquet being Ophelia roses and carnations. After receiving congratulations, among which was a cable from Capt. Ingram, who is at present in London, England, the young couple left via G. T. R. for Kingston and the Thousand Islands. When they arrived at Port Hope, they were "held up" by the conductor of the Toronto train, but only to receive a telegram with the office staff's congratulations, Mr. Ingram being a member of the staff of the Deloro Mining Company.

Twenty-Two Gangs at Work on the Prescott Highway.

Lieut.-Col. A. Earchman, engineer in charge of the construction of the Ottawa-Prescott Highway, was in Ottawa yesterday, and expressed himself as pleased with the progress being made. Although labour is scarce just now, twenty-two gangs are at work, with 20 teams. Two excavators and a steam shovel will be on the road in a few days. Two crusher plants are in operation—one at Prescott and one at North Gower.

Lieut.-Col. Earchman, who served with distinction in the Great War, is an engineer of high standing in his profession. From 1902 until 1912 he was in the service of the Canadian Pacific, and later with the Department of Railways and Canals on the Hudson Bay Railway until he enlisted for overseas service in 1914. Col. Earchman went overseas as company commander with the 20th Battalion. He was wounded in the fighting, and after convalescence joined the Railway Construction Corps, was mentioned in despatches twice, and was decorated with the D.S.O. and Order of the British Empire.—From Ottawa Citizen of 29th June.

(Lieut.-Col. Earchman is a son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. John Hutchinson, of Cavan.

Embarrassing Hairs Can Be Quickly Removed

(Beauty Culture)

Hairs can be easily banished from the under-arms, neck and face by this quick, painless method: Mix into a stiff paste some powdered delatone and water, spread on hairy surface and in 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and it will be free from hair or blemish. Excepting in very stubborn growths, one application is sufficient. To avoid disappointment, buy the delatone in an original package and mix fresh.

MILLIONS STOLEN FROM JAPANESE MERCHANTS

COMPLICATIONS OF TRADING WITH RUSSIAN SUBJECTS IN SIBERIA EXEMPLIFIED.

(Canadian Press)

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 8. — Some of the complications of trading with Russian subjects in Siberia are exemplified in the mission which is taking Major Ridwell, formerly an officer in the Australian corps, back to Siberia on a second journey to try to recover some of the allegedly stolen millions from General Rezanoff or from Japanese merchants. He bears with him letters of recommendation from Sir Cecil Harmsworth under-secretary for foreign affairs, to Sir. Charles Elliott, British ambassador in Japan and former British high commissioner in Sibera. In addition he will attempt to recover the value of other British goods which have disappeared in Siberia.

Goods Seized.

In the early part of 1916 a great Manchester firm shipped cotton and other goods consigned to individual Russian subjects in Siberia to the value of one million pounds sterling. In August of that year General Rezanoff, who nominally was an adherent of Admiral Kolchak and was in command of the fortress of Vladivostok, seized those goods which could not be delivered up to that time. The general sold the cotton goods for a sum of £750,000 to Japanese merchants. Then came the Red invasion and General Rezanoff fled to Japan and is still there.

THE HIGH COST OF ANTHRACITE

DUE TO ALLEGED COMBINE, W. J. LAUCK ARGUES BEFORE U.S. COAL COM'N—THAT COLOSSAL MONOPOLY EXISTS TO SQUEEZE THE CONSUMER.

SCRANTON, Pa. — A charge that the U. S. anthracite coal industry is dominated by a monopolistic system that "presses up to squeeze the consumer and down to squeeze the wage earner, by diverting profits at points where neither can see them through the screen of bookkeeping and legal devices," was made here before the anthracite coal commission by W. Jett Lauck.

Multiply Profits by Seven.

He was arguing the admissibility of exhits on profiteering and monopoly which he submitted in behalf of the United Mine Workers of America, and to which the representatives of the operators interposed objections. Mr. Lauck also declared that the real profits of the anthracite industry were at least seven times the apparent profits.

The commission was appointed by President Wilson to arbitrate the differences between the miners and teh operators.

An Octopus Combine.

"The anthracite industry has been organized into a huge combination, a monopoly very similar in structure to an octopus. Its head and body are a very small group of banking interests," said Mr. Lauck. Its entwining arms are seven railway systems which control at their extremities the anthracite mining operations of the country.

"The books of the entire concern of the industry from mine via railway to final disposal by the sales corporation, must be examined before any one can say just what are the profits derived from anthracite.

Examine the Books.

"Our contention is that such an examination of the books of the anthracite coal combination is essential to the settlement of this controversy on the basis of justice.

"The point which we wish to make is that a well defined process exists by which the profits of the anthracite industry are successfully concealed, the high prices being explained by aparent high costs.

Rate Juggling Alleged.

"The losses of the railroad coal companies are written into the cost of transportation through advances without interest and through the funding operations which impose large fixed charges upon the railroad department. The high freight rates which such inflated transportation costs seem to justify are written into the cost of anthracite and serve to bridge the gap between the mine cost and the high prices which prevail."

STAMP SHIPMENT WORTH $57,000

WAS RECEIVED BY LOCAL INLAND REVENUE OFFICE.

The Inland Revenue office have received their first allotment of the new excise tax stamps for promissory notes, bills of exchanges, bank overdrafts and stock transfers. A small package arriving at the office this morning contained the most valuable shipment of stamps or money ever received at the local office—$57,500 worth of the small adhesive King's heads were contained in the shipment. The denominations up to 15c have not yet been issued and the war tax issue is being used in their place. All denominations from 15c to $10, however, were enclosed and already local banks and business houses have purchased large quantities of them. The stamps are much the same as the Inland Revenue issue and are handsomely coloured and artistically designed. The $10 are orange, $5 maroon, $1 olive, 50c brown, 40c indigo, 30c light brown, 25c carmine, 20c olive brown, 15c deep orange.

CONSTABLE CYCLIST HURT BY AUTOMOBILE

TORONTO MOTORIST CHARGED WITH CRIMINAL NEGLIGENCE—VICTIM BADLY INJURED.

TORONTO, July 7.—P. C. McKay, (188), of 2356 Queen Street, east, is in St. Michael's Hospital suffering from head and facial injuries, and Mariam Otto, Moscow Avenue, is in the custody of the police on a charge of criminal negligence, as the result of an accident at Duchess and Jarvis Streets, last night.

According to the police, the officer was proceeding south on his bicycle. Following him were a motor truck and Otto's auto. Wishing to turn along Duchess Street, McKay held out his hand to warm those following of his intention. The truck heeded the signal, but Otto kept straight ahead, and struck the bicycle squarely. McKay jumped, and caught the hood of the auto. In the operation his head went through the windshield, and was badly gashed.

TRIED TO KISS PRINCE.

(Associated Press).

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, July 8.—While en route by train from Auckland to New Plymouth early in May, the Prince of Wales stopped at a small town called To-Kuiti. Here a Maori (native) girl made a determined effort to kiss him. But the burly mayor of the town pushed the girl away. This was the second attempt by a Maori girl to kiss the Prince, the first incident of the kind having been a few weeks earlier at Rotorua.

ROUMANIA'S QUEEN TOILER, OPTIMIST

BUCHAREST.—Queen Mary of Rumania displayed her business ability and her faith in her country by putting through an important deal in locomotives not long ago. The Rumanian railways were in sad need of the new engines. There were American, French and English agents here to sell locomotives, but for money only. None of them had enough faith in Rumania to sell them for anything except for cold hard cash.

Then the President of an American concern who had been selling locomotives to Poland came to Rumania. An interview was arranged between him and the Queen, who presented such a strong argument on the future of the country and its resources that the hard-headed business American agreed to furnish locomotives and rolling stock and take in payment Rumania's national bonds.

The Queen believes in Rumania and she knows how to convince others, because she has been over every foot of its ground. During the days that she was Princess she traveled by train and by automobile and on horseback until she has come to know all of the resources of her country and a great many of its people.

Here is what she said to The Associated Press correspondent about her country:

"The Queen of a small country! Those who are accustomed to see rulers of a great land can little understand what it means. It means work and anxiety and hope and a great toiling for small results. But the field is large and if the heart is willing great is the work."

Queen Mary has a reputation as a writer and now that the war is over she has resumed the literary work she abandoned when the war began.

"Whatever may be the value of what I write I am happy to say that I have facility in writing," she explained. "I write in the morning before I begin my day's work, but interruptions do not disturb me. If I have to see some one I go back to my desk and am able to take up the unfinished sentence where I left it. Part of my writing is in the nature of a journal, which I kept throughout the war, but it is of such an intimate nature that much of it cannot be published until long after I am dead."

The most admired work of the Queen, aside from her fairy stories, is a little book entitled "My Country," wherein, in a casual impressionistic manner, the Queen tells of her travels through the country, describing the life of the peasants, their desire to own the soil, their willingness to work hard, the quaint costumes of the women, the curious architecture of the churches and houses, the beautiful women of the country and the charm of the winding, dusty roads.

For all her beauty and fine clothes the Queen is not afraid of dirt. This fact is shown in her boundless admiration for the dusty plains and dustier roads of her country. One day during the German occupation of Rumania she was riding along one of the dusty roads of Bessarabia when she saw and picked up an ill-clad little orphan girl who was part of a group of refugees, but seemed to belong to nobody in particular. The Queen gathered up the child in her arms and took her home, thinking later to find her mother. To date the mother has not been found, so the Queen has adopted the little girl as a member of her own family.

Another girl that the Queen has almost adopted is Miss Anne Shaw of Philadelphia, who has been in Rumania with the American Red Cross for more tha a year. Miss Shaw came to know the Queen through her Red Cross work, and also Princess Elizabeth, with whom she has struck up a fast friendship. The Queen heartily approves of the friendship, and when Miss Shaw is about the house the Queen treats her as a younger sister.

Queen Mary is a good judge of human nature. When she receives a stranger she puts him through a sort of third degree. She places him in a chair facing a lighted window, whereas she sits with her back to the light, and if the stranger meets with her approval, as a person to be trusted, she then is apt to remark:

"I think that light is too strong for your eyes," and asks him or her to change the seat. Then she is ready for conversation.

She makes it a point to be in touch with all sorts of opinion and has made friends with a great many of the radical politicians of Rumania.

Not long since she invited all the writers and newspaper folk of Rumania to her home, serving them tea, and had a heart to heart talk with them. She explained that she was working just as they were for the good of Rumania, told them that perhaps in the past she had not worked as she might, confessed that she had been ignorant, if not misguided, but promised to do better in the future and asked to be permitted to work with them to the common end of making their country greater.

The Queen is keenly alive to the social changes brought by the war, to the possibility that thrones are unstable, but she is said to believe that there is still much Kings and Queens can do if they stick to their jobs—and smile.

RETRIEVING BARBED WIRE.

The problem of retrieving the buried and broken barbed wire on the battlefields of Flanders and Northern France is being tackled by the British War Office Salvage Committee, and a machine for the purpose has been invented and built which is thus described:

One trunk and trailer carries the whole of the plant, which can work on the most uneven ground. A stout wire rope with a number of hooks is worked by a winch. As the barbed wire is drawn up it passes through two sets of rollers and the salved metal appears in blocks from one foot to eighteen inches square, and weighing from seventy to eighty pounds. For smelting it sells for about $25 a ton.

The staff in charge of the scheme thinks that there are 100,000 tons that can be removed, and if that is the aggregate weight, the cost of the forty outfits said to have been ordered should be amply justified.—American Machinst.

BRITAIN CUTS TAX ON WINE AS CONCESSION TO FRENCH

LONDON.—In the House of Commons today, during discussion of the Finance bill, Austen Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, accepted on behalf of the Government an amendment to the bill reducing the ad valorem duty on sparkling wines from 50 per cent. to 33 1-3 per cent as a concession to French wine growers. The Chancellor promised to take into consideration a similar reduction on cigars.

BEWARE OF TENDER GUMS

Unhealthy soil kills the best of wheat. Unhealthy gums kill the best of teeth. To keep the teeth sound keep the gums well. Watch for tender and bleeding gums. This is a symptom of Pyorrhea, which afflicts four out of five people over forty.

Pyorrhea menaces the body as well as the teeth. Not only do the gums recede and cause the teeth to decay, loosen and fall out, but the infecting Pyorrhea germs lower the body's vitality and cause many serious ills.

To avoid Pyorrhea, visit your dentist frequently for tooth and gum inspection. And use Forhan's For the Gums.

Forhan's For the Gums will prevent Pyorrhea—or check its progress, if used in time and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's will keep the gums firm and healthy, the teeth white and clean. Start using it today. If gum-shrinkage has set in, use Forhan's according to directions, and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

JOSEPH BOWNE ELWELL'S DEATH THRILLS NEW YORK WITH MYSTERY

LOVERS OF THE TRAGIC AND SENSATIONAL HAVE HAD GREATEST FEAST IN YEARS THE PAST WEEK.

ARREST TWO PEOPLE

Lovers of the mysterious, the tragic and the sensational in New York have had the greatest feast in years the past week. It was provided by Joseph Bowne Elwell's death. He was found a week ago last Friday morning, breathing his last, a bullet-hole in his forehead. No weapon was discovered in the room or in the house, and the assumption of murder was gone on by the police from the first. After a week's frenzied search they have succeeded in arresting but two persons, both servants of the dead man, and they are merely held as material witnesses. Now murders are of everyday occurrence in New York, and murder mysteries are by no means infrequent. It was the circumstances of the case that lifted it from obscurity and caused it to vie with the results of the Republican National Convention for prominence on the front page. These circumstances were in some respects not unlike those which made the Thaw case a matter for world-wide comment. So far no Thaw has appeared on the scene. Nor was Elwell a man who could be compared with Stanford White, except as a man-about-town and his standing in a sort of smart society.

The Elwell Home.

Elwell was a man of wealth, the owner of a string of race horses said to be worth a quarter of a million dollars, an authority on various card games, and the author of works on whist—which his wife claims to have written. His life seems to have been spent in the pursuit of pleasure when it was not devoted to various speculative problems. He was separated from his wife, and lived in his own fashionable apartments. Here he entertained his friends, chiefly ladies. He had a staff of servants, including his chauffeur, Rhodes, and his housekeeper, Mrs. Marie Larsen, now under arrest, but none of them slept in the house, which Elwell found a convenience for his guests, the arrangement giving them more room when they remained late. The housekeeper entered the house with her own key sometime about 8.30 on the Friday morning. She says that she noticed a strong smell of tobacco in the vestibule. She glanced into the reception room off the entrance hall and saw Elwell, clad in his pyjamas, sitting in a chair, with the bullet wound in his forhead and blood on his face. She immediately gave the alarm, but the man died before anyone else arrived.

The Night Before.

The bullet when extracted was found to be a .45 calibre, the heaviest used in any revolver. The empty shell was not discovered. The police naturally worked on the theory that it was an automatic, and that it was a man's. Their first step was to trace Elwell's movements of the evening preceding the crime. They found that he had made his usual round of cabarets, and that he was with a party at the Plaza. Another member of the party was a handsome young woman, whose divorce from her husband had been granted that very day, and immediately the newspapers dubbed the entertainment a "divorce party." Her husband was also in the hotel at the time, and is said to have spoken to Elwell and received a response. Another witness said that Elwell did not notice him. Then with the fragments of the party Elwell was driven away, and about three o'clockin the morning was taken to his apartments. A neighbor who heard the car looked out of his window, and saw Elwell enter the house. He left a male companion in the car, which then disappeared.

Some Peculiar Facts.

All these persons were interviewed by the police but could throw not the slightest light upon the mystery. They knew nobody who would have reason to kill him, and no reason whatever why he should kill himself. So far as they were personally concerned they established alibis. Elwell entered his house alone. Nobody else had a key to the door except the housekeeper, so it is assumed that when he entered the place the murderer was not already there. Had he been in hiding he would not have waited a couple of hours before committing the murder, and the evidence showed that Elwell had been shot not long before the crime was discovered. There were no indications that the house had been entered forcibly. Therefore, it seemed plain that Elwell himself had admitted the murderer. But why, after rather a rackety night did he go to his bedroom, get into his pyjamas remove his false teeth and his toupee, and go downstairs to the reception room? He had not been to bed at all.

A Curious Confession.

It was taken for granted that such an exquisite would never have laid aside the adventitious aids to his beauty to admit a stranger. Had he been roused by a ring, it is unlikely that he would have gone to the door without somewhat improving his appearance. Nor would he have received a stranger at that hour. Therefore, it is argued that whoever entered was a friend who had often seen him minus his teeth and his toupee. The police had argued thus far and had interviewed scores of Elwell's friends and associates when Mrs. Larsen admitted that before the police arrived she had hidden several intimate articles of ladies' attire. She professed not to know the name of the owner of them, but described her as short and stout and dark and young. She had taken this action in order to prevent this young woman being dragged into the case. More sensational still, she said that the same woman arrived at the Elwell house breathless an hour or so after the police had come, and appeared to know about the murder, although the papers had not yet published the news. Then she disappeared. There the case stands.

VIVIDLY PORTRAYS LIFE OF GREAT NORTH WOODS

No play has given the public a more decided insight into life as it is lived in the "Great Northwoods" than "The River's End," the first of Marshall Neilan's independent productions, taken from the story by James Oliver Curwood and distributed by First National Exhibitors' Circuit. The play will be shown at the Allen Theatre to-day and to-morrow.

Mr. Neilan's superb touch as a director has brought out the life in the northwest, as has also the selection of the "location." The life about which we know little or nothing is brought home to us in a most vivid manner.

Leading the able cast are Lewis Stone, Marjorie Daw, Jane Novak, J. Barney Sherry and Charles West.

Here Crown Attorney Hatton objected to the detailed evidence the Magistrate was taking, saying that at the rate they were proceeding the case would last all day. The Magistrate replied that he did not care if it lasted a week as he wanted to get a proper understanding of the case.

Asked by the Crown Attorney who in his estimation was at fault the witness replied that he considered the driver of the car was, as the car was not in its right place.

Cross-examined by counsel for the defence, witness stated that he may have been going five miles an hour while watching the approach of Kerr's car and Hawke. Hawke angled across toward's Payne's drug store. Kerr turned to the left, evidently to dodge. Witness admitted that Hawke was a rapid and rather expert bicyclist.

Fred Jopling.

The next witness called was Fred Jopling, of Jopling Bros. He stated that he was crossing west on George street on the south side of Simcoe when he saw the accident. Traffic was heavy and he paused in the middle of the car track looking both ways. He saw Kerr's car about opposite the centre of Turnbull's store, but didn't see Hawke until the car and bicycle were about four feet apart. Kerr started to turn when opposite Turnbull's and the accident occurred near the car track opposite Payne's drug store. The bicycle turned as though to get outof the way and was struck. The automobile ran on to the bicycle and the axle of the car pinned bicycle and Hawke down. Hawke was helped to the curb. He appeared frightened, but other than that witness could not tell how badly he was hurt.

In answer to Mr. Gordon's questions witness stated that he saw the bicycle only when it was in the immediate proximity of the car. There was no traffic policeman on duty at the corner, but P. C. Boyd aarived at once. He could not say whether there many cars parked in front of Turnbull's, but there was heavy traffic on the street.

Mr. Gordon then attempted to call Dr. D. C. King, who attended Hawke, in order to ascertain from Hawke's injuries the force of the impact and the position of the colliding bodies, but the Magistrate could see no advantage in calling Dr. King, and Mr. Gordon acceded to the Magistrate's objection.

The prisoner was then committed for trial at the next General Sessions Court and bail was fixed at $500, which was provided by two of Kerr's friends.

Joseph Wearing is looking after Hawke's interests.

PERPETUAL STRIFE STIRS JERUSALEM

ANTAGONISM BETWEEN JEWS AND ARABS KEEP CITY IN FERMENT.

LONDON. — George N. Barnes, M.P., formerly member of the War Cabinet and noted labour leader, analyzes, in "The Times," the antagonism between Jews and Arabs in the new state-to-be, Palestine. Mr. Barnes, who recently completed a trip through the Holy and, writes:

"Instead of co-operating together for the good government of their city and for the peace and progress of the citizens, the two rival sections of the population seem to find their diversion in mutual 'ragging.' Jew and Moslem keep Jerusalem in a state of ferment. The city is like a simmering pot near the boiling point and liable to boil over at any moment. It boiled over on the morning of the second day of my visit.

"An individual wrangle near the Jaffa Gate developed into a general scrimmage, in the course of which three Moslems and one Jew were killed and 170 on both sides were injured, those on the Moslem side by firearms. Things quieted down during the day, only to break out again intermittently afterward, when there was more killing and wounding for another three or four days. Before that time the local native police had been demobilized because, so it was said, they had been found to be unreliable, and the city was in the hands of the military.

"Machine guns were at the street corners and reinforcements were hurried up to the support of the 500 men of the Yorkshire Regiment who form the garrison.

Cause of Trouble Obscure.

"By that time also some other facts had been sifted from the mass of gossip which had been current, but the immedate cause of the trouble remained obscure, and the authorities had promised to institute an inquiry. It would obviously be improper to repeat any of the wild rumors which passed from mouth to mouth during the excitement of the time, more especially as reports to hand since show that the authorities have reached some conclusions as to individual culpability.

"But, after all, the inquiry which is still to be made will be concerned only with the immediate cause of trouble. It probably will find out who was the aggressor or who were the aggressors on the particular day when the eruption broke out. I should like, therefore, to say a few words here as to some of the more permanent, underlying causes of ill-feeling between Jew and Moslem, and to direct attention to a disturbing factor which has been present for the last year or two and which, in my opinion, has become the main or outstanding cause of estrangement between the two peoples.

Ignorance and Rumour.

"Before dealing with the cause, or causes, of the trouble, let me put on record my meed of praise for the very fine humane spirit displayed by the medical staff and the nurses of the Jewish Hospital. They worked like Trojans. They were constantly in the danger zone, attending to injured, taking cases to the hospital, and, I believe, treating them there with kindly impartiality.

"But now what had led to the outbreak? Many things. One cause of estrangement between Jew and Moslem is, I believe, simple misunderstanding. There are practically no newspapers in Jerusalem, or none read by the general community, which numbers some 90,000. Each section appears to have its own sheet or its own means of communication and information. But what is at any time lacking in knowledge is made up in imagination.

"The Eastern mind is prone to exaggeration, so that the most strange stories get ready credence and rumor flies on the wings of credulity with extraordinary rapidity. In the course of the few days of the riots I am sure that I heard the killed and wounded multiplied twentyfold. And no sooner had one rumor run its course than another took its place.

"The time of the authorities was to some extent consumed in getting excited minds to keep to bare facts. This psychological factor doubtless contributes to that excitability which is the prelude and accompaniment of all social upheaval. The remedy is, of course, the prompt diffusion of facts. How that is to be done in a polyglot community is a matter to be determined by those on the spot.

Nationalist Feeling Grows.

"In the next place, there is at least the beginning of Nationalist feeling among the Arab-Moslem population. When Lord Allenby entered Jerusalem he was hailed as the deliverer of the city from the Turk, and probably would have been hailed as the Turks' successor. But the Arabs have since began to think of independence. The long delay in settling the terms of peace with Turkey has brought just the right atmosphere for the growth of nationalism.

"The Eastern mind has fastened on those points in Allied commitments most favourable to the Eastern case as conceived in the East. The idea of a united Arabia, for instance, has found some accentance. A conference at Damascus had, just before the Jerusalem troubles, declared in favour of that idea and had declared the Emir Feisal as King. But there seemed to be a very hazy view of the area which was to constitute his kingdom. The general idea, so far as I could gather, was that its northern boundary was to be the sea coast, and therefore that it was to include Palestine or Syria, perhaps both. It is therefore clear that the national ideal is vague and shadowy in character.

Difficult to Prevent Trouble.

"The Emir Feisal's officers, nevertheless, were in Jerusalem during the disturbances, and they were there in uniform without leave or authority from any one. I am not suggesting that they had any hand in fomenting trouble, but I mention their presence to lead up to another cause of ill-feeling—namely, the difficulty of the administration in keeping an even keel as between Jew and Moslem.

"Both live a good deal in the open air. There are numerous occasions when the authorities can help or hinder their public proceedings, and help to one is at times construed as favouritism by the other. One such case occurred almost immediately before the recent outbreak.

"I may say here, in parentheses, that the Mahometans of Palestine have an annual celebration in honour of Moses. The burial place of the great law-giver has, as they believe, been revealed to them, and they hold high festival there. The place is in the Jordan Valley, and contingents from the surrounding countryside converge on it and camp out for a week. An exchange of courtesies had been arranged as between the Governor on the one hand and the Chief Mufti and Moslem priests on the other. The exchange duly took place, and, in fact, a military band had been provided for the procession by the Governor.

"This gave rise to adverse criticism. On the other hand, a representative Mahometan complained to me that preference of employment was given by the Governor to Jews.

Parallel With Ireland.

"Palestine reproduces some of the features of the Irish situation. The Arabs, as the main body of the people, regard themselves as being entitled to recognition as such, and the Jews, far from conceding this claim in Jerusalem, actually claim precedence there. And I think that a cause of trouble is the fact, or has been the fact, that there has been no authority to decide such matters. They have been left to settle themselves.

"There has been the uncertainty as to what power should be ultimately entrusted with the task of administration of the country, an uncertainty which has paralyzed the British administration. And, in any case, in the absence of mandate, the only thing to be done was to maintain the status quo. It is fortunate that the Supreme Council at San Remo has now made its decision, with the assent of the people. With that element of uncertainty gone the situation will be improved.

"Now let us take a brief look at the other side. The Jews in Palestine number about 11 per cent., but in Jerusalem they are half the population, the Moslems being rather more than half of the remainder. Outside Jerusalem the Jews are but a sprinkling. In Bethlehem, which is now a town of 13,000 inhabitants and but eight miles distant, there are no Jews.

"In the country generally the feeling toward the Jews is not very kindly. This may account for the Jews having formed an armed defensive organization. But, whatever justification there may have been for this in the provinces, there would seem to be but little need for it where the Jews are two to one of the population. The formation of this force must have incensed the Moslems and contributed to the smoke which broke out into flame with such disastrous results."

12TH OF JULY TAG DAY FOR ORPHANS

TO AID TRUE BLUE ORPHANAGE AND SERBIAN CHILDREN,

The True Blue and Orange Orphanage of Ontario and the war orphanages of Serbia, constitute a call and an irresistible appeal to every true friend of the Orange order and to every lover of Liberty at home and abroad.

These orphans, in many instances in Ontario, and in many instances in Serbia, are the children of the men who made the supreme sacrifice in snatching victory from defeat and saving self-determination to the weaker nations, civilization to the world, and the religion of Jesus Christ, to the human family.

The children of the men who conquered the vandals, who were dismantling Cathedrals, and the very altars of God, carrying off the sacred vessels of His holy house, robbing the world of its religious relics, razing art galleries to the ground, stealing earth's antiquities, and other treasures of art—despoiling the house of God and man.

The children of the men who met and mastered the fiends who were firing oil fields and fuel mines, cutting down forests, plugging and poisoning wells and running waters, scuttling and sinking ships and sending to the bottom of the sea vast stores of precious food stuffs destined for the firing lines and famine stricken fields, and sacrificing men immortalized in war and peace, in literature, in art, in science and in social circles, immortalized for faith and for good works.

These are the children of the men who fought and fell in our defence by land and sea, and saved the liberties of the world. Shall we who never missed a meal, who never knew the pinch of poverty or saw the ravages of war allow these little ones to lack for any necessary of life? Far be it from us!

The Brotherhood Federation of Canada is co-operating with the True Blue and Orange Order of Peterboro in a joint tag day on next Monday, July 12, 1920, on behalf of the True Blue Orange Orphanage in Ontario and our orphanage in Serbia.

This is a splendid piece of home and foreign missionary effort that will commend itself to all irrespective of denominational lines.

Indeed, it is an unusual opportunity for a display of loyalty and fidelity on behalf of our war orphans and others at home and aoroad.

Many of the leading ladies of the city are already in line to help make the effort a success.

Will young ladies and gentlemen willing to assist in this worthy work kindly communicate at once with Miss Knox, 481 Gilmour, telephone 788w, or Rev. R. G. Campbell or Capt. Joe Lawson, 397 Maitland avenue, telephone 924j.

Your assistance spells success.

CLOVER AND HAY BEING HARVESTED

DEPARTMENTAL REPORT OF FARM CONDITIONS.

The following is a summary of the weekly reports made by the agricultural representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

Fall wheat as a rule is showing a full head, and is getting well colored. Essex, Kent and Elgin report the Hessian fly as doing much injury to some fields, and Middlesex also speaks of its presence.

Spring grains are coming along in surprisingly good shape after their tardy start, especially oats.

Brant states that local farmers are growing more millet than heretofore.

Clover is being cut, and while comparatively light in yield is doing better than was expected.

Sweet clover has also shown up well.

Alfalfa has had a splendid first cut, and is increasing in favor with the season's showing. Essex reports second growth a foot high.

Corn is doing nicely where not affected by insects. The excellent germination of the seed this year is referred to by some representatives.

Beans, with a greatly diminished acreage compared with that of two or three years ago, are looking unusually well.

All root crops except mangels are thriving, generally speaking, but many fields need hoeing. Both Kent and Lambton report a scarcity of labor for blocking sugar beets, which will be a great crop if the hoe is applied in time.

Flax at present is giving much satisfaction to growers.

Strawberry picking is still active. The yield, while large, has not been as heavy as was expected. Prices in the main hung around twenty cents a box to owners—sometimes considerably higher—but packers have got them at fourteen cents and lower. Brant states that a man in that county has twenty-six acres of strawberries. Raspberries promise well.

Good steers have been selling at 15c a lb. Calves range in price from 12c to 15c a lb. Frontenac says that good dairy cows bring $150.

Cheese sold for 28 3-16 cents a lb. during the week.

Bacon hogs are selling at from $18 to $19.50 a cwt. Little pigs are being disposed of as low as $10 a pair. Old hay is priced by Prescott and Russell at $24 a ton, by Middlesex at $33 and by Wentworth at $40 on the market.

Peel reports: "Bee pasture is good, but colonies are so weak in numbers that production is not heavy. Operators are having extreme difficulty in securing stock from the south, and many orders have been cancelled. Several small shipments arrived from Florida during the week."

With school vacation more farm help is to be had, but less than in recent years. Elgin observes that several married men from the towns are going on farms where they can get housing accommodation. Brant states that a number of tractors have been brought into the country this year.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

(Canadian Press.)

NEW YORK, July 8.—The upward trend of security prices continued at the stock market opening to-day, most leaders not only holding yesterday's gains, but registering additional small advances. Steels and railroad issues were the favorites.

The rank and file of traders took the bearish side of the market and were reported selling short especially in Doheny Oil stocks, Vanadium steel Baldwin loco and the tobacco issues They took the stand that the recovery had reached its limit for the present.

Opposed to these were reported the big operators were responsible for the advance for last few days and were on the dull side.

U. S. Steel opened at 95 1-8 up 3-8 Baldwin 125 5-8, up 3-8; Amn. Loco 102 1-2, up 1; Union Pac. 114 7-8 up 3-8 ;Corn Prods 97 1-2 up 1-4, Vanadium 91 up 1; Reading 97 -34 unchanged; Amn Car and F lv pfd 1-8, up 1-8; Can Amn 108 up 7-8; Retail stores 81 1-4, up 1-4; Amn Woollen 101 up 5-8; Crucible 150 3-4 up 1-4.

Exchange Steady

Foreign exchange was steady at the opening to-day. Demand sterling opened at $3.95 up 1; Franc checks 12.02 off 15 centimes; Lire checks 16.62 off 5; Belgian cables 11.18 up 5; Marks $.0265 unchanged, Canadian dollars demand $.8780.

The call money renewal rate got down to 7 per cent. Mexican Pet. sold down to 198 1-2 off 3 from Wednesday. Midvale advanced 1-2 in early trading.

BETHANY TABERNACLE ANNUAL EXCURSION

Bethany Tabernacle Sunday school held their annual excursion down the river yesterday and, considering the decidedly inclement weather the excursion was a success in every way. The steamer Geneva was chartered for the party and at 8 a.m. it pulled away from George street wharf, carrying a large number of Sunday school children and their friends. The refreshment booths on board was the centre of attraction on the trip down. Dinner was held at Gore's Landing and after dinners games and sports made the afternoon most enjoyable for the children as well as the grown ups.

The trip up the river was made under more favorable weather conditions and made up for the rainy trip down. The boat reached the city at 7.30 o'clock. The finances were very satisfactory, the officers state.

PRISONER ESCAPES FROM THE LINDSAY CHIEF.

Any Man With Slim Wrist Could Easily Get Away.

LINDSAY, July 8.—A young man named Quillam, who was fined for being under the influence of liquor and was sent to jail for refusing to divulge the name of the man who gave him the liquor, made a daring escape from Chief Short as he was being taken to the jail. He was handcuffed, but managed to slip his wrist out of the shackle and get clean away. He has not yet been found.

Later it was discovered that of the three sets of handcuffs in town any man with a slim wrist could easily force his wrist out of the steel clasp.

DECREASE IN LYNCHINGS.

Total of 12 in First Six Months of 1920.

TUSKEGEE, Ala., July 8.—There was a decrease in the number of lynchings during the first six months of this year, according to a statement prepared by R. R. Moton, Principal of Tuskegee Institute, and made public here to-day. The total was 12, compared with 17 in the corresponding period of 1919 and 33 in the same period in 1918.

All of those lynched were negroes, eight of whom were accused of assaulting white women. The largest number lynched in any one State was three, in Minnesota. There were two in Alabama, and one each in Florida, Kentucky, Kansas, Texas and South Carolina.

HOLIDAY OPPORTUNITY FOR GIRLS FROM THE CITY

Girls who are looking for an ideal place to spend their holidays, should go to the Y.W.C.A. Camp, where all girls over twelve are welcome. The camp is situated on Bravender's Island, just across from Burleigh Falls, and can be reached by the boat that connects with the Lakefield train three times a day. Good meals are served, the rates are reasonable and everybody has a great time. The girls who were there last wek will vouch for the statement that days a camp are wonderful days.

Be Careful What You Wash Your Hair With

Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else, that contains too much alkali, for this is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulsified cocoanut oil, for it is pure and entirely greasless. It's very cheap, and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

MOONLIGHT CROWD.

Rebekah Lodge, I.O.O.F., Had a Pleasant Outing.

Golden Link Rebekah Lodge held a very successful moonlight last night per the steamer Stoney Lake. The attendance was large and the proceeds gratifying. Excellent music by Follis and Fitzgerald made the dancing irresistible, the only difficulty being that the floor was too small.

The happy moonlighters arrived back in the city shortly after 11, after a pleasant trip that was enjoyed by everyone.

SAYS JAMAICA WILL BE DRY.

American Prohibition Campaigner Predicts Overthrow of Rum Soon.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, July 8.—The Rev. E. M. Curtic, one of the pioneers of prohibition in America and a disciple of "Pussyfoot" Johnson, has closed his prohibition campaign here and is leaving for America.

He says the thing which surprised him most was the strong undercurrent and conviction among the people that the overthrow of intoxicating liquor in Jamaica would come and must come soon.

A SERMON TO SUBSCRIBERS

(By Editor Turner's Weekly)

Dear Friends,—My text this morning is taken from a collection of old sayings, never printed, but almost certain to have been said: "He who desireth to fill his wallet with pelf must deliver the goods." Pelf is a dictionary word signifying lucre or kopecks.

My discourse this morning is on a delicate subject. The text, as you may be able to discern as I proceed, has to do with weekly papers published at small rural points, and their editors. You may not know country editors and so may not know that the subject I have chosen is a delicate one, but I have recently attended a conclave of weekly editors and know that delicacy is their watchword.

You must know the country editor. He is of two kinds, either the semi-detached, well-educated man who started in for preaching or law and was left at a siding ,or the printer who had more ambition than education, and came to the conclusion that wealth was to be garnered in business for himself. This may sound disparaging: it is not meant to be so. Many a man of the first type referred to has found contentment in his work; has produced an article of value to his fellow-men; has been elected to the council and the board of school trustees; has produced a paper which has become an institution up to which the town looks with respect and pride. He has been a foe to evil, a spreader of light, a cementer of community interest. Contentment, I say, has come to him. Not much wealth has fallen to his lot, but a comfortable living has been his. He has ceased, when he is about forty to regret the accident that switched him from the straight line he was following to the ministry or the law, and he has come to the conclusion, a forced conclusion, maybe, but perhaps, after all, a correct one, that though sidetracked, he is safe from the wrecks that too much speed on the main line sometimes brings about, and that he is doing as much good as though he pried some thug from jail through legal wile, or hammered dogma of uncertain merit into the waxy ears of a paunchy city congregation in a debt-encrusted church.

Nor do I mean to disparage the printer type, for he has sometimes realized his ambition. If he is a good printer ,he has taken joy and pride in turning out a neat typographical job. He has been his own boss. He has created a business and it is his own. He is generally handicapped by having to hire as his editor a man with intellectual looks and bad teeth, a man who believes that a jealous city editor ruined his career as a brilliant reporter on a city daily, but who knows in his rational moments that he is a derelict on the sea of journalism, and, moreover, knows that he never should have put out to sea on account of the frailty of his mental, moral and physical structure.

And so, in many instances, this printer man has had to be both editor and printer, and many times has made good at both jobs and has had a lot of fun, and has been Santa Claus at the Sunday School Christmas Tree, and has gradually developed into a being similar to his non-printer contemporary, although he generally becomes better as an editor than his aforesaid contemporary as a printer.

These men get out pretty good papers and are nice to know. Moreover, they make a fair success of their papers and do not wail to excess. It was not at these that I intended to direct my remarks this morning, but rather to the editors who do not produce good papers. I need not fear offending them as, not being progressive citizens, they do not read this parish magazine. So let it be known, that if this sermon should catch the eye of any country editor, he may rest assured that it is not he who is meant, who the man in the next town, for I like country editors and would not have them hold a grudge against me.

At the meeting I attended a short time ago, there seemed to be grief amongst many of the brethren on account of the lack of support which was given them locally. They did not seem, from their remarks, to be flourishing, and it caused me to wonder why.

It seems to me that many of the country papers published in this part of the world have really not a sufficient field for them to graze on. The communities are hardly built up sufficiently to support a good paper. The use of that word "good" brings me to the point of my discourse. Unless the paper is good, there is no occasion to publish it. If it is not good there is no reason why the public should support it. Some editors do not appear to realize that when the public do not support a paper, it is generally not the fault of the public, for the public has always been known to support a good thing. It occurred to me, while I was listening to the remarks of my fellow-conspirators at that convention, that some of those who spoke had the idea that the fact that they printed some sort of reading matter on some sort of paper was sufficient reason for expecting the public to pay tribute. It has been so often stated that "you should support your own home paper" that many editors have come to believe it without reservations, and have based their hope of financial salvation on the theory.

This theory, if I might be pardoned a colloquialism, is on the blink. The man who undertakes to publish a paper, publishes something to which no one owes anything on that account alone. He simply manufactures something which he desires to sell. If the article he manufactures is not worth buying, it will not be bought.

The man who publishes a paper worth printing and worth reading, need have no fears. He can raise his subscription rates and his advertising rates until he is assured of a decent income and an extra pair of boots, and his customers will absorb the increase without murmur.

On the other hand, the man who publishes a paper which contains about two inches of poorly printed and uninteresting local news, and two or three pages of dope that has been written and moulded at a smelter, and has the rest of his paper filled with cheap advertising and complaints about delinquent subscribers, had better quit. He is in the wrong business. He is stealing money even though he does not get enough of it to keep him alive. He is a drag on the community. He is an imposition. He is not running a business, but a skin game. He should be hung.

Ah well, the world is far from perfect. Experience in trying to turn out this parish magazine should have taught me tolerance and patience. Fortunately there are only a few, a very few, country weeklies which are unworthy:Others, I know, turn out remarkably creditable papers under adverse circumstances. May they prosper.

Just in closing, may I point out that this parish magazine is certainly one which should have support. It contains some great stuff, I think. Members of the congregation who are in arrears with their contributions should realize that the ink fund is always at a low ebb and act accordingly.

WHEN JOBS GO BEGGING---

PROBABLY YOU THINK right now that the pay you are receiving is not in proportion to the work you are doing—in other words you believe you are poorly paid. And, perhaps you are right.

BUT what is it that governs the amount of your wage? Is it not the law of supply and demand—the same law that governs the cost of merchandise?

THE TROUBLE is—there are more men than jobs—a fact which causes so much trouble at the present time.

A CITY IS PROSPEROUS to the fullest extent when there are more jobs than men to take them. Get busy, therefore, and help bring about this ideal condition. Whenever you go into a store ask for the Peterboro City Brand of the Article you want. Insist that your wife and all your family do the same. Thus you will be laying stones in the foundation of a greater Peterboro City—a Peterboro City having enormous factories which will employ thousands of people and cause millions of dollars to be distributed right here at home.

BEGIN NOW!

DON'T JUST THINK ABOUT IT!

Voice Of The People

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir,—Would you publish the following from the Ottawa Farm Journal of July 6th of the opinion of this reverend gentleman of the party we have at Ottawa of which it appears our local member belong to.

INDEMNITY BOOSTERS SCORED FROM PULPIT

KINGSTON, Ont., July 5.—Every member of Parliament who voted to increase his indemnity by $1,500 is a thief, according to Rev. E. H. Burgess a Presbyterian minister of this city.

In the course of a sermon last evening in Zion Church, Mr. Burgess said that the state morals could not be very high when the members at Ottawa voted themselves $1,500. The preacher styled such self-boosting of salary a piece of low, mean rascality.

BIG GAME PLENTIFUL.

(Canadian Press)

KAMLOOPS, B. C., July 8.—Big game is very plentiful in this district this season. Nine grizzlies and four black bears is the bag of J. W. French, who recently returned from a six weeks' hunt in the wilds of the Big Bend country, in the Selkirk Mountains.

SAYS U.S. LIVING IS GOING HIGHER

ECONOMIC EXPERT DECLARES THAT $9,600,000,000 MUST BE ADDED.

PAY FOUR TIMES

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Approximately $9,600,000,000 will be added to the nation's living costs for the year beginning with September, J. E. Weatherly, Economic Expert of the Justice Department, predicted to-day.

Weatherly said he based this prediction an the belief the Interstate Commerce Commission would be forced to increase freight rates approximately $2,000,000,000. An appeal for increases totalling $1,000,000,000 now is being considered by the Commission at the request of the railroad managers. Another billion must be added when the Railroad Labor Board grants proposed wage increases to 2,000,000 workers Weatherly said he assumed.

Pays Rate Four Times.

"Increased freight rates are reflected in living costs, not in straight proportion, but magnified about 4.8," Weatherly said: "This is because the public pays a freight rate increase several times instead of just once.

"One increased rate is paid when the cattle go from the plains where they grazed to the slaughter house. The second increase is paid when the raw hides are shipped from slaughter house to tannery, a third from tannery to shoe manufacturing house and a fourth when the finished shoe goes from the manufacturer to dealer.

"Shoes thus show a magnification of the rate increase four times. In some commodities, however, the increase is magnified only three times.

"There is another factor. The increased freight rate paid by each dealer or manufacturer is added to his cost of operation on which he figures his profits on a percentage basis.

"There seems no getting around the fact that a freight rate increase means a tremendous boost in prices of every commodity produced in the United States. Every person in the United States is bound to feel the increase. It means a tax of about $96 a year for each of the 100,000,000 persons in the United States."

A decision on the railroads' plea for an increase is expected from the Interstate Commerce Commission soon. Last testimony in the rate hearings was taken yesterday.

MARK ST. SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC A GREAT SUCCESS

VERY HAPPY TIME SPENT IN SPITE OF MORNING'S RAIN.

The annual picnic of the Mark Street Methodist Sunday School yesterday to Gore's Landing, Rice Lake, was a great success, a good time being spent in spite of the heavy rain all morning.

The Steamer "Stoney Lake" left Peterborough at 8 o'clock and returned home at 7 p.m. She carried a large number of pic-nicers, who all enjoyed the occasion immensely. Dinner was served at Gore's Landing, after which the boat returned to Wallace's Point, where Mrs. Cardwell very kindly allowed the use of her beautiful grounds, which are well equipped with swings, slides, merry-go-rounds and everything that children enjoy.

Good Sports.

An excellent program of races was run off, in which the following were the successful winners:

COBOURG PLAYS HERE ON MONDAY IN LEAGUE GAME

The next Central League game for the Petes will be played here on Monday afternoon, 12th July, at 3.30 o'clock. Cobourg and Peterborough clashing in a League game.

The Petes just nosed Cobourg out a couple of weeks ago, winning by 6 to 5, and they will have to be at their best in the game here on Monday. Many holiday visitors will see the battle.

TO-NIGHT'S CITY LEAGUE BATTLE

The game between Canadian Woollens and the Canadian General Electric team to-night at 6.15 o'clock at Riverside Park should be an interesting exhibition.

The Woollens can move up into a tie for first place with the Thistles by winning this contest, while the Electricians need the decision to get on even terms with the G.W.V.A.

Both teams will be at full strength to-night.

On Saturday there will be a double-header, the Woollens and Thistles meeting in the first game and C.G.E. and the Vets in the second.

ATTEND RIFLE MATCHES

It is expected says the Lindsay Post, that Major J. A. Williamson, Colonel R. H. Anderson, Capt. Maple and other Lindsay riflemen, will attend the annual match of the Ontario Rifle Association which will be held this year at Long Branch Rifle Ranges on Aug. 9, 10, 11, 12 and 13, and that they will bring back some of the spoils. There will be $7,000 in cash prizes, also cups and medals for teams and individuals. S. M. L. E. rifles are to be used. There will also be some revolver matches.

DENTIST MUST PAY $9,000.

Jersey Jury Fixes Damages for Patient Who Died.

JERSEY CITY, July 8.—A jury in the Circuit Court in Jersey City returned a verdict for $9,000 against Dr. Frederick W. Ziebell of 277 Bergenline Avenue, Union Hill, a dentist, for the death of his patient, Mrs. Cornelia Ollert of 4835 Hudson Boulevard, North Bergen. The verdict is in favor of Mitchell Allert, husband of the woman, who sued for $21,000 on the ground that the dentist failed to properly protect Mrs. Ollert when she was under treatment.

Dr. Ziebell was using an electric drill on Mrs. Ollert June 13, 1916, when a heavy thunder shower broke, and the drill, affected by the electrical disturbances, transmitted an augmented current of electricity that burned Mrs. Ollert's mouth and gave her a shock from which it was contended lockjaw developed. She died two days later. It was alleged that Dr. Ziebell failed to have the wire which transmitted the power to the drill properly insulated. Dr. Ziebell denied this.

WOODSTOCK WIFE AND SON MISSING

District chief constables have been requested by Chief Moore of Woodstock to be on the lookout for Rosa Maystone, aged 30 years, who has been missing from her home since July 2nd. She is slight of build, fair complexion, dressed in grey pleated skirt, trimmed with white and green, white silk waist, violet colored hat trimmed with violets, white boots. The woman took with her Ronald Frederick Stone, a son, aged 4 years and is thought to be accompanied by a man named Walter LeRoy, aged 35 years, fresh complexion, dark brown hair, dressed in blue suit, white Panama hat.

The husband of the woman is anxious to recover the child.

FIRST STEP TOWARDS REVIVAL LOCAL ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

MEETING WAS HELD IN THE BOARD OF TRADE ROOMS YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

At a meeting held in the Board of Trade Rooms yesterday afternoon the first step was taken toward reorganising the Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association by appointing a committee of those present to interest the athletic organisations of the city in the movement, and to get them to send representatives to an organisation meeting to be held in the Board of Trade Rooms at 7.30 o'clock on Friday evening, the 16th of July.

The election of officers and an executive from those present was out of the question, as only nine put in an appearance at the meeting.

On the motion of R. M. Glover, seconded by C. G. Graham, it was decided to appoint those present—G. H. Roper, Thomas Barrie, C. G. Graham, R. M. Glover, A. Dick, J. E. Sullivan, Leon Frazer, Nagie E. Phelan, and Dr. Franks—a committee to interest the athletic organisations of the city in sending representatives to a meeting on 16th July to elect officers and draft a constitution and by-laws.

To Finance Alfred Smoke.

The chief subject of discussion once this step had been taken was Alfred Smoke, Peterborough's Indian runner, and candidate for a position on the Canadian Olympic team.

Smoke is without funds, and as he is one of the greatest advertising opportunities Peterborough has ever had, it was the opinion of those present that he should be financed locally. The Board of Trade has already realised the advertising Peterborough will receive if he obtains a place on the Olympic team and is among the leaders at the Olympic Games in Antwerp, Belgium, and Leon Frazer, the secretary, has raised $50.00 by subscription for his trip to the meet at St. Catharines.

It was decided at yesterday's meeting that the Peterborough Athletic Association should finance his trip to the meet at Hamilton, equip him for the Olypmic Games, and repay the subscriptions raised for the St. Catherine's trip, which will total about $150.00.

On the suggestion of Alex. Dick, representing the Caledonian Football Club, it was decided to hold a benefit football match between pick teams representing Canada and the Old Country ,and to have Smoke give an exhibition run at the Exhibition Grounds in about two weeks' time in order to raise the necessary money.

C. G. Graham was instructed to write Walter Privett, secretary of the Canadian Amateur Athletic Union, regarding the matter.

Scope of the Association is Broad.

The scope of the Association will be broad, as it is intended that it will take under its wing all athletic organisations in the city, including football, baseball, hockey, basketball, bowling, lacrosse, curling, golf, etc.

Considerable discussion centred about the status of athletic organisations entering the Association, and, although no definite decision was made, it was the general concensus of opinion that each organisation would control its own affairs and finances.

NO GAME AT BELLEVILLE.

Owing to the wet weather the Lindsay Greybirds and Belleville did not play ball at the latter city yesterday afternoon as scheduled. On reaching Port Hope, Mgr. Bakogeorge of the Greybirds had President Lockington telephone Belleville, and the game was cancelled, to be played at a date to be mutually agreed on.

20,000 SEE KELLY SCULL TO VICTORY

BEATS DIBBLE, CHAMPION OF CANADA, IN PEOPLE'S REGATTA.

PHILADELPHIA, July 7.—Jack Kelly, America's rowing champion, who was turned down in the Diamond Sculls of the English Henley, proved the hero of the annual Peoples Day regatta on the Schuylkill here before a crowd of more than 20,000 people.

Kelly beat Robert Dibble of the Don Rowing Club, Toronto, Canadian champion, in the senior singles and quarter mile dashes and then to round out the afternoon's work, paired with Paul Costello, another Vesper man, and won the senior doubles from a big field, the famous Argonauts of Toronto, consisting of Butler the former Canadian singles title holder, and Harcourt, finishing fifth.

After finishing two and a half lengths ahead of Dibble in the one and a quarter mile sculling race Kelly also played the part of the Good Samaritan. Dibble reached over to shake Kelly's hand and with one oar resting over Kelly's shell, lost his balance and fell into the Schuylkill. Dibble was also partly exhausted from his hard race. Kelly dove overboard and pulled Dibble out of the water.

FIRST ROUND DRAW FOR Y.M.C.A. TENNIS

The Y.M.C.A. tennis courts are becoming increasingly popular, and every evening are taxed to their capacity. A singles tournament is being played off with thirty-six players in the first round which is to be completed by Tuesday evening, July 13th. Tournament games will have the right of way on the courts if the players will notify the office when they intend playing their matches. The following periods have been arranged for: Thursday, 6.30, Carmichael and Davidson; 7.00, Walton and Dunbar. Friday, 6.30, Borland and Seely. Saturday, 1.30, Draper and McLean; 3.00, J. Hardill and Loucks.

THE BELLEVILLE PROTEST AGAINST PETERBORO FAILS

JULY 1ST GAME HERE STANDS AS A VICTORY FOR THE PETES, ALTHOUGH THE PETERBORO CLUB IS FINED $25.00 BECAUSE OF THE ACTION OF A FEW HOT-HEADED FANS IN INVADING THE FIELD.

At a meeting of the executive of the Central Ontario Baseball League held at the Dunham House, Cobourg, last night, the protest entered by the Belleville Club in connection with the game here on July 1st was thrown out and the game stands as a victory for Peterborough. On account of the action of a section of the crowd in invading the field and making an attack on Base Umpire Thomas, of Belleville, the Peterborough Club was fined $25 by the League.

President Sandy Lockington, of Port Hope, occupied the chair and all the clubs were represented with the exception of Lindsay.

Belleville's protest was based on the invasion of the field by the crowd, and Lieut.-Col. E. D. O'Flynn, who acted as the legal representative of the G.T.R. team, used his best eloquence at great length in support of the protest.

Manager J. J. Solomon represented Peterborough and maintained that under Rule 77, the only rule that applied to the case under consideration, the Peterborough Club had lived up to every obligation in the matter of police protection and were not in any way responsible for the attack upon Umpire Thomas.

The Peterborough view of the incident was supported by the testimony of Vice-President Arthur Kimmell, of Cobourg, who was a spectator at the game and who endorsed Manager Solomon's views.

The evidence of Umpires Kay and Thomas was also heard, and finally, after several hours' debate, Mr. Solomon moved that the Belleville protest be dismissed. His motion was seconded by Vice-President Kimmell.

The Belleville motion that the protest be allowed, failed to receive a seconder ,and accordingly the protest was lost.

As a warning to the fans, not only in Peterborough, but in all the other circuit towns that they must leave umpires alone and stay off the playing field, a motion moved by Mr. Mark of Port Hope, and seconded by Secretary Nott, of Oshawa, that the Peterborough Club be fined $25.00 on account of the asasult on Umpire Thomas, was passed.

The meeting cancelled the certificates of Vaughn Pearson and Austin Carroll, of the Peterborough Club. The two players were signed under the clause in the constitution regarding students and were eligible to play in Peterborough as the clause was worded. It was explained, however, that this particular section of the rules was carelessly drafted and the intention was only to allow students to play in their own home towns. This was the understanding of the meeting and accordingly the certificates were cancelled and the players will not be eligible to take part in any future Central League fixtures.

RACING SEASON AT WINDSOR BOOMS ILLICIT RUM TRAFFIC

VICE SAID TO BE FLOURISHING ALONG THE BORDER—DISREPUTABLE WOMEN AND GAMBLERS MAKE WIDE OPEN CONDITIONS WORSE.

NOT ENOUGH POLICE

WINDSOR, Ont. — Boot-leggers were in their element on the opening day for the summer racing season. For a week the express companies have had all their storage rooms piled high with rare old "case goods." Daily and nightly lorries, loaded to capacity with whiskey, left the depots.

Some moved eastward into the rural districts, others to different points in Windsor. The majority took the river drive down through Sandwich, Sunnyside, the adjacent municipalities and into Amherstburg.

Most Reputable Basements.

Snake Island and Fighting Island received their quota. In the list of consignees there were names that were strange even to the oldest inhabitants of this section. But the bulk of the shipments went where scores of previous shipments had gone—to well known residents. Detroit rum-runners know the value of renting storage in the basements of homes along the river drive.

No Mystery.

And yet every one of the consignments was registered at the express offices. There could be no mystery about its ostensible destination. These records are open to the police and the provincial inspectors. And these express company records show here and there names of people who have to-day received several hundred cases of liquor and who have been receiving similar shipments for months.

Plain as a Pikestaff.

Since the law permits only the consignment of liquor for personal consumption of families, it follows that the authorities know these families could not have legally disposed of the booze they have bought. It may not be legal evidence, but it is common sense to presume that, in the majority of cases these shipments are being disposed of contrary to law. Of course, they form chiefly the basis of all the rum-running that has disgraced this section so long.

Backbone of Traffic.

Here is the backbone of the traffic that could be severed at one blow. It requires no detective skill. The authorities have the right to search any building, home or warehouse where they suspect, or have reasons to suspect, the prohibition act is being violated or is about to be violated.

It would seem to be the natural inference that every one of the places receiving large shipments of liquor regularly or occasionally would be searched. But this is not done. Naturally if a man has received a hundred cases to-day and his home is searched to-morrow and the liquor is not found there it is a confession of guilt. No other proof that he has violated the law is required.

Big Force Needed.

This automatically subjects such a person to a fine and imprisonment. But, while a careful investigation of each shipment would soon put an end to rum-running, a force of say, a hundred men, acting under a uniform command, would be required to end the traffic in this way. Scores of indignant citizens have written Premier Drury urging precisely this heroic method of putting an end to the bootlegging plague. His friends believe he will order something of this kind. His critics suggest that he will do nothing of the kind. They say too many friends of the Government and U. F. O. Association are involved.

On the Side Now.

It is freely predicted that the rum-runners will not be found so numerous on the river for the next month as previously. It is not necessary. During the races the thirsty Detroit crowd move into Windsor. They get their liquor on this side. The bootleggers are saved the expense, and hazard of moving their loot across the river.

Fifty cents a drink is the rule on this side normally. During the races it raises to a dollar. By the bottle it is $20. But the race mad mob cares little for money. So the Devonshire track meet is the underworld's harvest in more ways than one.

A Vice-Carnival.

Hotels are crowded and rooms in residences fetch $25 per week. If 'no questions are asked," the price rises rapidly for prostitutes swarm on the trail of the race "talent." This is an additional reason for complaint of the decent element of Windsor and the border cities. They say rum-running and defiance of the Temperance Act are bad enough. The swarm of lewd women, pickpockets and their ilk who thrive on the "business" of the races they find infinitely more objectionable. But they are twin evils.

"Where you find the rum-running most active you find vice of every description," is an axiom here. And here is the proof that the races here are made the occasion for a saturnalia of debauch by the Detroit crowds: when the races opened Saturday there were forty-six mutuel machines, placed in operation. Six of these were equipped for the use of Canadian money. Forty were for the receipt of Yankee currency.

As Forty to Six.

That is the relation of Canada to this vice — as, forty is to six. In liquor the ratio rises. Fifty to one is about the accepted measure — where one bottle of illicit booze is sold on this side, fifty are sold in Detroit, brought in by rum-runners.

And the boldness of the river rats who grow rich in the traffic! They violate the law with such little hazard in rum-running that they become careless about the observing of more serious laws. For instance, not many weeks ago one of the rum hounds with several bottles in his pocket was stopped as he stepped from the boat on the Detroit side. There was such an obvious bulge in his clothes that the officers knew he was smuggling something, and smugglers are not bold in their work. The exception is the rum-runner. The officer told the smuggler to stand aside. When he attempted to search him the bootlegger jerked out a quart bottle of liquor and smashed the officer over the head.

Of course, he was captured and given a long prison sentence.

Aftermath of Battle.

In this connection it is of interest to know that Provincial Inspector Stone of the south end of Essex County has sworn out several warrants at Amherstburg for rum-runners alleged to have been involved in the big battle off that town two weeks ago.

This was the case where rival gangs of whiskey pirates collided in moving a cargo across the river. Among the 300 shots fired several are alleged to have found human marks, but no corpses were found nor even wounded men. The warrants, however, have not been served, and the identity of the culprits named in them has not been disclosed.

"It Can't Be Done."

Now with the race meet swelling the population of Windsor and adjacent towns by the thousands, the regular police force is supposed to maintain order. It can't be done.

Detroit is making of this side of the river a plague spot, according to the best element of the community. Others don't like to have it put in such harsh terms. It 'hurts business," they assert.

Denunciation and publicity unquestionably hurts the "business" of the border cities' road houses, the prostitutes, the crap-shooters and the horde of criminals following the races. No one disputes that.

THE THISTLES ENTERTAINED

MANAGER LOUIS YEOTES BANQUETS CITY LEAGUE LEADERS—A MOTOR RIDE, TOO.

Manager Louis Yeotes of the Thistles Baseball Club, promised his players a banquet if they came through with a victory over the Canadian General team last Saturday. The offer was made with one out in the last innings and the Thistles two runs behind and nobody on the bases, but the team pulled off the unexpected—scored four runs and won the game.

Mr. Yeotes made good on his part of the bargain last night when the Thistles players and a couple of supporters were entertained at a most enjoyable banquet at the Empress hotel. A most appetizing menu was done ample justice to, after which a pleasant hour was spent in music and song. Mr. James Browne delighted the gathering with three solos, and Messrs. Kirn, Holyman and Murray came through with piano selections. Afterwards the party enjoyed a motor ride, three cars awaiting them as they came out of the banquet.

The whole evening was a great success and Mr. Yeotes' hospitality was thoroughly appreciated by his guests.

U.F.O. LEAGUE REGISTER SHOWS 254 RUNS FOR FIRST HALF OF SCHEDULE

THREE TEAMS TIED FOR FIRST PLACE ASSURE CLOSE FINISH IN REMAINING GAMES—KEENE THE BIGGEST SCORER.

The completion of the first half of the East Peterborough Ball League, finds three teams, Lakefield, Keene and Norwood, tied for first place, each with three wins and one loss. Two games will likely be played to-day, Nassau at Norwood and Keene at Lakefield ,and a win for Nassau would add even greater interest to the race.

The Lakefield players have high hopes of landing the championship, and, if successful, will use a new pitcher, who while not eligible for the East Peterborough circuit, would be able to qualify for O.B.A.A. games.

The standing of the teams on games played to date, is as follows:

	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Lakefield	3	1	.750
Keene	3	1	.750
Norwood	3	1	.750
Nassau	1	3	.250
Douro	0	4	.000

254 Runs Scored.

Twenty games have been played, netting a total of 254 runs. Keene shows the highest percentage, having scored 59 runs against their opponents, and allowed 30 runners to cross the home plate. Lakefield is the leading scoring team, with a total of 65 runs. Following is the standing:

	Runs For.	Runs Ag'st.	P.C.
Keene	59	30	.663
Lakefield	65	58	.528
Norwood	39	46	.482

PICTURE HUSBAND TOO REALISTIC FOR ALICE JOYCE

"If I had a husband like that I'd kill him!" exclaimed Alice Joyce as she finished a scene in "Dollars and the Woman," which will be seen at the Allen theater for the last time today.

In this presentation, based on a story by Albert Payson Terhune, Miss Joyce is the wife of an impulsive youth who makes things fly when affairs take a turn against him. Robert Gordon plays the husband, and he believes in being realistic.

On one occasion Mr. Gordon gave an ironing board such a push that it nearly knocked the set over. At another point he banged the back of a chair upon which Miss Joyce was seated so forcefully that he almost turned a star into a flying comet—that is, he upset her. When he really became angry he swept the top of a table covered with toys, sending them flying in all directions. This really frightened Miss Joyce. She is strong for realism, but this bit of acting was far too realistic to suit her tastes.

"I never know what you are going to do next," she confided to Mr. Gordon. "You have me frightened all the while I am playing in the scene with you. I always feel relieved when it's over and consider myself fortunate on coming out of the fray uninjured."

"To act with you," smiled Robert Gordon, "is an inspiration. You are so realistic that you just force me to put a punch in my scenes."

Robert Gordon is not always angry in the scenes with Miss Joyce. In fact, some of the time he is an ideal husband, industrious, and occasionally he aids in preparing the meals. He carries his punch and realism into these scenes, and Miss Joyce confesses that it is a pleasure to act with him.

Half a Pineapple For One Dessert

In Jiffy-Jell desserts the fruit flavors are abundant. For instance, half a pineapple is crushed to make the flavor for one pint dessert. This is done in Hawaii from fruit too ripe to ship.

All Jiffy-Jell fruit flavors are made from condensed fruit juice. They come in liquid form—in vials—a bottle in each package. That is true of no other quick gelatine dessert.

A few cents will serve a real-fruit dessert for six people. No artificial flavor, no saccharine. It is the most delicious fruit dessert available, and it comes in ten choice flavors.

ARCHITECTS FEAR FOR ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL

LONDON'S GREAT FANE ENDANGERED BY PUBLIC IMPROVEMENTS—HIT BY BOMBS IN WAR.

LONDON, July 6.— St. Paul's Cathedral is appealing for £50,000 for its fabric fund. Its authorities are faced with much the same problems as owners of some of New York's real estate whose property is endangered by public improvements.

The cathedral was built in days when architects and engineers had no idea of the strain that would be put on their structures by modern conditions. Sir Christopher Wren, in designing the structure which is still one of the wonders of the world, provided foundations only four and a half feet below the crypt. Beneath is a layer of wet sand and it is feared that some change may occur which will remove the moisture. It is kept damp by seepage from some of the streams coming down from the high lands to the north of the old city and there is always a chance that some new "improvement"—the building of a new subway or erection of tall buildings—may result in the drawing off of the water. In this event, it is feared, the sand will lose its resisting power and the famous dome will fall of its own weight.

Moreover, Wren was handicapped by the cost of material in his day. To transport stone to London was very expensive, and so the great piers of the dome that look so massive are really constructed of rubble, with a mere casing of stone. Two of them have been treated already. Concrete has been forced into the rubble by compressed air, but two more remain to be strengthened. For this purpose the money asked for now will be expended, and the task of undermining the entire cathedral will be left to some future time.

The war also left its mark on the structure. Two shells during the air raids pierced the fabric, and the damage they did must now be made good.

NORWOOD NEWS HAPPENINGS

DEATH REMOVES A WELL-KNOWN RESIDENT—EXAMINATION RESULTS FOR THE PUBLIC AND HIGH SCHOOLS.

NORWOOD, July 7.—On Wednesday, 30th June, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Ford, the marriage took place of their only daughter, Ethel, to Mr. Stanley Johnston, son of Colonel and Mrs. Johnston, of Otonabee. Mr. and Mrs. Johnston spent a short honeymoon in Montreal.

Death.

Death has again visited the village, and taken from our midst a most highly respected citizen, in the person of Robert Burgess, aged 90 years and 10 months. Deceased had resided in Belmont for many years, and about ten years ago retired from farm life and moved to Norwood. He leaves to mourn his loss his widow, three sons, Kenneth, John, and Williamson of Belmont, and two daughters, Mrs. W. T. Buck and Miss Edith of Norwood. The funeral took place this afternoon from his late residence on Peterborough Street to the Norwood Cemetery.

Examination Results.

The results of the Promotion Examinations in the Norwood Public School are as follow:

Primary Class C to B—Jean Webb, Harold Vanderburg, Sydney Buck, Lily McMaster, David Livingstone, Leone Burkell, Georgina Beavis, May Webster, Jack Stewart, Irene Buck, Kenneth Freeburn, Harold Davis, Raefield Innis, Wilfred Bongard, Jack Livingstone, Garnet Freeburn, Kenneth Small.

Class A Primary to First—Those who were present to write on examinations and who were successful: Greta Jones, Jack Kempt, Everett Greaves, Wilson Webb, Hubert Carbery, Della Rogers, Clifford Innes, George Bonds, Hamilton Humphries.

Those recommended, but who have to try a test in September on account of being absent during the time the examinations were in progress are:

Elizabeth Thompson, Mary Finlay, Mary Roxburgh, Raymond Conklin, Harvey Bongard, Verna Murphy, Cuthbert Puffer, Thelma Davis, Elsie Girven, Lottie Slater, Willie Irwin, May Mullen, Ashley Rogers, Lottie Rogers, Irene Wells.

MOUNT JULIAN

MOUNT JULIAN, July 7.—The Women's Institute of Mount Julian met at the home of Mrs. H. Brinson on Tuesday afternoon, June 22nd.

The meeting opened by singing "A Goodly Thing It Is To Meet," followed by prayer.

About thirty were present, and the meeting was both pleasant and profitable. It was the occasion of the annual visit of the delegate. This year the delegate was Mrs. B. O. Allen, of Fort William. Mrs. Allen has proved a most capable and valuable institute officer. Her knowledge of conditions throughout Ontario and her impressive way of imparting practical information makes her services valuable to institutes. The subject of her lecture was "Women's Responsibility in Public Health and Child Welfare." Mrs. Allen understood her subject thoroughly and her address was greatly enjoyed. Mrs. Allen's pleasant manner was appreciated by all, both old and young.

She also gave the ladies brief notes on other subjects, such as, "Federation," "Medical Inspection of Schools," etc.

Our school teacher, Miss Etta Brown, and a number of her scholars favored the meeting with a song.

Mrs. Bronsor gave several selections on the Victrola.

We appreciate very much the delegates sent to us from the department and find them a help to our institute. A vote of thanks was heartily tendered to Mrs. Allen for the interesting lecture she gave, one to Mrs. Bronsor for her kindness in letting the meeting be held at her home, and also one to Miss Brown for the trouble she has taken in teaching the scholars to sing so nicely.

The meeting closed by singing the National Anthem.

A dainty picnic lunch was served by the ladies and a pleasant time was spent in social talk. Mrs. Allen expressed her pleasure in the beautiful scenery around Mount Julian.

There will be no meeting in July, owing to the delegate meeting being so late in June. The next meeting of the institute is to be held at the home of Mrs. I. D. Church, Burleigh Falls, on the first Wednesday in August. We invite any visitors who wish to come as they are always welcome, although not members.

Social.

Mrs. Wm. Clark, of Peterborough, has been visiting friends at Mount Julian and Burleigh Falls.

The departure of Rev. J. H. Beck and family is deeply regretted. On June 27th Mr. Beck gave his farewell address at Eden Methodist Church, Mount Julian. The congregation will not soon forget the inspiring advice he gave them. Mr. and Mrs. Beck sang and played two beautiful duets, Mr. Beck playing the guitar and Mrs. Beck the autoharp. Mr. Beck has gone to preach at Point St. Ann and will be going to Alfred College also. All join in wishing God's blessing to rest upon him and his loved ones in their new home.

Miss Stella Smithey and Miss Isabelle Reid attended the entrance examinations at Apsley.

The community regrets to hear of the death of Mr. Emmerson Thompson at Spokane, Washington. Heartfelt sympathy is extended to Mrs. Clarke Stone, his sister, and to their friends. Mr. Thompson was a resident of Burleigh at one time.

Warsaw Correspondence

WARSAW, July 7.—Mr. W. G. Reid spent the holiday with his son, Mr. Bert Reid of Gananoque. Miss Edith Tucker looked after the store during his absence.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tighe, Bracebridge, spent the holiday and week end with old friends and relatives in the vicinity. Mr. Tighe returned home Tuesday morning, but Mrs. Tighe remained for a visit with her mother, Mrs. Wm. Jackson.

Master Russell Payne, Lakefield, is visiting with Master Norman Crapp.

Mrs. Burk, Lakefield, spent the week end with her sister, Mrs. Robert Moore.

Mrs. McMann and children are visiting with Mrs. Charles Foster.

There was great rejoicing at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Lloyd on Monday of last week, when a little son arrived.

Miss Helen Bowen is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Crowe.

Mr. Alford and Mr. Roland Alford spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Percy Lloyd.

Quite a bit of hay has been cut already.

The Douro municipal telephone poles have been drawn and the hole dug all along the Dummer road and several other roads.

Warsaw cheese was shipped from Lakefield last Tuesday morning.

Rev. John Knox preached in the Methodist church Sunday evening.

Rev. Fraser conducted the Warsaw and Cottesloe services. His Sunday evening subject was "The Tyranny of Habit."

Take a Course.

Miss E. M. Dewart left on Tuesday for Toronto, where she will take Part II in the Domestic Science course for teachers. This course will be given by teachers connected with the University, and is one of the most important of the summer courses for the benefit of rural life. Miss Dewart took Part I last year and purposes completing the course this year.

The wind storm last Wednesday afternoon blew down Mr. Allan Payne's De Laval silo, which he had put up only last summer.

A large number of farmers from this vicinity attended the U.F.O. picnic in Norwood to-day. They were delighted with the reception by the people of Norwood and with the programme. The day was all that could be desired.

There was no service in the Baptist church Sunday on account of the anniversary services being held at Indian River.

Service in the Anglican church was conducted by Rev. Dr. Archibald. Next Sunday afternoon there will be a special service for the Orangemen.

Annual Picnic.

The Baptists held their annual picnic last Thursday and it was a most delightful affair. All went together for a good time and at supper all sat down together. The committee opened the baskets and after grace was sung by all, the good things were passed around, irrespective of who brought them, or who was getting.

The tea meeting held at Cotesloe last Monday evening was quite a success. The supper which was splendid was served in the sheds, which were nicely prepared. The programme included addresses by Mr. McCormick of Norwood and Mr. Vose of Warsaw. Musical selections by Miss Edith Tucker and Dr. Munro and local talent.

Woman's Institute.

There was a meeting of the executive of the Woman's Institute, at which all the members were present. The plans ofr the year's work were discussed. The December meeting will be an open one held in the town hall, in the evening. All friends of the Institute men or women and all who are interested in education and our schools are invited.

There was a meeting of the shareholders and patrons at the cheese fatcory last Tuesday evening. Among other things a vote was taken as to whether or not the cheese would be sold as it has been.

Lawn Socoal.

On Friday evening last the Warsaw Methodist Sunday school held their annual lawn social on the church lawn. Refreshments were served and a very enjoyable programme rendered. Among other numbers Rev. Vose gave a short address and Miss Hazel Davidson of Peterborough, gave several recitations. The receipts were very satisfactory.

On Monday evening Rev. G. A. Wicker, professor of New Testament interpretation in San Francisco University, gave an address on the war conditions in Egypt and Palestine. He showed how Egypt was filled with German spies, even the master of Alexandria harbor having been one. Before he was found out he had been accountable for the loss of many vessels and over 15000 lives. But two days after he was suspected sunrise saw him shot. Dr. Wicker described the geographical conditions of Palestine and showed the effect of the valley of the Jordan being away below the Mediterranean Sea. He told of the sufferings of the men. We hardly cannot understand what the mosquitoes, sand-flies and jackals mean. He explained the campaigning of General Allenby. At the end he said, "No man has a right to be alive who lives to himself."

Those who heard Prof. Wisher got something to think about and were thankful. Warsaw had an especial interest in Prof. Wisher as he was born in the old Methodist parsonage here. He went to see the house, now occupied by Mr. Wm. Selkirk, and even was in the room where he first saw the light of day. Many people here remember his father quite well.

Mr. Ralph Payne, of Peterborough, Business College, spent the holiday and week end at his home.

Mr. David Calder spent the week end at the home of his brother, Mr. Fred Calder.

Miss May MacDonald and Master Norman Crapp wrote on the Entrance examinations at Lakefield.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Crigland spent a few days in the village last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan L. Payne and three youngest children motored to Toronto Wednesday to spend the holiday and week end.

Rev. Father Leahy came to Douro Wednesday to spend the holiday among relatives and old friends.

Miss Sandy left for her home last Tuesday morning.

Rev. Gerard Graham has accepted the call to the Warsaw and Cotesloe charges and will likely be inducted at Warsaw Tuesday, July 20th.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Anderson, Peterborough, spent a few days among relatives near the village.

Mrs. Alford, Lakefield, is staying with her daughter, Mrs. Percy Lloyd.

Mrs. Norman Bell returned to her home in Ottawa last Friday.

Mr. Allan Taylor, Peterborough, was home for the week end.

Mrs. Bogue and Miss Mila, of Lindsay, spent the week end with Mrs. Percy Lloyd.

JULY HONEY FOR WINTER STORES

MAKE PREPARATIONS NOW FOR WINTERING THE BEES SUCCESSFULLY.

With sugar over 20 cents a pound, and the outlook of a possibly higher price, and uncertainty of supply, beekeepers will find it advisable to pay more attention than usual to the saving of wholesome honey for wintering the bees safely.

Each colony should have not less than 40 pounds of stores for winter. The honey gathered in June and July from alsike and white clover is perfectly wholesome and makes the finest winter stores. Most of the honeys gathered from other abundant sources in June and July are also wholesome, but honey gathered from mixed sources in August and September is, as a rule, less so, and is therefore liable to cause dysentery, which will weaken or kill the colony before spring. Some kinds of fall honey are very injurious. However, buckwheat honey and the honey from certain species of goldenrod and aster, that grow abundantly in dry situations, if it ripens before cold weather, are wholesome.

It would, therefore, be wise to save combs of clover honey in order that several of them may be placed in the hive above the centre. These combs should be given early enough in the fall, that is to say, about the middle of September, to allow the bees time to empty a few cells to make a place for the winter cluster to occupy. Care should be taken that these combs of honey are taken from colonies that are entirely free from American foul-brood. It will be advisable also to save extra combs of honey sufficient to give each colony one more comb in spring, but the honey given in spring need not be of the best quality.

A strong colony of Italian bees containing a prolific young queen often has very little honey in the brood chamber when the supers are removed in the fall. A simple way to supply such a colony with suitable stores for the winter is to give or leave it a super full of clover honey.

ONLY TABLETS MARKED "BAYER" ARE ASPIRIN

Not Aspirin at All without the "Bayer Cross"

For Colds, Pain, Rheumatism, Aching Joints, Lumbago, Sciatica, Neuritis, and for Headache, Neuralgia, Toothache, Earache, take Aspirin marked with the name "Bayer" or you are not taking Aspirin at all.

Accept only "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" in an unbroken "Bayer" package which contains complete directions. Then you are getting real Aspirin—the genuine Aspirin prescribed by physicians for over nineteen years. Now made in Canada.

Handy tin boxes containing 12 tablets cost but a few cents. Druggists also sell larger "Bayer" packages.

There is only one Aspirin—"Bayer"—You must say "Bayer"

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid. While it is well known that Aspirin means Bayer manufacture, to assist the public against imitations, the Tablets of The Bayer Company will be stamped with their general trade mark, the "Bayer Cross."

KITCHENER COUPLE MARRIED IN CELLS.

Unique Event Follows the Groom's Failure to Attend Formal Ceremony.

KITCHENER, Ont., July 8.—To be married in the police cells was the unique experience of a young couple here yesterday as a result of the groom getting "cold feet" at the last minute, when everything was arranged for the ceremony at the girl's house.

When the prospective groom failed to show up the parents of the girl enlisted the aid of the police in a search for the young man. The police finally found the missing husband-elect, in a local restaurant, where he is assistant cook. He was taken to the police headquarters, where the ceremony was performed in the cell room.

The chief later took the couple for a honeymoon trip, riding them around the city in the police car before depositing them at their future home—the residence of the girl's parents.

BIG NEW "COBBLERS."

Two fine potatoes of the Irish Cobbler variety and the pink variety, grown respectively by George Cochrane and Frank Wise, of George Street north, were shown to The Examiner to-day. These are large, smooth-skinned specimens, and were picked at random.

EVEN CADDIES PAY IS UP.

The Peterboro Golf Club got the number of caddies advertised for all right and then some. The boys who lug the stocks get 50 cents for two rounds and a tip is always welcome and generally received. While the shortage of labour in other trades may be acute thair is no marked scarcity of the caddying profession and from the city and from the country they trudge to the links to the duties which seem congenial to the young souls. The pay is good double that before the war and the surroundings are pretty and edifying.

U. F. O. SELL HOGS HERE.

Sixty hogs were weighed at the Market scales to-day. This is the largest number the U.F.O. have ever shipped here, and the shipment contained some fine specimens of hogs.

Two hogs touched 360 pounds, one 325 and one 320 pounds. The latter, belonging to R. Tully, of Smith, was a select hog, and was admired by the many farmers present.

The price paid by the local buyers is said to be $19.25.

The market clerk had a busy day. Many hay ricks, many junk waggons, and many pigs were alternately on the scales, and his office was the centre of more attraction than on many a Saturday.

Announcement

THE WARNE DRUG CO., LTD., take great pleasure in announcing to their customers and the public generally that they have secured the services of Gilbert A. Borland as Chief Dispensing Chemist and Managing Director of their Company. Mr. Borland is a chemist of much practical experience, having served the past nine years with Mr. Wm. Madill, who is at present retiring from business.

They are also pleased to announce that they have added to their staff as assistant chemist, Frank G. Greatrix, Phm.B., formerly with Hooper's Drug Store, Toronto.

With these additions, the Warne Drug Co. feel assured that they can offer the public continued and better service—with at all times a practical chemist in charge.

OBITUARY

DELLA PERDUE.

The death occurred this morning of Miss Della Perdue at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Perdue, 128 Sutherland Street.

The deceased was 18 years of age, and is survived by her father and mother, four brothers, Garnet, Cecil, Oscar, and Lloyd, and four sisters, Ethel, Geraldine, Gladys, and Phyllis, all at home.

The funeral will be held at 8 o'clock on Saturday morning to the Church of the Immaculate Conception, and thence to St. Luke's Cemetery, Downeyville, for interment.

THE LATE DR. MASON.

Dr. R. M. Mason, ex-M. P. P. of North Victoria, died at his home in Fenelon Falls early yesterday morning. Although suffering for some time past he was able to walk down town Friday afternoon. He was born in Ajala township, Simcoe County, and practised at Mono Mills, but for 25 years has been a resident of Fenelon Falls. He occupied various positions of trust, including membership on the School Board, the Town Council and the City Council, was a Mason, Oddfellow and Orangeman. He represented North Victoria for the Conservatives for eight years, being defeated at last Provincial election in the U.F.O. landslide by Rev. Edgar Watson, of Fenelon Falls.

He leaves his wife and one daughter, Annie, at home, and two sons, Stewart, of the Bank of Montreal staff, at Montreal, and Capt. J. Barkley, of the Department of Marines and Fisheries, Ottawa.

SIXTY-NINE CANADIAN ENTRIES FOR OLYMPIAD

SEVEN TRAP SHOOTERS TO SAIL FOR ANTWERP AT END OF WEEK.

The second section of the Canadian Olympic team, consisting of seven trap-shooters, will sail from Quebec at the end of this week for Antwerp. The main body of Canadian athletes, marathoners, boxers and cyclists, will sail from Montreal on July 24, and will be followed on August 7 by the swimmers and divers who are to compete in the Olympaid. The final detachment, oarsmen and wrestlers, will sail on August 13.

It is expected that the Canadian athletes, who are to take part in the conests at Antwerp and their attendants will number about sixty-nine of a party, and $40,000 will be required to finance the undertaking. The Central Committee has collected half of this sum, and patriotic citizens and sportsmen in all sections of the Dominion are requested by the committee to contribute the $20,000 yet required. This is the only public appeal being made. Similar appeals have been made in Great Britain, France and the United States for support of the Olympic teams representing those countries.

Canada's first Olympic representatives, the Falcon Hockey team, of Winnipeg, brought honor to this country, as the first point winner in the seventh Olympiad.

ACTION RE SALES OF C.O.E. RECTORY LANDS

RECTOR AND WARDENS OF CHRIST CHURCH, BELLEVILLE, IN SUIT AGAINST SYNOD.

At Osgoode Hall, Toronto, judgment was given by Justice Rose in the following action of interest to all Anglicans in Ontario:

Swayne et all v. The Synod of the Diocese of Ontario., E. G. Porter, K.C., and G. F. Ruttan, K.C., for plaintiffs. J. B. Walkem, K.C., for the defendant, the Synod. W. S. Herrington, K.C., for defendant, Beamish. Action by rector and church wardens of Christ Church, Belleville, against the Incorporated Synod of the Diocese of Ontario and the incumbent of St. Thomas church and rector, of Belleville, claiming an account of the rents issues and profits of certain lands held for the benefit of the rectory of Belleville, and of the income derived from the invested proceeds of the sale of some lands which have been sold, and for payment to the incumbent of Christ Church, or to him and the incumbent of any other churches of the Church of England in the Township of Hueriow, of any amounts by which such rents, issues and profits and income have exceeded $2,000 in any year since the year 1902.

Judgment: (1) Declare that in applying the provisions of Sec. 4, of the Statute of Ontario, 39 Vic., Cap. 109, as to the apportionment and division of the surplus revenues of the Rectory of Belleville, the rents, issues and profits of the lands of such Rectory remaining unsold are to be ascertained without deducting any moneys paid for taxes in respect of any such lands occupied and used by the rector. (2- Declare that the defendant Beamish is bound to repay to the defendant Synod and the defendant Synod is bound to deal pursuant to the said section with any sum in excess of $2,000 received by the defendant Beamish in any year from the year 1912 to the year 1919, inclusive, out of the sales in the said section referred to and the rents, issues and profits of the lands of his Rectory remaining unsold—such rents, issues and profits being ascertained having regard to the above written declaration. (3) Let the said sums in excess of $2,000 be ascertained by the Registrar—if the parties differ about the same— and stated in the judgment, and to that end let the defendant, Beamish, deliver to the plaintiffs and to his co-defendant a statement continuing to the close of the year 1919 the statement contained in exhibit 6 filed a the trial, and showing what portion of the "taxes on glebe" paid in each of the years 1912 to 1919 was paid in respect of the Rectory occupied by him. ,4) No order as to costs except that defendant Synod may take its costs out of the invested proceeds of the sales of Belleville Rectory lands.

EXCITING CHASE AFTER SARNIA RUM-RUNNER

SUSPECT JOE BOUSHAY IS ARRESTED AT POINT OF GUN.

SARNIA, July 8.—Joe Boushay, of Algonac, appeared in the Police Court, yesterday, and when arranged on a charge of violating the liquor law pleaded not guilty and will be held for examination. His bail was set at $1,000 and in the meantime the police and liquor license department officials are attempting to locate motorboat owners in Sarnia whom they charge with running rum across the St. Clair River to the State of Michigan.

Boushay was arrested after an exciting chase in which Marshal Matt Ward leaped to the running board of an automobile in which Boushay and Jack Beatie were trying to get away. The officer drew his revolver and commanded Boushay to stop the car which the latter did. Beatie started to run when the officer began to search the car and escaped. Boushay was held at the point of the revolver.

Sixteen bottles of gin and other liquors were found in the automobile which the men had taken from their homes for the purpose of delivering to prospective customers. A search is now geing made for Beatie It is alleged that Beatie and Boushay have been running liquor over from Sarnia and disposing of it at a good price.

SOLDIER-LABOR CANDIDATE IN NORTH-EAST TORONTO

TORONTO, July 5. — The joint committee of returned soldiers and labor men have endorsed the candidature of Mr. J. G. Higgins, as the soldier-labor candidate in North-east Toronto, at the aproaching by-election for the legislature. Mr. Higgins is a member of the extremist element in the Independent Labor Party and was one of the famous committee of fifteen which ordered the general strike in the metal trades last year.

DRESSES ARE MADE FROM LACE GROWN ON TREES.

In the West Indies dresses are often worn made from the natural lace-like cloth which grows upon the trees. The tree from which the lace is gathered has a curiously light hollow trunk, something like a bamboo. A long, smooth section is cut and soaked in water until the bark is softened. The lace-like cloth is closely packet together, forming the shell of the tree. When carefully pulled apart a lace-like fibre is found, which is surprisingly tough and durable. By placing several thicknesses together a comparatively thick cloth is formed. These pieces are sewn together like any ordinary cloth, and made into dresses. The lace is light yellow in colour naturally, but is often dyed with the bright colours so popular in the tropics.

STRAWBERRIES ARE FADING OUT AT 25c

Choice Leamington hothouse cucumbers are bringing 40 cents in the fruit stores, but from South Carolina smaller ones are bringing 10 cents up.

Tomatoes are still selling at 30 cents, and the last strawberries at 25 cents.

Big luscious cherries from Niagara district retail at $1.50 to $2.00 a basket.

New cauliflowers at 15 and 20 cents have appeared on the market.

The last of the green peas are selling at two quarts for 25 cents.

Green beans are bringing 10 cents a pound.

For recovering sunken timbers a grappling device has been invented in Sweden that remains open when lowered into water, but closes as it is raised.

RURLAL CREDITS INQUIRY.

Commission of Three Appointed by Provincial Government.

TORONTO, July 8J.—Hon. Manning Doherty, Minister of Agriculture, has named a committee to inquire into the subject of a system of rural credits for Ontario. The members of the committee are Prof. W. T. Jackman, of the Department of Political Economy, University of Toronto; Thos. McMillan, farmer, Seaforth, and Melville H. Staples, B.A., farmer, Millbrook.

"The committee," he said, 'will be expected to inquire into the different plans adopted both in the different provinces in Canada and across the line. They will do this both by a study of the legislation, and, to some extent, probably a personal investigation among those farmers who have taken advantage of these schemes. They will also later on probably arrange to meet farmers. The inquiry will take into account the banking system and other institutions of the province which may be affected."

Prof. Jackman was born on an Ontario farm and was in educational work in the United States for many years. He has made a detailed study of rural credits. Thomas McMillan is a farmer from Huron county, and Mr. Staples is a graduate of the University of Toronto, and also took courses in Edinburgh and Europe, specializing in history and economics. For several years he has been a farmer in Durham county.

CHARGED WITH ABDUCTION

BELLEVILLE, July 7.— John H. Dean was yesterday brought back to this city from Gananoque where he was arrested on a warrant issued here charged him with abduction. It is alleged that Dean abducted Viola Lawrence, of Cannitton, and took her away. The accused is about 24 years of age and has a wife. As the Crown was not prepared to proceed in the case, Dean was remanded to jail until July 14th.

HASTINGS HELD DAY OF SPORTS

INTERESTING PROGRAMME WAS PROVIDED—HASTINGS NEWS.

HASTINGS, July 7.—Dominion Day was duly observed, all places of business being closed and the people all bent on pleasure. The water sports in the forenoon brought out quite a crowd of spectators and caused considerable interest, the proceedings being enlivened by occasional selections from the band.

In the afternoon a large crowd gathered on the grounds to witness the games, the most interesting being baseball and lacrosse.

The baseball played between the locals and the Roseneath team was very warmly contested and was decided in favor of the visitors.

A most interesting game of lacrosse was put up between the locals and the Peterborough boys, which proved to be quite close, but resulted in favor of the home team. The band played several selections and the day passed off very pleasantly.

Many went to Roseneath on Saturday to enjoy the baseball tournament.

Farewell Sermon.

Rev. A. Walsh preached his farewell sermon in the Methodist Church on Sunday evening and leaves on Tuesday for Bath to take up the work there. At the evening service Miss Armstrong, of Millbrook sang very sweetly, "Lead Kindly Light."

Personals.

Mr. Tom Hill and Miss Gertie Retford from Toronto and spent Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hill, Albert street.

Mr. John Thomson, manager of the local branch of the Union Bank has been temporarily transferred to Peterborough to take charge of some work there.

Mr. Gray, of Dunnville, is acting manager here in Mr. Thompson's place.

Mr. E. O. King, of Toronto, is holidaying in Hastings.

Miss Stella Burgess, of Norwood, was in town on Thursday.

The annual picnic in connection with the Elgin Sunday School was held on July 1st. A large crowd was in attendance and the afternoon very enjoyable.

Miss Ella Tate, of Peterborough, visited her brother, Mr. E. Tate, last week.

Miss Edna Marchand, of Peterborough, spent Thursday with Hastings' friends.

Wedding Bells.

A wedding of interest locally was solemnized on Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dixon of Asphodel, when their daughter, Miss Ella, became the bride of Rev. Mr. Horwood, of Norham. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a large number of the relatives and friends of the contracting parties. After the customary congratulations the party repaired to the dining room where a sumptuous wedding dejeuner was served and much enjoyed. The party were then escorted to the G. T. R. station, Hastings, and boarded the 7.30 p.m. train for a short honeymoon trip, after which they will take up residence in Norham, followed by the best wishes of a host of friends who join in wishing them bon voyage through life.

The bride was the recipient of a large number of useful and costly gifts, testifying, in some degree, to the high esteem in which she is held.

Visitors in Village.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hill, of Chicago, are on a visit to their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Hill.

Mr. Bruce Hill and daughter, of Pittsburg, are also holidaying under the parental roof.

Miss Murphy, of Kingston, is renewing acquaintance in town.

A Presentation.

A pleasing event took place at the Methodist parsonage on Friday evening when the members of the Ladies' Aid assembled and presented Mrs. (Rev.) Walsh with a nicely bound volume of the New Methodist hymn book. Mrs. Walsh, although taken completely by surprise, thanked the ladies for the gift, and assured them that she appreciated very much their thoughtfulness.

Personals.

Mr. Kenneth Prentice, of Toronto, and Mr. and Mrs. Ketcheson, of Foxboro, have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. Prentice.

Mrs. Frank Moore, of Alliston, is visiting relatives here, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. D. Cook.

Mr. and Mrs. (Rev.) Bunt, of Roseneath, spent Thursday with Rev. and Mrs. Walsh.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Atkinson, of Peterborough, are guests of her mother, Mrs. S. Carter.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Smith spent a few days last week with friends in Napanee.

Miss E. Elliott, of Norwood, has been the guest of Miss Ona Dossee.

DOWNEYVILLE CORRESPONDENCE

DOWNEYVILLE, July 7.—Misses Kathaleen and Eileen Meehan, of Rochester, N.L., were the guests of their cousin, Mrs. T. J. Morrisey, on Sunday.

Mr. William Herlihey and bride, of Erie, P.A., spent a few days with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Herlihey.

Miss Marie Flood, of Toronto, who has been visiting in the community, has returned home.

Mr. Michael Crowley, of Lindsay, is visiting in the village.

There will be a Farmers' Club meeting in the hall on Friday July 16. There will be a musical program. Hon. Manning Doherty will be the speaker of the evening.

Why don't you take more pains to be more self-sacrificing and loving in everyday home life. Time is rapidly passing. Your dear ones will not be with you always.—Young Journal.

SEIZED WITH CRAMPS YOUTH LOSES LIFE

Albert Mason, of Toronto, Meets Untimely Death in Lake Ontario.

TORONTO, July 5.—Albert Mason, aged 18, of 200 St. Helen's avenue, was drowned in the lake between the sea wall and shore at Stop 2, Lake Shore Road, on Saturday afternoon. The body was recovered after half an hour's dragging by Officer Clymer and the life-saving crew in eight feet of water. It was removed to the Morgue, where an inquest will be held.

Mason and Stanley Atkinson, 284 Gladstone avenue, had been swimming together during the afternoon, and on one occasion they made a trip to the breakwater. It was on the return trip that Mason was drowned. Atkinson, it seems, had started back to shore, and Mason essayed to follow, but when about half-way back, suddenly sank. Atkinson heard Mason cry as he went down, but being almost exhausted himself, he was unable to go to his chum's assistance.

Atkinson called to a passing canoeist for help, and after a few minutes spent in trying to locate Mason, the man paddled to shore, and called the life-savers. They responded at top speed. The body recovered, Dr. Reazin, 1662 Queen street west, was called, and the pulmotor brought into use. All effort was vain. It is believed that the boy was seized with cramps.

PARTED FROM WIFE HUSBAND ENDS LIFE

Immediately Following Interview Toronto Man Shoots Himself.

TORONTO, July 5.—Despondent because his wife refused to live with him again, Steve Charem, aged 29, a Ruthenian living on Peter Street, went into the hall at 460 Richmond street west and shot himself through the head. He was quite dead when examined by Dr. Bowie, 101 Spadina avenue. The body was removed to the Morgue, where an inquest will be held.

According to the police, Charem's wife left him on March 17 last. Last night, about 11.45, he called at the Richmond street address, where she is living, and requested that she return to him. She refused point blank, whereat Charem walked into the hall and shot himself. The horrified wife, at the sound of the gun, rushed into the hall, then, seeing her husband inert, called neighbors. Claremont street station was notified, and P. S. Ironsides went to investigate. Everything points to suicide. A letter, written in Ruthenian, and bearing the English "good-bye" at the bottom, was found in Charem's pocket.

Mr. Burnham Has Resigned From the Government

MEMBER FOR WEST PETERBORO SENDS RESIGNATION TO THE SPEAKER, DECLARING THAT HE CANNOT IN HONOUR REMAIN ANY LONGER, HAVING BEEN ELECTED TO A WAR GOVERNMENT.

Mr. J. H. Burnham, M. P., for West Peterboro, has resigned from the House of Commons. His resignation was sent to the Speaker of the House yesterday and when it is acted upon the seat will become vacant, and a by-election will be necessary.

To the Examiner last evening, Mr. Burnham announced these facts.

"My reasons are given in a letter I am sending to the Premier-designate, Hon. Arthur Meighen," he added.

The message to the new Premier-to-be is as follows:

Peterboro, July 8.

Hon. Arthur Meighen,
Prime Minister-elect of Canada:

My Dear Sir:

In congratulating you upon your elevation, which you will remember I prophesied some years ago I must not forget that in 1917 I was elected by members of all parties in West Peterboro who responded loyally to the general invitation of Sir Robert Borden to Canadians to join together for the one and only purpose then before Canada, namely, the united and successful prosecution of the war. When the war ended I expected Sir Robert Borden to return to pre-war political conditions, and ventured to intimate the necessity of doing so by going to the cross benches.

An appeal to the country was in my view a necessary redemption of a promise both express and implied made to the country.

Why was a union government formed if not for an emergency?

This return to pre-war political conditions has been delayed at Ottawa, but cannot in honor be longer delayed by me. Relying upon my good faith and upon the improbability of my taking an improper advantage of the general support given to me when standing for a war government during the time of war, as they did, I am in honour bound to hand back the trust then handed to me by my constituents, many of whom altogether differ from my views of the proper peace policy for Canada.

If I stand again it will be as a moderate protectionist, and as one out also to fight the growth of atheism in this country, and a certain sinister modern disregard of liberty.

Let us go to the country and begin the new era by an honorable acknowledgment of our duty to those who held in suspense their political principles for the sake of unity in war and we must now do for the sake of justice and good faith in the time of peace. With much of this, I have no doubt you will agree.

My resignation has accordingly been forwarded to the Speaker.

I have the honor to be,
Yours faithfully,
J. H. BURNHAM.

HAS TAKEN AGENCY FOR OLDSMOBILE CAR

I beg to announce that I have taken the Agency for the Oldsmobile Automobile for Peterborough City and District, and will gladly give Demonstrations on application, which will not place you under any obligation whatever to purchase. Persons interested kindly 'phone 383W, and we will call and see you.—Edgar Burnham. 3d-8-1461

NO DANGER OF A SUGAR SHORTAGE

Refineries Are Working to Full Capacity.

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, July 9.—There is at the present time no evidence of sugar shortage in Canada, it is stated in an official report published in connection with the fruit situation by the Department of Agriculture. During the past month a comprehensive survey of the situation has been made and it is found that every refinery is working at full capacity. Shortage of berry boxes and fruit packages generally is feared if fruit crop conditions continue favorably.

BOLSHEVIK ADVANCING

CRACK DIVISIONS USED AGAINST THE POLES.

(Canadian Press.)

WARSAW, July 9. — The Russian Bolshevik forces have broken through the Polish lines, south of the Dvina River in a drive designed to overrun Lithania and form a contact with East Prussia, according to an official announcement issued here last night.

The Soviet army is using infantry, cavalry, artillery, airplanes and tanks and the Poles are fighting desperately to check the advance along the northern front against which the enemy is throwing crack divisions.

On the southern front General Budenny, with Rovno in his possession, is advancing in the direction of Lemburg, which is but 180 miles from Warsaw.

TURKS BEGINNING TO GET ALARMED OVER SUCCESS OF GREEK FORCES

(Canadian Press.)

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 9.—The Turks are beginning to realise the critical situation created by the triumphant Greek advances into Anatolia and what they regard as the complete rupture of the peace negotiations.

Both Government and anti-Government newspapers lament the departure of the Turkish peace delegates from Paris and urge the discontinuance of Murtapha Kemal Pasha's military operations in Asia Minor. This demand, however, was not made until news of the absolute rout of the Nationalist forces had been published.

There is much speculation among the Turks as to how the Entente Powers will deal with them after the Greeks dominate the Bagdad railway, which now seems inevitable to the people here, although those in the interior of the country still hope that Mustapha Kemal may check the Greek advance.

"VOTE AGAINST $100,000 BY-LAW"

DISPENSE WITH THE SERVICES OF ENGINEER BARBER AND THE RUSSELL-TOWNSEND CO., RATEPAYER ADVISES—ENGAGE A NEW ENGINEER AND INVITE TENDERS, THAT THE TAXPAYERS MAY KNOW THE COST OF COMPLETING THE HUNTER STREET BRIDGE.

"BEWARE OF THE PUBLIC SERVANT WHO COMES WITH HIS MOUTH FULL OF EXCUSES."

One year and a half ago the ratepayers of this city voted $260,000.00 to build a new bridge at Hunter Street and at London Street. The total cost of the Hunter Street Bridge was estimated at $240,000.00 and of the London Street Bridge at $20,000.00.

Later on the Dominion Government gave a grant to the city of $50,000.00, which was to relieve the city from part of the expense it was being put to in the erection of a bridge that would permit vessels to pass underneath.

If the estimate of total cost of $240,000.00 was correct, then it should only have cost the city the sum of $190,000.00 to build and complete the Hunter Street Bridge.

But what do we find? The City Council, under the guidance of Engineer Barber, have now spent on the Hunter Street Bridge the sum of $273,600.15, which is exactly $83,600.15 more than they were authorised by the ratepayers to expend, and still we have not the sign of a bridge across the river.

BREACH OF TRUST.

It is therefore manifest that the City Council and Engineer Barber knew weeks, if not months, ago that the bridge could not be built within the appropriation, and that it was a breach of trust to use the funds of the ratepayers in the manner they were doing.

It was a breach of trust to use the $20,000.00 voted by the ratepayers to build the London Street Bridge, in building the Hunter Street Bridge.

If the city owes any outstanding accounts incurred in connection with the building of this bridge, it would be a breach of trust on the Council's part to pay them. This may appear to be a great hardship to the creditor. The late Chief Justice Wilson said: "But it is not a question of hardship or no hardship. It is whether these municipalities are to involve themselves in debt to the distress and annoyance of the ratepayers."

It is plain common sense, that the Council cannot do indirectly what they cannot do directly.

The Council and Engineer Barber now see that they are forced to come back to the ratepayers for $100,000.00 more. They come back with their mouths full of excuses and explanations. The truth is that before they ever commenced the work, they were publicly warned that the Barber Bridge and Monument could not be erected for the amount Engineer Barber claimed it could be, nor would Russell-Townsend guarantee that it could be.

$100,000.00 NOT ENOUGH!

What reasonable grounds have the ratepayers now to believe that even $100,000.00 more will complete this bridge, which appears to be only nicely begun?

The ratepayers have good grounds to believe that in six months' time there will be another "hurry up call" on them for another $100,000.00.

WHAT IS THE REMEDY?

But we cannot let this bridge (partly constructed, as it is) be abandoned. What, then, is the remedy?

Firstly—Vote against the by-law.

Secondly—Let the City Council dispense with the services of Engineer Barber and Contractors Russell-Townsend Co. They can now have no legal claim against the city, because it would be a breach of trust on the part of the City Council to pay them anything. There are no funds out of which the Council are authorised to pay them.

Thirdly—Engage a competent engineer to prepare plans to complete the approaches to the bridge and for the construction of a suitable steel bridge across the river, and make an estimate as to the cost thereof.

Fourthly—Then submit a by-law to the ratepayers, giving authority to the Council to raise the necessary money to complete the bridge. The engineer will name the amount before the ratepayers vote.

Fifthly—Then invite tenders for the construction of the steel work and for the completion of the concrete work and the entire completion of the work.

TAXPAYERS MUST FIRST KNOW THE COST.

If the ratepayers adopt this plan, the city will know before the work is begun exactly what it is going to cost to complete the Hunter Street Bridge.

If on the other hand the ratepayers vote for the by-law authorising the City Council to pay, under Engineer Barber's advice, the present contractors on the cost plus plan, they will find themselves struggling in a bed of quicksand—the more they struggle, the deeper they will sink; the more money they vote, the more money they will have to vote.

BARBER BRIDGE AN EXPERIMENT.

The Barber bridge is a Barber experiment. A long concrete arch is an experiment in a climate that is subjected to extremes of heat and cold. If the bridge were to fail it would create an artificial dam that might drown many people.

The taxpayers have now an opportunity to teach our City Council a much needed lesson, by voting against this $100,000.00 by-law.

No doubt lots of excuses will be given why the ratepayers should vote for the by-law; but beware of the public servant who comes with his mouth full of excuses.

PRISONER ESCAPES

LINDSAY, July 7.—A man, remanded for 24 hours in Tuesday's morning session of the Police Court, was being led up to the jail when he slipped his wrist out of a locked handcuff and escaped. The prisoner was being taken up Victoria Ave., past the park, when he succeeded in forcing his wrist through the narrow space. In a flash he disappeared across the park. From the young man's attitude through the whole episode, it appeared he did not realize the seriousness of his offense.

THE GERMANS SIGNED NOTE

ACTION WAS TAKEN UNDER PROTEST BY THE GERMAN REPRESENTATIVES.

(Canadian Press.)

SPA, Belgium, July 9.—Germany's delegates signed this morning an engagement accepting the terms of the Allied note relative to disarmament presented yesterday. This action was taken under protest by German representatives.

The Allied note, which virtually amounted to an ultimatum, demanded that the Germans accept terms presented by noon to-day. The Germans protested in signing the agreement, that Versailles treaty did not oblige them to acquiesce in further territorial occupations except for failure to fulfil treaty terms regarding reparations.

Decision of German cabinet to obey Allied demands was reached at an early morning session to-day, the vote being unanimous. The vote was taken after a telephone communication with Reichstag leaders in Berlin approving acceptance and communicating the desire of the Reichstag and party leaders for the cabinet at Spa to use its own judgment.

A Family Reunion In Cavan Township

WILLIAM M'INDOO FARM WAS FIRST SETTLED ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO—FAMILY GET TOGETHER AFTER LONG ABSENCE.

After a long separation from their family and friends in Cavan Township, William James and Matthew McIndoo, of Fresno, California, came east several weeks ago, to visit their brother, Thomas W., and their sister Emma, at the old homestead, Fairmount, Cavan, and to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the settlement of this farm, by their grandfather, William McIndoo.

William McIndoo left here 35 years ago, and had not been home in 15 years. James went away 25 years ago, while Matthew has been 17 years in California. Robert, the other brother, has been 13 years in the Sunshine State, but could not get away to come home with his brothers. All four are fruit growers at Fresno, and have been successful, both finacially and otherwise, in this line of agriculture, for which the state has become famous.

Their sister, Mrs. Dr. Dean of Ithaca, Mich., was home also, and a week ago Saturday the entire party went on that beautiful boat trip down the St. Lawrence, to Montreal, Quebec, and visited St. Anne de Beaupre.

The four brothers and two sisters, spent four happy, radiant days together—after living for many years a continent apart—on this route of scenic beauty, and the trip will not soon be forgotten.

The three weeks' reunion of the family amongst old scenes, and the visiting of old friends, have been a pleasant experience. The city has been visited and the improvements in Peterboro since they knew it, were remarked upon. The large and growing industries located here, the Lift Lock and Trent Waterway, our many civic improvements, beautiful streets, and lovely residential sections, were all far removed from the Peterboro they knew 25 and 30 years ago, and improvements in the rural districts, more than amazed the former Cavan residents and from the manifested prosperity of the country districts and the city, they predicted a future in which this district would advance and prosper deservedly.

The 3.20 C.P.R. train yesterday swept them away westward on their long transcontinental journey to their Pacific home. The return trip is being made by the Canadian west but they came by the States. They are most optimistic in their report of the resources and wealth of California and they are unmitigating in their praise of their adopted state, and they believe that in the future the State will rise to greater prominence in the Union than ever.

REV. DEAN M'COLL A DOMESTIC PRELATE

NEW HONOUR FROM THE POPE CARRIES TITLE OF MONSIGNOR.

Rev. Dean McColl, pastor of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Ashburnham, has received notice of the honour conferred upon him by Pope Benedict in the appointment of Domestic Prelate with the title of Monsignor. This information was conveyed in a recent letter from Bishop O'Brien, who wrote that the papal brief announcing the appointment had been issued, and that His Lordship was bringing it home. In Rome a Domestic Prelate has an office in the Pope's household, but in this country the appointment is necessarily only an honorary one.

NEW POTATOES A SPLENDID CROP

FINE SAMPLES REACHING THE RETAIL STORES FROM NEARBY GARDENS.

Those who have seen them, say that Mr. John Williams' "Irish Cobblers" surpass all other potatoes shown up and down the street since the new crop began to appear in the fruit shops a few days ago.

Compared with those seen yesterday they take first place, with a margin to spare in both size and appearance, according to information from a merchant who handled all three specimens. Mr. Williams specializes in Cobblers, and a short time ago reported that he had the finest looking crop he had ever seen. He has recently begun to market it, and has found the yield as large as the foliage promised.

Rumors that the crop in this district were all "going to top" are proved untrue by the market gardeners, and there should be a plentiful supply of potatoes for everybody this year. Mr. T. O. Arnott, who has also had fine success with his potatoes, has sold ten bushels this week.

There are many families who have not tasted potatoes in several months, and most of them are holding off until the new production pushes the price down to a level at which potatoes are regarded as being "worth the money." At present they are holding steadily, but another week should find the price decline moving to the satisfaction of consumers.

ORAL SHORTHAND.

That's What Americans Are Tending Toward, a Critic Observes.

More than one distinguished student of English is complaining that American speech becomes more careless and slip-shod every day. George B. Churchill, professor of English literature at Amherst College, says that "the use of the English language is most decidedly degenerating; the writing, and especially the talk of today, is far below the standard of twenty years ago." Professor Churchill thinks that the "pressure and tensity" incident to the war caused Americans to use more slang and profanity.

However that may be, it is certainly true that many persons supposed to have position and refinement use bad grammar, far too much slang, and occasional profanity. This state of affairs is deplorable, but it does not necessarily denote deterioration of character. Nor does it seem probable that commercialism and greed for money have any direct bearing on the tendency of most people to neglect the study and use of pure English.

The cause of careless speaking seems to lie more naturally in the manner in which people today amuse themselves. Twenty years ago a great many persons devoted their leisure hours to reading, discussion, hearing good plays and in other amusements more or less intellectual. Today people have other diversions. The movies, the phonograph, and automobiling provide most of the entertainment for the American people. Each of the forms of amusement is blameless and deservedly popular. But none of them makes any great demand on the intellect. People do not want intellectual entertainment. Good books are plentiful and cheap, and intelligent conversation is free. But the bulk of the populace exercise their unquestioned right to divert themselves in other and well known ways.

It is not remarkable, then, that the average person writes and speaks English less correctly than he did twenty years ago. Today most of us think only of "getting across" our thoughts in the briefest possible way. People who delight in precise English are becoming fewer and fewer. Just what the end of all this will be no one can foretell. The outlook at present is that we will drift into a sort of oral shorthand, to use a convenient bull. Even now, some of us are inclined to collect a few pet slang phrases and make them express many things by a Chinese method of varying the emphasis and intonation. Who will venture to predict the ultimate state of "American English"?—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

AIR TRAVEL GROWING.

100 Passengers Weekly Between Paris and London.

PARIS.—Early announcement is expected of the reduction of passenger rate for air travel between London and Paris and many are wondering if the day is far distant when it may be cheaper to travel by air than by land and sea. At the beginning of the London-Paris air service last year the price for one-way ticket on small fast machines was 20 guineas and 15 guineas on the larger passenger ships. It is now reported that fares will soon be reduced to £10, 10 shillings.

In one recent week's flying more than 100 passengers were carried in the London-Paris air service and it hoped that a reduction in price will increase the number of passengers. There have been an ever-increasing number of inquiries for the service but the price has discouraged many prospective passengers.

I LIKE.

By Rell Frances in "Juvenile Fancies."

I like the little birdies
That live up in the trees,
The honey with the wax in
That's made by little bees.
I like to lick my fingers
When they are full of jam,
And, Oh! that pretty story
Of Mary's little lamb.

I like the nice blue ribbon
My ma ties in my hair;
To maek the soapy bubbles
Go away up in the air.
I like to pinch our baby,
Because it's soft and fat;
It's fun to pull our cat's tail
To see her hold the mat.

I like to see my dad come
For supper in the niht;
He gives me great big kisses
And squeezes me so tight.
I like to play with uncle,
He stands me on my head,
It makes me look like dolly—
My cheeks they get so red.

I like my new pink stockings,
And lots of other things!
And when I'm big like mama
I'll have a lot of rings.
I like to feel the bear rug
When it rubs my feet;
And then my nice wool nightie—
It's not cold like the sheet.

Theer's other things that I like,
But I can't tell you now—
For mama says it's bedtime
And I must make my bow.
I'll say my "Here I Lay Me,"
Like all good children pray!
The angels for to keep me
Until another day.

DOES ADVERTISING PAY?

Many advertisers, and particularly retail advertisers, never get the full cumulative power of advertising behind their business because they lack patience. They demand direct returns. Thy run a one-time announcement in the local paper to-day and look for sales enough—sales directly traceable to the little one-time advertisement—before next week to pay for the cost of the space.

Of course they are disappointed. Retail advertising seldont works out that way. But they are impatient for results. They are not prepared to invest money in advertising as they would in new goods, in store fixtures, in stocks or in real estate—and wait for profits to be earned. No. The returns of to-day's advertising must ring in cash profits to-morrow, or, in the estimation of too many retail dealers, the advertising is not worth what it costs.

Hand-to-mouth advetising is not worth what it costs. It yields only hand-to-mouth returns. To show the best results as a business building power, the advertising of the retail merchant must be persistent. Its chief purpose should be to build up permanent trade; to make the people of your community turn to your store in preference to other stores; to make them think of you and of your place of business; to convince them that they cannot get better quality and price and service anywhere.

"Would you advise a sixty-inch advertisement in the newspaper once a week or six ads. covering ten inches of space each week?" was one of the questions asked.

"I would advise six ads., one each day, or, better still, three twenty-inch ads. each week," replied the advertiser.

"Anything that is desirable is advertisable," he said, and pointed out that the desirability of an article depends much on the consistency with which it is advertised.

"One of the best ways to advertise is to cultivate the customers you have acquired and they will assist you in your advertising."

His final message was: "Advertise and get out and prosper."

WOOL

Mr. FARMER: We will Buy your Wools on a Graded Basis, and pay you according to Quality. Why accept a Flat Price when, if you have Good Fine Wool, you can get a Better Price by selling to some Reliable Dealer? Let us look over your lot before selling.

SUNDAY SCHOOL HELD EXCURSION

Good Programme of Sports Was Provided.

The Gospel Hall Sunday School enjoyed an excursion to Hiawatha yesterday. The heavy rain which drenched Peterboro circled Hiawatha. After a long programme of sports and some acrobatic "stunts" an open air song service was held and an address given by F. Watts of Orillia. A most enjoyable day was brought to a close at the Wolfe street wharf with singing and praise.

Mr. Watts will remain over Sunday and will speak in Central Park on Sunday evening.

LIGHTNING STRUCK HOUSE.

LINDSAY, July 9.—A severe electrical storm passed over Burnt River and vicinity on Wednesday afternoon, and did considerable damage to crops, as well as a few buildings.

The worst accident reported is at the home of Mrs. John Hodgson, the mother of Mr. T. Hodgson, of Lindsay. Lightning struck the chimney, descended to the ground floor, and played pranks about the sitting-room, with the result that Mrs. Hodgson was injured—to what extent is not known. The house was otherwise damaged, but not seriously.

ST. PAUL'S BIBLE CLASS OUTING

Supper Was Served at Gore's Landing.

The Young Men's Bible Class of St. Paul's church held their annual excursion yesterday afternoon to Gore's Landing per the steamer "Geneva." A pleaasnt outing was enjoyed and there was a fair atendance. Supper was served at Gore's Landing.

CONSCIENCE DRIVES TO CELL

Jersey Tax Collector Surrenders, Revealing $4,500 Theft.

HACKENSACK, N.J., —Independence Day for George Frazer, Tax Collector of Palisade Township, brought relief from his conscience which had for nearly two years troubled him by day and kept him awake by night. He surrendered himself to the Hackensack police early today and confessed he had stolen $4,500 of township money.

Frazer told Police Captain Frank Kirk that his wife accused him last evening of being a thief, and the word which had been repeated "thousands of times" day and night by his conscience, put him to the quick and decided him to surrender and make reparation.

The Tax Collector said he had been stealing money for twenty-two months, and had concealed his thefts by substituting recently paid tax funds, so that an audit of his books failed to disclose the shortage. He was held in $5,000 bail for the Grand Jury.

GIRLS IMMODESTLY DRESSED.

So Calgary Woman Would Have a Uniform For Them.

CALGARY, July 6.—Calgary's High school girls are "too immodestly dressed," so Mrs. Duncan, president of the Mount Royal Mothers' Club, charges, and she has started an agitation for a uniform dress for Calgary's school girls. Too many sheer blouses and too many extremely low-neck waists are being worn.

MUSIC IN THE HOME

SHOVELLING SNOW WITH MUSIC ACCOMPANIMENT

During the recent severe snowstorm in New Tork one of that corporation's foremen, Patrick J. O'Ryan, an ardent admirer of John McCormack, and a bit of musician himself, put into play a little stunt that he had read about. He demanded of every man on his staff that he sing a ditty as he shovelled away the snow. "It makes for speed and efficiency," he said.

So it was a symphony concert the sojourners of the Plaza Hotel enjoyed when Patrick and his singing brigade tackled the snow outside that hostelry. As the afternoon wore on hundreds of pedestrians stopped to listen. As one of the brigade would stop his song O'Ryan would wave his hand and demand that the quitter "keep it up."

One of the workers drifted into a tune that smacked of Italian grand opera, and the foreman's comment was "sing grand opera if you want to, Tony, but you've got to sing it in ragtime; that Metropolitan stuff won't get this snow cleaned up in a month."

WAR CHANGING MUSIC CONDITIONS

That there is a new world in the making as a result of the war is the general opinion of most of our leading men in all ranks and conditions of life. That there is a new world in the making in the realm of art is the opinion of a leading writer in the kingdom of music.

As the spirit of true democracy rises it will show its influence in the development of a national spirit in musc, drama and the arts. And with this recognition of the value of music will come a realization that we must begin with the introduction of music as a prime factor in the system of education in our schools.

One of the results of a better understanding of music will be that we shall cease to be influenced by traditional forces. We shall continue to admit our debt to the Old World, musically, but we shall not consider it necessary to send our talented youth to Europe for a musical education, for it will be possible to obtain this in our own country.

DEAF MUTES DANCE TO UNHEARD MUSIC

Hundreds of persons attended the ball gaiety and enjoyment was written on every face, yet, save for the music, silence reigned supreme throughout the evening. Why? Because the dancers were deaf or dumb, or both. The occasion of the dance was the eleventh annual masquerade and ball of Great New York Division No. 23 of the National Fraternal Society of the Deaf, held a few days ago in Brooklyn.

In perfect time the couples fox-trotted, waltzed and one-stepped, keeping even better rhythm than many another set of dancers. When the music stopped hardly a sound was to be heard. Only occasionally came a shuffle of feet and sometimes a laugh from those who could use their vocal cords.

"There are three hundred guests here," said a committeeman who spoke but could not hear himself, —"who haven't the faintest idea what tune the orchestra is playing. I haven't. They've never heard 'The Vamp', or 'Mandy,' but that doesn't matter. They get the time, the beat of the music, and hat is all that is needed for a dance."

"To be even clearer,' 'he continued, "they 'feel' the beat. The vibrations from the instruments, particularly the drums, beat against their bodies and register in their chests and nerves. Their eardrums do not work at all. It is one of the paradoxes of deafness."

The orchestra struck up the tune for the next dance. The dancers "listened" for a moment. Then the beat of the drum registered the time, and away they whirled, dancing in perfect rhythm to a tune none of them could hear.

The response of these deaf mutes to the music reminds us that people thus afflicted have been known to attend concerts and derive keen pleasure from "feeling" music through its vibrations instead of hearing it in the ordinary sense of the term.

KEEPS THE SOUL HEALTHY

The word "music" is derived from the Greek, and originally meant not only the tonal art, but included all the arts and sciences. It was really not until the Christian era that the word "music" was limited to its present meaning although Plato in his time used it in this sense.

Music, like everything else, was of gradual growth. It also had its very marked ups and downs. The Greeks held music in very high repute. Plato, in "Laws," speaking of the education of boys, which he supposes to be ended at the age of sixteen, divides this education into the following periods: Ten years of childhood, exclusively to forming the disposition; three years of grammar, with the collateral sciences, and then three years practise in executive music. All literary studies to stop, that they may learn music completely.

Ruskin's comments on this are interesting. He says: "Understanding this much, we can now clearly understand whether we receive it or not, Plato's distinct assertion that, as gymnastic exercise is necessary to keep the body healthy, musical exercise is necessary to keep the soul healthy, and that the proper nourishment of the intellect and passions can no more take place without music than the proper functions of the stomach and the blood without exercise."

THE LYRE AND MINISTRELSY IN ASIA

The lyre as a musical instrument is contemporaneous with the emergance of man from the savage state into that higher condition of development to which the name "barbarism" naturally applies.

The lyre was the dower which the great Aryan race brought to Europe. It was developed and invented in that wonderful Bactrian home of our ancestors where so many great and beautiful things were nursed into life. In studying the history of the lyre among the hordes of Ceutral Asia, we shall not merely be studying a reflection of it, as is the case of the pipe and the drum, but we shall be studying it in the very place of its birth.

The Tartars are the troubadors of Asia—and of Asia in the widest sense of the word—penetrating into the heart of the Caucasus on the west, and pacin gthe country eastward to the shores of the Yellow sea. "The wandering bards in Circassia" (this brings Europe, too, into the computation), says Herbert Spencer, "are generally Kalmucks." "They are often met with in Tartary," writes M. Huc; "very numerous in China; nowhere so popular as in the Tibet. They are called 'Toolholes,' and remind us of the minstrels and rhapsodists of Greece." Marco Polo tells us that the Great Klan had so many of these minstrels at his court that in order to get rid of a few of them, he sent an expedition against the city of Mien composed entirely of superflous minstrels. When he read that they took this strongly fortified town, we may imagine the extent of the superfluity.

The minstrels are "the greatest delight of the Circassians, the chief pleasure of the Crim Tartars, every house is open to receive them; everywhere there is a corner for the bard, and everyone is favored by a visit from him. "All through Persia he is received with joy." Often each chief has his minstrel.

NOTED BRITISH ASTRONOMER WAS FINE MUSICIAN

Possibly few are aware that Sir William Herschel, distinguished British astronomer, the discoverer of the planet Uranus, was originally a professional musician. He was born at Hanover in 1738 and, being the son of a musician was given a thorough musical education with a view to preparing for the same calling. When fourteen years of age he enlisted in the band of the Hanoverian Guards as an oboe player. In 1757 his regiment came to England, at the behest of King George I, and was stationed at Durham. It is not known just how long young Herschel remained a member of the band, but a few years later he became organist of a church in Halifax, and in 1766 secured a better position of the same kind in Bath he became interested in the study of astronomy and devoted all his spare time to the subject. In 1781 he constructed a telescope of large dimensions ,and the discoveries he made with the instrument were noteworthy that the king appointed him his private astronomer at a salary of about $2,000 a year, whereupon he abandoned the musical profession. He was knighted by the king and received an honorary degree from Oxford. Haydn paid him a visit when in England. His success as an astronomer should not lead one to assume that he was in any way lacking in the talent as a musician; he published a symphony for orchestra and two military concertos for wind instruments. It is interesting to note, in this connection, that his elder brother, Jacob, who pursued much the same career in the beginning, rose to be a master of the king's band, and also spent the latter part of his life in England.

CHOICE RECIPES

With Canned Tomato.

"A Great Grandma" has kindly sent the following old and tested recipe for tomato pickle or catsup in answer to a recent request; take one can tomatoes, cut up contents fine with cake cutter. Cut up fine several onion, say three or four or more. Cook in a little vinegar. When done add the tomatoes, one cup brown sugar and salt to taste. Let cook slowly. Now mix one teaspoon of cassia, the same of pepper, and one of mustard with one tablespoon of flour or cornstarch, with a little vinegar and add to boiling pickle. Let cook a few minutes and put in gem jars. Add more spice or flour if wished. (Thank you, Great Grandma.—Housewife).

Fruit Blanc Mange.

Stew fresh fruit, raspberries or cherries are very good, strain off the juice, and sweeten to taste; place it over the fire in a double kettle until it boils. While boiling, stir in corn starch wet with a little cold water, allowing two tablespoons of starch for each pint of juice. Continue stirring until sufficiently cooked, then pour into moulds wet in cold water; set them away to cool. Serve with cream and sugar.

Worcester Sauce.

An English cookery book gives the following recipe: Three quarters of an ounce of cayenne pepper; one pint of vinegar; two tablespoons Indian soy; five cloves or garlic, four shalots, five anchovies. Pound these ingredients together, and rub them through a sieve. Keep three weeks before using. Another English method is: One quart vinegar, two ounces chillies; ten cloves of garlic; half a pint of walnut catsup; half a pint of soy. Put into a stone bottle, let stand for a month, then strain and bottle for use.

Turkish Pilaf.

One-half cup washed rice, one-half cup cold meat cut in dice, three tablespoons meat dripping, white stock-highly seasoned; one-half cup canned tomatoes, one slice onion, salt and cayenne. Cook rice in boiling salted water, drain, pour over hot water to thoroughly rinse. Heat omelet pan, add butter, and as soon as butter is melted add rice. Cook three minutes ;then add tomatoes, meat and enough stock to moisten. Cook five minutes and season highly with salt and cayenne.

Frozen Honey Custard.

A good frozen dessert is frozen honey custard. In preparing it, make a rich boiled, custard from a pint of milk, three eggs, one-quarter teaspoon of salt, one tablespoon of cornstarch and three tablespoons of honey. Flavor with lemon or vanilla extract and fold in when cold one-quarter pint of double cream whipped solid and sweetened with two additional tablespoons of honey. Freeze slowly.

Custard Ice Cream.

One pint milk, yolks of two eggs, six ounces sugar, one tablespoon cornstarch. Scald until it thickens. When cool, add one pint whipped cream and the whites of two eggs, beaten stiff. Sweeten, flavor and freeze.

Bread-Crumb Molasses Pie.

Mix one cup bread-crumbs th two tablespoons sugar, the juice grated rind of one lemon and one-and-a-half cups molasses. Cook for about twenty minutes, then make into a tart or pie.

Creamed Beef with Potatoes.

Melt two tablespoons of oleo with the same of flour and when blendid, stir in two cups of milk. Add three cold boiled potatoes cut in small pieces and a cup of shredded dried beef. Boil one minute and serve.

Sponge Cake.

Beat two eggs, add three-quarters of a cup of sugar and beat five minutes. Add half a cup of cold water, a cup of flour, two teaspoons of baking powder and a teaspoon of lemon extract. Bake in a hot oven.

Lambs' Kidneys.

Cut the kidneys in half, remove the tough pieces and wash in cold water. Cover with cold water, bring to a hard boil, drain, and bring to a boil again. Put a tablespoonful each of butter and flour in a saucepan to brown, and when brown add a cup of water, a tablespoon each of tomato catsup and Worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper. Pour this over the kidneys and steam one hour. Just before serving add a teaspoon of lemon juice.

Bread Pudding.

Butter thick slices of bread on both sides and pour over two cups of milk to which has been added a well beaten egg, a quarter of a cup of sugar and the same of grated cocoanut. Bake in a slow oven.

French Carrot Soup.

Boil four to six small carrots, previously scraped, in just enough water to cover, until tender. Mash through a sieve and add to water in which cooked (there should be very little left). Meanwhile cook one-half cupful of very small peas in just enough to cover and keep hot. Add carrot pulp to one quart of very rich milk in the double boiler, thicken with two level tablespoonfuls each of flour and butter melted together, cook a few minutes after it has thickened and whip with egg beater. Add salt to taste, half teaspoonful of sugar, and, lastly the peas. Serve at once. The one-fourth teaspoonful of paprika and dash of cayenne, a grate of nutmeg, soup may be made thinner or thick as preferred by increasing or diminishing the amount of flour. Toast chips go well with this soup.

Pickled Onions, Cucumbers or Green Tomatoes.

The vegetables must first be soaked in brine. Allow one and a half cups salt to two quarts boiling water. Pour over the vegetables and let stand two days. Drain and cover with more brine. Let stand two days and drain again. Take fresh brine and heat to boiling point; put in whichever vegetables is being done and boil three minutes. Drain and cover with a spiced vinegar made as follows: One gallon vinegar, one cup sugar (optional), four red peppers, two sticks cinnamon, two tablespoons whole allspice, two tablespoons mace. Tie the spices in a cheesecloth bag and boil in vinegar ten minutes. Pour over vegetables and bottle.

Strawberry Bavarian Cream.

Soften half a package of gelatine in half a cup of cold water and dissolve in half a cup of hot strawberry syrup; add one cup of strawberries pressed through a sieve, three-fourth a cup of sugar and the juice of half a lemon. Stir until the sugar is dissolved, then let chill on ice and water. When the mixture begins to thicken, fold in one cup and one-half of cream beaten firm—mold and serve cold.

WHAT WE KNOW ABOUT FOOD

A Woman's Trouble

Stratford, Ont. — "For years I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—one of the most well-known medicines I have ever known for the relief of women's ailments. I had for quite a long time been having womanly trouble, which caused me to become all run-down, weak and nervous. I doctored but nothing seemed to give me relief or did I begin taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.' This medicine gave me such wonderful relief that I am glad to recommend it to all ya."—MRS. A. GODWIN, 60 Brunel St.

NERVOUS AND RUN-DOWN

Brampton, Ont. — "A few years ago I was in a serious and run-down condition and felt greatly in need of a tonic. A friend who was taking it herself, by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery advised me to try it, too. It helped me from the very start and eventually restored me to perfect health. I feel in a position to praise the 'Golden Medical Discovery' very highly and take pleasure in recommending it to all those who are all nervous, weak, run-down."—MRS. ESTHER PEATSON.

Dr. Pierce's medicines are made of vegetable growths that nature evidently intended for headache, headache, pains, irregularities, and for the many disorders common to women in all ages of life. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is made of lady's slipper root, black cohosh root, unicorn root, blue cohosh root, Oregon grape root and Viburnum. Women who take this standard remedy know that in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription they are getting a safe woman's tonic so good that druggists everywhere sell it in liquid or tablets. It is without alcohol.

FRIDAY, JULY 9TH, 1920.

AN INTERESTING CAMPAIGN.

The resignation of Mr. Burnham means that within the next six months Peterborough will have a by-election to choose a representative for the Dominion Parliament. It is too early to make any definite prophesies as to the campaign that will result, but even at this long range it is possible to visualize the presence in the field of at least three candidates, and possibly a quartette. In the first place it may be taken for granted that Mr. Burnham will be a candidate. His platform as already announced in his letter to the new Premier, will be that of moderate protection, with a protest against restrictions on personal liberty plank, and he will run as an independent unless he is endorsed by the Government, a very unlikely happening in view of his action in deserting on the eve of Hon. Arthur Meighen's elevation to the Premiership. With Mr. Burnham outside the pale, an official Government candidate will undoubtedly be placed in the field. The Liberals of West Peterborough can be counted upon to have a standard bearer, and it would not be a surprise if a Farmers' candidate, or possibly a candidate endorsed by both U. F. O. and Labour made a fourth starter in the race. Peterborough can look forward to a very interesting campaign.

SPORTSMANSHIP.

In a letter to the Toronto Globe, which appears elsewhere in to-day's issue, Mr. H. J. Patterson, of Belleville, refers to the attack made upon Umpire Thomas in the July 1st game here with Belleville as an example of the poor sportsmanship that is becoming all too common in connection with athletic contests in Canada. With the remarks of Mr. Patterson the Examiner is in hearty accord. There is room for a better sporting spirit not only in baseball but in all other sports in this country. Even soccer, the good old British game, is not free from abuses, for in the final Ontario game in Toronto the other day, the crowd swarmed on the field before the match was completed, obviously angry because the Hamilton team was certain of winning. In all our games there is the same tendency to deride the opposition players and to regard the officials as prejudiced and unfair. At hockey matches nearly every decision against the home club is received with a storm of hisses directed against the unlucky referee, in baseball the fans on both sides protest every close decision, and the umpire is the target for abuse, verbal and sometimes physical. There is far too much thought about the result of a game and far too little about the game itself. There is too often a tendency to strive for victory by any means, any trickery that is possible. Where the blame for this condition of affairs should be assigned is by no means clear, but it exists nevertheless. We need higher ideals of sportsmanship, and as the Examiner pointed out the other day, much can be done in this respect in the supervised playgrounds and in the schools.

MR. BURNHAM RESIGNS.

West Peterborough is without a representative in the Dominion Parliament. Mr. J. H. Burnham, elected in 1917 as a Government supporter, yesterday sent his resignation to the Speaker of the House, and as a result the seat will be thrown open and a by-election will be necessary. The retiring member in a letter to the Premier-designate, Hon. Arthur Meighen, declares that he cannot in honour remain any longer as a member of the Government, having been elected by the votes of constituents of different political views for the purpose of assisting Canada's war effort. Mr. Burnham's letter to the new Premier sets forth his belief that the Union government was elected as a war government and that there is no excuse for further delay in appealing to the country.

Overlooking the fact that Mr. Burnham would have gained more credit for himself had he taken this position at least a year ago, as he might logically have done, it must be admitted that his present action, belated as it may be, is a rebuke to the members of the Government whose plans are all based upon the necessity of retaining office as long as possible. Undoubtedly, as Mr. Burnham puts it, there was a promise to the country, "express and implied," that when the war was over the Union Government would be dissolved and the people would be given a chance to pass upon its record and select a new administration for the governing of Canada under peace conditions. That promise has been consistently ignored, and Hon. Mr. Meighen's selection as Premier means that it will continue to be ignored unless a sudden crisis precipitates an election.

THE NEW PREMIER.

Hon. Arthur Meighen, Minister of the Interior in the Union Government, will on Saturday become Premier of Canada. The announcement has occasioned little surprise, for it was considered certain that he would be the choice of the Government supporters when the way was cleared by the refusal of Sir Thomas White to accept the position.

Mr. Meighen's career as Prime Minister promises to be brief. If he can succeed in holding his forces together, a task that is not without its elements of difficulty, he may avoid an appeal to the country until next year at least, or perhaps a little longer and he will be safe until a general election. There is no reasonable doubt that when such an event has taken place the Hon. Arthur will cease to be Premier of Canada and will probably be found as leader of the Opposition or rather one of the leaders, because it is evident that three or four parties will be represented in Canada's next parliament. It has been suggested that in choosing the Minister of the Interior, the Unionists were swayed by the fact that his undoubted ability as a debater and his skill in destructive criticism were qualities that would be of much value to a party in opposition—in fact that the Hon. Mr. Meighen was chosen because it was felt that the days of the present Government were numbered and that he would be an admirable leader of the Opposition.

However that may be there is no indication that the elevation of the Minister of the Interior to the Premiership is being greeted with any great enthusiasm or joy throughout the country. A ready tongue and the power to tear holes in the arguments of one's opponents are not the only qualities that the people demand of their Prime Minister, but they are apparently the strongest assets Mr. Meighen brings with him. He is known as a partisan of the bitterest type who can see nothing good in an opponent and nothing wrong in a political friend. Although young in years, having graduated from Toronto University in the same year as the Government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier first assumed office, he is a politician of the old school, making no concessions for those who differ from him in political opinion and going to any length in his defence of the deeds of his own party. How he is going to curb hs tongue and avoid hurting the dignity of the Liberal Unionists who have decided to follow him is a problem that the future will have to decide, but predictions are being freely made that in a few months he will have driven the last remnants of the Liberal wing of the Government out of the Administration.

In one essential he is an improvement over Sir Robert Borden. With all his faults, Hon. Mr. Meighen does not suffer from the indecision that interfered with the work of his predecessor in office. He has been often wrong in the past and will undoubtedly make mistakes in the future, but at all events the drifting policy that Sir Robert Borden was so fond of, will undoubtedly be scrapped.

ANOTHER PEACE TREATY REVISION.

The announcement is made from London that the Peace Treaty is to be radically revised, and that the first steps in doing this will probably be taken at the Spa conference. And the tragedy of it is that the terms, instead of being made more stringent, as they ought to be, are to be considerably ameliorated.

Was there ever so great a muddle as has been caused by the Treaty of Versailles? More than a year ago it was accepted as a wonderful document and the joybells rang when it was signed. To-day it is discredited, and is ready for the discard. Rejected by the United States it has become an international joke. Germany, encouraged by the Allied dissension and softheartedness, and by the United States' sympathetic attitude, has with innate cunning gained concession after concession until the whole fabric of the treaty has been disintegrated and has lost its force.

The Allies themselves are to blame—some are dissatisfied with the reparation and indemnity clauses; others consider the territorial arrangements are impractical to be worked out. The disarming of Germany, insisted upon by France alone, is another bone of contention, and the intrusion of the treaty into the internal affairs of Germany, is now said to be entirely unjustifiable in international law.

Where have the promises of the British premier gone? The German war criminals, including the ex-Kaiser, were to be brought to trial, and punished. The clause has long since been forgotten. The indemnity demand was to be swift and adequate. Yet it is still unsettled. The whole treaty has been violated time and again by Germany, yet the Allies stand by and make no attempt to enforce its provisions. It is really hard to believe that the Allies were the victors, and Germany the vanquished in the great war.

The whole trouble is that the Peace Treaty was based too much on idealism and too little on practical matters. The very country from which the idealism sprung has contemptuously rejected its own handiwork. The politicians made the peace, instead of leaving it to the victorious army leaders. The politicians have thrown away the victory gained at so tremendous a cost. The matter is not yet ended, and from present indications it seems as if the fruits of victory are to be still further lost to the Allies. It is a deplorable situation, and, if the muddle has not already gone too far, it is one which needs stern handling on the part of allied diplomats.—Kingston Whig.

YOUR TOWN.

W. T. Denniston.

If you want to live in the kind of a town
Like the kind of a town you like,
You needn't slip your clothes in a grip
And start on a long, long hike.

You'll find elsewhere what you left behind,
For there's nothing that's really new.
It's a knock at yourself when you knock your town,
For it isn't your town—IT'S YOU.

Real towns are not made my men afraid
Lest somebody else gets ahead;
When everyone works and nobody shirks
You can raise a town from the dead.

And if you can make your personal stake
Your neighbor can make his, too;
Your town will be what you want it to be,
For it isn't your town—IT'S YOU.

SAGE AND SULPHER DARKENS GRAY HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Restore Colour, Gloss and Attractiveness.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural colour and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked, or grey. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

Don't stay grey! Try it! No one can possibly tel that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the grey hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, and attractive.

THAT SON-IN-LAW OF PA'S — Pa Finds Kicking Very Costly

By Wellington

VIRTUOUS WIVES

By OWEN JOHNSON

PART VII.

A few minutes before dinner, Mrs. Dellabarre found occasion to say to Monte Bracken:

"I am putting you beside little Mrs. Forrester. There are reasons why I want you to be, well—extra attentive to her."

"Special reasons?" said Bracken, smiling, for Irma's mental processes were a source of delight to him, and he saw in the request a ruse to give the appearance of a duty to what was already an inclination.

Mrs. Dellabarre's glance passed down the hall to where the mechanical figure of her husband was superintending the distribution of the cocktails and remained on it a noticeable moment.

"You are too quick, Monte, to need embarrassing explanations," she said significantly. "So make a point of it—only don't get really interested."

"She is quite striking in her way."

"If she were two inches taller, she would be a great beauty," she answered thoughtfully, putting her finger on the only criticism that might hold.

"Then I am not to sit next to you?" he said, with an admiring glance at her striking and harmonious toilette. With Irma he was never bored and never convinced.

"It's better not," she said slowly.

He was the man to whom she held. She held to him as she held to her youth. She looked about uneasily, longing to prolong the conversation. Rudolph's eyes from under his bushy eyebrows were on her, and there was something in the new rigidity of his look, something so vaguely disquieting, that she felt a little shudder run over her shoulders. "Some one walking over my grave," she thought and, frowing, she turned away.

Amy went in on the arm of Mr. Dellabarre, who showed her to her seat with a dignity which he assumed with the same care with which he calculated the descending steps and rounded the obstacles of the chairs.

"I hope you are enjoying yourself here," he said, in spaced solemnity, with a fugitive, indifferent look in the pale eyes which had become a little watery. Then he drew back into his shell, always uncomfortable in the presence of new acquaintances, particularly of the opposite sex.

In ten years, he had not added a friendship. The butler, having watched him into his seat, saw that his glass did not remain long empty. The scene with his wife had upset his routine, for in his inebriety there was no disorder—total abstinence until six o'clock, a certain number of cocktails, an invariable pint of champagne and later the regular measure of old preserve Scotch. But to-night he had gone a little beyond his schedule, and he sat waiting for the dinner to begin, staring painfully at a silver dish on the glowing tablecloth in front of him.

Mrs. Forrester, thus abandoned, waited with eagerness the moment when Monte Bracken would turn to her. Though the patter, based on intimate details, was foreign to her, and the white fronts of the men loomed with the rigidity of social tombstones, she felt like an exile returning into her own. The men were mostly of the riding set, in excellent humor due to proper preparation, ready to be fed and talked to. The women were electrically pretty, in flashing colors, daring in the decollete which that season had broken down all prejudices. Opposite her was the beautiful Mrs. Challoner, cold and statuesque, flawless in feature and complexion, careless of the public announcement of her dimpled shoulders and the white fall of her throat. She remembered with some amusement Andrew's preconceived ideas. He was beside Mrs. Dellabarre, and she thought, as she caught his expression, that he was rather consciously examining his plate. Irma Dellabarre was not as copiously revealed as Mrs. Challoner, and yet she gave the impression of being more so, in a deep purple velvet dress that hid one shoulder and gave to the other the malicious appearance of an accident. Her hair was built high above her forehead and fell about it in softening clusters. She wore one stone against her throat—a point of white fire against the dark throat.

"She looks like a portrait," Amy said, turning to Mr. Bracken.

"Irma always paints a portrait."

But one of the Miss Teakes, determined not to let him go, recalled him with a question. Amy waited. In the glance he had given her she had felt the diving instinct of the man. He affected her with a strange sense of intimacy. Without the need of effort, in the first pleased meeting of their eyes, she felt he comprehended her, her varying moods and contrary impulses, her helwiderment before unchartered experiences, all the good and bad which lay undisciplined within her, and to comprehend this without criticism in his comprehension of many women.

Yet when, at length, he turned to her, she experienced a sudden embarrassment, that first unease which two persons instinctively drawn to each other often experience in sweeping away the opening formalities.

"How stupid I am—I am boring him," she thought, in the first moments of manufactured conversation.

All at once she saw that he was watching her with critical amusement. She began to laugh.

"How do you know what amuses me?" he asked.

"I do. You were admiring my social manner."

"Right. It is terrifically impressive."

"Then let's break the ice and really talk," she said eagerly.

"What! Say what we really think? But that's unheard of! Such a thing is not permitted in good society."

"Please."

"The responsibility be on your head," he said gravely. "But why do you want to put me to such a test?"

"If I told you, it would sound very flat," she said, smiling at him.

In the easy distinction of his evening clothes, he pleased her eye, always sensitive to harmonies of line and color.

They looked at each other uncertainly, each impulsively attracted, and their glances seemed to run ahead of their thoughts, in mute interrogation and answer.

"Of course, there is only one thing that's interesting — ourseves," he said, with a mischievous upward turn of his lips which were unusually sensitive for a man.

She considered this in some doubt. It was of course the only subject she longed to discuss, but she wondered if this was but the prelude to a conventional flirtation.

"Well, begin."

"Would you do it over again?" he said, with an assumption of magisterial solemnity which robbed the question of half its astounding impertinence.

"Why, Mr. Bracken!" she exclaimed, taken utterly off her guard, which was what he wished.

"Dear me, is not that the most natural question in the world?" he said, lifting his eyebrows. "Walking through the social jungle, I meet a young lady who has the appearance of having eloped from boarding school, a young lady who commands me to halt and say what I think. Thereupon, I look at her and, wondering many things, I ask a direct question. Of course, if you wish to go back—"

"Heaven forbid!" she said hastily. She looked at him with a quizzical smile, which brought her eyebrows into their odd angle and suddenly determined to give him as good as he sent, said.

"Question for question?"

"Agreed."

"If you had to make up your mind again"—she glanced over again to where Irma was sitting—"would you do the same thing?"

He laughed without embarrassment.

"Your question is more impertinent than mine," he said, without pretense of misunderstanding. "And some one has been gossiping."

"Then you admit yours was, too," she said, with a satisfied nod. "Well, sir?"

"I perceive you are in love with your husband," he said evasively.

She saw that he intended to treat her as a child and, adopting his tone of banter, replied:

"You see, I am still a bride. Now the secret is out. I am quite hopeless. Why such a serious look? Pitying me?"

He shook his head.

"Or perhaps my husband?"

"Perhaps the husband," he said slowly, looking at her more attentively.

"Really, this is the most extraordinary conversation!" she cried. "Are you making fun of me, or do you always shock people to break the ice?"

"Who changed the conversation?" She looked down at the table, running her fingers among the assembled forks, quite eager to hear more, wondering how far he understood her, afraid lest he might perceive too much and yet not certain of either his seriousness or his bantering attitude.

"You know, I believe you mean it."

"But I do! The cards, my dear lady, are stacked against him. You can no more escape your destiny than the moth the flame."

"Are you going to prophesy?" she said, with one of those fugitive looks with which only very young or very innocent women give the impression of retreating into an inner shelter.

"Shall I?"

She hesitated, and again the feeling came over her that she had experienced in their first meeting — that this man who had known many women knew her instinctively. She was not sure that she wanted her own forebodings to be awakened.

"Perhaps later," she said, glancing about to see if Miss Teake was eavesdropping. "It would be rather difficult now, wouldn't it? You see, I am already frightened."

"Shall we returned to sterilized conversation then?"

"Anything but that*! Tell me who these people are."

"Who interests you?"

"Mrs. Bracken. Your sister-in-law, isn't she?" she said instantly, glancing across the table at the woman who had attracted her from the first.

"Really?" he said appreciatively. "I should have thought the beautiful Mrs. Challoner—"

"No, no—plaster of Paris," she said maliciously.

"Beware! She's become a bosom friend."

"Tell me about your sister-in-law."

"Claire?" he said, and the raillery went out of his voice. "There are not two like her in the world!"

"I believe it," she said pensively. "I have never seen such kind eyes."

For a moment they were silent, studying her. Among this courtesan stripping and license of attitude and speech, Mrs. Bracken remained the gentlewoman. Her gown of russet silk interpreted but did not reveal. The light ashen hair flowed without artifice about the clear temples. On her neck she wore a single emerald pendant in an old Renaissance setting. Yet she stood out from all the rest by the distinction of her bearing, her poise, the cultured modulation of her voice, and the graciousness of her expression, which lay in the serenity of her eyes, the serenity of one who still retains the child's faith in the good of the world or perhaps has come to charity through some suffering, nobly endured.

At this moment, as though aware of their interest, Mrs. Bracken turned and, their eyes meeting, Amy smiled impulsively and shyly. She looked a moment surprised, divined that she was being discussed, and responded by a little friendly nod of her head.

"Allan, my brother, is beside Mrs. Challoner," he said, indicating a young fellow, who was laughing boyishly in a serio-comic attitude of flattery. One of the best young scamps in the world—irresponsible as a kitten, lovable as you make them, without a spot of malice in him, and always in trouble up to his ears, despite the best of intentions."

"Would that describe you a little?"

"In the past, perhaps. We're of the same stock," he said lightly.

"I wonder if they are happy together?" she asked impulsively.

"Claire has made everything of him," he continued. "He might have ended in the gutter. Instead, he has become a useful citizen. He adores his home, his children. He is interested in a dozen activities, and he has discovered that he has a mind. He is fortunate."

"Does he know it?"

"He knows it," he said emphatically.

"You have a very high opinion of her?" she said, looking at him.

"Yes, very."

The feeling which he had shown surprised her—had there been more than just this reverence, she wondered?

"I didn't expect you to take this view of life," she said, still in her reverie.

"It's rather too intimate," he said, and returned to the lightness of his first manner. "Shall we gossip?"

"Don't," she said impulsively. "I like you better this way."

"BABE" RUTH INJURED.

His Touring Car Overturns With Him Near Wawa, Pa.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 7. — "Babe" Ruth, champion home run hitter of the New York Americans, was slightly injured in an automobile accident near Wawa, Pa., early to-day.

The New York team played in Washington yesterday, and Ruth, his wife and three other New York players were motoring to New York. Their team was not scheduled to play to-day.

Ruth was at the wheel of his big touring car. In rounding a sharp curve near Wawa the car overturned.

The occupants were thrown out in a lonely section a 2 a.m. Making their way to a farm house, they had their injuries dressed and were brought to Philadelphia in another motor car. Later they took trains for New York.

THE HOME CIRCLE

Beware, Young Men.

If you don't want women to outstrip you in the industrial race and compel you to come to them when you want fifty cents, you would better stop drinking poor whiskey and quite gambling at race tracks. Women, in spite of man's refusal to give them the rights and privileges to which they are entitled, are to-day in 145 branches of business and in instances showing more ability than the men. In one of the greatest financial institutions in the country, not long ago, a well known man, drawing a salary of $25,000 a year, suffered a nervous collapse. The directors selected a young woman who for ten years had been the stenographer. She, the directors told us, has done better work than the man she succeeded, and is doing it for but $10,000 a year. In fifty years these women will know more than the men. They have more time to read and study and they are improving their time. Eventually all the universities will be co-educational and the women will carry off all the prizes.

True Love of Women.

No woman will love a man better for his being renowned for prominent. Though he be the first among men, she wil be prouder, not fonder: as is often the case she will not even be proud. But give her love, appreciation, kindness, and there is no sacrifice she will not make for his content and comfort. The man who loves her well is her hero and king—no less a king, though his only kingdom is his hearth and home. In nine cases out of ten, it is a man's fault that he is unhappy with his wife. It is a very exceptional woman who will not be all she can be to an attentive husband, and a very exceptional one who will not be very disagreeable if she finds herself willfully neglected.

A genuine mother could no more raise a bad boy into a bad man than a robin could raise a hawk. When we say a "genuine mother" we mean something more than a mother who prays with her boy and sends him to Sunday school. All these things are good, and indispensable as far as they go; but there is a lot more to do to train a boy besides praying with him, just as there are things necessary to the cultivation of a garden besides reading a manual. To succeed with roses one must prune, weed and hoe a great deal. To make a boy into a pure man, a mother must do more than pray. She must live with him in the sense of comrade and closest friend. She must stand by him in time of temptation as the pilot sticks to the wheel when rapids are around. She must never desert him to go off to superintend outside duties any more than the engineer deserts his post and goes into the baggage car to read up engineering when his train is pounding across the country at forty miles an hour.

Whta Shall I Teach My Child?

Teach him that it is better to die than to lie; that it is better to starve than to steal; that it is better to be a scavenger or a woodchopper than an idler and a dead-beat; that it is just as criminal and reprehensible to waste Monday as to desecrate Sunday; that labor is the price of all honest possessions; that no one is exempt from the obligation to labor with head, hands or heart; that "an honest man is the noblest work of God;" that knowledge is power; that labor is worship and idleness sin; that it is better to eat the crust of independent poverty than to luxuriate in the richest viands as a dependent. Teach him these facts till they are woven into his being and regulate his life, and we will insure his success—though the heavens fall.

Be a Man.

Foolish spending is the father of poverty. Do not be ashamed of hard work. Work for the best salaries and wages you can get, but work for half price rather than be idle. Be your own master, and do not let society or fashion swallow up your individuality—hat, coat and boots. Do not eat up or wear out all you earn. Compel your selfish body to spare something for profit's sake. Be stingy to your own appetite, but merciful to other's necessities. Help others, and ask no help for yourself. See that you are proud. Let your pride be of the right kind. Be too proud to wear a coat you cannot buy; too proud to be in company that you cannot keep up with in expenses; too proud to lie, or steal, or cheat; to proud to be stingy; in short, be a man of integrity and individuality.

It would astonish ..... sometimes if we could know what our neighbors think of us. Every man has some kind of standing in the community where he lives, and he is sized up a great deal closer than he has any idea of. You may set it down as a fact that there isn't a twelve-year-old boy in the neighborhood who hasn't his opinion of you, and he wouldn't be slow about expressing it either, if a stranger should ask him for it. Every man is always making character, whether he is doing anything else or not.

* * *

It is well to be charitable in our concusions, mindful that we often need the cloak of charity ourselves. Fill life with sunshine and strew flowers where others throw stones. Make life a bright spot in this world and where you see flowers cast smiles, and whether it is morn, dusk or night, let the sunny side of nature always be at full meridian.

* * *

Good manners are not taught in the school books. They are found in the home lessons.

Patience is a flower that does not grow in every garden.

SHEESLEY SHOWS HERE ON MONDAY

TWENTY-FIVE CARS USED TO TRANSPORT SHOWS TO PETERBORO

Congratulatory press reports herald the arrival of the Greater Sheesley Shows which will furnish the feature attractions for Orangemen's Day at Exhibition Grounds here. They are reported to be among the cleanest and most moral as well as being one of the largest of the kind in the outdoor show world.

The aggregation forms a combined circus and fair and is transported on a 25 car train. Over 10,000 electric light bulbs are said to illumine the spetcacle at night. It will be opened Monday afternoon, directly after the parade in which it will exhibit several of its features and novelties. It will remain at Exhibition Park throughout next week.

The outstanding attraction of the aggregation is the wild animal show with acts by lions, tigers, leopards, panthers, bears, bucking mules, trick ponies and educated horses. Captain Hiltbrunner, who is the chief trainer, has a reputation as a lion hunter as well as a lion tamer. His return to the outdoor show world seven years ago came after a four year sojourn in the jungles of Africa where his work in catching specimens of the lion and tiger family was widely complimented. Princess Tessie, often referred to as the princess of leopard trainers, is the principal woman trainer of the wild animals.

The well known motordrome with its perpendicular wall is featured by Miss Olive Hager, one of the most daring drome riders of America. Captain Hartley, the former straight track demon, and latterly the "Dip of Death Rider," is another of the Sheesley drome speeders.

Among the other shows and rides are: Hawaiian show, minstrel show; circus side show; fat man's show; Springtime creation show; Selena the Mysterious; Garden of Allah; athletic arena; Through the Falls; aero swings; tango swings; the whip; ferris wheel and carousel!

ACCUSES HUSBAND AND DROWNS SELF

NEW YORK, —The body of a well dressed woman was found recently in Central Park lake. A card on her person said:

"I am the wife of Daniel M. Bedell, and you will find him at the Republican Club, 741 Fifth avenue, or 51 Chambers street. I stuck to him in adversity, but when prosperity came, he sought others."

Every wise man takes his turn at acting foolish.

BIT OF IRELAND OFF JERSEY COAST

SIR THOMAS LIPTON AND HIS NAVY ALL READY FOR AMERICA CUP RACES.

NEW YORK, July 8.—There's a little bit of Ireland floating off the Jersey coast and its ruler is a familiar figure in yachting flannels and cap. Its Sir Thomas Lipton and his "navy"—six craft strong—invading the United States to capture the America's Cup in a yachtsmen's battle off Sandy Hook this month.

The man to whom a large patch of water is an alien sight thinks of the cup races as a few impromptu jousts between a couple of sailing sloops which cost a mite more than the average man can afford. He does not realize that these yachts and their crews have to go through a period of training as long as that of any football team and a thousand time more costly.

By purchase or charter Sir Thomas has amassed his fleet. In addition to the challenger, Shamrock IV., and the trial horse, the 23-meter Shamrock, there is the steam yacht Victoria, the flagship of the fleet, on which the veteran yachtsman lives, anchored each night in the Hudson.

Then there is the houseboat Killarney, tucked snugly away in the shelter of the Hook. On the Killarney reside the crews of the two racing craft.

But this does not complete the fleet. There is the tug Governor Smith to tow the sloops to the starting line and a snappy speed boat to run errands. Numberless smaller launched and dingys don't count in this yachting armada.

The Irish baronet has his daily schedule—enjoyable enough, but just at present a business to which he adheres as closely as the broker daily watches his ticker.

Each day he steams down to the Hook from New York to watch the challenger—his sweetheart, the elderly batchelor calls her—match her speed against the trial horse.

Each day, as dusk approaches, he holds conference with his band of yachting experts, suggesting little changes here, little changes there, smoothing out a ripple in a club-topsail which to the land-lubber fits exactly or clipping a few inches from a topmast with which, to the unitiated, there seems nothing wrong.

And each day he continues to deal out dollars to the 150 members of his armada. For it is an expensive sport, this quest of a hundred guinea cup and victor or loser, Sir Thomas will have paid out more than a million dollars for this year's races alone.

At eight o'clock, except in most distressing weather, raising of Sir Thomas' personal flag—a green shamrock on a field of gold—betokens that the vice-commodore of the Royal Ulster Yacht lub is aboard, awake and ready to receive guests. These invariably include a corps of newspapermen. Most of them come for breakfast, stay for lunch and linger for dinner, and as sea air breeds an appetite, the yacht's larder receives a blow which would make the ordinary housewife quiver in these days of high prices.

Then the Victoria weighs anchor. Recognized by all harbor craft, she receives salutes from sootiest tug to most majestic battleship.

Sir Thomas stands on the bridge—the familiar, blue-jacketed, beflannelled figure who for years has crossed the Atlantic tb win the trophy on which he has set his heart. He strokes his gray goatee and his face wrinkles into a roguish grin as he swaps yarn for yarn with his innumerable guests.

For Sir Thomas must have his joke.

One of which he is particularly fond concerns a visit once paid him at Cowies by former Mayor John Fitzgerald, of Boston.

The baronet was entertaining a group of Americans when suddenly it was reported to him that the royal launched was headed for his craft.

"The King and Queen," cried Sir Thomas and at once began drilling his guests in court etiquette.

But the royal launch, which rarely carries any but royalty, arrived with a lone Yankee.

It seems that Mr. Fitzgerald, wishing to pay a visit to his friend the Irish yachtsman, had been unable to find a craft which he deemed sufficiently natty to bring him alongside. But finding the royal launch at the royal landing stage, he pronounced it "a decent enough boat" and ordered it to the Lipton yacht.

Meanwhile the King and Queen, reaching the stage, beheld in amazement their launch dashing away from them. And the master of the small craft, on his return, had this explanation to make—the gentleman had introduced himself as "the Mayor of Boston, United States of America," which the royal yachtsman, impressed, compressed into "the Mayor of America." And of course a man who would dare march onto the royal landing stage must have stepped onto it with oyal permission.

And so, chatting of kings and stowaways, yachts and intrigues, he entertains his guests until the Hook is reached. And as Sir Thomas is never so well cast as when he is playing the host, it is an enjoyable trip, this little joy-ride down the bay to the serious work of the day.

The racing sloops, lying at anchor with mainsails and club topsails set, awaiting arrival of their master, look as alike as two apes to the landsman. And the vegetarian simile is carried out by the hulls, both painted a lively Irish green. The only apparent difference is that the Shamrock IV. is just a little greener than her partner, for even her decks are emerald.

As soon as the Victoria's engines are stopped, their veteran of international regattas boards his launch to inspect his craft before they set out. From that moment he becomes lost to all but things maritime.

Round the course Sir Thomas follows his sloops as they race and after the finish again holds parley with their skippers. Then it's back to New York in the evening—the day's work done.

POST TOASTIES

12TH OF JULY TAG DAY FOR ORPHANS

TO AID TRUE BLUE ORPHANAGE AND SERBIAN CHILDREN.

The True Blue and Orange Orphange of Ontario and the war orphanages of Serbia, constitute a call and an irresistible appeal to every true friend of the Orange order and to every lover of Liberty at home and abroad.

These orphans, in every instance in Ontario, and in every instance in Serbia are the children of the men who made the supreme sacrifice in snatching victory from defeat and saving self-determination to the weaker nations, civilization to the world and the religion of Jesus Christ to the human family.

The children of the men who conquered the vandals who were dismantling Cathedrals and the very altars of God, carrying off the sacred vessels of His holy house, robbing the world of its religious relics, razing art galleries to the ground, stealing earth's antiquities and other treasures of art—despoiling the house of God and man.

The children of the men who met and mastered the hends who were firing oil fields and fuel mines, cutting down forests, plugging and poisoning wells and running waters, scuttling and sinking ships and sending to the bottom of the sea vast stores of precious food stuffs destined for the firing lines and famine-stricken fields, and sacrificing men immortalized in war and peace, in literature, in art, in science and in social circles—immortalized for faith and for good works.

These are the children of the men who fought and fell in our defence by land and sea, and saved the liberties of the world. Shall we who never missed a meal, who never knew the pinch of poverty or saw the ravages of war allow these little ones to lack for any necessary of life? Far be it from us!

The Brotherhood Federation of Canada is co-operating with the True Blue and Orange Order of Peterborough in a joint tag day on next Monday, July 12, 1920, on behalf of the True Blue Orange Orphange in Ontario and our orphanages in Serbia.

This is a splendid piece of home and foreign missionary effort that will commend itself to all irrespective of denominational lines.

Indeed, it is an unusual opportunity for a display of loyalty and fidelity on behalf of our war orphans and others at home and abroad.

Many of the leading ladies of the city are already in line to help make the effort a success.

Will young ladies and gentlemen willing to assist in this worthy work kindly communicate at once with Mrs. J. H. Knox, 481 Gilmour, telephone 788w.

Your assistance spells success!

PLAGUE OF SHADFLIES WORRIES NORTH BAY.

NORTH BAY, July 8.—This town has a plague of shadflies—an insect with a body half an inch long, a tail twice as long, and an odour like fish. They are here in millions, and swarm so thick as to sometimes obscure the view of a building across the street. It is impossible to sit on the verandah at night for the flies, though they do not sting, are crawling things, and cover chairs so thickly as to ruin clothes.

ARTHUR LeBEAU, of Winooski Vermont, who declares he is now in the pink of condition and enjoying life for the first time in many years as the result of taking Tanlac.

"Thanks to Tanlac I am now enjoying life for the first time in years" recently declared Arthur Lebeau, foreman of the Porter Screen Co., Winooski, Vermont. "For five years I was a sick man. My principal trouble was indigestion. I had no appetite and generally went off to work without any breakfast because I knew if I ate anything it would only upset me.

"My condition was so bad in fact, I could neither sleep, eat nor work with any satisfaction and was so nervous that the least thing would upset me. Nothing seemed to agree with me and I would have severe cramping pains in my stomach and at times my heart would palpitate badly. I also suffered from shortness of breath, and the least little exertion would make my heart thump like an engine.

"At last I almost decided I would give up my job as I got so weak and miserable I felt I could stand it no longer.

"One night as I sat reading a paper I saw a statement about Tanlac which convinced me it was just the medicine I needed. It helped me from the very first dose and at the time I had finished my third bottle, I hardly knew myself.

"I never have the slightest symptom of indigestion now and I feel like a brand new man in every way. My appetite is splendid, my nerves are steadied and I sleep soundly at night. The work I used to dread now seems easy for me and I am now in the very 'pink of condition.' Of course, I am only to glad to recommend this medicine."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd., in Fowlers Corners by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert by A. J. Scott, in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

NATIONAL DAIRY COUNCIL CLAIMS LARGE SAVING MADE FOR FARMERS

CHEAPER SHIPPING RATES ON MILK AND CREAM MEANT MUCH FOR DAIRYMEN.

The time has come for the collection of the fee of 50c per shipper of milk and cream to supply the "war funds" for the National Dairy Council. Buyers of milk and cream are asked by the Council to deduct the 50c from the checks of shippers, having first given notice that the deduction would be made unless the shipper definitely replied stating his refusal to allow it.

Nothing is known as to the result of the plan so far. There is no doubt but that the Dairy Council has a great field of work before it: and indeed, it has joined in with other organizations in fighting for specific advantages from the Railway Commission and other authorities, and has done good work.

But there are those who are skeptical that producers will fall readily into line with any such plan as this for raising the money, most of which is apparently designed to go in the way of salary to D'Arcy Scott, the lawyer who was appointed Secretary of the Council.

In a recent letter Mr. Scott points out that immense savings have been made for the dairy farmers in Canada by the Council, in the way of opposing the increases, in freight and express rates as well as in securing reductions in the recent Federal tax proposals which more particularly benefit the manufacturing end of the industry.

Wisdom Apparent.

It must be remembered, however, that much of the churning cream shipped, and to which he refers, is paid for on a "net" basis, or in other words the creamery pays the express, and takes it out of the price of the butter it sells, or else charges it back in the price which it pays for cream,—and the latter is frequently the inevitable result, as creamerymen are not always in a position to set the price at which they may sell their butter.

Mr. Scott's letter which was sent out to members of the Council reads as follows:

"The wisdom of the establishment of this Council has again been made apparent. When the Minister of Finance delivered his budget speech a tax of one per cent. was placed upon manufacturers and those selling by wholesale. There were certain exemptions to this tax. Butter and cheese were in the list of exemptions, but there were no other dairy articles in that list.

"It is therefore apparent that producers who are selling milk and cream wholesale, as well as manufacturers of ice cream, milk powder, and condensed and evaporated milk were subject to this one per cent. tax.

"This Council at once made represe ntation to the Government to show the injury that might result to the dairy industry if this tax was imposed upon certain dairy articles while other dairy articles and other foods which comes into competition with them were exempt from taxation.

"As a result of our efforts the Minister of Finance in his final revision of the tax regulation eliminated all dairy articles from the new tax. This shows the wisdom of having a strong organization ready to take prompt action when its interests are effected.

Saved in Transportation.

"I have been asked to ascertain what the saving to milk and cream shippers amounts to by the decision respecting the shipment of cream by express and milk in baggage cars, which this Council got from the Railway Commission last year. I have secured a careful estimate from those who have access to the railway companies' and express companies' books, which I believe to be accurate. The saving to cream shippers per annum is put at $500,000, of which $300,000 was saved to shippers West of Fort William, and $200,000 to shippers East of that point.

"The saving to the milk shippers of Canada due to the Council's success in preventing the railways from getting the increased rates on milk in baggage cars is put at $100,000 per annum.

"At this time when this Council is asking the milk and cream producers of Canada for 50c a year to help with its work, it is well that they should know that they have been saved a total of $600,000 a year by the work of this Council."

ESTIMATING GRAIN AND HAY.

To find the number of bushels of grain or shelled corn in a bin: Multiply the length by the width by the depth (all in feet) and divide by 1 1-4.

To find the number of bushels of ear corn in a crib: Multiply the length by the average depth by the width (all in feet) and divide by 2 1-2. If the crib is round, multiply the distance around the crib by the diameter by the depth of the corn (all in feet) and divide by 10.

To find the number of tons of hay in a mow: Multiply the length by the width by the height (all in feet) and divide by 400 to 500 depending on the kind of hay and how long it has been in the mow.

To find the number of tons of hay in a stack: Multiply the overthrow (the distance from the ground on one side over the stack to the ground on the other side) by the length by the width (all in feet); multiply by three; divide by ten and then divide by 400 to 500.

CANADIAN BUFFALO HERD OF 5,000

Long years ago in the silence of the moonlit foothills, a pilgrim from Toronto heard a young Indian crying to Manitou to send back the buffalo. It was one of the saddest sounds he had ever heard.

To-day Manitou is answering the young brave's prayer. The bison, though never to roam in millions on the open plains is coming back. The almost exterminated buffalo has been saved from extinction. Scores of people, still active, remember the time when the western plains were black with buffalo. A few old Winnipeggers recall the day when the lunch they took to school contained a paper package of buffalo pemmican or pemmican sandwiches. Time was when every Ontario farmer had a buffalo skin rug in his sleigh, and when buffalo meat could be bought in Toronto.

Herd of Four Million.

In 1871 hunters beheld migrating across the southern plains of the United States a single herd of buffalo with a 25-mile front and a depth of 50 miles, estimated to contain four million of the animals. The first frightful slaughter of the buffalo began in 1866 when the Union Pacific Railway was building. White hunters and Indians armed with the new repeating rifles slew them in myriads for the hides and the meat and often through sheer lust of blood. Of the between twenty and forty millions of buffalo estimated to have existed in the early part of the nineteenth century, there were left by 1889, but 600 wild buffalo of the entire American continent. An odd buffalo here and there could be seen, and miles of bleaching bones, when the C.P.R. laid its first steel on the prairies in the early eighties. By 1889 the whole buffalo population of the continent, wild and captive, had dwindled to 1,091.

Big Calf Crop.

Then in 1907 the Canadian Government determined to try and regenerate the species. The herd of 700 animals owned by Michael Pablo, of Montana, was purchased and turned with some buffalo from Banff into the Dominion Park, at Wainwright, Alberta, which has an area of 160 square miles and is enclosed by a wire fence 76 miles in length.

Here on their native prairie, the buffalo have multiplied wonderfully. Neither drought nor wet seems to affect the calf crop. Last year the number of buffalo at Wainwright had grown to 4,250 head. The herd must be well on toward 5,000 by now and in the United States there were 3,118 head last year.

As Farm Animals.

The raising of buffalo may soon become a commercial proposition with Wainwright as a point of supply for this and other countries. The rapidly increasing herd will soon require more space. Mr. C. Gordon Hewitt, Consulting Zoologist to the Committee of Conservation, Ottawa, who wrote an interesting booklet on the "Coming Back of the Buffalo," illustrated with new and old cuts, suggests that farmers be encouraged to buy surplus animals, because of the value of their meat and hides. The Wainwright buffalo in many of which there is a strain of the domestic ox and inclined to be wild and vicious, could be treated in which the same manner as range cattle provided they were enclosed.

Moreover they can forage for themselves in winter and are far hardier than any domestic cattle.

MERCIER DECLINED PROPOSED HONOUR

TOO ALIVE TO SANCTION MONUMENT TO HIM.

BRUSSELS.—The enthusiasm with which Brussels began its drive for the Mercier monument has met a rather serious obstacle. When the Cardinal himself heard of the plan he exclaimed:

"What, erect a monument in my honor? I thought it was to the dead that monuments are erected. I feel very much alive."

But M. Beco, Governor of Brabant, insists that it is too late to abandon the idea. Hardly had the subscriptions been started when money began to pour in, not only from Brussels, in which the monument is to be erected, but from Belgium as a whole. Governor Beco concedes, however, that the Cardinal's wishes must be respected. He has consequently appointed a committee to suggest plans and drew up designs for a general monument symbolic of the resistance of the Belgian people, with Cardinal Mercier as their spiritual leader.

Then asked whether any definite decisions had been reached as to the precise nature of the monument and where it would be located M. Beco replied:

"None except that Cardinal Mercier has been appointed a member of the committee."

Yes, Cordelia, advice should be well shaken before taken.

CHICAGO LAWYER POWER IN SIBERIA

TOBELSON, NOW KNOWN AS KRASNOTCHEKOFF, IS FOREIGN MINISTER OF FAR EASTERN REPUBLIC.

Irkutsk, Siberia.—The rise to power of A. T. Krasnotschekoff, Foreign Minister of the Far Eastern Republic, who claims American citizenship and who is broad-casting from Verkhne-Udinsk, Transbaikalia, news of the birth of the Far Eastern Republic, is a typical story of the return to their former activities of revolutionary leaders throughout Sebia who had been hiding in the Serbian wilds or imprisoned since the coup of the late Admiral Kolchak interrupted the course of the revolution.

The broken threads of governmental experiment west of Lake Baikal have been taken up, the whole country has joined Soviet Russia and Bolshevist rule is absolute.

Eastward of Lake Baikal, except in the Chaita district, which General Semenoff continues to dominate, there exists a so-called buffer state dominated by the picturesque figure of A. S. Tobelson who, until July, 1918, was a Chicago lawyer.

Tobelson now is known as A. T. Krasnotchekoff. He writes in English, later translating them into Russia. State papers and memoranda. He has as Secretaries Russians who have been in the United States and calls the members of his party "the boys." He interviews himself and circulates the interviews in his own news service.

Krasnotchekoff appears to be popular in the Transbaikal district, having been seated as a peasant delegate in the Verkhne-Udinsky Assembly in April, receiving 280 votes as against 260 for the next most popular candidate.

He arrived in Vladivostok in 1918 and went to Khabarovsk. Here he headed the Far Eastern Soviet, which was known as a moderate body, and dominated it with his personality. Being driven out of Khabarovsk when the interventionists, including the Americans, advanced in August, 1918, Krasnotchekoff wandered westward and ended up in prison under his assumed name in Irkutsk. He was freed in January, 1920, when the local social revolutionists ended the Kolchak rule here.

CHILD DROWNED IN WELL WAS PLAYING "FISHING"

ST. THOMAS, July 8. — Clifford Albert, the six-year-olds son of J. R. Tracey, of Middlemarch, 3 miles west of St. Thomas, was drowned yesterday in a well. The child was playing fishing in the well when he lost his balance and fell in. The body was recovered in a short time but life was extinct.

ECHOES OF STRIKE HEARD IN POLICE COURT TO-DAY

A NUMBER OF WITNESSES HEARD TELL STORY OF FRACAS.

Frank Meeks, alleged Canadian General Electric Company striker, appeared in this morning's Police Court on a charge of assault, and pleading not guilty and refusing to elect trial, he was given a preliminary hearing. Meeks is charged with having on Saturday, July 3rd, been one of a number of alleged C.G.E. strikers who rotten-egged and stoned two automobile loads of C. G. E. employees on their wy to breakfast whom the defence claims are professional strike-breakers from the United States, and whom the defence will attempt to have deported under the Alien Labour Act.

Charles E. Martin.

Charles E. Martin, the plaintiff, was the first witness called. He stated that on the morning of Saturday, July 3rd, about 6.30 o'clock, he and nine others were being taken from the C.G.E. plant to the Empress Hotel for breakfast in two automobiles as usual.

"High priced men," interjected G. N. Gordon, counsel for the defence.

Usual Custom.

This was their usual custom for the last month. They took all meals at the Empress. He was in the first car with three others and the driver. There were six men in the second car. After turning the corner at Townshend and Park streets they were attacked by ten or twelve men standing on the sidewalk at each side of Townshend street who threw stones and rotten eggs. The car slowed down. Several of the occupants of the car wer struck with eggs and witness, hand was grazed by a stone. Witness heard no remarks. He recognized the accused as one of the assailants, having frequently seen him picketing the gates of the plant. He had no prior conversation with Meeks but understood that others had.

Cross-examined by G. N. Gordon, witness stated that before coming here he had resided at 161 West 30th street, New York City. He had done nothing for the week he was in New York. Drawn out by Mr Gordon, witness stated he had previously worked for the Hall Printing Press ompany in Dunellen, N.J., for about five months. Previously he had worked for eight month as a machinist for the Baltimore and Ohio Railway at Cumberland, Maryland, the Westinghouse Electric Manufacturing Co. at Philadelphia for a year, and the General Electric Company at Erie, Pennsylvania, for three months. At none of these had there to his knowledge been a strike. He had come to Peterborough via Buffalo where he spent two days, and Toronto. He did not remember where he stayed while in Buffalo. He and a friend, George W. Riley, of New York, had crossed to Canada telling the immigration authorities he was on a visit to Canada. In Toronto he was low in funds and in answer to an advertisement in a Toronto newspaper, which he thought was the "Telegram," he had applied at the Employers' Association on King street for work. They had sent him to the C.G.E. at Peterborough. He quit work in the United States to better himself. He had never been in Thompsonville, Conn.

He stated that he saw Meeks throwing missiles but could not swear that it was a missle thrown at Meeks which struck him. He saw no particular missile thrown at Meeks strike any particular occupant of the car. He was not one of the men ordered deported by the Immigration Department. He had been boarding at the Empress five weeks at $16 a week. Told that the Empress rate was $30 a week he admitted that the C.G.E. Company may have made up the difference.

Hugh MacMullan.

Hugh MacMullan, a machinist employed at the C.G.E., was the next witness called. He corroborated Martin's story of the attack and stated that he had entered the employ of the C.G.E. about June 34rd or 24th. He recognized the accused as one of those who threw missiles. All were hit with eggs and one with a stone. He saw Meeks throwing eggs. The other occupants of the car were Gardener, Miller, Martin and himself.

He remembered that some days before Meeks had jumped on the running board of the car conveying them to the Empress, and after attempting to sell the occupants tickets for a football game, had said: "Never mind, boys, the job won't be long for you. We are getting the men here to put you back where you belong."

Cross-examined by G. N. Gordon, witness stated that he had served his apprenticeship as a machinist at the Westinghouse plant in Pittsburg between 1912 and 1916. Since then he had worked at about 50 jobs in about 50 different towns.

On the 22nd or 23rd of June he had crossed from Detroit to Windsor, declaring his intention of working in Canada to the immigration authorities. He had obtained work at the C.G.E. through the same agency in Toronto as Martin.

Someone paid for his meals at the Empress and he slept in the C. G. E. plant. He was paid 80 cents an hour.

Allan W. Miller.

The next witness called was Allan W. Miller. He corroborated the evidence of the other witnesses as to the attack and obtaining employment with the C.G.E. through the agency in Toronto. He stated that the attackers had used language he was not in the habit of using and gave a few obscure examples. He could not swear that Meeks used any of these exhibits.

Cross-examined by G. N. Gordon he stated that he was a British subject and after objecting to the question, stated that he was born in Prescott, Ontario, and like the others, had a long list of firms for which he had worked. He intended to remain in Peterborough. His family lived in New York. He had crossed at Windsor with a friend, William Sparling, about the 25th of June. He was by trade a die and tool maker.

William Sparling.

William Sparling was the next witness called. He stated that he had entered the employ of the C. G. E. Company about 2 or 3 weeks ago. He recognized Meeks and corroborated the evidence of the others. He gave a long list of firms for which he had worked but refused to tell where his wife lived. He denied that he had ever had any criminal convictions. He would give no reason for registering at the Empress Hotel as from Montreal and stated that he did not know that he was called a strike-breaker until the epithet was hurled at him there.

The court then adjourned until 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Mr. B. D. Hall, of Peterborough, and Mr. W. K. Murphy, of Toronto, are representing the C.G.E. Company.

SUCCESS IN RAISING MINISTERS' SALARIES

BAY OF QUINTE METHODIST CONFERENCE MEETS AND HEARS REPORTS.

BELLEVILLE, July 9.—The Bay of Quinte Conference Methodist Ministerial Support Committee met in the Albert College yesterday afternoon. Mr. J. M. Greene, of Peterborough (chairman, and Dr. J. E. Middleton, of Peterborough (secretary, conducted the meeting.

Representatives, both lay and ministerial, were in attendance from every district, and the Dominion Committee was represented by Mr. Denzil G. Ridout, the secretary.

Reports as to the progress of the campaign to raise ministers' salaries to the new minimum were made.

Evidences were given to show that every circuit in the Bay of Quinte Conference will make a special effort to give adequate financial support to its pastor.

Among those present were Rev. Coon, the president of the Conference, chairmen of districts, H. K. Denyes, M.L.A., of Halloway, F. E. O'Flynn, K.C., of Belleville, and R. W. Ireland, of Wellington.

TEN INSTRUMENTS OF S. A. BAND DAMAGED

A piece of vandalism that has seldom been equalled in this city was perpetrated on Wednesday night at the Salvation Army Temple, Simcoe street, when persons broke into the band room and hacked the head of the big drum and took the valves and vital parts of ten of the instruments. The discovery was not made till last night. From all appearance it is a piece of intentional deviltry but theresy may be more serious matters behind it. One of the instruments damaged recently cost $400. The door to the room was not locked at the time. The band was to play at the Orange church parade Sunday evening, but new parts are being secured and the band will be able to play.

The police are investigating the case and developments may be expected.

FARMERS AND WOMEN INVADE N. S. POLITICS

LABOR NOMINATES THREE MEN AND IS FIGHTING FOR EIGHT HOUR DAY.

HALIFAX, N. S., July 9.—While all nominations for the elections to the Nova Scotia Legislature on July 27, will not be made before Saturday, certain districts are showing a tendency towards class representation. The Farmers have organized in Pictou, Halifax, Colchester, Cumberland, King's Antigonish and Cape Breton Counties, and made nominations in Pictou, King's and Colchester, while in Halifax County one Independent Farmer has the support of the Labor party.

Labor has nominated representatives in Cape Breton, Halifax and Pictou, the later county nominating Mrs. J. M. Donaldson, of New Glasgow, who is supported by the Great War Veterans' Association, and who is the first woman to be nominated for the local Legislature.

W. L. Hall, M.P.P. for Shelburne, and leader of the Opposition, accuses the Government with attempting to obtain a snap verdict while the farmers are busy haying, of failure to take the roads out of politics as promised, and failure to abolish the Legislative Council in the face of repeated pledges to do so.

The chief grievance of the Labor party against the Government is the latter's failure to enact compulsory eight-hour day legislation.

BOY SCOUTS' SPECIAL NOTICE.

By order of the local Council the Boy Scouts will help on the 12th of July by working for the Serbian Relief Fund. Special messengers will be sent to the S.M. Local Council Sec'y.

IS VISITING FRIENDS IN PETERBORO.

There is visiting in the city at the present time, Mr. A. J. Deschamp, of Hartford, Conn., who motored to Peterboro, with his wife and family of six children.

Mr. Deschamp was married in Port Hope 21 years ago, to Miss Eugene Lynch of Peterboro, and has resided in Hartford, Conn., since that time. At the time of his marriage, Mr. Deschamp was a carpenter, but by application and study, which he did in the evenings, he took up Architecture and building, and has become a most successful man in Hartford.

Several years ago he was injured in an automobile accident and has practically gone out of contract work, and is now engaged in real estate and insurance.

That he has been very successful is evidenced by the fact that the Hartford Daily News contains the photograph of an apartment house that he has just purchased, the price being from $175,000 to $200,000. In addition he owns different properties throughout the city of Hertford, totalling 99 apartments.

Mr. Deschamp is entitled to the success he has attained in the business world as it is only through hard work and study that he put himself in a position for bigger things.

He and his family are thoroughly enjoying their visit in the city.

The oldest boy, a lad of 15, plays an exceptionally good game of golf, and two other younger boys have taken up the game.

LOW NECK DRESSES ARE HEALTHY

A now-necked blouse isn't a "pneumonia" blouse at all—it's a health-giving, life-saving garment.

Anyone doubting this statement is at liberty to consult Prof. Hill, who has been making investigations for the Medical Research Committee.

A bashful man would shrink from investigating so flimsy and decollete a portion of women's wearing apparel. But Prof. Hill isn't bashful. He investigated and made discoveries all in the sacred cause of science.

He asserted that the blouse does not cause pneumonia, but is conducive of good health—the open neck acting as a chimney to the clothes, letting heat and moisture escape.

This (the discovery, not the blouse) leaves women cold. They always knew it. It's one of those things they might have told Prof. Hill, saving him all the expense of research work.

"The healthiest people in the world are sailors," said a woman physician, "and the unhealthiest perhaps are the nuns."

All the same, women are glad to know they stand in right with science.

FAITH

Faith is a great word, so great that the majority of mankind do not at all comprehend its great significance. We are told we can overcome the evil of the world by faith, that sounds rather mystical ,but yet it is true and it is most reasonable. Let us look for one moment at what faith in a human being can do. It can change night into day, sorrow into joy, and change the face and outlook of everything. In short, it is a tremendous thing, without which we are miserable and poor indeed no matter what else we may possess. To have such faith or trust reposed in us we must prove ourselves worthy. In other words, to have a true friend we must first be a true friend and there is no other way to get the best than to endeavour to be the best. This, then, is faith in operation, saving faith on a natural plane, for it elevates the soul and lifts it to nobler desire and action and saves from all lesser motives and aims. So, then, in a divine sense, faith is a most blessed thing. It brings to us the best from God even as it does from an earthly friend, and there is no other way to get this blessed favour—only by first knowing God and then trusting or having faith in Him. How simple it all is and yet what a muddle some teachers make of presenting this beautiful truth, but right here let me add: Our faith will be tried, we shall be tempted to doubt the wisdom of God, we shall be tempted to doubt His goodness, and His power again and yet again, and we are not promised deliverance from temptation while in the flesh, but we are promised victory over temptation, and this victory comes to us through real heart knowledge and mutual love and trust. In all these things, said one who experienced more than ordinary trials, we are more than conquerors through Him that loves us. ourselves worthy in other

ULTIMATUM FOR THE COMMISSION

(Canadian Press)

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 9.—Electrical workers on the Hydro canal and in Ontario power houses, following a meeting, have served an ultimatum on the Commission, giving them until August 8 to meet the terms of employees for an increase in wages. The local union has withdrawn from the Niagara Federation and the men are becoming restless. They say that the date fixed is the limit and after that if a settlement has not been rached they will not be responsible for the consequences.

TRINITY BUYS APARTMENTS.

St. George Apartments Sold to College for $196,650.

TORONTO, July 9.—The St. George Apartments at the south-west corner of St. George and Harbord streets, have been purchased by Trinity College for $196,650. The property has a frontage of 103 feet 7 inches on St. George street and 148 feet on Harbord. There are some forty suites in the building. It has been purchased as an investment and to provide for future extension of the proposed new Trinity College, which will be erected in Queen's Park, fronting on Hoskin avenue.

Mr. A. H. Stratton, of Peterborough, is President of the Company which owned the above property before it was sold to Trinity College.

The leading institution of higher education in Prince Edward Island is Prince of Wales College at Charlottetown, founded in 1836, but its present charter was granted in 1860. The value of its land and buildings is $250,000.

TURNBULL'S
JULY CLEAN-UP SALES

DURING THE LAST THREE WEEKS OF JULY—COMMENCING SATURDAY

WE make no exaggerated claim for our July Clean-Up as we neither pretend to give something for nothing, nor will you find that you have bought nothing for something, as is often the case where too much is claimed. This is a semi-annual event for the purpose of reducing our stock to its half-yearly level for stock-taking and also not to let odds and ends of merchandise, which were not as fast sellers as others, accumulate from one season to another, thus our stocks are always fresh and new. Therefore it is essential that prices must fall to the lowest final figures to make this clean-up as thorough and complete as possible during the last three weeks of this month.

Your own judgment is all we ask on these prices.

NOTICE TO OUR CUSTOMERS

We have just installed our own delivery system and in futurc all parcels will be delivered same day as purchased. THE J.C. TURNBULL CO. LTD.

"BOBBY" AND WIFE WIN MATRIMONIAL BACON

THREE COUPLES CLAIM DUNMOW FLITCH PRIZE NEAR LONDON.

LONDON, July 7.—The famous old Court of "Dunmow Flitch," first established in the Priory of Little Dunmow in 1244, which awards a flitch of bacon to the couple that can take oath they have lived together for a year and a day without a jar or a quarrel, and that neither had wished the knot untied, was held again on Whit Monday at Ilford, five miles north-east of London. Three couples appeared as claimants, a schoolmaster and his wife, a painter and his wife and a policeman and his wife.

They appealed through attorneys, who were formally attired, to the judge of the court, who wore a crimson robs like that worn by a judge in the High Court. The flitch of bacon was awarded to the policeman and his wife, who had been married 17 years and had three children. In the pleading before the award ,however, the painter and his wife offered to bring 150 witnesses who would support their cases. The court recommended "mercy" in the shape of two fine gammons of bacon to both the painter and the schoolmaster couples.

The attorneys for the claimants to the flitch were aided by two women whose business it was to see that there were no matrimonial technicalities or subterfuges involved in any of the cases with which counsel was not acquainted.

SOLD WHISKEY TO BOYS OF 15 AND 17

OTTAWA HOTELMAN FINED $300 AND COSTS—BOYS' STORY.

OTTAWA, July 9.—"Evidence in this case has shown that whiskey has ben sold to boys of 15 and 17 years of age, and if the accused did not sell it he was aware that it was being sold," stated Magistrate Millar in imposing a fine of $300 and costs upon John A. Morin of the Victoria Hotel, Gracefield. The fine was for a first offence and was the more severe because the court insisted that the money should be paid immediately or the prisoner would start on a three months' enforced stay in jail.

According to the magistrate's charge, the whiskey was sold to boys on a Sunday morning at the time mass was being said. Magistrate Millar, in an indignant charge, told the prisoner that he regretted he could not impose a more severe penalty.

It appears that accused sold whiskey blanc at $5 a bottle, and, from the evidence, did not use caution as to who would get the fire water. Two boys gave evidence that they had bought liquor and told of paying $5 per bottle.

TWO YOUNG MEN ARE THOUGHT DROWNED

YACHT OF AMERICAN CAMPERS NEAR GANANOQUE FOUND UPTURNED.

KINGSTON, July 9.—Fears for the safety of Douglas Walters, of Rochester, N.Y., well known in this city, and a young friend are being entertained by his friends. The two young men were on their way to camp near Gananoque, and their

Mr. Walters and his friend left Rochester for Sugar Island, near Gananoque, where they have a summer camp. They were sailing across the lake and heading for Kingston. Yesterday their boat was found upturned near the Island and it is believed that both young men lost their lives somewhere on the lake or river. Since they left Rochester, the weather has been somewhat unfavorable, and it is thought that they were caught in a squall and drowned.

Mr. Walters is well-known here and has many friends at the local Yacht Club who will hope that he is safe and sound. Mr. Walters was an expert yachtsman and was a member of the A.C.A. The Walters family has been camping in thesummer at Sugar Island for the past fifteen years.

Duke of Devonshire Keeps His Date

Canada, is crowding over the exploits of a new Canadian Pacific Ocean Services' liner, the "Empress of France."

The Duke of Devonshire promised Sir Auckland Geddes, by cable, that he would preside at a dinner given to the new British Ambassador at Washington by the Canadian Club at the Princes Restaurant, Piccadilly, London, England. The specific purpose of the Duke's visit, however, was to attend the wedding of his daughter, Lady Dorothy Cavendish, to Captain Harold MacMillan.

He was to sail on the Empress of France. Things looked bad at the start when the boat's schedule read "Sailing from St. John, N. B., March 10th." This it was a howling right enough because a terrible gale set in with such fury that it was deemed advisable to delay the sailing twenty-four hours.

Capt. Cook, the commander, consulted by the Duke, gave a solemn promise, "Your Excellency will be in Liverpool at the appointed time on the stroke of the clock—if the ship's engines can manage it." Steam gauges were never so popular. Sixteen were heroes. A spirit of adventure tightened the nerves of all on board. The Duke kept his date.

Just as an after-thought, that Hoodoo of the 13 tried to break the Duke's promise by hanging a dense fog over the Mersey, but by cautious navigation Capt. Cook brought his great vessel to anchor opposite the Prince's Landing Stage at Liverpool at six o'clock on the morning of March 22nd, the date and hour scheduled for its arrival.

STONEY LAKE NEWS

STONEY LAKE, July 9.—Rev. and Mrs. T. B. McCorkindale of Deseronto are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Graham at "Viamede".

Mr. and Mrs. George Rathbone of Toronto are at their cottage at Mt. Julian.

Miss Traill of Lakefield is at "Viamede" for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Klippert of Toronto arrived at "Viamede" on Wednesday and brought their motor boat "Klip". This is the eighth successive summer that Mr. and Mrs. Klippert have been at "Viamede".

Miss Barker of Toronto, is the guest of Mrs. Jack Henderson.

The Misses Smith of Campbellford are at "Viamede."

Dancing Season.

The dances at the various pavillions are now in full swing for the season There have been two Saturday night hops at Juniper Island and both have been well attended. The week nights dances though very informal and growing more and more popular. One sees this season the same old dances in a brand new way. Stoney Lake has always been noted for its pretty girls and this season is no exception Although the real summer rush will not be at its height for another week. Still cottages and resorts are steadily filling up and there are even more than the usual quoto of campers

Accident Averted.

A serious accident was narrowly averted on Wednesday morning when the engine of Mr. Wm. Thompson's motor boat "N.A.M." became stalled in Mt. Julian bay and with the high south west wind the boat rapidly drifted on to the rocks in front of "Viamede." Mr. Graham, in the Viamede motor boat "Magnet", went to the rescue and towed the other boat to Mt. Julian. Only a few minutes elapsed betwen the time of the engine stopping and the rescue but the position of the boat was very dangerous owing to the high wind.

Opening Dance.

The first dance of the season at "Viamede" was held on Tuesday night and was very successful. About thirty were present and judging from the sounds of mirth, the dance was "all to the merry".

MONKEYS MAKE LOVE.

Well-Known Naturalist Watches Baboons Sparking.

Monkeys make love, according to the statement of a well-known naturalist, who relates how, while sitting beneath a mimosa tree, he watched a band of baboons feeding on scorpions, which they hunted out from under the stones. One group especially attracted his attention. It consisted of four baboons, three males and a female. The latter was a beautiful creature, with a fine blue coat and graceful carriage. The males were her admirers, and their endeavors to win her favor were almost human. But trouble was ahead, for it was quite plain that jealousy was rife among the males. Then one of the three turned up a big stone at his feet and revealed a family of young corpions—a great treat—at which the scorpions—a great treat—at wihch the she babbled a regular lullaby into the ear of the male who had supplied her with the tempting little morsels! At this exhibition of favoritism there was a loud scream from the remaining two males ,and the next moment the three of them were rolling in the dust, tearing each other with teeth and nails, while the object of their affections sat on the highest stone and screamed her opinions as the fight progressed. The efforts of the two "jilted' monkeys soon put the favorite to flight, and while the chase proceeded the lady lavished her blandishments on a new admirer who came up as soon as the three males disappeared in the jungle.

CHERRY BLOSSOM TIME IN JAPAN

Japan is just now in the delights of cherry blossom time. The scene is one not to be witnessed in any other country, writes the correspondent of "The Nebraska State Journal." All Western countries have their wealth of orchard blossoms in the spring, but in Japan it is all so different. Here the streets of towns and villages are canopied by clouds of filmy-misted bloom, and from any eminence one gazes over the city lying buried in bloom as in an ocean of ethereal light. All squares and parks are simply a mass of bloom, and under the trees assemble numberless groups and parties, al in gala attire, eating rice cakes, drinking sake, and doing hanami. Hanami means flower-viewing—from "hana," a flower, and "mi," to view. Have you done hanami? is a question on the lips of every friend you meet, and to reply in the negative is ever a severe humiliation, for who would neglect to go flower-viewing? All classes, high and low, rich and poor, prince and peasant, old and young, go to see the blossoms annually without fail, holidays being given in schools and factories to fulfil this duty.

The centres of greatest concourse in cherry blossom time are the great parks, like Uyeno, and along the river bank at places of note like Mukojima, where crowds have gone for centuries to behold the blossoms attheir best. But all the more picturesque streets of the capital are lined with cherry trees, under which the street cars pass as through a tunnel of flowers in the cherry season, which is from April 1to 15. To witness the crowds, especially the endless throngs of pretty children in their vari-colored kimonos playing under the trees, is a scene never to be forgotten. As evenings draws on the effects of the day's sake drinking begin to appear, and, while the women and children commence to scatter homeward, men are seen still dozing on the benches or engaged in staggering efforts to keep up with their families. In Japan no one is ashamed to imbibe on a holiday. But the vast crowds are wonderfully good-tempered and well-behaved. The crush on the tramcars at this time is something indescribable. Yet there is no fighting as a rule, but the best of good humor.

In the midst of the cherry blossom season the Emperor gives a great garden party on the grounds of one of the detached palaces in Tokyo, where more than 2,000 guests, mostly princes of the blood, with their consorts, high officials of state, and members of the Corps Diplomatique assemble at 2 p.m. to receive their majesties and to partake of a sumptuous feast, after which they view the blossoms, which, indeed, are all the while around and above the guests.

In Japan the chrysanthemum is regarded as the queen of flowers, being the imperial crest, but the cherry blossom is revered as the national flower, representing the people. It is always a decoration on the Japanese sword, signifying the samurai. For centuries the samurai has been compared to the cherry blossom, as may be seen from the ancient hokku verse or proverb, which reads: "As the cherry is first among flowers, so the bushi is first among men!" This means that as the cherry is ready to die when the time comes and always comes back when the time comes, so is the samurai ready for duty, whether it means life or death; both are immortal! Thus has the cherry blossom been celebrated in Japanese literature since the dawn of the nation's history. One of the most famous poems in the language is on the cherry blossom, namely, the waka verse by Motoori, which may be done into prose as follows:

"If any would know the heart of Japan, let him gaze at the blossom of the mountain cherry shining in the morning sun!"

WHEN JOBS GO BEGGING---

PROBABLY YOU THINK right now that the pay you are receiving is not in proportion to the work you are doing—in other words you believe you are poorly paid. And, perhaps you are right.

BUT what is it that governs the amount of your wage? Is it not the law of supply and demand—the same law that governs the cost of merchandise?

THE TROUBLE is—there are more men than jobs—a fact which causes so much trouble at the present time.

A CITY IS PROSPEROUS to the fullest extent when there are more jobs than men to take them. Get busy, therefore, and help bring about this ideal condition. Whenever you go into a store ask for the Peterboro City Brand of the Article you want. Insist that your wife and all your family do the same. Thus you will be laying stones in the foundation of a greater Peterboro City—a Peterboro City having enormous factories which will employ thousands of people and cause millions of dollars to be distributed right here at home.

DON'T JUST THINK ABOUT IT!

GROWING OPIUM AGAIN IN SOUTHERN CHINA

Ground White with Poppy Around City of Yungan.

SHANGHAI, July 8.—Opium is being grown extensively in ports of Fukien province despite the law against it, according to a mission worker stationed at Yenping. He writes to the Anti-opium Society:

"At the city of Yungan, the headquarters of the Southern forces, I found they were growing opium extensively; even in the grounds of the yamen itself the ground was white with poppy. I was told there were over 100 opium shops in the city licensed for one dollar per night marked places for the breaking of the habit.

"The military are forcing the people to plant the drug and no matter what the value of the crop may be they are to be taxed a definite amount."

RETAIN GUNS.

German Farmers Desire to Protect Themselves.

BERLIN, June 18.—(By Mail).—There is a reluctance on the part of some German farmers to surrender their firearms, due to "the legitimate desire to protect their homes against marauders," Minister of Agriculture Braun said to a Tageblatt representative. He added, however, that a number of farmers have been "storing arms deliberatively for subversive purposes," but he said these were not as numerous as generally believed.

"If the people only will keep their heads," Herr Braun said, "I do not believe there will be any organized outbreak on the near future. The rural situation at this time inspires confidence."

BRITISH PLUCK.

(Literary Digest.)

In reply to a question in the House of Commons, the British Chancellor of the Exchequer recently gave out certain figures comparing present and pre-war per capita direct taxation in the principal Allied countries. The taxes taken into account for Great Britain are income-tax (including super-tax), excess profits tax, and deth duties, and for the other countries the immediately corresponding taxes, says The Economist, which quotes Mr. Chamberlain's figures as follows:—

	Year ended	Average Amount of Dir't Taxes Per Head £ s. d.
Unit. King.	Mar. 31, 1914	1 11 0
	Mar. 31, 1920	15 3 0

BATTALION OF FINS LANDED ON ALAND

STOCKHOLM, June 20.—A critical situation has arisen between Sweden and Finland over Sweden's attitude toward a delegation from the Aland Islands which represented to the Swedish Government that the population of the islands desired self-determination on the basis of a referendum. After a sharp exchange of notes between the two Governments a battalion of Finnish troops has been landed on Aland and encamped near Mariehamn.

Charged With Treason.

The Finnish Government has arrested two leaders of the Aland deputation on a charge of high treason.

Sweden has despatched a note to Finland urging the Finish Government to consent to a plebiscite by which the population of the islands would decide whether they shall belong to Sweden or Finland but it is understood the Finnish Government is unshaaken in its determination to oppose any such measure.

Self-Determination.

Official opinion here is that Finland's attitude is based upon the assumption that the initiative for separation of the Alands from Finland was taken in Sweden, whereas, it is declared, the agitation began with Alanders who based their right of self-determination on historical grounds and upon principles recognized by the League of Nations.

The Finnish Government has announced that it "absolutely rejects all such claims as are irreconcilable with her sovereignty over the Alands, which Sweden recognized without reservation."

Eighty Islands.

The Aland archipelago, in the Gulf of Bothnia, consists of 80 inhabited islands, with a population of 24,000 of whom 12,000 reside on Aland Island, the principal town of which is Mariehamn. The islands formerly belonged to Sweden but were taken by Russia in 1809. The Finnish Government holds that the political importance of the islands is so great that no Finnish Government could cede them to a foreign power and that united with Sweden they would constitute a constant source of danger to Finland.

HAVE CONFIDENCE IN YOUR DRUGGIST

There are so many preparations recommended as a tonic and laxative that the public are often in doubt which preparation to try.

When you are suffering from constipation, biliousness or sick headache ask your druggist, if Dr. Norvall's Stomach and Tonic Tablets will relieve these ailments and he will tell you they have no equal, and if they should fail to help you, return the bottle and he will refund your money.

We could publish hundreds of testimonials from well known residents of this city, but as the druggists are selling many different preparations, they should be able to advise you of the results they get from recommending Dr. Norvals Stomach and tonic Tablet. 3d9 15,23 1336

ART OF WIFEHOOD

Few Essential Requirements For a Model Wife.

To be a successful wife is perhaps the most difficult are in the world, and demands intelligence, sympathy, and uselfishness, especially in the case of people with small incomes.

Here are some essentials of a model wife:

She must be good to look upon. If she is not pretty she can be dainty, fresh and well groomed.

She must be a good and prudent housekeeper, and be able to cook, even if she can afford servants.

She must have tasteful ideas about house decoration, making her home a place of rest and comfort.

She must be a companion to her husband, sympathizing with, and understanding his work and interests, able to discuss them, and topics of the day, with him and his friends.

She must be an unselfish mother, realizing to the full the responsibility of giving to her country moral, healthy, and helpful citizens.

And, wth all these duties, she must never be for a moment without love.

To perform all these things to their uttermost is not easy, but wives and mothers who are desirous of making matrimony a fine art cannot ignore the task.

Constipation

It is a disease-producing malady, and if not corrected may result in serious complications. In good health the bowels should move freely at least once every day, carrying away the waste products from the Blood and Liver. If this function fails or is irregular, the work of removing the poisons falls on the Skin and Kidneys, with the result of the latter organs becoming congested and clogged. The Blood becomes poisoned, Indigestion sets in, the Kidneys become deranged, and a severe if not fatal illness is brought on. DR. HENDERSON'S HERB TABLETS correct this trouble by its action on the Liver, causing a healthy flow of Bile, and exerting a soothing and toning influence on the whole Intestinal Track.

Dr. Henderson's Herb Tablets are put up in three sizes—25c, 50c, $1 00 per Box. For sale at Warne's Drug Store, Peterborough.

NORRIS TO "CARRY ON."

Manitoba Government Reaches Decision to Remain in Office.

WINNIPEG, July 9.—"Definite decision to carry on the Administration has been reached by the Norris Government, according to information supplied from an official source. The Government has decided that there is no other alternative even if they believed the vote showed a lack of confidence by the public. The Government, however, has decided that the public to a large extent is behind their return to power and that a sufficient support will be accorded them in the next Legislature. Little stock is taken by Ministers in the reports that a coalition strong enough to command a majority can be formed by members other than those pledged to Government support, and according to the statement the Administration is certain of a good working majority. 'As a matter of fact,' declared a high official commenting on the report, 'we could not be allowed to do other than continue.'"

TOWN TAKEN BY BOLSHEVIKS

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, July 9.—The occupation of the town of Staro Konstantinoff, about forty miles from the Galician border, opposite Tarnopol, by the Bolshevik forces, is announced in Thursday's official communique from Moscow, received by wireless to-day.

The town was taken on Wednesday after fierce fighting.

In the direction of Sarny, on the railway leading to Kovel, the Soviet troops, the statement says, are continuing to drive back the Poles.

SHE WAS READY.

"The operator has given me the wrong number," said the man's voice.

"The number's all right," said the woman's voice, coldly. "The operator has given it to the wrong person."

ANNUAL PICNIC TO CAMPBELLFORD

CRESSMAN'S WELFARE CLUB HAD A DAY OFF,

The Welfare Club of the Cressman Co., Ltd., held the annual picnic yesterday to Campbellford and Trent Bridge, fifty employees of the Big Store making the trip by motors, and spending the afternoon and evening most pleasantly.

It was a jolly crowd that left the store at two o'clock. At Campbellford after a short rest, the Commercial League ball team and a Campbellford nine played an interesting game at the Exhibition grounds, the visiting team winning by 5 to 4. After the games, the party went on to Trent Bidge for picnic lunch, and this important event over, the crowd joined the throng on the floor of the Trent River Arcadia and danced till midnight. The proprietor of this fine dancing pavilion at Trent Bridge, Mr. J. Liberty was most kind to his visitors and he was voted a jolly good fellow. The music for dancing was supplied by Mr. Gene Sauriol, pianist of Toronto and Mr. Geo. Fredericks, of Campbellford, who plays regularly at the Arcadia.

The return trip home, was made in good time, and the day's outing completed, all were unanimous in declarinug the picnic, one of the most enjoyable of the thirteen held to date.

RASPBERRIES ON LOCAL MARKET

STRAWBERRIES ARE STILL LINGERING AROUND.

One fruit dealer had two boxes of raspberries for sale to-day and got 35 cents for them. Strawberries seem to have a long lease on life and still continue on the market at 25 cents. Red currants are an old favourite back again at 20 cents a box or 22 cents a quart. Gooseberries are scarce this year and bring 25 cents a quart or $1.50 a basket. Some of the Niagara cherry crop is finding an outlet in this direction. Depending on the size and quality, the price is from $1.50 to $3.00 a basket.

WILL NOT GO TO GOVERNMENT

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, July 9. — Controller Maguire, Vice-President of the Hydro Radial Association, announced this morning that the delegation appointed yesterday by the Hydro delegates to lay their case before the Premier had decided not to carry out the programme. He said the government would have to take the responsibility for their action.

"Hydro-radial project is not in the mercy-seeking class," said the controller, "and no good will be accomplished by pleading with the government."

He asserted thta the majority of the members of the committee were against going before the government.

COAL BY BARGE AT COBOURG

Messrs. Robert Hicks & Co. have been advised that the barge "Scotia," with a cargo of hard coal, has arrived at Cobourg. So far as Peterborough is concerned this is one of the first ship loads of coal to be distributed by this route.

DRURY NETTLED AND WANTS A RETRACTION

TORONTO, July 8.—"I have been busy nailing a lie," declared Premier Drury warmly when asked if there had been any new developments in the Hydro radial situation. "The Guelph Mercury has been trying to make a liar out of me, but they are going to retract it."

"What's it all about?" inquired the press. "Well," explained Mr. Drury, "the Toronto Telegram asked me if any representations had been made by any municipalities of the Province with reference to Hydro radials and I said none had been made. I had received a telegram from J. W. Lyon of Guelph, but he represents a propagandist association and not a municipality, and so I could not say that any municipality had made any representations."

"Now the Guelph Mercury comes out and prints the Telegram story, which was correct, and adds to it the telegram that Lyon sent me. They put the two together and try to make me out a liar. I won't stand for that.

"The association that Lyon represents is admittedly propagandist and I don't take it that their representations come from any municipality." "What action are you taking?" The Star asked.

"There will be a retraction," replied the Premier emphatically.

SUGAR BEET AND CORN CROPS ARE VERY GOOD

CHATHAM, July 9.—The sugar beet and corn crops in Kent County are reported to be in an exceptionally good condition. Farmers are well pleased with the outlook.

Information has been received by the Chamber of Commerce that the department of public works will send a dredge to clear out the mouth of the River Thames. The sweeping and clearing of the river as far as this city may also be done this year.

Thieves broke into the Pere Marquette station at Dresden last night and stole a sum of money. The affair is in the hands of the county police.

FRANCHISE FOR WOMEN OF INDIA

One does not ordinarily think of India or of the Crimea as regions in which the woman suffrage question would hold much more than an academic interest. Yet in the former country a million women are confidently expecting enfranchisement next Spring and in the latter universal suffrage already prevails.
